Goldstein Says 1099G's Mailed

"Our office began mailing more than 858,000 Form 1099G's to Maryland taxpayers on January 16, and some taxpayers are likely to have questions about them," Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced.

The Maryland Income Tax Division sends the 1099G information forms to taxpayers who itemized deductions last year and received a refund from the state of Maryland. "We're required by federal law to send the Form 1099G to remind these taxpayers that the state income tax refund they received last year must be reported as income on the 1991 federal tax return," Goldstein said. But the comptroller reminded taxpayers that they need not attach the 1099G to their federal or state income tax forms.

Most questions about the 1099G's come from taxpayers who don't remember getting a refund check. "But before you call with questions, look closely at the Form 1099G," the comptroller said.

This year, for the first time, Form 1099G will include information indicating if any or all the refund was applied to estimated taxes, or as a donation to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Trust Fund, or to a host of other offsets and credits. "This information should answer a lot of questions before taxpayers pick up the phone," Goldstein said.

Although a taxpayer may not physically have received a refund check, if the refund was applied to some other purpose, federal law says they did receive the benefit of a refund.

"Another reason taxpayers might have questions about the 1099G is that it reflects all Maryland refunds credited to the taxpayer during 1991, including not only an original tax refund for 1990, but also any refunds from any amended returns for 1990 or prior years," he said.

Taxpayers who still have questions after they check their records should call the refund section at (410) 974-3701, the income tax division's toll-free number, 1-800-MD TAXES of any local income tax office.

"Now that many taxpayers are receiving their W-2s and other information documents, we expect the pace of tax filing to pick up, and we're ready to help," Goldstein said.

All 18 Maryland income tax offices provide free taxpayer assistance between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The offices will also offer extra hours of free assistance on Saturday, February 1, and Saturday, February 8, 1992. Taxpayers can call or visit the offices on those Saturdays for free state tax help from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

"Our state tax experts will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms and even complete your Maryland income tax return free of charge, if you like. Just be sure to bring along a completed copy of your federal return and W-2 statements," Goldstein said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The toll-free number for free state tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

A Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE ACCIDENT HIGH SCHOOL, the third brick structure to be erected in Accident, opened in the fall of 1915 as an elementary and two-year high school. Two other frame schools had been erected on the same site, each replaced because of the growing school enrollment. Students who desired a four-year high school education had to attend the Garrett County High School in Oakland, usually working in private homes for their room and board. Two additions were added to the above building during the course of time and today it serves as a low-income apartment building and also houses the Flowery Vale Senior Citizens' Center. This photo, taken by the renowned photographer Leo Beachy, is on loan from the collection of Olive and Francis Spoerlein. It is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican newspaper. Persons desiring more information about how to become a member of the Historical Society should inquire at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

Among Who's Who

Cole Bauer, a sophomore at Southern High School, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Bauer is currently on the track team and has participated in the marching band and the Mock Trial Club. He hosted a German exchange student his freshman year. He is a downhill skier and enjoys hunting and target shooting.

Cole is the son of Ken Bauer and Wendy Bauer, both of Oakland.

"A DIAMOND IN THE ROUGH"...

Encased in deep blue velvet, the diamond, the most coveted of gems, glows with a royal flame.

Amazingly, this lustrous diamond resembled a mere dull, rough chunk of glass before it was refined by the gemcutter who skillfully cut and polished it until it was no longer a "diamond in the rough", but a multifaceted, sparkling jewel, brilliantly flickering with color and flashes of light.

When a newborn infant enters the world, that life, like an uncut diamond, must be refined and shaped. . .spiritually polished by the knowledge of the Word of God so that the child grows strong in the Faith and radiates the light of our Father's love for all the world to see.

As you worship God and study His Word, put your soul in the skillful hand of the Master. Proverbs 20:15-16 tells us, "There is gold and abundance of costly jewels, but lips of knowledge are a precious thing." Aglow with the special serenity that comes only from trust in the Word of God, you will possess the gift unequaled by even the most precious of jewels.

Real Estate Facts

Real or Personal?

Have you ever wondered how to tell the difference between real property (real estate) and personal property? If you are planning to buy or sell a home, you will want to know one from the other.

All property is divided into two basic categories: real property and personal property. Real property has been defined as "the land and those items permanently affixed to the land by man, called improvements." The term land includes the soil, things growing naturally in the soil, minerals and water beneath the surface, and the air space above.

Personal property, on the other hand, is defined negatively as "all property which is not real estate." Some property which begins as personal property, i.e. fruit trees purchased from a nursery, later become real estate, i.e. an orchard of planted trees.

In a real estate transaction, all items considered to be real property transfer automatically to the buyer, unless specifically excluded. Personal property is transferred more simply by possession or by a written bill of sale.

Some examples of real estate might be a residential lot, the home built on it, shrubbery planted on the lot, and drapery rods fastened to windows. Personal property might include the curtains and drapes, a swing set not anchored in the ground, or a countertop microwave oven.

If you are buying a home, items of personal property to be included in the purchase should be itemized in writing in the purchase agreement. Sellers are not obligated to include items of personal property with the sale of their home, and may reject any such offers from buyers.

When listing a home for sale with an agent, sellers should itemize any personal items to be included in the sale. To avoid attracting the attention of buyers, they might consider packing popular personal items out of sight. This may help avoid unwanted negotiations with buyers over their inclusion in the purchase.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303 or come by our office at McHenry Plaza.

Many Dealers Registered To Pay Tire Fee

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L Goldstein is expressing concern that, with only two weeks to go before the state's new tire recycling fee goes into effect, fewer than half of the expected businesses have registered to pay the fee. The Central Registration Section of the Comptroller's Office has set up 396 permanent and 451 temporary accounts.

"Time is running out for tire wholesalers, tire retailers, new car dealerships and service stations to register to pay the fee," Mr. Goldstein said.

Tire wholesalers and retailers who buy tires from out-of-state sources as well as new car dealerships should register to pay the tire recycling fee on a regular basis. Temporary accounts are being set up for tire retailers and service stations that purchase all their tires from Maryland wholesalers. The temporary registrations will allow these businesses to pay the fee based on sales made from tires that were in their inventory as of midnight January 31, 1992.

Motor fuel inspectors, who make routine inspection visits to service stations, are also reminding them to register to set up the tire recycling fee accounts before the February 1, 1992, effective date.

The 1991 session of the General Assembly authorized the tire recycling fee and the Board of Public Works set the fee at $1.00 on each new tire sold in Maryland. The Revenue will go to a special fund administered by the Department of Environment for scrap tire removal and recycling.

Mr. Goldstein said tire dealers and service stations who need registration materials should contact the Sales and Use Tax Division's Taxpayer Service Section at (410) 225-1300 in the Baltimore area, or toll-free 1-800-492-1751 from elsewhere in Maryland.

Chesapeake Bay Trust Grants Total $335,845

The Chesapeake Bay Trust has announced 78 Bay restoration and education grants totaling $355,845 awarded to schools, community groups, and public agencies. The grants were made possible by donations generated through Maryland's tax checkoff and the "Treasure the Chesapeake" license plate.

"In the past 12 months the Trust has seen unprecedented growth in requests for financial assistance. More applications were received in 1991 than in the prior four years combined. The Trust was able to meet those requests because of the continuing generosity of Marylanders and the high priority they place on the restoration of the Bay," said Trust Executive Director Thomas L. Burden.

Funded projects include: $3,840 to the Audubon Naturalist Society for a water quality testing and restoration program for Rock Creek; $49,160 to Anne Arundel County Department of Recreation and Parks for a demonstration marsh grass planting program; $752 to Echo Hill Outdoor School for aquariums for their floating classrooms and $1,000 to the Lions Club of Federalsburg for tree and shrub planting along Marshyhope Creek.

"Most Trust grants are relatively small, 80 percent are under $5,000, and are directed to nonprofit community groups and schools," said Burden. Many applicants have no previous grant writing experience. The Trust application process is uncomplicated and grant writing assistance is available, he said.

The Trust received funding from area businesses, through the check-off on Line 63 of the State tax form and from sales of the new Bay license plates. The Trust distributes those donations to schools, community groups and public agencies through grants for qualified Bay restoration and education projects.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Air Force Airman 1st Class Todd A. Hershberger, a communications-computer systems control specialist, has arrived for duty at Andrews Air Force Base, Camp Springs.

The son of John L. and Thelma J. Hershberger, Kitzmiller, the airman is a 1988 graduate of Southern High School.

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Fred A. Bell, a 1983 graduate of Southern High School, is in the Persian Gulf aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, homeported in Norfolk, Va., and is midway through a six-month deployment.

In November, Bell participated in exercise "Eager Mace," a 10-day, joint amphibious landing exercise in Kuwait. The operation is designed to help increase the readiness of combined forces in the Middle East.

USS Eisenhower and her crew continued training with exercise "Sandstorm" with the U.S. Air Force. This exercise included simulated air strikes, and tested the carrier's ability to retaliate against air attacks.

Bell recently visited the city of Dubal, in the United Arab Emirates.

He joined the Navy in March 1989.

Federal Support Of Local Guard Near $1 Million

Federal support of the Maryland Army National Guard (MDARNG) in Garrett County amounted to $992,715 in the fiscal year that ended September 30, 1991, according to figures compiled by the Guard's finance office.

Nearly 55 percent of the federal dollars covered the salaries paid the part- and full-time citizen-soldiers in Oakland's Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion (Combat Corps).

At the end of FY '91 more than 120 men belonged to this MDARNG unit, which is located at 14 N. Eighth St. Capt. Richard D. Wakefield, Deer Park, is the company commander.

In the four Western Maryland counties of Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington, the federal government spent $6,220,964 in support of the Maryland Army National Guard. This figure represents more than six percent of the $97,916,166 spent by the federal government in fiscal year 1991 to support the MDARNG.

Federal and state expenditures in FY '91 for the Maryland National Guard totalled $142,005,559. The state provided $8,486,267 to the Maryland National Guard, mainly for the upkeep of armories and the salaries of 258 full-time state employees.

The Maryland Army National Guard's 87 units are located in all counties but Caroline, Dorchester, St. Mary's and Worcester.

The Maryland Air National Guard is located at Warfield Air National Guard Base, Martin State Airport, in Middle River in Baltimore County.

In fiscal year 1990, state and federal expenditures amounted to nearly $122 million for the Maryland National Guard; the federal government provided more than 92 percent of this figure.

Maj. Gen. James F. Fretterd, the adjutant general, Maryland National Guard, said, "1991 was a year that tested the spirit of the nation and the readiness of the Maryland National Guard as more than 750 soldiers and airmen were mobilized for Operation Desert Storm.

"They have returned -- all of our men and women -- safely to rejoin their families, employers and communities.

"As citizen-soldiers and citizen-airmen, our Maryland National Guard members are also consumers and taxpayers, making a substantial impact on the local economy by spending their dollars where they live," said Fretterd.

Sr. Conservation Corps Announced By Gov. Schaefer

Governor William Donald Schaefer this week kicked off Maryland's Senior Conservation Corps, a statewide initiative to involve senior citizens in activities to preserve the environment. State and county representatives joined the governor for the announcement, held at Robert M. Watkins Regional Park in Prince George's County.

Maryland's Senior Conservation Corps was developed to mobilize seniors for the Bay. The Senior Conservation Corps provides a way for seniors of all skill levels to volunteer in county park information booths, teach youngsters how to plant wildflowers, organize neighborhood cleanups, and many more restoration activities. This innovative program was developed in cooperation with a special council of seniors who met with county and state government representatives to produce over 20 environmental restoration projects for senior citizens.

"Seniors have a lot to offer. We need the brain power of retired engineers, former teachers and older people who really care about the environment," the governor said. "I remember the first time I planted marsh grasses and helped with a stream cleanup. I thought it would be too strenuous, but it wasn't and I came away with a great feeling of satisfaction. Everyone can do something and make a real difference for the Chesapeake Bay," he added.

Dr. Barbara Heller, an expert in the field of geriatrics and dean and professor of the University of Maryland School of Nursing, praised the Senior Conservation Corps. "By involving the elderly as active participants, this effort promotes positive health and emotional well-being among our state's seniors," she said. "The Senior Conservation Corps encourages seniors to become physically active and socialize with others, while helping to preserve Maryland's environment and protect the state's natural resources."

At the kick-off, seniors from Prince George's County and Howard County demonstrated just some of the many hands-on conservation projects in which Corps members can participate, including growing marsh grasses for wetlands plantings, assembling water quality testing "bug hoops," and building bluebird boxes.

Already, Somerset County seniors are working on a project to plant wildflowers this spring with local students. Cecil County seniors will be assisting with spring marsh grass plantings, and Kent County seniors are building wood duck boxes.

Garrett County seniors will be assisting with local stream clean-ups.

Seasoned Firewood Stacks Up Well As An Economical Source Of Heat

Each winter as temperatures drop and heating bills increase, many homeowners re-evaluate fuel options with an eye to reducing home heating costs. Economic hardships caused by the continuing recession have given such cost-containment considerations increased importance.

One home-heating option considered by many people is firewood.

"Wood is a renewable resource that when used with modern catalytic stoves can be an environmentally sound and cost-effective source of home heat," says Jonathan Kays, a natural resources specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources.

However, the cost-effectiveness of firewood depends on several factors.

The heating value of any fuel is measured in British thermal units. (One Btu is the amount of energy required to raise a pound of water 1 degree Fahrenheit). In terms of Btu, a cord of seasoned oak firewood is equivalent to 133 gallons of No. 2 heating oil, 160 therms of natural gas, 3,500 kilowatt hours of electricity, or 0.8 tons of coal.

"But knowing this is not enough," Kays said. "You also need cost information. The costs of various forms of energy are evaluated differently, which makes comparisons difficult. Such comparisons are further complicated by variations in the cost of wood."

Results of a recent survey of classified ads in newspapers throughout Maryland indicate that the price of a cord of oak firewood -- cut, split and delivered -- varies considerably: $60 in Allegany County, $85 in Frederick County, $103 in Kent and Talbot, $114 in southern Maryland, and $120 in Baltimore and Anne Arundel counties.

Still, comparisons of the cost of various heating fuels can be made on the basis of their heat equivalents as expressed in dollars per million Btu ($/MBtu). A comparison of different fuel sources based on current prices in the central Maryland area follows:

FUEL	COST	$/MBTU
Hardwood	$60/cord	$5.00
	$85/cord	$7.20
	$103/cord	$8.50
	$114/cord	$9.50
	$120/cord	$10.30
Fuel oil	$1.04/gal.	$11.30
Electric Base Board	6.5 ¢/KH	$19.00
Electric heat pump	3.25 ¢/KH	$8.50
Soft coal	$125/ton	$8.30
Liquid propane gas	$1.10/gal.	$19.10
Natural gas	65¢/therm	$10.00

As the previous table shows, firewood -- even at its most expensive -- is a competitively-priced source of heat. "And at $65, $85 or even $103 a cord, it is one of the most economical sources of heat you can use," Kays said.

"Before making a decision about switching from one heating method to another, however, you need to take into consideration the cost of a new heater.

"If you think that firewood might be the best alternative for you," explains Kays, "you'll have to buy wood stoves with catalytic converters. In some cases, you may have to have extra chimneys installed."

A good quality wood stove with catalytic converter and a chimney could cost $1,000 or more, he said, so it may take years of fuel savings to pay for the new installation.

Christmas Dinner Held By JWCC

The Junior Woman's Civic Club met recently at the Silver Tree Inn for its annual Christmas dinner meeting.

Along with the annual gift exchange, the group distributed a turkey and food basket to a needy Garrett County family to "share the holiday spirit," according to a club spokesperson.

There was no business meeting and it was announced that there would be no January meeting.

The next meeting is set for February 6. Members and interested persons may call Vicki at 387-6890 for details.

Hearty Buffet Captures the SPIRIT OF FOOTBALL

When the weather is chilly and family and friends gather for the "big game," it's time to offer football-season fare — easy, hearty dishes that can be enjoyed during a tailgate party or a casual get-together around the television at home. "Make-ahead" is the name of the game this season, with delicious hot and cold offerings tempting everyone to a pre-game or half-time buffet.

Begin the buffet with a delicious Warm Chicken Spread, easily assembled before guests arrive. Chicken-flavor bouillon enriches the creamy base for the spread, a delectable combination of cheeses, sour cream, finely chopped chicken and almonds. This savory taste-tempting dish will warm spirits throughout the game.

Offer a traditional football favorite this time of year, Texas-Style Chili. Convenient beef-flavor bouillon, available in instant or cubes, adds slow-simmered richness to this hearty chili. Simmer cubed beef with onion, bell pepper and tomatoes before the hungry crowd arrives. Try a spoonful of Sweet Pepper Salsa, enhanced with bottled lime juice, as a zesty chili topping or enjoy the crunchy refreshing salsa with crisp tortilla chips.

The Lemon Marinated Antipasto is a lighter offering, full of bright Mediterranean flavors sure to bring football fans to the table again and again. Cooked shrimp, cubes of Provolone cheese and Genoa salami and chunks of colorful fresh vegetables marinate in a lively herb-spiked dressing made with convenient and consistently tangy bottled lemon juice. Arrange the elegant-looking antipasto before the kick-off for an easy, winning addition to the football buffet.

What game would be complete without fans indulging in dessert? Offer an array of easily handled sweets – Marbled Fudge Nut Brownies, Caramel & Peanut Butter Chocolate Cake and Streusel Cheesecake Bars. Sweetened condensed milk adds the creamy rich flavor to Marbled Fudge Nut Brownies, moist irresistible bars easily made with chocolate chips and biscuit mix. And luscious squares of Caramel & Peanut Butter Chocolate Cake are a gooey treat no one will be able to pass up. To complement the chocolate selection, feature jam-drizzled Streusel Cheesecake Bars with a lemony cheesecake filling nestled in a sweetened oat crust.

This bountiful buffet is perfect for any "big game," whether the Super Bowl or a favorite school rivalry. Prepare these delicious dishes and delectable desserts before the game begins, so everyone can gather together and cheer the team onto victory.

Farming In Maryland

Conservation Districts Have Changing Roles In 1990's

The "Mission of the Soil Conservation Districts" in Maryland was the subject of the opening session of the 1992 Winter Meeting of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts last week.

"The process of looking at this mission was started this past summer when we had a leadership workshop," Royden Powell, president of the Maryland Association stated. "This morning we'd like to continue trying to define our role by inviting a panel of people who are outsiders, but partners of Conservation Districts, to talk to us about what they perceive the role of the district organization to be for the remainder of this decade."

Powell introduced Fran Flanigan, executive director of the Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay, James Dieter, executive director of Baltimore County, Robert Perciasepe, secretary of the Maryland Department of the Environment, John Minnick, liaison between the Soil Conservation Service and the Environmental Protection Agency in Region III, (Mid-Atlantic States), Michael Heller, farm manager for Claggett Farm, a demonstration farm run by the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Don Spickler, National Association of Conservation Districts, Northeast area, and Larry Moore, a farmer from Howard County.

Each speaker lauded the organization of Soil Conservation Districts as a proven entity in delivering effective grass-roots conservation to communities across the country -- an organization with a 55-year history of conservation work. Technology transfer on a one-to-one basis with farmers was listed as a major strength of conservation districts as well as an excellent delivery system throughout the nation.

Flanigan pointed out a strong point of Maryland's conservation districts was having the ability, with a grass-roots staff, to reach out to all interest groups, everybody from the farmer, to legislators, to citizen's groups.

Dieter described the district association as a group that could mesh together federal, state, and local agencies and special interest groups to keep them from fragmenting in these times of changing roles and budget crises.

Minnick stated that the effectiveness of districts was their independence from major bureaucracies.

"Districts are decentralized," Minnick said. "Because of the information they have access to -- soil surveys, conservation histories and high-tech satellite information, for example, they are credible and ready to go immediately to solve conservation problems. This is one of their greatest strengths."

However, with the changing roles of all governmental agencies -- federal, state, and local, districts too have challenges ahead during the 1990's. The panel elaborated on several of these challenges.

Most of the panel said nutrient management was one of the major challenges. "Nutrient management -- managing animal waste, human waste, nitrogen and phosphorous that is applied to the land, is a relatively old problem that became an urgent problem as water quality degraded," Perciasepe said. He explained that even though, through the unbelievable commitment of many organizations and many people, the state has come a long way toward solving the problem, we still need to become more focused on this challenge. In some areas such as phosphorous management, we are doing very well. In other areas, such as nitrogen management, we have a long way to go. And there are areas -- the effect of air pollution, for example -- that we are still studying to effectively plan a mix of strategies to control.

Flanigan pointed out that one of the problems with measuring nutrient management was that there was very little information on the progress. When a farmer applies filter strips, for instance, how, in "real" information, is water quality improved?

Perciasepe also talked about real measurements. "We have a lot of statistics on the number of conservation practices applied," he said. "But how do we know what the real measurements are. How do we know if they are working?"

Another challenge brought up by several panel members was that a voluntary compliance versus regulation. The conservation districts are, at present, caught in the balancing role of being a helping hand and a cop.

"Soil Conservation Districts have seen the writing on the wall," Flanigan said. "They know they have to implement a much more aggressive marketing campaign to sell conservation ideas and programs, to convince people to adopt them before they are regulated. We live in a country where people are expert at selling things. The challenge of Conservation Districts is to learn to sell or market their programs because their programs work."

Minnick agreed with Flanigan. "Is voluntary compliance working?" he asked. "We all know the answer to that is yes. What the questions should be is 'Is voluntary compliance working fast enough?' In these days of bottom lines -- both financial and effectiveness -- we are in a dead heat with regulation."

Several of the panel members mentioned preserving agriculture amidst development as another challenge the districts face.

Flanigan stated that it will be a tough issue until society, as a whole, gets a handle on the equity issue. Several comments from the floor involved the difficulty of transferring land within families, paying high inheritance taxes upon the death of a landowner, and the "taking of land" issue with regard to protecting wetlands, zoning and critical areas.

Dieter asked several questions about agricultural equity and preserving farmland. He stated that in times of shrinking monies for preservation, conservation districts need to look at other alternatives.

"The farming community needs to present a unified front," he said. "First you need to have a clear definition of what agricultural equity is. This is a challenge in itself that we need to address."

Heller offered a look at why the farming community and environmentalists don't get along.

"This is, in part, the fault of environmentalists," he said. "Environmentalists are experts at looking at the whole picture. They forget that a farmer goes along one day at a time. He or she can't wave a magic wand and immediately change things to affect the whole picture. Conservation gets done as it fits between an intense work schedule.

"However," Heller continued, "Soil Conservation Districts have the ability to bring these two invalid pictures together. They are uniquely positioned -- being both farmers and district people -- to see both the whole picture and the day to day planning, implementation, monitoring, testing, seeking solutions. The challenge for districts is bringing these two things together."

The one farmer on the panel agreed with Heller.

"One of our biggest problems," Moore said, "is becoming belligerent when we're being told what to do. I feel farmers, for the most part, are more conscious of environmental concerns than most of the citizenry. Sure we balk. But when we stop and think about conservation practices, they make a lot of sense. We are not unjustly made to do things."

Moore gave the example of looking at a housing development.

"You look at it all laid out so orderly, nice and clean, and it doesn't seem like there could possibly be any pollution taking place. But if you look at it during a heavy rainstorm, you see the rain runoff is dramatically increased because of all the asphalt and the pollution is worse. It's the same with farming. If you study a problem, good conservation practices make sense. What I feel farmers and district people need to do is whatever is necessary to maintain a style of living that we all love."

The earthworm is often known by several other names, including fishworm, angleworm, or nightcrawler.

USDA Will Aid Tree Farmers Hit By Drought And Freeze

Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASCS Office announced the implementation of the Tree Assistance Program (TAP) to assist tree growers whose trees were lost due to disasters.

Under this program, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation will reimburse eligible small- and medium-scale commercial tree growers for a portion of losses caused by natural disasters occurring in 1990 and 1991.

"By implementing the Tree Assistance Program we will provide much needed relief to growers in those parts of the country who have suffered severe losses to orchards and tree stands because of drought or freeze," Bachtel said.

The program is authorized by the 1990 Farm Bill and the Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1992.

Bachtel said cost-share payments will be made to growers to replant or rehabilitate orchard trees which were planted in any year to produce annual crops for commercial purposes but were lost in calendar year 1990 or 1991.

Cost-share payments will also be made to replant or rehabilitate timber and Christmas trees which were planted for harvest during 1989 or 1990 and lost due to drought in 1990, or planted during 1990 or 1991 and lost due to drought in 1991.

To qualify, the grower's loss on an individual stand of trees must have been greater than 35 percent, after adjustment for normal mortality. Reimbursement will be made for 65 percent of the cost of replanting that portion of the trees lost in excess of 35 percent.

Payments may be reduced further because total funding for the program is limited.

CCC will administer the program through the Garrett County offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service with assistance from other USDA agencies. Tree growers requesting assistance under TAP should inquire about eligibility and other program provisions at the Garrett County ASCS offices. The TAP signup is from February 3 to March 13, 1992.

Property Rights Protection Paramount To FB Delegates

Delegates at the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual meeting called on government to restore the sanctity of private property by reviewing all federal regulations that encroach on property rights.

Delegates from the 50 states and Puerto Rico re-elected Rudd, Iowa, corn, soybean and hog farmer Dean Kleckner as president, and Ward, S.C., cattle and cotton grower Harry Bell as vice president.

Delegates also reaffirmed their longstanding support for the worldwide trade negotiating process, but emphasized that any eventual agreement must provide substantial benefits for U.S. producers.

In considering the current Uruguay Round negotiations, the delegates said that Section 22 import quotas -- for peanuts, dairy, sugar and cotton -- should only be eliminated if they are replaced with acceptable tariff quotas.

Addressing trade negotiations with Mexico, the delegates called for a longer phase-in period for import-sensitive commodities.

On the economic front, the farmers and ranchers approved language stating, "The current economic slowdown has been caused by runaway federal spending, anti-growth tax policy and federal regulations that damage productivity.

The delegates called for a total freeze of federal spending at the previous year's level, with the exception of interest payments on the national debt and natural disasters. "All departments of the (federal) government should be examined for cuts in spending," the policy said.

Delegates approved a message to President Bush on the property rights issue. They asked him to restate in his upcoming State of the Union message the same pledge to preserve private property rights he made Monday during the meeting's keynote address.

Delegates urged Bush to take immediate action through executive order to halt the further loss of property rights.

Delegates restated their call for common-sense wetlands regulations which protect private property, and termed as a "top priority" the need for compensation when areas are deemed environmentally sensitive and worthy of protection.

And they remain opposed to giving the Environmental Protection Agency final authority in matters of wetlands determination, saying USDA should make the final determination for farmland.

They called for more local control of wetlands identification and management through local soil conservation districts, and said they favored the concept of voluntary wetlands banking. Delegates also endorsed funding for the wetlands reserve program included in the 1990 farm bill but unfunded to date.

In addressing potential endangered species legislation the delegates said such protection can be more effectively achieved by providing incentives to private landowners and public land users, rather than by imposing land-use restrictions and penalties.

"The Endangered Species Act (must) be amended so that when a species is listed, the total cost of recovery shall be determined in advance," the new language stated. "The economic analysis shall include costs to the government, business and the consumer."

On another major domestic issue, the delegates called for improvements in the nation's health care system, urging minimal government intervention.

Any health care legislation, they said, should include cost incentives and rewards for providers and consumers. They also called for a 100 percent tax deduction or credit for those who pay for their own health insurance.

In other actions, the delegates:

*Supported adequate funding for the export enhancement program.

*Opposed income means-testing applied to farm program eligibility.

*Reaffirmed the organization's dairy position, calling for: the use of a voluntary diversion program in any inventory management effort, a dairy heifer export program, revamped milk standards with higher solids, and no assessment other than those needed to fund a diversion program.

*Approved providing producers several options for treatment of conservation reserve program land following expiration of the initial 10-year contracts. Options include maintaining their crop base history, as long as the land remains in permanent cover crops, and allowing renewal on a five-year basis, with partially reduced rental payments in exchange for haying and grazing privileges.

*Supported federal tax credits for producers who provide self-financed crop insurance protection.

*Asked the Justice Department to monitor potential monopolies among meat packers, both regional and national.

*Supported legislation that would limit authority for pesticide regulations solely to federal and state governments.

*Opposed further expansion of federal land ownership and any effort to establish buffer areas on private lands without just compensation.

*Urged USDA to establish more objective tests for grain quality standards.

*Reaffirmed their opposition to any reduction in current federal estate tax exemption.

*Urged swift prosecution of individuals and groups who release or steal research animals.

Newly elected to the organization's board of directors were Ronald Anderson of Ethel, La., and Doug Breese, of Prineville, Ore.

Members of the board re-elected include: Merlin Plagge, Sheffield, Iowa; Doyle Rahjes, Agra, Kan.; John White, Elburn, Ill.; C. Wayne Ashworth, Danville, Va.; T.M. Ewing, Covington, Ga.; James Lockett, Fairfax, Okla.; Don Waller, Oxford, Miss.; Andrew Whisenhunt, Bradley, Ark.; Keith Eckel, Clarks Summit, Pa.; and Walter Pyle, Shoreham, Vt.

Reed White of Sturgis, Ky., is the newly-elected chairman of AFBF's Young Farmer and Rancher Committee.

Betty DeWitt, a tobacco and soybean farmer from Darlington, S.C, was elected to the American Farm Bureau Women's Committee. Re-elected to the committee were Patricia Baldwin, Ohio; Maxine Bell, Idaho; and Leona Dell, Md.

In Memory of
Charles W. Lewis
8/14/29 - 1/24/72

It was on a Monday evening
I'll never forget that day.
An angel came quickly and took my husband away.
Just when his life was sweetest
Just when his hopes were best
God called him home from those he loved
To his eternal rest.
I often sit and think of him
When I am all alone
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
No one knows how much I miss him
No one knows what bitter pain
I have suffered since he left me
Life has never been the same.
He was a wonderful husband always so faithful and so kind
What a beautiful memory
He has left behind.
He always had a cheerful word
His smiles I see them yet
His tender love for everyone
I will never forget.
It's lonesome here without him and sad and weary the way.
Life has not been the same for me
Since he was called away.
Many may think he is forgotten
When they sometimes see me smile
But little do they know the heartache
That my smile holds all the while.
As time goes by I miss him
Though here on earth he is no more
But in death he is always with me
As in life he was before.
Peaceful be he is at rest
It is sweet to greet his name
In life I loved him dearly
In death I do the same.
Some day I hope to meet him
Some day I know not when to be with him in a better world
Never to part again.

Summerall's Bowls: One was a heart-stopper

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Pat Summerall never played in a Super Bowl. In his playing days (1952-61, as a place-kicker for the Chicago Cardinals and New York Giants), the NFL Championship Game had to suffice. But as a broadcaster, there's no one who knows his way around the Super Bowl better.

Pat Summerall

Summerall will be in the broadcast booth with his current broadcasting partner, John Madden, on Sunday, Jan. 26, when Super Bowl XXVI airs on CBS. Starting with Super Bowl I, Summerall has been there for every Super Bowl that has been broadcast on CBS. (The game rotates among the three major networks.) And, counting radio broadcasts, Super Bowl XXVI will be his 20th.

"They're all very memorable," says the 61-year-old broadcaster. But he admits that a few stand out:

"There's one that I'll always remember, Super Bowl XII, between Dallas and Denver, because I was working with Tom Brookshier, and he got sick and couldn't talk in the second half. So I had to do the whole second half by myself.

"And Super Bowl IV, Minnesota-Kansas City: Ray Scott and I did it, and about a minute before we got on the air, the fellow we had hired to be our spotter had a heart attack in the booth."

The spotter, however, made sure he didn't rattle the broadcasters. "He was so calm about it," Summerall recalls. "Ray was talking to somebody, and the guy said to me, 'You know, I think you ought to get somebody else to spot for you.' I said, 'Why? We hired you.' He said, 'Because I think I'm having a heart attack.' And then down he goes.

"But, yeah, that's a little distracting," adds Summerall in a perfect deadpan.

He remembers a few other Super Bowls because they were good games. "People say that most of them are one-sided, but the two Dallas-Pittsburgh games ..."

And he remembers last year's squeaker in which New York edged Buffalo 20-19 for another reason: "It's one of the few times I've ever had a chance just to lie down on a couch by myself, build a fire and watch the game," he says. "It was kind of fun."

In 30 years of broadcasting, Summerall has learned not to worry about what might go wrong. "If it goes wrong, it goes wrong," he says philosophically. "They'll be crawling around our feet trying to fix something; that's a distraction. But you can't worry about that; you're there to broadcast a game."

Asked if he has desperate technicians crawling around his feet maybe once a year, he laughs. "About once a week," he says.

Pat Summerall (l.) and John Madden announce Super Bowl XXVI from Minneapolis' Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome. Pro football's biggest game airs Sunday, Jan. 26, on CBS.

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

'M*A*S*H' NOTES – Please answer a few questions about "M*A*S*H" that have been driving me mad. Didn't Sally Kellerman play Hot Lips before Loretta Swit? What was the name of the show's theme song? What does "M*A*S*H" stand for? Were Klinger and Father Mulcahy original characters? – H.C., Woodbury, Conn.

Loretta Swit, 1972

Sally Kellerman portrayed Major Margaret "Hot Lips" Houlihan in the film of "M*A*S*H," which was released in 1970, two years before the series premiered. On TV, Swit portrayed the character from the outset of the series. The theme song, written by Mike Altman and Johnny Mandel, is titled "Suicide Is Painless." "M*A*S*H" stands for Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. The character of Cpl. Max Klinger, played by Jamie Farr, was added to the cast in 1973. In the series pilot, Father John Mulcahy was played by George Morgan, but throughout the 1972-83 run of the series Chaplain Francis Mulcahy was played by William Christopher. The only cast member from the movie who reprised his role in the series was Gary Burghoff, who played Cpl. Walter "Radar" O'Reilly.

RIDE 'EM, DOUG! – Is it true that Doug McClure is really a cowboy, and, if so, why is he in a comedy? – W.L. Grand Ledge, Mich.

McClure, who played Mayor Kyle Applegate in the syndicated comedy series "Out of This World" from 1987-90, competes in professional rodeos in real life. A native of Glendale, Calif., McClure displayed his horseback riding in the Western series "The Overland Trail" (1960), "The Virginian" (1962-71) and "The Barbary Coast" (1975-76). McClure also starred in the non-Western series "Checkmate" (1960-62) and "Search" (1972-73). McClure says he enjoys doing comedy because it gives him a chance to show his range as an actor.

TATTOO TIME – What is Cher's actual name? Does she have real tattoos or the temporary kind? – M.F., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Cher, whose given name is Cherilyn Sarkisian LaPierre, has six permanent tattoos, the latest of which is on her arm. The design is a chain with a cross, pierced heart and ankh (the Egyptian symbol for life). She got her first tattoo – a butterfly and flowers on her derriere – in 1972.

Malden returns to City by the Bay in TV drama

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

Karl Malden returns to the now yuppie-infested streets of San Francisco as Capt. Mike Stone in "Back to the Streets of San Francisco," (NBC, Jan. 27). As gruff and no-nonsense as ever, Stone is aided by green fellow officers Sarah Burns (Debrah Farentino), David O'Connor (Conor O'Farrell) and Charlie Walker (Carl Lumbly) in finding the killer of his best friend, Steve Keller, while discovering a wealth of crime has overtaken the Bay Area. Unfortunately, "Back to the Streets" recalls little of the quality of the original series, which won Malden five Emmy nominations, and offers mediocre-to-bad acting.

Carr and Malden

• Its pulsating urban milieu made "New Jack City" (Cinemax, Feb. 1) one of the surprise hits of 1991. Instead of relying on the tired cops-and-robbers formula, first-time director Mario Van Peebles dishes out elements of contemporary urban life that haven't yet been hammered into cliche, and backs it up with a driving rap sound track. Wesley Snipes stars as a crack entrepeneur, and Judd Nelson and rap artist Ice T are two renegade agents determined to tear down the drug empire. The way Van Peebles (who also co-stars) works relevant messages into the story without seeming preachy is reminiscent of the soulful, revolutionary films made by his father, Melvin.

• Al Pacino and Ellen Barkin star in the thriller "Sea of Love" (CBS, Feb. 1). A New York City detective on the trail of a lonely hearts killer, Pacino finds himself attracted to his prime suspect, a streetwise swinger played by Barkin.

SPORTS CALENDAR

Super Bowl XXVI: How will it go in the dome?

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

Super Bowl XXVI is Sunday, Jan. 26, and it's anybody's guess whether or not we can expect a game that will approach the drama and excitement of last year's contest in Tampa. Super Bowl XXV, you'll remember, was won 20-19 by the New York Giants when Buffalo Bills kicker Scott Norwood's last-second 47-yard field-goal attempt sailed wide right.

The game has been universally hailed as the best Super Bowl ever played. Did the fact that the teams had only one week to prepare for the game (instead of the usual two) have anything to do with it?

CBS analyst John Madden thinks not. He offers the fact that this year's top four division winners were unaffected by the two-week break before their first playoff games: All four won. In addition, he points out that there are numerous administrative details that teams and players must work out before the Super Bowl. Madden has been to the big game twice, once as an assistant coach and once as the head guy, so he ought to know.

Still, we have have our nagging doubts. It seems that two football teams can't help but be distracted by two week's worth of super hype by the world's media.

Madden will be joined by broadcast partner Pat Summerall when CBS telecasts this year's game from the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis. As expected, CBS Sports is pulling out all the stops for the game. Kickoff is scheduled for 6 EST, but there are two-and-a-half hours of pre-game programming starting at 3:30 EST, and the entire network football crew is involved. Greg Gumbel will host. Terry Bradshaw will be with him in the studio, and Lesley Visser, Pat O'Brien, Dan Fouts and Randy Cross will contribute reports.

At the Metrodome, CBS will have 15 cameras covering the game. They'll also have one camera in an indoor blimp (we can hardly wait to see that!) and one in a helicopter outside. The network expects the game to be seen live by more than 100 million viewers in the United States alone, and it will be seen live or on tape in more than 50 other countries and locations.

Cable's ESPN has a special one-and-a-half hour Super Bowl edition of "NFL Gameday" starting at 12 EST. The all-sports network began airing highlights of all 25 previous Super Bowls Saturday night at 9 EST. Except for five live-programming breaks, they'll air continuously right up until kickoff time.

THIS WEEK

Wayans

HALFTIME High Jinks: Jan. 26 is Super Bowl Sunday, of course, when the eyes of the nation will be glued to the gridiron. But what about during halftime? Fox's "In Living Color," hosted by Keenen Ivory Wayans, hopes to lure you away with "The In Living Color Super Halftime Party," featuring the show's characters in sports-themed skits, to air opposite the NFL's halftime show. A special clock insert on the screen will tick down the time remaining until the second-half kickoff. • "Today" weatherman Willard Scott hosts "The New Original Amateur Hour," a refurbished edition of the venerable variety show, premiering Sunday, Jan. 26, on The Family Channel. • Rose Marie ("The Dick Van Dyke Show") guests as Frank's mother on a repeat of "Murphy Brown" airing Monday, Jan. 27, on CBS. • "A Question of Sex," an "ABC Afterschool Special," is rebroadcast Thursday, Jan. 30. Tracey Gold ("Growing Pains") stars. • Dick Cavett interviews acerbic author Gore Vidal in a special airing Friday, Jan. 31, on PBS. • The 1988 Western "Young Guns" airs Friday, Jan. 31, on Fox. Emilio Estevez, Kiefer Sutherland and Lou Diamond Phillips are among the stars.

SOAP SCOOP

Soap milestones: Monty marooned, Hall hitched

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

As we go to press, Gloria Monty has just been released as executive producer of "General Hospital." Monty was the legendary producer of "GH" during its "Luke and Laura" golden age.

In the year since Monty returned to the show, "GH" 's ratings have dropped from second to seventh place. She'll be replaced by veteran night-time producer Wendy Rich.

Deidre Hall

More next week.

• When Deidre Hall (who plays Dr. Marlena Brady on "Days of Our Lives"), perennially dubbed "the queen of daytime TV" by mainstream publication caption-writers, turned out to be a no-show in "DOOL" 's prestigious one-night-only prime-time shot ("Days of Our Lives: One Stormy Night," which aired Jan. 10), the usual soap gossips were abuzz.

"I heard she wanted too much money," snipped one fan-magazine editor.

"She doesn't want the rest of the world to think of her as a soap actress," said another.

But "Deidre was out of the country when we taped the show," "DOOL" supervising executive producer Al Rabin definitively told us. She certainly was – making preparations to get married! In a small ceremony on New Year's Eve, Hall wed TV producer (and former NBC promotion vice president) Steve Sohmer at one of his many homes, a Victorian house named Shipton-Under-Wynchwood in Cotswold, England.

Hall was seriously involved with Sohmer years ago, but then suddenly jettisoned that romance to marry her second husband, Michael Dubelko, a producer for Stephen J. Cannell. (She had been divorced from hubby No. 1, singer/actor Keith Barbour, for almost a decade.) Hall and Sohmer had remained friendly over the years.

Sohmer is also the author of thrillers, including the best-selling "Favorite Son," which was made into a miniseries with Harry Hamlin. All right, Dee. Good catch!

• It's with sadness that we note the Jan. 3 death of Dame Judith Anderson, 93, who originated the role of matriarch Minx Lockridge on "Santa Barbara" (now played as a shadow of the character's former self by Janis Paige). Anderson was an internationally known stage and screen star – who can ever top her spooky housekeeper, Mrs. Danvers, in the 1940 film "Rebecca"? – who gave "SB" a real touch of class when it premiered in July 1984. Campy Anderson appeared regularly through the show's first four years.

PBS

IN FOCUS

"Empire of the Air: The Men Who Made Radio" is the story of three Americans who developed the medium. Lee de Forest invented the radio tube, and David Sarnoff turned the radio into a household appliance. But without the breakthroughs of Edwin Armstrong (pictured), whose life was marred by litigation with the other two, radio, as we know it, could never have happened. It airs Wednesday, Jan. 29, on PBS. (Check local listings.)

Farm Bureau Ventures Peek Into New Year

While it's impossible to predict with precision what kind of year 1992 will be for agriculture, it is certain that world events, international trade negotiations and U.S. elections will have an impact.

According to Farm Bureau specialists, farmers and ranchers will face a continued slump in livestock prices, while grain prices will be influenced by world events. But lower interest rates should bolster areas of the agricultural sector.

On the political horizon, American voters will elect a president, 35 U.S. Senators, the entire U.S. House of Representatives and many state and local officials. From a congressional standpoint, the mere fact that it is an election year will reduce the amount of time lawmakers will devote to any one issue -- which could put many key agricultural issues on hold.

"After the way the world changed this past year, there's no reason for us to expect many more surprises this year, but it never hurts to be on guard," said AFBF President Dean Kleckner. "Farmers and ranchers will continue to face a number of challenges, ranging from commodity prices to property rights, but agriculture will move ahead. As an organization, Farm Bureau will make sure of that. We will continue to address pocketbook issues and challenges to the way we farm."

DECEMBER PRICES MIXED IN MARYLAND – The Index of Prices Received by Maryland farmers was 131 in December, down one point from November but two points above a year ago. Declining broiler prices were enough to offset modest gains in many other commodities. At the U.S. level, the broiler price decline was not as great, but few commodities were gaining and the general trend was down.

CAMPAIGN '92

This year's elections demand agriculture's close attention for reasons which Brad Eckart, AFBF's political education director, calls the three Rs -- redistricting, retirements and re-election woes.

Redistricting brings with it less representation for rural America, as a number of U.S. House seats shift from rural to urban areas. Retirement comes into play because 163 representatives elected prior to 1980 would have to relinquish their personal claims to more than $39 million to campaign funds if re-elected. Also, almost one-quarter of this group is over 65 years of age.

Re-election woes could also play a larger role this year. Contributing to a possible higher-than-normal turnover is the fact that 14 freshman senators -- generally considered most vulnerable to defeat -- are up for re-election.

Throw those three factors together and it emphasizes the need for Farm Bureau members to intensify their political involvement in 1992, according to Eckart. Through an organized effort -- Farm Bureau's Campaign '92 -- the organization's goal in November is to have 85 percent of all Farm Bureau members cast informed votes in the general election for candidates who share Farm Bureau's basic beliefs.

NATIONAL ISSUES

John Datt, executive director of AFBF's Washington office, said some of Farm Bureau's key issues could face a struggle in an election-year Congress. Taking into consideration holidays, recesses, and political conventions (Democrats in July; Republicans in August), lawmakers will have less time in Washington. Adding in campaigns, the amount of time is lessened further.

Wetlands legislation (H.R. 1330, S. 1463) is one area that could be affected.

"If we don't get a favorable markup by March or April, we face an uphill fight," he said. "After that point, there is a greater capacity to delay and stall. That doesn't say we can't win, but when you have an issue that is controversial, it is a tougher fight."

That could be true of other agricultural issues as well, he said, although the farm bill technical corrections measure has already been signed into law, and it is unlikely that there will be further attempts at dairy legislation.

The ongoing Uruguay Round and North American free trade agreement negotiations will have an impact on agriculture -- and on the campaign trail. The 1990 farm bill contains a "GATT trigger" that could become a focal point of the debate, Datt said. It states that if a Uruguay Round agreement has not been enacted by June 30, the U.S. administration could waive acreage limits on certain 1993-95 crops.

It also could increase export enhancement program spending, and would be required to institute a marketing loan program for wheat and feed grains. But an increase in EEP funding is a contentious issue considering the budget pressure the government faces, Datt noted.

Several forms of "economic growth" packages have been discussed and debated, and speculation is that such a package will likely be passed and signed into law this summer -- possibly by July 4.

"I would not be at all surprised to see that happen," Datt said. "But we have to be concerned about something that is aimed at the short run and does not address the budget deficit or federal spending."

MORE BELT TIGHTENING?

While the overall financial outlook for America's farmers and ranchers may slip a bit in 1992, they will continue to fare much better than they did during the mid-1980s. New developments, such as lower interest rates, should even work to bolster areas of the agricultural sector this year, according to AFBF Economist Terry Francl.

The most obvious benefit of lower interest rates is a reduction in the cost of borrowing money. Currently about $65 billion in outstanding, short-term debt faces the farm sector. For example, a 1.5 percent drop in interest rates lowers the interest outlays on that debt by $1 billion, according to Francl.

In addition to reducing farmers' interest outlays from between $1 billion and $2 billion in 1992, the AFBF economist says lower long-term rates will make financed land purchases more affordable and will likely boost farmland values.

"Assuming the long-term interest rate drops by one percent, and that an acre of land will generate $100 in income that can be used for mortgage payments, the amount of money that can be extended for a 25-year farm mortgage loan is increased by about eight percent," Francl said.

Despite the positive impact of lower interest rates on net farm cash income, slightly lower cash receipts are anticipated, mainly due to declining cattle and hog prices. Francl expects total net cash income to be off by about $3 billion from 1991. However, he also points out that net cash flow -- a measure of the money that farmers can spend -- will decline by only $1 billion.

Also, Francl explained that today's net cash flow, when measured in nominal dollars, is essentially double that of 1986. And, when adjusted for inflation, today's net cash flow is more than 50 percent greater than 1986.

"So, while the levels of net cash income and net cash flow are off from the highs of recent years, they remain substantially better than the levels experienced by farmers in the mid-1980s," Francl said.

LIVESTOCK UNDER PRESSURE

For the past several years cattle and hog prices defied the normal cyclical downturns which have always plagued the livestock industry. Through the late 1980s, livestock receipts were the engine that drove the farm economy, helping to put the nation's agriculture back on its feet. Lately, however, farm prices for hogs, cattle and sheep have been depressed and the effects are showing in the overall farm economy.

Analysts estimate that prices paid for feeder cattle will average $5 to $10 per hundredweight less in 1992. Fed cattle prices will come under pressure from larger supplies of pork and chicken, according to AFBF livestock commodity specialist Al Keating. Hog prices area at their lowest levels in four years. Hog numbers are currently up five percent from a year ago, resulting in market prices that are about $14 per hundredweight below year earlier levels. Lamb prices are finally expected to inch up in 1992 as producers continue to downsize and aggressively market their product.

Export demand for U.S. meats is expanding modestly, but livestock producers would benefit most from an improved economy in the United States.

Dairy prices also hit the skids in 1991. Average prices paid to dairy producers in 1992 are expected to come in near 1991 levels. If the prices fail to move higher, it could result in further erosion of dairy farm equity, said Ken Olson, AFBF dairy specialist. Dairy production in 1991 was below the previous year's levels, and this coupled with increased consumer demand offers some hope that prices will respond as supplies tighten. Dairy cow numbers fell nearly 1.5 percent, reflecting a slight decline in herd numbers.

Current grain prices are influenced heavily by world events.

"The grain and oilseeds situation is a powder keg with a wet fuse," reports David Miller, AFBF grains commodity specialist. "Modest shortfalls in U.S. grain production could light the powder keg that the markets are sitting on."

Wheat and grain stocks are in tight supply, establishing a volatile situation, but the traditional buyers -- the Soviets -- have no cash buying power to fuel the fireworks. Wheat is in a tight supply throughout the world and will remain sensitive to production prospects throughout 1992.

According to Miller, barring a drought or exceptionally good growing conditions, corn prices should average about 15 cents higher in 1992, soybean prices should remain nearly unchanged and wheat prices should remain 75 cents to $1 per bushel higher.

The United States will have a larger carry-in inventory of upland cotton as it heads into a new marketing year, which could lead to some price weakness. Carry-in supplies are expected to increase from 2 to 4.3 million bales. Domestic textile demand is expected to remain strong, but exports could face stiff competition, as world production exceeds consumption, according to Don Parrish, AFBF commodity specialist.

Starvation of Newborn Lambs

With all the modern technology we have at hand, one would tend to think that starvation would not be a problem in our sheep flocks. However, starvation is still the major cause of lamb deaths in almost any type of management systems. The major causes of newborn starvation are:

1. The lamb is born healthy but the ewe has no milk or the teat canal is plugged. If this is not discovered at time of birth by checking the udder of the ewe, the lamb may be found dead at 3-4 days of age.

2. The lamb is born healthy, the ewe has milk but will not allow the lamb to nurse. This sometimes occurs with twins, the ewe preferring one twin over the other. Occasionally, first time lambers will not be overly enthused about motherhood and will not even let a single lamb suck. This lamb may get separated from its mother.

3. Ewes may not have enough milk for twin lambs and the smaller or less aggressive lamb gets insufficient milk. In this case, the lamb is usually a little older when found dead.

4. Ewes may develop mastitis, hard bag, contagious ecthyma (sore mouth), or injure her udder. These conditions may decrease milk production or produce pain, causing the ewe to prohibit the lambs from nursing.

The percent lambing is an important economic factor in sheep production; however, the percent sold is the most important factor. At lambing time it is a good management practice to give the ewe a "check-up." Follow up with observation until you're sure everything is normal.

New Seed Catalogs -- Bring Thoughts of Spring!

As soon as the first new seed catalog arrives it triggers our thoughts of spring. As we thumb through the pages, seeing all of those appealing vegetables, we just can hardly wait to get our garden started. A lot of us enjoy starting and growing our own transplants indoors. And most of us start our vegetable transplants way too early. Generally, by the time the weather is suitable to set them outdoors, they are long, straggly and weak plants. To help you make the decision when to start your seeds, the following approximate time schedule from planting seeds until transplants are ready to be moved into the garden may be helpful:

- 2-3 weeks: Cucumber, muskmelon, pumpkin, squash and watermelon.
- 5-7 weeks: Tomato, head lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, and brussels sprouts.
- 6-8 weeks: Eggplant and peppers.

A lot of other factors such as growing media, light, temperature and watering habits have a great effect on the growing rate. If you would like more information on Growing Vegetable Transplants, contact my office and request Fact Sheet 551.

The breeding inventory at 30,000 head is 11 percent higher than the 27,000 head a year earlier. Market hogs under 60 pounds, and 120-170 pounds increased in number, while hogs 60-119 and 180 plus decreased from last year.

United States: The inventory of hogs in all states on December 1, 1991 totaled 57.0 million head, five percent above the 54.4 million head on hand the previous year. The breeding herd totaled 7.2 million, five percent more than 1990. Market hogs totaled 49.8 million head, five percent more than 47.6 million market hogs on hand December 1, 1990. Producers intend to have 2.90 million sows farrow during the December 1991-February 1992 quarter, 11 percent above 1990. March-May 1992 farrowings at 3.32 million sows, up one percent above 1991 and up six percent.

House Republicans Propose Cuts And Balanced Budget

The House Republican Caucus has endorsed and sent to Governor Schaefer a formula for a balanced budget without a tax increase and a package of budget-cutting ideas with identifiable savings totaling more than $100 million.

"The FY 1993 budget is out of balance by $1.2 billion only if you assume a 17 percent increase from the revised FT 1992 budget to the so-called 'baseline budget,' " House Minority Leader Ellen R. Sauerbrey (R-10th) said. "House Republicans don't buy into that assumption. It's irrational to plan for that kind of a spending hike in a recession."

The list of cost containments, which Del. Sauerbrey announced she provided the Governor in a December 18 press release, is just the first step in what will be an ongoing effort by the GOP Caucus to contribute constructively to the process of downsizing state government, she said.

"The Butta Commission made some very good suggestions, but a Commission on Efficiency in Government -- such as has been proposed for the past four years -- needs to be permanently implemented. We need ongoing performance audits, not a two-month study," Sauerbrey said.

Among the more than 50 specific recommendations, some of which 'will involve major policy changes requiring legislation, are:

•suspending the issuance of legislative scholarships for FY 1993, for a savings of $1,900,000;

•abolishing two-thirds of governmental public affairs positions and three-fourths of state agency lobbyist jobs, saving $6,000,000;

•legislation that would prohibit minor AFDC recipients from setting up independent households when they can reside with an adult parent or guardian;

•eliminating travel reimbursement for out-of-state conferences and seminars, saving taxpayers $2,300,000;

•requiring co-payments by Medicaid recipients for non-emergency use of hospital emergency room services over $50, for a savings of $1,000,000.

"The outlook for this legislative session has been continually described as gloomy, dismal, even cataclysmic, by many liberal Democrats. We have to start looking at this fiscal crisis as an opportunity. Downsizing state government will involve much more than reducing obvious examples of waste and inefficiency. To get at the structural deficit -- which we really have not begun to do -- we need to ask ourselves, 'Is this program necessary? Can we afford it? Does it work? Is there a better way to accomplish our objectives?' " Sauerbrey concluded.

Mettiki Rep Teaches VICA Students

Jody Theriot, of Mettiki Coal Company, pictured above, recently visited Southern High School to explain to students belonging to the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) the purpose of material safety data sheets. This sheet contains material on safe handling and disposal information on certain chemicals which a worker may be exposed.

All chemicals that are used in the workplace should have a chemical data sheet which contains such information as: the elements in the chemical, first aid procedures, special protection information, physical data, fire and explosion data, reactivity data, spill and disposal procedures, and special precautions.

Theriot's purpose was to teach the VICA members how to properly use the data sheets. The VICA Safety Committee then put this information to use in the school system. The Committee has since surveyed the dangerous chemicals that were in the school vocational areas and obtained the material safety data sheets for these chemicals. These sheets are being compiled for each of the shops and will be presented to the individual instructors to be available for all students in the shops.

A spokesman for the VICA club said the Material Safety Data Sheet Presentation was "very helpful" and thanked Theriot and Mettiki Coal Corporation "for taking time to help."

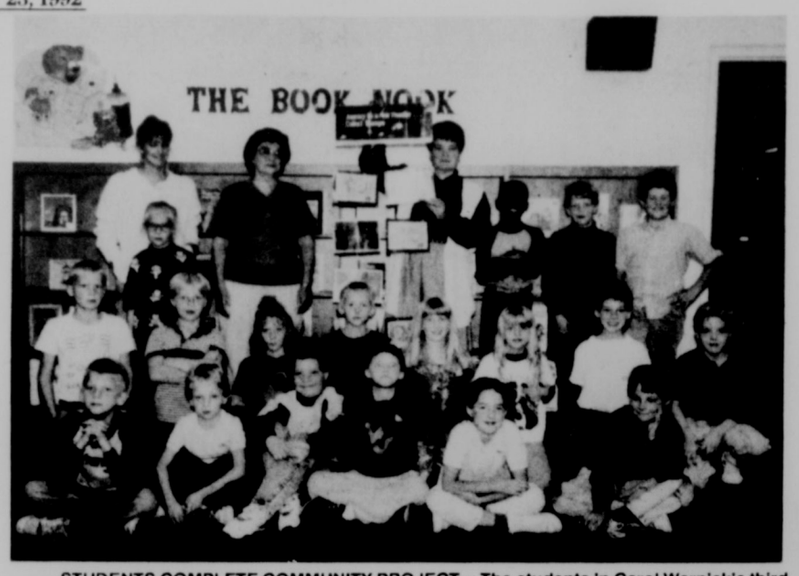
HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID? ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.



We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Sanitation Course Offered At GCC

For persons who work in food service or resort facilities, the thought of a health inspector coming to the workplace can create anxieties. A course designed to prevent these anxieties is being offered at Garrett Community College during the 1992 spring semester on Tuesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Sanitation, Safety, and the Law (RM 160) will be taught by Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director of Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department. Glotfelty says he is looking forward to educating food service handlers and resort managers in the area of sanitation so they will be prepared for health inspections.

In addition to focusing on the area of food sanitation, the course will also cover pool/spa maintenance and sanitation of public areas, as well as legal duties of businesses offering food, lodging, and recreation to the public.

Students taking this course will be qualified to sit for the Maryland State Certificate in Sanitation examination.

Anyone desiring further information about the course may call Sam Butler at Garrett Community College, 387-6666.

Grantsville Men Found Not Guilty On Drug Charges

Two Grantsville men were found not guilty of one count each of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia by Judge Jack R. Turney in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Robert L. Wilt, 21, and David L. Wilburn, 20, had been charged following an investigation by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. An additional drug charge against each of them was not prosecuted because they were duplicate charges.

The men had been stopped last September on a speeding violation. Wilburn reportedly denied a search of the vehicle he was driving, but a police officer shined a flashlight in the vehicle and spotted a metal pipe used for smoking marijuana. Reportedly a K-9 dog confirmed there had been marijuana in the pipe.

Court records did not indicate why the two were found not guilty on the charges.

In other court news, a Deer Park man was found guilty of assault and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Richard E. Tasker, 34, was barred from Erv's Place in Deer Park and was ordered to have no contact with Lawrence Ford. Additional charges of discharging a weapon with intent to maim, being disorderly in a public place, and reckless endangerment, against Tasker were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney's Office.

Wiseman was charged with robbery and larceny in the alleged theft of an undisclosed amount of cash, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

"THE FOG COMES ON LITTLE CAT FEET," wrote Carl Sandburg in 1916. Indeed, the fog does come on "silent haunches and then moves on," just as it did in the county this week. As the snow of last weekend began to melt, a gentle fog did creep gently in and blanket the valleys in an eerie, yet glorious masterpiece. Although warm temperatures are predicted again for today, a cold snap will return to the area tomorrow and snow showers are expected at least through Saturday afternoon. The abundance of snow has delighted sledding and skiing enthusiasts who have been "cheated" out of a real Garrett County winter for a number of years.

Commissioners Informed Of Change In Md. Public Assistance Programs

During a monthly staff meeting held by the Garrett County Commissioners this week, Garrett County Social Services Director Robert Shaffer presented the most recent proposals designed to restructure the state's General Public Assistance (GPA) and Aid To Families With Dependent Children (AFDC) programs.

Shaffer informed the commissioners that GPA recipients would feel the heaviest impact, noting that a large number of those recipients would no longer be eligible for assistance at all under the new arrangement. He did stress, however, that all the information he has received so far is still in the "rough draft" stage.

The plan seeks to replace the GPA program with the Disability and Assistance Loan Program by April 1. The new program would be instituted in such a way that only those persons who are chronically or permanently disabled would receive grants, and those grants could only be received for 12 months out of a 36-month period "unless certain conditions are met," according to Shaffer.

He also noted that those recipients with chronic disabilities must demonstrate an attempt to obtain assistance from other sources, such as Social Security Disability or veterans' benefits programs.

Recipients with short-term disabilities would receive interest-free loans and be required to sign a promissory note, instead of receiving grants. In addition, those recipients would have to demonstrate they had been employed or drew unemployment compensation three months prior to receiving assistance.

"All in all," said Shaffer, "there's been quite a cutback in assistance -- the package is very heavy." The changes to the GPA program are designed to save the state approximately $18 million.

The revamping of the AFDC program, however, seeks to "encourage families to adopt more positive habits in raising children and meeting their needs," stated Shaffer, by placing conditions on the assistance.

Parents, Teachers, Administrators Hold Maryland 2000 Town Meeting

Local parents, teachers, administrators and concerned citizens met last Thursday evening at Southern High School to discuss state and local education reform. This Maryland 2000/-Garrett County 2000 Town Meeting was one of many that took place throughout the state last week to discuss community involvement within Maryland's Schools for Success initiative.

America 2000: An Education Strategy, a comprehensive long-range educational plan, was announced last April by President Bush. The strategy was designed to move the country toward the six National Education Goals established during the February 1990 education summit held by Bush and the governors of each state.

According to information released by the U.S. Department of Education, "America 2000 is a national strategy, not a federal program. It honors local control, relies on local initiative, affirms states and localities as the senior partners in paying for education, and recognizes the private sector as a vital partner, too."

Maryland 2000 sprang from this national strategy. Maryland's Goals for Public Education, Success for All Students, were adopted by the state board of education in May 1990. The Garrett County Board of Education has since developed its own set of goals for Maryland 2000/Garrett County 2000 Schools for Success initiative. Goals will be listed at the end of this article.

Three charter schools within the county have been established for the implementation of school-based instructional decision-making and management. This is the first stage of Maryland 2000/Garrett County 2000. The schools are Broad Ford Elementary School, Southern

MSP Charge Corriganville Man In Connection With Fatal Mishap

A Corriganville man has been charged in connection with a fatal accident on December 26, 1991, near Grantsville, that claimed the life of 26-year-old Shari E. Rizer.

David Randall Conner, 27, has been charged with manslaughter by automobile, homicide while intoxicated, making a false statement to police, driving on a revoked Maryland license, driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, and driving while on a court order restricting the use of alcohol, according to investigating officer, Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski.

Conner is being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond imposed by Garrett County District Court Judge Jack R. Turney at a bond hearing Monday.

Rizer and Conner were both traveling in a 1976 Jeep that crossed the center line on the Meyersdale Road near U.S. Rt. 40, struck a tree, and overturned.

Following the accident, Rizer was found to have been partially ejected from the passenger side of the vehicle, although Conner allegedly told police that Rizer had been driving the vehicle. Rizer was flown to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter where she was pronounced dead. Another passenger in the vehicle, Gregory E. Newman, 35, Grantsville, was also taken to Memorial where he was treated and released. There was reportedly another passenger in the vehicle at the time of the accident, although no name or condition was given by police.

SKIS STOLEN

In other state police news, Troy Palmer, Baltimore, reported to police this week that his Rossignol 770 black snow skis with Solomon 757 bindings were stolen on Saturday at the Wisp Ski Resort.

Police are reminding skiers to either stay with or lock up their skis when not in use to cut down on thefts of skis.

VANDALISM NOTED

Tfc. Scott MacLane is investigating the report of damage done to several vending machines located at the rest area on Interstate 68 at Friendsville.

The damage was reported on Sunday by CRH Catering Co., Cumberland, owner of the machines.

OVER 50 AND FAST - Dr. William Pope, Mtn. Lake Park, proved once again Saturday that an older athlete, with proper preparation, can compete with the best of the younger generations, as he skated his way to victory in the cross-country ski race held Saturday at Herrington Manor State Park. Competing in the 50 and over division, Pope recorded a time of 28 minutes, 53 seconds to edge Greg Moore by six seconds. Moore, also pictured above, was the winner of the age 35-49 division. See story for a list of all the winners.

Found Guilty In Circuit Court

Murder suspect, John Thanos, 42, Joppa was found guilty, Friday, of two counts of first degree murder in the deaths of two Middle River teenagers. Thanos could be sentenced to death, life imprisonment without parole, or life imprisonment, which carries the possibility of parole.

Garrett County Circuit Court has remained in session all this week for the jury to determine Thanos' sentence. Yesterday, Thanos gave a 35-minute talk to the jurors about why he shouldn't get the death penalty.

It took the jury less than 40 minutes to find Thanos guilty of the deaths of William Winebrenner, 16 and Melody Pistorio, 14.

Baltimore County Deputy State's Attorney Sue Shenning, is seeking the death penalty, because the crime involves more than one death, and was committed during an armed robbery.

Thanos allegedly murdered the two teenagers after robbing them at a Big Red Mini-Mart in Middle River, on September 3, 1990. He was charged with two counts of first degree murder, robbery with a deadly weapon, and one count of using a handgun to commit a felony.

Defense Attorney James McCarthy Jr. never disputed Thanos' guilt, although he feels that the suspect's past of child abuse has contributed to his actions.

The murders occurred after Thanos was released from the Eastern Correctional Institution in Somerset County, 543 days early due to a clerical error.

Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer presided over the court proceedings.

Byron To Help With Adventure Sports Institute

During her meeting last week with Garrett Community College (GCC) officials, Sixth District Congresswoman Beverly Byron expressed great interest in the U.S. Canoe & Kayak Team Olympic Trials, to be held at Savage River in May, and the Adventure Sports Institute, to be officially opened during the weekend of the trials.

Byron has agreed to help recruit nationally prominent persons to become members of the Executive Council for the Adventure Sports Institute and to host the first meeting of such a group in Washington, D.C., in the near future.

During the meeting Garrett Community College president Dr. Steve Herman, and former Maryland State Senator John Bambacus presented information about the Olympic Trials being hosted by GCC and the Adventure Sports Institute, developed

Growth Bill Would Require Garrett To Establish County-Wide Zoning

Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson informed the Garrett County Commissioners this week that state legislation is being drafted that would result in the necessary adoption and implementation of a county-wide zoning ordinance as a way of protecting sensitive land and water areas.

Nelson reported that the legislation, entitled "The Economic Growth and Resource Act of 1992," has not yet been assigned a number and has not been introduced to the Maryland General Assembly. According to Nelson, the bill is in "its most recent stage of evolution and is characterized as a consensus bill."

The bill is being developed by The Maryland Office of State Planning, Maryland Association of Counties and the summer legislative subcommittee assigned to study the issue of growth control in Maryland. District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards is a member of that subcommittee.

Nelson noted that this year's bill mainly addresses the protection of sensitive areas which include steep slopes, streams and their buffers, endangered and threatened species habitat, and 100-year floodplains. Garrett County, however, already has a plan in place to protect floodplains, and wetlands are being addressed on the state and federal level as well.

Nelson explained that although the bill does not specifically direct the county to establish county-wide zoning, its purpose is to protect sensitive areas through the mechanism of amended zoning ordinances. Since Garrett County is the only jurisdiction in Maryland without county-wide zoning, the bill's premise is that zoning ordinances are already in place.

"The bill will impact Garrett County more than any other jurisdiction in the state," said Nelson, since a county-wide zoning ordinance would have to be developed and in place within the timetable written in the bill. The bill specifies that on or before July 1, 1997 local jurisdictions shall implement the provisions of the bill.

The bill does allow, however, that identification of sensitive areas and limitations on growth and development would be accomplished at the local level, with assistance from state and independent agencies for guidelines. For instance, the Natural Heritage program would be used for guidelines in dealing with endangered and threatened species habitats.

Nelson noted that he would attempt to get further interpretations on the bill from state planning officials.

The bill is being offered as an alternative to last year's "Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act of 1991" which received a significant amount of opposition from local jurisdictions and legislators.

Four Family Members Hurt In Tuesday Mishap

Four members of a Friendsville family were injured Tuesday in a two-vehicle accident that occurred on U.S. Rt. 219, south of the Blue Ribbon Road, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Marsha House, 19, remained listed in "stable" condition Wednesday afternoon at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, according to a hospital spokeswoman. Joseph House, 28, and Christina House, 4 months, remained listed in "satisfactory" condition Wednesday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, according to a nursing services spokeswoman. Cory House, 2, was treated and released at the local hospital.

The four were injured when Mr. House, traveling south, attempted to make a left turn into Valley View Country Store in the vehicle he was operating. His vehicle was struck broadside by a northbound pickup truck operated by Ralph E. Arnold, 54, Oakland. Mr. Arnold was reportedly not injured in the 3:45 p.m. mishap.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched Southern Rescue Squad personnel and Oakland volunteer firefighters to the scene. Ms. House was flown to Memorial in Cumberland by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter.

Charges are pending, according to police.

THREE TREATED

Three persons were treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, following a two-vehicle collision Saturday afternoon on U.S. Rt. 40.

Debbie Beall, 19, Holly Beall, 17, and Joshua Crowe, infant, all from Oldtown, and all passengers in a 1989 Chevrolet Cavalier operated by Thomas W. Crowe, 20, Oldtown, were treated for minor injuries following the 3:15 p.m. mishap.

According to state police reports, the accident occurred when Crowe was rounding a curve and the vehicle continued straight and struck a 1989 International State Highway Truck, operated by Terrell C. Frazee, 49, Friendsville. Frazee was plowing snow and traveling east at the time of the mishap.

Tfc. J.W. Hare investigated and charged Crowe with failure to drive right of center.

The injured were transported to the hospital by the Frostburg Ambulance Service.

INJURED EXTRICATED - Southern Garrett Rescue Squad personnel and Oakland volunteer firefighters worked for nearly 45 minutes Tuesday afternoon to extricate Marsha House, 19, Friendsville, from a wrecked vehicle on U.S. Rt. 219, south of the Blue Ribbon Road. Mrs. House remains hospitalized at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, in the high level care unit and was listed in "stable" condition late Wednesday, according to a hospital spokeswoman. House and three other family members were injured when their vehicle attempted to make a left turn into Valley View Country Store and was struck by a pickup operated by Ralph E. Arnold, 54, Oakland, who was not injured. The driver of the other vehicle, Joseph W. House, 28, and Christina House, 4 months, were both hospitalized at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and were listed in "satisfactory" condition late Wednesday. Cory House, 2, was treated and released at the local hospital. Police said charges are pending against House as a result of the 3:45 p.m. mishap. Once extracted from the vehicle, Marsha House was flown to Memorial by the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter.

GCC President Tells Trustee Board Adventure Sports Inst. "Moving Ahead"

Garrett Community College President Dr. Stephen Herman told the Board of Trustees at a meeting on Tuesday, January 21, that the Adventure Sports Institute is "moving ahead."

The Adventure Sports Institute will conceivably help the college (so often besieged by funding cuts) become more self-supporting as well as offer degree programs in adventure sports areas so popular in Garrett County.

The State Board for Community Colleges has approved the degree program and it has been sent to the Maryland Higher Education Commission for approval, although indicators say there will be no problem with approval.

During the meeting, Dr. Herman spoke about the benefits of such an institute and how it would enhance the economy and ecology of the area. He also reminded the board of the possible financial benefits the college could render.

GCC will sponsor and coordinate the Olympic Trials slated on the Savage River in mid-May and is seeking cooperation from local businesses to provide a class-act festival atmosphere.

The formal announcement of the institute will be made on site at the Olympic Trials.

ENROLLMENT REPORT

Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell informed the trustees that enrollment was down slightly from last year for the winter intersession courses.

Dr. Mitchell said the final head count this year was 79 with FTE's (full-time equivalencies) being 6.1. Last year's head count was 85, representing 7.63 FTE.

Enrollment, thus far, for the spring semester is 530 as of January 20, which equates to 184.9 FTE. Dr. Mitchell noted that although the head count is down slightly, the FTE is up by 8.63, representing more full time students enrolled at the college. She said that 23 sections are currently filled and that there may be a surge in enrollment since registration does not end until January 30.

PLACHTA RESIGNS

Dr. Mitchell also informed the board that Beverly Plachta recently resigned her position as director of the Resort Management program. She stated that Sam Butler, already employed by the college, will be taking over that position until a decision is made to either discontinue the program as a credit offering or to continue the program as a non-credit or certificate program.

The board approved Plachta's resignation and the interim appointment of Butler.

ACCLAIM REPORT

The dean then reported on her recent trip to Raleigh, N.C. for participation in ACCLAIM (Academy of Community College Leadership Advancement, Innovation, and Modeling).

She stated that the focus of ACCLAIM was to provide community colleges with more community-based programs. "While we are already a community-based college, we could be more so," stated Dr. Mitchell.

Maryland's pilot community colleges will be Baltimore and Charles County community colleges. Workshops will be conducted for faculty and administrators as well as community persons.

ACCLAIM will meet twice a year at North Carolina State University at no cost to the colleges participating in the program.

AG MANAGEMENT

Along with the Adventure Sports Institute, the State Board for Community Colleges has approved an Agricultural Management Technology Program for Garrett Community College.

Dr. Herman explained that the college is only $30,000 away from starting the program at the college. He said that funding must come from external sources to get the program off the ground.

The program is in conjunction with the University of Maryland, which will provide the curriculum for the program.

INSTRUCTOR WELCOMED

Also at last Tuesday's board meeting, trustees were introduced to Pramod Kapoor, instructor of accounting, computer, and business courses.

Kapoor hails from India where he received his bachelor's degree. He worked for an accounting firm in India before coming to the United States. He studied at the University of Minnesota where he obtained a bachelor of accounting degree as well as his MBA. He then taught at schools in Iowa and Minnesota.

Dr Mitchell told the board that Mr. Kapoor has been "well-received" by the students. "They tell me he is a very caring instructor and that's what we're looking for," she stated.

OTHER REPORTS

In other board news, Chairman Charles "Bus" Bender reported that he had attended a meeting in December of the newly formed Maryland Association of Community Colleges. He also stated that he and Dr. Herman had attended a meeting of community college board chairs and presidents. He said those two groups will now be working together rather than separately as in the past.

Herman requested that the board give its permission to have representatives act in the board's behalf at state meetings. The board empowered Bender and Herman to act on its behalf.

It was also noted that Dr. Mitchell represented GCC at the recent Governor's Reception in Annapolis in conjunction with Maryland Higher Education Week. She said Governor William D. Schaefer did not attend as he was at a Day Care Center with President George Bush.

It was announced that approval had been given by the Middle States Association on the report of the college's management information system.

GCSO Probes Theft Totalling Over $2,000

The GCSO is currently conducting an investigation into a breaking, entering and theft that resulted in over a $2,000 loss to a local resident.

Dfc Feller investigated an incident at the Clifford Welch residence on the Spring Glade Road. The suspect(s) entered a storage building and removed an Echo Gas powered drill, a Shindiawa 550 chain saw, a reciprocating saw, and a 3/8 Craftsman drill. The suspect(s) then entered the residence and removed a Remington .222 rifle and a Savage .22 Mag/20 gauge. The total estimated loss is $2,130.00. The investigation is continuing.

Dr. Joseph Smith, Thousand Acres, reported a breaking, entering, and theft at his residence on January 25. The incident occurred sometime between January 5 and 25. Taken in the theft were a Homelite chainsaw, a Homelite leaf blower, and a Sony portable stereo. Dfc Feller is investigating the incident.

In other Sheriff's Office news, Roger D. Lightner, 20, Oakland, was served a warrant Thursday for harassment and two counts of trespassing on private property. Lightner resisted arrest by attempting to flee. At that time he was charged with two counts of resisting arrest with an alcohol violation. Lightner was incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail, and later released on $500 bond.

Dep. Green was the arresting officer.

Tracy L. Bennett, 24, Friendsville, was served a warrant for bad checks totalling $910 at Arrowhead Grocery Inc. Dep. McLaughlin served the warrant to Bennett in Garrett County Jail, where she is being held on numerous other charges.

Michael R. Guthrie, 26, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was served a bench warrant on January 16, by Dep. McLaughlin for failure to appear in court.

Dep. J.L. Green served a bench warrant on Monday, to Gary L. Baker, 31, Grantsville, for failure to appear in court.

"Ski" Police Recover Stolen Ski Equipment

A registration and communication system established this year for the purpose of foiling ski thieves is apparently working, according to management at the Wisp Ski Resort. Maryland State Police Trooper Paul R. Brown reported the recovery of three pairs of skis stolen several weeks ago at Wisp.

Serial number of the equipment had been registered by the Maryland State Police and forwarded to Rudy's Ski Shop. The equipment was subsequently discovered outside Rudy's Ski Shop at the Wisp the morning of January 23.

The owners of the equipment have been notified and their equipment has been returned. While the thieves have not yet been apprehended, the investigation continues and there are leads in the case which are being followed.

So far this ski season, four individuals have been arrested for theft of ski equipment.

Southern Rescue Auxiliary Planned

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad is planning to organize an auxiliary branch, the members of which will be called upon to assist and support the squad, primarily in areas of fund-raising and special events. Persons interested in learning more about the organization may contact Ann Smith at 334-3559.

Sex Offender Sentenced In Circuit Court

Christopher J. Oldham, 20, Eglon, W.Va., was sentenced to one year in Garrett County Jail (all was suspended but time served, 194 days), and two years supervised probation, for fourth degree sex offense against a four year old female.

Under conditions of Oldham's probation he must attend substance abuse rehabilitation, have no contact with victim, absolute abstinence from alcohol and CDS (controlled dangerous substance), seek employment and remain employed, and pay the victim's family $35 for hospital expenses.

Oldham was originally charged on September 16, 1991, with unnatural and perverted sex practices, second degree sex offense, third degree sex offense, and assault and battery. The charges stem from two incidents which allegedly occurred between June and July 1989 at the defendant's residence on the Bethlehem Road.

In a hearing on December 5, 1991, before Judge Fred A. Thayer, a plea agreement was filed. The defendant pleaded guilty to third degree sex offense if amended to fourth degree sex offense. A plea of guilty was then accepted by Judge Thayer.

John R. Toston represented Oldham in this case.

Byron To Help

cooperatively with Frostburg State University. Bambacus and Tom Finan, business consultant, each commented on the "significantly positive" impact these efforts will have on the Western Maryland region.

Bambacus then introduced GCC persons who are filling key roles: Don Storck, chairperson for the Olympic Trials and executive director of the Adventure Sports Institute; Joan Crawford, promotion chairperson for the Olympic Trials; and Anna Maria Williamson, who is developing Adventure Sports Tour packages to attract visitors to the trials.

Dr. Herman noted that the Adventure Sports Institute will capitalize on the natural resources of this area in promoting healthful outdoor recreation for all ages." He briefly outlined the five major functions of the institute. The first of these, education, will be served through the two new academic programs in adventure sports being offered at Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University. Non-credit offerings of the institute will include seminars, workshops, and conferences. The research and development function will be served through a coalition of higher education institutions that will provide service to manufacturers of adventure sports equipment.

Another function of the institute will be to provide a home for the Adventure Sports associations and to publish a quarterly journal as a communication link for the various associations and participants. The fifth function of the institute, as outlined by Dr. Herman, will be to hold a year-round schedule of events and competitions for adventure sports enthusiasts.

"I am very pleased that Congresswoman Byron has taken time from her busy schedule to become part of our efforts to build a major new Adventure Sports Institute in Garrett County, and am delighted that she has agreed to host the initial meeting of the Executive Council in Washington," stated Herman, adding, "I am looking forward to working with her on this project in the future."

Commissioners

Those conditions include requiring parents to make certain their children are attending school on a regular basis and that all important medical appointments are kept. If those conditions are not met, the family would be penalized by receiving less assistance.

A bonus, however, would be given to those recipient families whose members have annual physical exams.

The total impact on the programs will not be known, said Shaffer, until the plan is finalized.

Economic Development

In other news from the commissioners' office this week, Garrett County Economic Development Director Tom Jones informed the commissioners that the Garrett County Development Corporation is sponsoring an application to the Farmers Home Administration to "obtain a pool of funding to make available to expanding and new businesses," stated Jones.

Jones explained that the application was made because of the dwindling funds now available from state and federal programs for the small business, and noted that the financing would complement bank and private financing resources.

The $600,000 application was made "to induce banks to make loans they wouldn't otherwise," said Jones, adding that it is aimed primarily at manufacturing businesses.

OCYF Report

Garrett County Office for Children, Youth and Families Director Bob Stephens reported to the commissioners that his office is "on-line in meeting its proposed goals." With the completion of the organization process, the office is now a legitimate agency, he added.

A semi-annual report of activities through December 1991 was presented to the commissioners at the staff meeting. The report outlines the agency's missions and goals.

According to the report, the overall mission states, "The mission of the OCYF in Garrett County is to promote a stable, safe, healthy environment for children and families thereby increasing self-sufficiency and promoting family preservation."

The board of directors has also begun strategic planning and expects to finalize a plan which would establish policy direction for children's services in Garrett County this spring.

The service includes a "family preservation unit" unique to Garrett County, which Stephens says is "vital" to the county.

Health Dept. Update

Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer told the commissioners that the Health Department budget is balanced "everywhere except in Mental Health." He also noted that another six percent cut may be coming from the state. If that happens, he said, the agency will be operating in Fiscal Year 1993 on one-half the amount it operated on in Fiscal Year 1991.

He did note, however, that "we could compensate for that loss by obtaining grants that are available on a competitive basis," and explained that behavioral risk factors in Garrett County might result in the health department being in a favorable position for those grants.

Edgar Harman, Environmental Health Director, stated that monitoring of the water quality of Deep Creek Lake has revealed that quality to be "very good bacteriologically."

He noted that a problem still exists at Cherry Creek with acid mine discharge but that the Bureau of Mines is currently working on efforts to neutralize the water there.

Not Guilty

Tasker had been arrested when he became involved in a fight at the Deer Park establishment on December 19, 1991. He reportedly left when asked to do so by management and then returned with a loaded shotgun and pointed it at Lawrence Ford.

Edward D. Shuttleworth, 26, Deer Park, was found guilty of possession of marijuana. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Charges of possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia, and maintaining a common nuisance against Jane L. Bennett, 24, Oakland, were not prosecuted. Charges of drug paraphernalia possession and maintaining a common nuisance against Shuttleworth were also not prosecuted.

Both had been charged by the Narcotics Task Force after a search and seizure warrant was executed at a Crellin residence. The couple had been dropping off the owner of the house that had just been searched. Shuttleworth gave permission for the car to be searched and police found marijuana seeds throughout the vehicle and a marijuana cigarette butt in the ashtray. A metal pipe that was still warm was found by the driver's door on the ground by the vehicle.

William E. Schreck, 23, Deer Park, was found guilty of assault and resisting arrest. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Schreck had been arrested by the Narcotics Task Force on December 19 when they executed a search and seizure warrant at a residence in Mtn. Lake Park. Schreck had been ordered to lie on the floor with four other individuals. Everyone obeyed but him. Police forced him to the ground and he then refused to be handcuffed and continued to struggle.

Donna L. DeWitt, 25, Oakland, was found guilty of battery and resisting arrest and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered back in November. At her sentencing last week she was handed a 30-day suspended jail term, fined $25, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

A third charge of being disorderly in a public place was not prosecuted. She had been arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on August 24 when deputies were called to a fight on the Oakland-Rosedale Road.

SENTENCE REVISIONS

Two persons had their earlier sentences revised by the judge last week.

Darlah L. Shipley, 21, Connellsville, Pa., who had been found guilty of possession of drugs and possession of drug paraphernalia, had her sentence changed to probation before judgment.

She had initially been handed a 90-day suspended jail term, fined a total of $150, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. Two additional charges of possession of drugs and removing required labels from prescription drugs were not prosecuted at her initial trial.

Shipley had been a passenger in a vehicle that had been stopped for a routine traffic violation on June 26 by the Maryland State Police. A search of the vehicle revealed marijuana cigarettes, cocaine, and various drug paraphernalia.

Nellie I. Keck, 29, Hagerstown, had her guilty verdict for battery and resisting arrest revised to probation before judgment last week.

Keck had initially been found guilty of both counts on September 17, 1991, and given a six-month suspended jail term, fined a total of $300, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Keck's attorney contended that her punishment was more severe than others found guilty in the same court for the same charges.

She had been arrested by the Maryland State Police on June 28, 1991, after she grabbed the keys from a car police were attempting to impound, scratched an officer's hand and resisted being placed in handcuffs.

In Loving Memory of our parents on their birthday's
Bessie and Porter Jordan

A part of us went with you the day God called you home.
Now to your grave we travel,
The flowers we place with care,
But no one knows the heartache,
as we turn and leave you there.
When the family gets together,
there is two we fail to see.
Our hearts are filled with sadness thinking of how it used to be.
So many times we needed you,
so many times we've cried.
If love could have saved you,
you never would have died.
God, we know your arms are around them and they know no suffering there.
The flowers we place upon your graves may wither and decay,
But the love for the ones who sleep beneath, will never pass away.

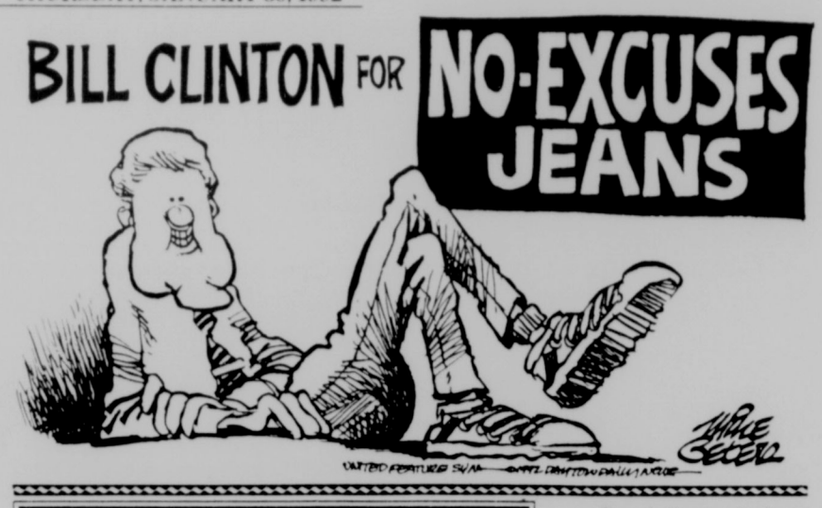
Breath of Fresh Air...

Foremost on nearly everyone's mind these days is the nation's economy and its present state of recession. While there is a wide range of opinions on just how serious the recession is overall, there is no question that a significant number of individuals and businesses are in serious trouble. Certainly the economy will be the single major issue in this year's presidential campaign. As expected, it was a primary topic in President Bush's State of the Union address Tuesday night.

Budgetary woes and financial crunches are no strangers to Garrett County, as county commissioners and agencies must struggle with them every day in an attempt to somehow make ends meet. Much of the news generated concerning the Garrett County Board of Education, for example, is related to funding problems.

The proposed solutions to the crisis, both on a national and local level, are as numerous and as complicated as the reasons people believe the economy is in such a recession. However, the purpose of this column today is not to suggest or expound upon who is to blame or what the solutions might be. Most of us, frankly, are extremely weary of hearing about it.



Instead, we wish to commend a group of local youngsters who recently completed a special project in school that not only contributed significantly to their school's resources, but also to their own individual horizons. We refer to the 115 students of Dennett Road School who participated in the Partners in Excellence (PIE) program, sponsored by World Book Encyclopedia.

By reading books and obtaining sponsors for their efforts, the students earned over $2,250, half of which was then matched by World Book, bringing the total to just under $3,400. With those funds, the school purchased a two-volume World Book dictionary, six 15-volume sets of Childcraft, nine World Book student dictionaries, five World Book atlases, nine science desk references, nine science desk references for teachers, one Early World of Learning supplement, and one eight-volume World Book Encyclopedia of Science set.

The outstanding efforts of these young people, and the willingness of the sponsors to support them, is such a breath of fresh air in the midst of such economic gloom. This project did not involve selling candy or magazines or cheap merchandise. It was a genuine "learning while earning" effort that benefitted the school, as well as the 115 individual children whose knowledge and wisdom were expanded as they journeyed through more than 1,000 books.

Thank you, teachers of Dennett Road, and thank you especially, students of Dennett Road, for being so eager and diligent in completing such a fine project and adding to the resources of your school that will benefit many hundreds of future Dennett Road students.

You have also demonstrated that we should not depend entirely on our government to solve our financial difficulties.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

My husband and I are writing this letter in the wake of a thrilling and overwhelming event in our lives--the birth of our first child. Our son was born on Friday, January 17, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and we feel compelled to express our gratitude to the hospital's OB department for the excellent care we received there.

Because of special circumstances, our baby was born by Cesarean Section. The surgery was expertly performed by Dr. Karl Schwalm with Dr. Todd Tritch assisting. Dr. Schwalm kept us up-to-date and fully aware of both my condition and the baby's throughout our stay, which was appreciated.

The surgery, of course, meant that we needed extra care, and the attention we were given by the OB nurses and nursing assistants was wonderful. The women who work there certainly represent an array of personalities, from verbal and boisterous to mild and quiet. But no matter the personality, every single nurse and assistant gave both baby Robert and me constant care. They came when I needed them, helped me get situated to hold him, and offered lots of advice on every aspect of mothering. One amused nighttime nurse even had to quietly convince a very groggy and sleepy new mom (me) that yes, I did too have a baby, and he was ready to eat. They all obviously cared a great deal about every mother and every little baby on the floor. I felt safe and knew that my child was in the best place he could be.

My husband was also treated with the utmost respect and courtesy by everyone on the staff. He was made to feel as comfortable as possible at all times, and truly considers every staff member a new friend.

Even after our discharge from the hospital, we were assured that we could call the OB department any time to ask questions about our newborn. It's comforting to know that kind assistance is a simple phone call away. We would like to name every one of them, but we may forget someone, and they all helped make our stay as comfortable as possible.

We Garrett Countians are truly fortunate to have such a competent, professional, and giving OB staff, in addition to talented and concerned physicians. If you are pregnant or planning a pregnancy, we feel sure that you will find no better place to bring your baby into the world than Garrett Memorial.

Sincerely,
Mary, John, and Robert McEwen

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to last week's article regarding attempts made by DNR officials to educate our commissioners about the inadvisability of a proposed bear hunting season.

Commissioner Butscher was quoted as saying, "This is the first I've heard from anyone being against the bear season." Let mine be the second voice against such a proposal.

Ms. Butscher noted that her constituents "have indicated to me they want this." I have no doubts that many in this community would like the opportunity to shoot their guns at any living thing all year round. It is precisely this unchecked greed which has left us with a planet where extinction of hundreds of species has become the norm.

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle

Editor's note: Accident

The writer of the following letter to Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer requested that it appear in this column.

To Delegate Edwards and Senator Hafer:

I urge you both to introduce and support legislation regarding tobacco products in at least the following three areas:

a. Education of the hazards, especially to children and those with chronic lung disease, of tobacco smoke and smokeless tobacco. Evidence is mounting that sidestream tobacco smoke is more harmful to those around the smoker than to the one who is smoking. Tobacco smoke contains over 4,000 chemicals, 43 of which were identified as carcinogens in the Surgeon General's 1989 Report. These pollutants receive more scrutiny from EPA if they are emitted from industry smokestacks and run-off pipes. Moreover, because children's respiratory systems are much smaller than those of adults, children of parents who smoke suffer more respiratory infections and miss more school than those of nonsmoking parents. Further, according to the American Heart Association, children are at greater risk for coronary heart disease if they smoke or chew tobacco or inhale their parents' smoke. Parents especially need to be made aware of these hazards.

b. Increase prevention efforts in order to keep children and youth from starting to smoke or chew. The tobacco industry spends millions on advertising that uses attractive models and popular merchandise to make tobacco use look inviting. Also, access to vending machines needs to be restricted so that those 18 and under cannot use them. Last, consider following Iowa's lead -- that state made it illegal for minors to possess, smoke or chew tobacco. The tobacco industry says, of course, that it does not want children and youth to smoke, but most smoking adults actually began the habit when they were under age.

c. Regulation/controls on where tobacco can and cannot be used. Smokers' rights have prevailed long enough. It's time to recognize that their rights end at the eyes, nose and mouth of nonsmokers. It's time to protect anyone who objects to smoke, particularly those with chronic lung disease.

Incidentally, some local merchants and restaurateurs would like to see smoking banned in their establishments entirely, but because there is no law or ordinance to fall back on, they feel they don't have a right to tell smokers not to smoke there.

In summary, it's time Maryland recognizes that tobacco smoke is more than just an irritant. It is a major indoor pollutant and a health hazard to all.

Oakland

To the Editor:

Upon learning of the Commissioners' desire that a bear season was absolutely necessary this year, I felt I might give my opinion on the matter.

First of all, I am a former technician who was involved with the DNR's initial trapping efforts back in 1987. I spent two years working hands-on with these amazing animals before deciding that public service was not my calling. I have since taken the role of being a dairy farmer, and enjoy it very much.

But the one thing I miss most about my state job is the great people I worked with. Among these people were Ed Golden and Tom Mathews. There were many more, but Ed and Tom were very much involved in the program. Many times they would take a day and ride with me on my daily rounds. There were baits to put out, baits to check, traps to check, and so on. I was impressed by these actions, for many times the boss just says "go do it." But not Ed and Tom. They would get just as much suet, grease, and molasses on themselves as I would.

One thing I learned while working with bears is to trust your co-worker. You HAD to! When in close contact with these animals, you soon learned the meaning of the word respect. These animals had the opportunity to hurt someone if they were pushed or threatened, but I never once felt threatened by a bear. I had to trust the people I was working with, many times Tom Mathews and Ed Golden.

I guess what I'm trying to say is that the county commissioners should listen more closely to the people who are the most familiar with these animals. They were, after all, trained in this field of expertise.

Thank you,
Jeff Bender

To the Editor:

After reading numerous letters each week related to school bus stops and the safety of our children it appears that parents are suggesting that only the supervisor of transportation has the authority to exercise safety in the transportation of our children to and from school. Not so. As a parent and a bus driver, I find this totally unjust. Have you ever given careful thought to how much time it takes to stop and start a bus, or the actual time involved for children to board and disembark from a school bus exercising the proper procedures? Or have you ever been one of those disgusted parents following a school bus to school while on your way to work, and cursing everytime you have to make a stop? But yet you request another and are filled with frustration because it isn't granted.

I'm not suggesting that any of these parents are not concerned for their child's safety, I'm well aware that they are. But you as a parent must execute responsibility also. As a bus driver, I have parked many times at Southern Middle School where buses form a double line waiting for students to board, and at the same time witnessed vehicles operated by parents picking up their children, driving directly between these buses in spaces so narrow they often can't squeeze their car through, knowing this is a restricted area to begin with during the designated time

An Update From The Superintendent

Director of Elementary Education

SCHOOL ENRICHMENT PROGRAM

The Garrett County School Enrichment Program provides opportunities for elementary students to become more greatly involved with learning activities which require higher level thinking. These opportunities are provided by three school enrichment teachers who work closely with the regular classroom teachers. The program is extremely important in helping Garrett County students work toward the very high goals established by the Maryland School Performance Program.

Students in kindergarten, first, and second grades are generally served in the regular classroom. The school enrichment teacher shares ideas and resources with the regular classroom teacher to provide enrichment activities.

At the third grade level, the school enrichment teachers work directly in the classroom with approximately 20 teachers and their students to focus on the development of thinking skills and research techniques. Following the in-class work, small groups of students may work in the resource room on further enrichment activities.

Students at grades four and five, as well as sixth, seventh and eighth grade students at Bloomington and Swan Meadow, are eligible to become part of a talent pool to work with the school enrichment teacher on a regularly scheduled basis. This school year approximately 130 students are being served in this way.

In addition, students in grade three or above may be referred by teachers to work on an activity in which they become an actual investigator of a real problem or topic of individual interest. Examples of these activities might include: the production of a filmstrip based on student-authored stories or student research; an animal study and creation of a booklet and diorama; the writing and illustration of a book, etc.

As an outgrowth of this program and dependent on continued state funding support, a Garrett County Summer Center Enrichment Program will be offered to students during the summer who will be entering grades 4 or 5 in September, 1992. Five one-week courses will be offered: Creativity and the Arts, The Computer as a mathematical Problem Solving Tool, Environmental Experiences, Garrett County: Historical and Geographic Perspectives, and Instrumental Music Instruction.

More specific information regarding this exciting project will be available through the elementary schools by April.

What's happening in our schools this week?

*With the grading period ending this week we are now half way through the 1991-92 school year. Friday, February 7, will be a half day for students (noon dismissal) with the afternoon available for parents to discuss student progress with parents.

*On Tuesday, February 4, all ninth grade students in the county will be given the Maryland Citizenship Test - pass of this test is a graduate requirement in the State of Maryland.

*One of the most interesting activities occurring each day in our elementary schools takes place at the Grantsville Elementary School. There the school morning news is broadcast to the entire school body via the in-school television distribution system. Mr. Michael Warne, one of the fourth grade teachers, has worked for the past seven years with students on this program.

The Garrett County Schools Update can be heard each week on WMSG Radio at 8:35 a.m. each Monday, WXIE Radio at 8:30 a.m. each Saturday, and at 3:30 p.m. each Saturday on WAIJ Radio.

Health Alert On Smoking

GARRETT COUNTY MARYLAND HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Remember when smoking was glamorous? Movie stars, musicians, singers, and sports stars smoked in cigarette ads in the fabulous forties and fifties, and the world followed their lead. Today we know the facts. Smoking isn't glamorous; it can cause lung cancer and other cancers, respiratory diseases, stroke and heart disease. In short, smoking shortens life.

According to Dr. Rex D. Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, "Some lifelong smokers would like to quit but aren't sure they can give it up after so many years. The fact is, it's never too late to quit, and age is not a determining factor in whether or not you're successful."

Dr. Archer also said, "Other lifelong smokers are not convinced it will make any difference if they do stop smoking. The truth is, people who quit -- even after smoking for decades -- experience health benefits. It does make a difference.

The National Council on Aging has developed a quiz to help smokers think about whether or not they're ready to give up smoking. Circle the answer for each question that best states your feelings about the described situations.

1. When I light up in public places and strangers move away from me, I feel:
   A. It's their problem, not mine.
   b. Somewhat uncomfortable.
   c. Very uncomfortable.
2. When I buy cigarettes, I usually feel:
   a. Glad I remembered to get them.
   b. Vaguely uneasy and wish I could quit.
   c. I shouldn't waste my money on them.
3. When I see "Thank You For Not Smoking" signs I usually:
   a. Find them irritating or ignore them.
   b. Guess they're a good idea.
   c. Wish I weren't a smoker.
4. If my doctor says "quit," my reaction is:
   a. We all have to die sooner or later.
   b. It's a good idea -- someday I'll quit.
   c. I wish I could find a way to stop!

If most of your answers are C's, you feel pretty bad about smoking. You should try to quit smoking, and ask family and friends for some support. With some refocusing, all of that energy going into feeling guilty could help you quit.

If most of your answers are B's, you seem to be questioning smoking but need a reason to quit. Consider the benefits of not smoking. With support from family, friends, and others trying to kick the habit, you could enjoy those benefits.

If most of your answers are A's, then although it sounds like you don't want to quit, are you being honest with yourself about the risks? Why not make the most of your lifetime? It's never too late to stop smoking.

If you would like information on how to quit smoking, please contact one of the following organizations: American Cancer Society, 111 S. George Street, Cumberland, MD 21502, 301-722-2145; American Heart Association, P.O. Box 1114, Cumberland, MD 21501, 301-334-5865; American Lung Association, 11 Columbia Street, Cumberland, MD 21502, 800-222-9974; or the Wellness Together Program, 301-334-2155.

Also, information on quitting will be available from the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition at the town meeting tonight at 7 p.m., at Southern High School, Oakland. Everyone is invited to attend.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

America's Health Care Crisis

The health care study, adopted by the 1990 League of Women Voters (LWV) convention, reflects a broad desire for the league to examine policies for the funding and delivery of health care in the United States. Members will examine the current status and consider alternatives as they study this major policy issue facing the United States in the 1990's. The National Health Care Consensus will be turned in from all local leagues on February 10.

Fact: The United States spends nearly 12 percent of its gross national product on health care in the industrialized world.

Fact: The United States infant mortality rate is one of the highest among the industrialized countries of the world.

Fact: An estimated 37 million Americans currently have no medical insurance.

Fact: Medicare now costs $105.4 billion a year, but pays less than half the health care costs for Americans over 65. Last year, Medicaid, at a cost of $70 billion, covered only 38 percent of the nation's poor.

Fact: Administrative costs absorb up to 22 percent of personal health care cost.

Fact: Children in low income families accounted for 43.9 percent of all Medicaid recipients in 1989 but only for 12.6 percent of all payments.

More information may be obtained about America's health care crisis by contacting The League of Women Voters, 1730 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036-4587 (phone: 202-429-1965) or 202 East Alder Street, Oakland, MD. 21550 (phone: 301-334-1109).

clearly posted by signs. Why? Because it is much more convenient to park directly in front of the school as opposed to using the rear lot as school personnel request in the form of a letter sent home with each pupil, just as it is more convenient to have the bus stop directly in front of your house, as opposed to providing the proper parental guidance and responsibility of making sure your child boards his/her bus safely.

Each student receives a policy handbook annually regarding transportation procedures as well as handbooks related to attendance policy, code of conduct, etc. The contents of these handbooks provide valuable information with answers to many questions. As a parent I encourage you to read them very carefully. I assure you that all rules are made for a purpose, and in these cases, are designed to ensure your child's safety. I for one, cannot believe that there is one administrator, educator, or parent in this county who would voluntarily risk the life of our children. So if it is essential for your child to board the bus at a location other than his/her residence, why don't you or whoever supervises your child in the event of your absence, take the time to escort your child to the bus and let's all exercise safety together?

Sincerely,
Betty Brown

P.S. As I said, I do have children, and, no, they do not board the bus at our home.

To the Editor:

I am writing to commend all of the citizens and Richard Thomas for speaking out against Mike Sines and members of the Board of Education. It is time more of us voice our concerns. After all, it affects us and our families.

Some friends and I feel that there is another matter that the public has a right to know -- the Board of Education; whose side are they on? Definitely not the teachers', bus contractors', or for the safety of the children. I for one don't believe they earn these hugh salaries for not even doing the job they were elected or appointed to do.

Budget cuts! We've all heard about budget cuts. Here is a good example of how dirty they can be or they take it out on certain people. This year the bus contractors' routes were re-evaluated. Well, a few routes were cut tremendously and some contractors took quite a drop in pay. When the transportation department was confronted, these were some of the outlandish reasons given: 1. "We need to cut back on dead miles" (starting point of route to first pick-up.) But now the new bus is running more miles than the previous driver did. 2. "We had to cut the people with more than one bus." But some only have one bus. Other family members have one, but under separate contracts.

Some people don't realize the jobs and responsibility these drivers have. For instance, they have the safety of our children in their hands every school day. On Friday, Jan. 24, it wasn't safe for anyone to be out, let alone expect these drivers to transport children with zero percent visibility. No one should be put in that position.

Just two weeks ago, our bus driver was contacted about another change in his route. Several of our children are now changing buses for the fourth time since the beginning of this school year. We were contacted by the driver, not the transportation department, but when I called them I was told that the bus was over-loaded. Then why wait until the school year is half over to remedy that problem?

Also I was told that if I would have notified them before Thursday, maybe something could have been worked out. But not finding out until Friday, how was I supposed to let them know? It would have been different if they would have had the courtesy to contact us themselves instead of the driver.

I then asked our driver about it and he said, "No, I'm almost full, but not over-loaded." So here is how they cut budgets. They make another paying route, put a county bus on the route, and hire a driver. This was after the previous driver was cut over $500 a month and told that there were too many buses in that area. So why is it right that they put a county bus on when he could have had that route, unless there was a personal vendetta involved?

Why are these injustices being done and why do the board members approve such issues? Why do this to bus contractors and innocent children? They are so confused; after four buses they don't know which one to ride. They've even been left at school, but this was due to the so-called expert in the transportation department who makes $56,785 plus a year. He seems to thrive on having authority, but giving no satisfaction.

We as taxpayers have the right to have a school board that works towards the benefit of the contractors, children, and teachers. I'm not saying go against the board policies or laws, but for heaven sakes follow them to the extent they were designed for.

Speak out and support Richard Thomas.

To the Editor:

I am writing in concern of the new bus stop on White Rock Road, Friendsville.

I have a 4-year-old daughter who just started pre-K this year. There has been a bus stop here for over 17 years, and now Michael Sines is changing the stop.

My daughter has to walk along a very dangerous road over 500 feet. I feel this is too far for a 4-year-old to have to walk under these conditions.

I informed Mike Sines of this and I told him that the road was not safe for an adult to walk on, let alone a little child. There are coal trucks, semi-trucks, and other vehicles that travel up and down this road from early in the morning until late at night.

After the above was explained to Mr. Sines, his response was "it is not his concern or responsibility how my daughter got to the bus." If he is neither concerned or responsible for the safety of children going to school, then who is, besides the parents? What is his job?

I would like to see Mike Sines let his children walk on this road and not be concerned about their safety.

I feel that since Mike Sines is not concerned about the children's safety, then he should resign and save the Board of Education the embarrassment of having to fire him. We need someone who is concerned about the children and not just scheming to get more for themselves!

Sincerely,
Connie Sisler

To the Editor:

In response to the letter written by Shari Boylen to warn the citizens of Garrett County she was wrong, in my opinion, she should be warning the citizens of the whole state, since he is a state trooper and not a county deputy. The Internal Affairs Unit not only received her claim of the trooper's misconduct, but from others also. It appears that her claim was the only one thoroughly investigated. There were far more serious allegations against the trooper that seemed to get either "whitewashed or not as thoroughly investigated" as promised.

There are others here in Garrett County who know the story, some afraid to get involved and others who have just given up since the investigation first started in September, 1990. I am hoping that these citizens write to Governor Schaefer and Colonel Elmer Tippett of the Maryland State Police.

There can never be a compromise between illegal or abhorrent behavior of a law officer if we want "justice for all."

To the Editor:

The weekend of April 4-5 will kick-off the 1992 Super Cities Walk for multiple sclerosis hosted by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. Over 300 sites across the country will be joining in effort to raise $20 million in funds for support of local programs and services for those with MS, and worldwide research to find a cause, treatment and cure.

On Sunday, April 5, 1992, the Maryland Chapter will hold six metro site walks in Towson, Annapolis, Columbia, Frederick, Salisbury and Aberdeen. Three additional volunteer driver community walk sites are also scheduled in LaPlata, Cambridge, and Oakland. We anticipate 5,000 walkers statewide.

Our goal is to raise $350,000 for MS. These funds would be used in part to fund services within the community such as: equipment loans, counseling, informational and referral, transportation, respite care, activity programs, educational materials and programs, therapeutic recreation, and MS clinics.

Participants of the walk will enjoy a full day of fun while helping those in need. Two years ago I participated in the Super Cities Walk in Annapolis. This year I will be walking in our own town of Oakland. I am hoping that local people will be supportive of this endeavor in trying to help those less fortunate than ourselves. For those who are not aware of it, Garrett County now has its own MS Support Group. These individuals are working very hard to find a cure for their disease and lend support to each other. Let's try to help them in whatever way we can and show our support in fighting this terrible disease.

Those who care to support me in this endeavor may send their contributions made payable to Multiple Sclerosis and mail to me at 216 N. 12th Street, Oakland, MD 21550, by March 1, 1992. Your continued support is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Betsy J. Colaw

To the Editor:

I am a student at Broad Ford Elementary School. I will be a member of the Smoke Free graduating class of 2000. Kids in this class have promised not to smoke.

Smoking is a real problem for me. I have asthma. I have attended an asthma summer camp to learn how to handle my illness. One of the important things I learned is to recognize and avoid triggers. Triggers are things that can send us in to an attack. One of the most serious triggers is smoking. Sometimes it is very difficult to avoid cigarette smoke.

It is important for people to stop smoking. A town meeting for a tobacco-free community will be held in Oakland tonight (Jan. 30). I hope a lot of people will become involved so we can all breathe a little better.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to parents in the Finzel area requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Ms. Bolden, Gaumer, and Swick,

Thank you very much for your letter concerning outgoing transfer of Garrett County students for Finzel and Bloomington areas. We appreciate the opportunity for community debate concerning the education funds that are used to subsidize the Allegany County system.

Our concern is that the per-pupil cost for 147 students of $272,000 (147 x $1,829), plus the state contribution of $249,000 (147 x $1,700), plus the federal contribution of $191,000 (147 x $1,300), is revenue that could be used in the Garrett County system to offset educational expenses for all students. The total dollar figure lost from the Garrett County Board of Education because of outgoing transfer is $712,000 ($4,843 x 147). Consider that this has been going on for more than 20 years and you will see the great expense of this practice.

We believe that we have the facilities and the teaching staff to adequately

NATIONAL BOY SCOUTS WEEK, FEBRUARY 2-8

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROJECTS

"EATING OUT"

CAMPING

BUILDING PIONEER BRIDGES

National Boy Scout Week is coming! In fact, it will be here next week (Feb. 2-8), and the Deep Creek District of the Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, in cooperation with The Republican newspaper, wishes to take the opportunity to explain how the Scouting movement began, its purposes, goals, and philosophies in the next two issues of the newspaper. Photographs this week feature activities of local Boy Scouts, while photos next will feature the activities of local Cub Scouts.

Because it is Boy Scout Week, we will present the following information using the days of the week as sub-titles. The information was compiled and written by Paul Shogren, Potomac District member and assistant scoutmaster.

SUNDAY

Duty to God - Scouts spend a lot of time outdoors, enjoying it and wanting to take care of it, believing that God created the world for all generations to use and not destroy. Scouts respect the fact that human beings come in all sizes, shapes, and colors, and represent a variety of religions. They learn to have respect for all people, all of whom are created by God. This attitude fits appropriately with the month of February, which is Black History Month. Scout Sunday (Feb. 2) is also Race Relations Sunday.

Notice the large number of religious awards which Scouts can earn according to their faith. Scouts come from many denominations, including Roman Catholic and various Protestant churches, Eastern Orthodox, Islamic, Zoroastrianism, Latter Day Saints, Unitarian, and Jewish. God is not dead in Scouting; in fact, we never knew God was in trouble!

Scout Sunday is usually celebrated in various churches. All local scouts are invited to attend the special 10:45 a.m. service at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland (wear your uniform).

MONDAY

Duty to Youth - Our movement is the direct result of one man's genius, that of Lord Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden-Powell, of Gilwell (B-P for short!). While in the British Army he wrote a book on military scouting, Aids to Scouting, which became a favorite of British youth and their leaders. They wanted to become Scouts, join a patrol and troop, and practice scouting skills as the book proposed. The British Boy Scouts were organized between 1908-09.

Girls wanted to join in the game of Scouting as well, so B-P recruited his sister, Agnes, to organize the Girl Guides. Later, B-P's wife, Olave, became Chief Girl Guide.

Cub Scouting was organized later, using Rudyard Kipling's Jungle Book as material and symbolism for Cub activities.

Scouting exists world-wide, except where dictators rule. Scouting promotes independent thinking, stresses individual human rights, and supports a free society.

TUESDAY

Duty to the Future - Since 1909, world-wide Scouting has survived wars, depressions, and periods of oppression. Scouting went "underground" when communism took over Eastern Europe, the Baltic states, and the Ukraine. Immediately after the end of World War II in free Europe, displaced persons fleeing communism formed their own nationality of Scout Associations, e.g. Polish, Hungary, Estonia, et al. Those left behind kept Scouting alive underground all those years.

The recently freed nations sent Scouts to the 17th World Scout Jamboree in Korea last August. Where did the uniforms of the Polish, Czeckoslovakian, Hungarian, Latvian, Lithuanian, Estonian, and Ukrainian Scouts come from? They were hidden all those 40-80 years by Scouts who suffered through terms in prison or even death.

Scouting is expanding in Russia. B-P's dream of "a brotherhood among the young of every nation on the basis of their common membership in the human family" is spreading. Come join in the game of Scouting!

WEDNESDAY

Duty to Community - The object of Scouting is not merely to develop expert pinewood derby car makers or pioneer bridge builders. Our vision is that through the game of Scouting we prepare Scouts for citizenship in the community, country, and the world. We use the outdoors, dedicated volunteers and professional Scouters (adults), the ideals of "Be Prepared" and "Do a Good Turn Daily," and the Cub Scout Promise and Scout Law to bring this about.

B-P, after 30 years of soldiering, played the Scouting game of "Deerstalking" with the boys he took on that very first Scout Camp on Brownsea Island, off the south coast of England, in 1907. He wrote the following words after that camping experience: "The term Scouting has come to mean a system of training in citizenship, through games for boys and girls. The principles are the same for both. It is only the details that vary."

One of the community service projects all kinds of Scouts participate in is "Scouting for Food" in November of each year. The food collected goes to various service organizations, such as the House of Hope. Last year over a ton of food was collected in Garrett County.

Next week - Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

First United Declares Dividend

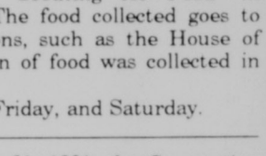
Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president, and chief executive officer of First United Corporation, reported that the Board of Directors declared a cash dividend at its meeting of January 8. The $.30 per share dividend will be paid on February 1, 1992, to shareholders of record as of January 23, 1992. The ex-dividend date will be January 17.

"I'm pleased to announce this quarterly dividend following the special dividend paid in December," Stanton said. "The February 1 dividend is an increase over the dividend paid for the same period in 1991, which was $.29 per share. This increase is a result of continued strong earnings in our fourth quarter."

First United Corporation recently announced an increase of 19.13% in cash dividends paid in 1991 over dividends paid 1990. Part of this increase is because of a special dividend of $.21 per share paid to shareholders on December 16, 1991. The total dividends paid to shareholders in 1991 was $1.37 per share.

First United Corporation's stock price remains steady, with a slight increase in 1991. The high ask price as of year-end 1991 was $31.00 per share as compared to $30.00 per share at year-end 1990. This reflects a 3.3% increase in the stock price.

First United Corporation, headquartered in Oakland, has two banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust and First United Bank of West Virginia, NA. As of December 31, 1991, the Corporation posted assets of $348.98 million, total deposits of $308.09 million, and capital resources of $36.17 million.



Missionary To Speak Monday At Nazarene Church

Rev. Stephen Rieder, veteran missionary in the Church of the Nazarene to Taiwan, will be at the Oakland Church of the Nazarene, Monday, February 10, at 7 p.m. to share the progress on his field.

Rev. Rieder is also a first cousin to the pastor's wife, Anita Knorpp.

All interested persons are invited to share in this missionary service. A free-will offering will be taken to help Rev. Rieder in his work.

Scouts In Action

Members of Boy Scout Troop 82, Accident, met with members of Troop 140, Salisbury, for an afternoon of fellowship last Sunday afternoon.

The scouts met at the Holiday Inn in Grantsville where they went swimming, studied life saving techniques in the water, and then worked to improve their knot tying skills. Scouts participating from Troop 140 were: Ken Wilt, Shawn Wilt, Shawn Wingard, Danny McKenzie, Joe Valo, Matt Deal and Scoutmaster Fred Haselbarth. Participating from Troop 82 were: Lee Collins, Jason Reed, Jeremy Reed, Aaron Miller, Tim Williamson, Scoutmaster Michael Reed and Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Miller.

SCOUTS PLAN DOG REGISTRY

Members of Girl Scout Troop 5522, Kitzmiller, are planning to compose a local registry for the identification of pet dogs. This is being done as a fund-raising project as well as a community project to help reduce the number of unwanted and lost dogs. It has the approval of the Garrett County Humane Society.

Persons wishing to register a dog should send $4 for an application to Girl Scout Troop 5522, P.O. Box 423, Kitzmiller, MD 21538. Persons may contact Rebecca DeWitt at 453-3375 for more information.

Alliance For Mentally Ill Hears Jantzi

A special program was presented January 26 to the "caring and sharing" group of the Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill by Karen Jantzi, R.N. M.S.N., who spoke regarding the role of the church in relation to those with mental illness and their family members.

Mrs. Jantzi is a psychiatric professional as well as a nurse instructor in Pennsylvania. She is also project director for Turning Point Ministries, a segment of the Mennonite Franconia Conference.

A video produced through the combined efforts of the Conference and Mrs. Jantzi depicted the trauma of mental illness on family members as well as the victims themselves, and addressed the too frequent lack of available support through clergy and members of the church family.

Education is the key, according to Jantzi, to breaking down the barriers built on fear and ignorance.

The Garrett County AMI is actively seeking contact from community members attempting to deal with mental illness alone. "The group offers a helping hand, someone to listen, and someone with whom to share the many fears surrounding depression, schizophrenia, and affective disorders," said an AMI spokesman.

"All AMI members have lived with the fears and pain and are more than willing to listen, share experiences and offer support to anyone who comes forward."

For further information, interested persons may contact 334-4357 or 895-5366 or write AMI of Garrett County, P.O. Box 733, Oakland, MD 21550.

PARTNERS IN EXCELLENCE - World Book Encyclopedia's Partners In Excellence (P.I.E.) Program was a huge success at Dennett Road Elementary School over the past few months. Dennett Road students took pledges from family and friends for reading the number of books they chose to read over a certain period of time and earned matching funds from World Book toward sets of encyclopedias. For every two dollars earned by the students, World Book contributed one dollar. The students earned $2,257.77 and World Book's match was $1,128.89. The grand total was $3,386.66. Mrs. Pat Bonafield's fifth grade class earned the Principal's Award by reading the greatest average number of books per student. World Book awarded them a free eight-volume set of The World Book Encyclopedia of Science. Both Mrs. Bonafield's and Joanne Rebele's fourth-grade class earned the new 1992 22-volume set of World Book Encyclopedias for their classrooms. Dennett Road teachers were also able to order one two-volume World Book Dictionary, six 15-volume sets of Childcraft, nine World Book Student Dictionaries, one Early World of Learning Supplement, one eight-volume World Book Encyclopedia of Science, five World Book Atlases, nine Science Desk References, and nine Science Desk References (teachers' resource). It was noted that 115 students participated in the program, 75 of whom read over 10 books and 14 of whom read over eight books. The two top readers were Becky Martin (22 books) from Donna Miller's Class and Brandon Proudfoot (21 books) in Beth Myers's class. The total number of books read was 1,065. DNR Says Winter Best Time For Debris Burning Landowners outside of incorporated towns who are interested in burning brush or debris are encouraged to take advantage of the winter weather the area is now experiencing, according to a spokesperson from the Maryland Forest, Park, and Wildlife Service.

According to Open Air Burning Regulations, Title 8, Department of Natural Resources, Subtitle .07, "burning may occur at any time when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met."

The open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodland and within 200 feet of woodland, or a flammable material that could carry fire to the woodland. There should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire and adequate personnel and equipment present to control the fire. The fire should be out cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners who wish to do open air burning while the ground is covered with snow should contact Garrett County Emergency Management at its non-emergency number, 334-1930, prior to burning to reduce the chances of one of the local volunteer fire companies being called out on a false alarm.

Goldstein Urges Committee To Reject Checkoffs

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein urged the state Senate Budget & Taxation Committee to continue allowing taxpayers to contribute to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund on their state income tax returns. He endorsed the legislation with the provision that no other tax checkoffs are authorized by the General Assembly.

The comptroller, appearing before the committee in Annapolis January 24, 1992, said adding additional checkoffs to tax forms in other states "has had the opposite effect from what the sponsors wanted. Additional checkoffs virtually always reduce the revenue raised," he said.

Goldstein said Maryland is among the most successful checkoffs in the nation, "because it supports the Bay and is the only contribution opportunity appearing on the income tax form." He noted that taxpayers have contributed more than $3.1 million over three years, with individual donations ranging up to $1,000 and coming from every area of the state. Donations came from taxpayers due refunds as well as those who owe additional tax with their returns.

Goldstein urged the committee to be wary of attempts at "backdoor budgeting" during the current tight budget situation, stressing the danger of additional tax checkoffs or excessive dedicated funds.

"The causes presented as benefitting from dedicated funding and additional voluntary checkoff are almost always laudable, but the results can be counterproductive," he said, pointing to the portion of corporation income tax revenue which was diverted from the general fund to the transportation trust fund in 1980 to avoid a motor fuel tax increase. "That revenue would have been enormously helpful in dealing with the state's financial situation over the past 18 months."

Goldstein stressed that adding more checkoffs to the income tax form would result in increased taxpayer anger and frustration because of the additional complexity they would add to the form. He also noted that the Maryland income tax form is currently being printed with the maximum number of lines possible to remain calibrated for use in computer printers and typewriters.

"Adding contribution opportunities to the front of the form would require additional lines in order to capture and account for the public's contributions. That requirement places any tax collection agency in an extremely difficult position," he said. "In Louisiana, for example, the tax form became so unwieldy with 12 checkoffs that all of them were repealed."

Lakers Fall To Baltimore And 11th-Ranked Trojans; Record 8-11

Facing two of their toughest opponents back to back, the Garrett Community College Lakers dropped a pair of Maryland JUCO Conference American Division games this week and saw their overall record dip to 8-11. Garrett was defeated by visiting Community College of Baltimore Saturday evening, 92-73, and by the nationally-ranked Allegany Community College Trojans last night, 84-62, in Cumberland.

Coach Dennis Gibson will take his team on the road for two more games this coming week with a contest at Essex CC this Saturday and at CC of Beaver County on Tuesday.

Six Baltimore CC players finished in double figures against the Lakers Saturday night at McHenry, as the Red Devils recorded their 16th win in 19 games.

The Lakers fell behind early, 16-3, and then cut the lead back to a single digit several times, but the Devils maintained the advantage throughout the game. After GCC closed the gap to 29-21, Baltimore moved back out to a 46-34 lead by halftime. The Lakers came within seven points twice in the second half, but could get no closer.

Leading the winners in scoring was Derrick Purnell with 18 points, followed by Warren Wright with 16, Brian Brooks with 13, Larry Lightener with 11, and Joseph Johnson and Cliff McCray with 10 apiece.

The Lakers also produced a balanced offensive effort, as five of them reached the double figure mark in scoring. Curtis Shepherd led the way with a game-high 19 points and nine assists. Fred Wilson netted 14, Scott Newman added 12, and Nick Gray and Ed Gerald each contributed 11. Gerald and Gray also recorded 13 and 12 points, respectively.

After getting some initial jitters out of the way last night against Allegany, currently ranked 11th in the country, the Lakers settled down and played reasonably well against the 22-2 Trojans. Garrett turned the ball over eight times in the first six minutes of the game and were down 10-2 at the 15:13 mark, but then went on a 10-3 run to take a brief lead, 13-12, with 10:15 left in the half.

ACC responded with an 11-0 burst to take a 23-13 advantage before a jumper by Garrett's Greg Carter and a pair of free throws by Nick Gray cut it back to six points late in the half. The Trojans pulled away again and held a 40-29 lead at halftime.

Allegany stretched its advantage to 15 points, 50-35, early in the second half and the Lakers never got any closer than 14 points the rest of the way.

Wilson paced the Lakers' scoring with 18 points, Gray netted 15, and Shepherd finished with 12 points and 12 assists.

Zain Shaw led the Trojans and all scorers as he poured in 26 points. Dennis Leonard and Robbie Howard netted 19 and 15 points, respectively. Leonard also handed out eight assists and Howard led in rebounding with 11.

The Lakers were outrebounded, 43-24.

Maryland's Catch, Release Award Program Begins

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Fishing in Maryland Magazine announce a conservation campaign, featuring Johnny Unitas as program spokesperson, for the 1992 Maryland Catch and Release Award Program, DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., said the conservation program promotes the awareness and merits of anglers who participate in the program when they release trophy-size fish, returning them live to Maryland waters.

Unitas, a former Baltimore Colt and Football Hall of Fame quarterback, emphasizes the importance of conservation in releasing fish alive. In lieu of keeping their catch, fishermen are encouraged to plan their fishing trips in Maryland waters by catching, photographing their catch and releasing their fish alive. These practices allow future generations to enjoy the bounty of Maryland waters.

Fishing in Maryland, the co-sponsor of the program, will donate funds to environmental programs derived from the sales of their 1992 magazine issues that are bought through the catch and release program.

Details of the program's citation, arm patch awards and the eligible species listing are available from DNR's Maryland Sportfishing Tournament Office (800) 688-FINS or in Fishing in Maryland.

Huskies Crush Elk Garden For Eighth Victory

The Northern High Huskies recorded their eighth win in 14 games this season Tuesday night by rolling over visiting Elk Garden, 76-28.

Rob Speicher, Dave Hinebaugh, and Jon Houser paced the Huskies' offense as they finished with 14, 13, and 12 points, respectively. Coach Harv Speicher's team was never threatened by the visitors, as the Huskies held a 17-6 lead at the end of the first quarter, a 37-14 advantage at halftime, and a 47-21 margin after three periods. The home team added icing to the victory by out-scoring the Stags in the final period, 29-7.

Hinebaugh also grabbed 10 rebounds, dished out five assists, and had four steals. Doug Brenneman and Mike Fike each pulled eight rebounds.

Leading the 1-8 Stags in scoring was Mike Burdock with 12 points, while Mike Lyons netted 11.

The Huskies were scheduled to play Flintstone last Friday, but the game was postponed until Feb. 25 because of inclement weather. Northern will host Union this Friday.

Rams' Victory Streak Halted By Number Two Bishop Walsh, 40-37

The nearly perfect season of the Southern High Rams was jolted Tuesday night in Cumberland, as the number one ranked team in the area was edged by Bishop Walsh, the second ranked squad, 40-37. The defeat dropped the Rams to 10-2, but they came back last night to whip visiting Petersburg, 84-63, in a make-up game (see separate story).

The BW defensive effort was successful in all but shutting down Southern's Brett Rice, the area's leading scorer, as the senior forward was held to just six points, or 21 points below his average. Rice managed to connect on only three of 15 shots from the floor and never had an opportunity at the foul line.

Coach Tom Bosley and the Rams responded with an almost equally effective defensive performance to keep the contest close throughout. The Rams had an opportunity to send the game into overtime, but Britten Martin's three-point attempt from the corner bounced off the rim at the buzzer, giving the Spartans their 12th win in 16 starts. The victory also avenged a 19-point loss to the Rams in Oakland earlier this season.

Southern jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the early going on buckets by Mike Duling and Martin, but the Spartans responded by recording 14 of the next 18 points to take a 14-8 lead by the end of the first period.

The Rams went on a 7-0 run early in the second stanza to take a 19-18 lead and were on top at halftime, 23-21.

Rice was held scoreless the entire second half, except for a single bucket with just 50 seconds remaining in the game. Bishop Walsh took the lead early in the third quarter, 25-23, and the best the Rams could do the rest of the way was tie the score at 31 with 1:12 remaining in the third period. Greg Clucas, who finished with a game-high 13 points, gave the Spartans a 34-31 lead with a three-point shot to close the third period.

Most of the fourth period was defense, however BW led by as many as five points, 40-35, with about 1:30 remaining. The Rams were forced to foul and the Spartans blew two opportunities to put the game away as they missed on the front end of one-and-one situations twice with 30 and 28 seconds remaining.

The Rams cut the lead to three, 40-37, after the first Spartan miss at the line, and set up for the final shot after the second miss, but Martin's shot would not fall.

Also reaching double figures for the Spartans was Rick Wallace with 12 points. He also pulled down a game-high nine rebounds.

Leading the Rams were Martin with 11 points and nine rebounds and Duling with 10 points.

A 26-point performance by Mark Elliott highlighted the preliminary game, as the Southern junior varsity topped the BW jayvees, 49-42. James Elliott netted 11 for Bishop Walsh.

Rams Rebound From Loss To Defeat Vikings

After dropping a close contest to number two ranked Bishop Walsh Tuesday night (see separate story), the Southern Rams jumped back into the win column last night to whip Petersburg, 84-63, in Oakland.

Brett Rice, who was held to just six points by the Spartans the previous evening, came back to lead the Rams once again by scoring his average of 26 points. Jeremy Bosley recorded 15 points and seven assists, Mike Duling finished with 14 points, and Dave Kurtz netted 13 and grabbed seven rebounds.

Rice recorded all but four of his points in the first half when the Rams held comfortable leads of 14-7 and 37-15 at the quarters. They were on top 57-35 at the end of the third period.

Leading the 4-8 Vikings was Chad Cooper, who collected 18 points, while Jason Franz added 11.

The Southern junior varsity edged the Petersburg jayvees in the preliminary, 48-44, as Mark Elliott led the Rams with 25 points. It was the ninth win in 11 games for the Southern jayvees. Wes Alt paced the Vikings with 14 points.

The 11-2 Rams will host Allegany this Friday.

The tournament is a year-round program offering citations and patches to anglers who catch trophy-size fish that meet or exceed established weights. The tournament is open free to all participants who fish in Maryland's waters throughout this calendar year.

Entry blanks are available at weigh stations in tackle shops, marinas and many other locations throughout the state.

Winning anglers who catch the largest fish in each category will be awarded plaques at the end of each year's tournament.

Northern Girls Whip Fort Hill; Top Flintstone

The Northern High girls' varsity whipped host Fort Hill Monday evening, 45-35, behind a 26-point, 18-rebound effort by Rebecca Fratz, and then defeated host Flintstone last night, 40-33. Coach Harv Speicher's team, which has won 10 of its 14 games, will take on Mount Savage on the road Monday evening.

The Huskies maintained the lead over the Sentinels throughout the contest, holding an 8-4 advantage at the end of the first quarter, a 24-10 lead at intermission, and a 36-21 margin after three periods.

Frantz netted nine field goals and eight of 14 free throws for her total, as she recorded 16 of her points in the first half.

Kara Goldsworthy was the only Sentinel to reach double figures with 15 points. She also grabbed a team-high 10 rebounds.

In the preliminary contest, the Northern junior varsity was defeated by the Fort Hill jayvees, 30-16. Stephanie Kamp netted half of the Huskies' points, while Krista Smith finished with 13 for the winners.

Stephanie Thomas was the only varsity Husky to reach double figures last night against the Flintstone Aggies, as she finished with 12 points. Fratz added nine points and Cara Wachter contributed eight.

After the Huskies went out to an 11-8 lead by the end of the first quarter, they fell behind in the second stanza and were down 22-16 by halftime. The also trailed after three quarters, 31-26, but the Aggies got into serious foul trouble in the fourth quarter and had to play the final two minutes of the game with just four players. Coach Harv Speicher and the Huskies took advantage of the situation and out-scored the host team 14-2 in the final quarter to record the win.

Beth Hoopengardner led Flintstone with 11 points, while Annette Bridges and Denne Logue each finished with eight.

The Northern junior varsity was also victorious again, topping the Aggie jayvees, 31-21, behind an 11-point effort by Laura Younkin. Nikki Martin scored six for Flintstone.

Rams Capture Three Titles, Three Runners-Up In PVC Tournament

As a team the Southern Rams placed fourth out of six teams in the annual Potomac Valley Conference Wrestling Tournament, held Saturday at Berkeley Springs. However, the individual members of Coach Terry Kendall's undermanned team represented their school in impressive style in the round-robin tourney, as three of them won championship titles and three others finished second.

The Rams concluded the event with a 2-3 mark behind Berkeley Springs, 5-0; Frankfort, 4-1; and Keyser, 3-2. Petersburg placed fifth with a 1-4 mark, while Musselman finished sixth at 0-5.

Rams winning the title in their respective weight classes were Jason Burgess (119), Pete Strawser (125), and Jason Rush (130). All finished 5-0 on the day, with Rush recording four pins and a decision, Strawser winning on four pins and a technical fall, and Burgess recording two pins, two decisions, and a technical fall.

Winning runner-up titles for Southern were Gary Sweitzer (112), Shane Skipper (140), and Sonny Livengood (152), who all finished the day with 4-1 personal records.

Southern's Mike DeWitt was on his way to a top finish also, but an injury forced him out of the event after he had won his first two matches.

The Rams lost only three matches in the entire tournament, but had to forfeit numerous events because of a lack of numbers. The Rams defeated Petersburg, 35-30, and Musselman, 42-29. They lost to Berkeley Springs, 45-25; Keyser, 36-34; and Frankfort, 45-29.

The Rams competed again Tuesday evening at home against Berlin and, once again, because of having to award so many forfeits, lost the match, 46-27. Berlin won eight matches, seven of which were by forfeit.

Skipper and Livengood each won by pin for the Rams, Rush earned a decision, and Strawser and Burgess each won by default.

The only Berlin victory on the mat was by Greg Cornell, who decisioned Mike DeWitt in the 135-pound bout.

The Rams will host Allegany this evening at 7:30 p.m.

Laker Women Fall To Harford, ACC, Baltimore

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team continued to struggle this past week, dropping games to Harford CC on Friday, 48-41, to the Community College of Baltimore on Saturday, 53-45, and to a strong Allegany Community College team on Tuesday, 64-58.

The Lakers, who are now 2-8 on the season with a 2-7 JUCO mark, will play again this Friday at Essex CC.

Kathy Gibson led the Lakers in scoring against Harford Friday as she recorded 14 points, while Larua Dougherty and Chris Warfield netted 15 and 11 points, respectively, for Harford.

Garrett trailed at halftime, 20-12, and were outrebounded in the contest, 39-34. Kenyatta Brown had 10 grabs for the Lakers, while Gibson pulled down nine.

Heather Shepherd paced the Lakers in their effort against Baltimore in McHenry Saturday, as she scored 13 points, blocked four shots, and recorded four steals. Brown finished with 11 points and 11 rebounds and Tracy Dawson was credited with three assists.

Garrett trailed by only four points at halftime, 22-18, and cut the Devils' lead to just one point midway through the second half, 38-37. But Baltimore scored the next 11 points to make it 49-37.

The Lakers came back again and cut the margin to three points with about five minutes left, but they could get no closer.

Yetisha Mackey led the Devils with 22 points and Monica Dailey hit 13. Kimberly Hunsucker pulled down a dozen rebounds.

Against the 13-3 Allegany Trojans, the Lakers quickly found themselves down 10-0 in the early moments of the game, but they came back to cut the margin to five points late in the first half. They were behind 29-19 at halftime.

Most of the winning margin was recorded at the foul line, where the Trojans made good on 19 of 24 free throws, while the Lakers connected on nine of 12 opportunities.

The Trojans out-gunned the Lakers from the floor by only one field goal, 24-23.

Kelly Shatzer paced the winners by recording 15 points, 20 rebounds, and three steals. Michelle Clise added 16 points.

Dawson and Brown led the Lakers' offense with 14 point apiece, while Gibson finished with 13 points, 17 rebounds, and three assists.

Rebecca Few Completes First Season As Laker

Rebecca L. Few, a student at Garrett Community College, recently completed her first season on the Laker volleyball squad. While a student at Southern High School, Rebecca played under the direction of Coaches Helen Rostosky and Sue Snyder. She recorded the most season kills and was named Most Valuable Player.

A veteran hitter, Ms. Few assumed a dual role at Garrett, according to GCC Coach Margaret Quinn. She became the second setter for the Laker squad. She compiled 89% service, 84% attack, and 73% set accuracy. "I look for Becca's experience and ability to provide a strong nucleus for next year's squad," remarked Coach Quinn.

Rebecca is the daughter of Robert and Lois Few and is majoring in office technology at Garrett Community College.

To the Editor:

At the Annual Convention of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women the following resolution was enthusiastically and unanimously passed:

"Be it resolved that the Maryland Federation of Republican Women, representing well over 3,000 Maryland women, strongly protests the recent budgetary decisions of Governor William Donald Schaefer. The governor's proposals are nothing more than an attempt to blackmail the General Assembly, forcing it to enact tax increases to restore essential state spending. There has been no serious effort by Maryland elected officials to eliminate pork barrel programs. Starting with two (2) new stadiums in Baltimore. The governor's spending reduction proposals are irresponsible and politically motivated. Marylanders deserve better from their leaders. The MFRW is dedicated to helping to elect responsible leaders in forthcoming elections. The MFRW hopes the General Assembly will act more responsibly than Governor Schaefer."

This resolution is as relevant today as in October when it was passed. The governor has now given the General Assembly a plan for additional taxes to balance the budget rather than a plan for reductions in state spending. Government spending is based on the revenue generated by income, sales and property taxes, during the cyclical slowing of the economy our elected representatives must adjust government spending to match their income, not tax people already having a hard time making the family budget balance.

As members of a MFRW unit club we urge all citizens to write their Delegates and Senator expressing their disapproval of the proposed new taxes. The MFRW is committed to the principles of responsible government.

Thank you,
Carolyn J. Ganoe,
President

Women's Club

To the Editor:

We write this letter in concern over the more open and tolerated expression of occultism and Satanism in our area.

Occultism comes in many forms. Some seem rather innocent, such as fortune-telling, horoscopes, water witching, tarot cards, ouija boards. Occultism is more intense in activities of spiritualism, such as channeling crystal power, seances, Transcendental Meditation (TM), astral projection, and the belief in reincarnation. Psychic phenomena such as extrasensory perception (ESP), spoon bending, and levitation are also a part of occultism.

Magic is the strongest expression of occultism. In voodoo and witchcraft, of either the white or black magic varieties, one experiences the use of and being used by evil spirits.

Satanism is also known in our community. Some people dabble in the powers of Satan through music, movies and games that focus on evil. Interest in Satan is more intense in the self-styled Satanist who establishes a personal shrine and self-designed rituals. The religious worship of Satan has attracted numbers of people nationwide into circles of Satanic practices. Evidences of these practices have been talked about in our community.

Occultism and Satanism are real. We do not deny this, but want to state the truth clearly. Occultism and Satanism are a trap into which anyone can fall. As followers of Jesus Christ, we claim the greatest power in the universe.

While we oppose occultic and Satanic practice, we wish to follow our Lord's command to love one another. We do not endorse ostracism or physical retribution against anyone. Therefore we condemn occultism and Satanism, but wish to embrace, in Christ's love, those involved in such activities.

We are asking the Christian churches of the Casselman Valley to join us in the following:

1. Be devoted to prayer opposing occultic and Satanic activities in our community;

2. Be devoted to love of children and youth of our community;

3. Be devoted, as congregations, to declaring our total reliance on our Savior, Jesus Christ.

Signed,
The Pastors of
The Casselman Valley
Ministers Assoc.

Yoga Classes To Be Offered

Local resident Dave Martin will be offering free yoga classes throughout the month of February, on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m., at Wi-Hinape Natural Food Store in Friendsville.

According to Martin, the class will begin with conventional yoga exercises, "using the slower stretching methods at first to release tension and gain flexibility in the ligaments."

Martin also stated, "In addition to the conventional yoga, I will be adding the most powerful forms available -- one per class. This unique form is a simple series of forward and backward twisting motions controlled by sustained slow, continuous breathing, and the results are instant."

The three main areas of concentration are the neck, the lower back and between the shoulders.

educate these students in our system. If the 1990-1991 referendum would have passed, it would have added classrooms and facilities to Northern High School and completely renovated Southern High School for all Garrett County students.

The Garrett County Board of Education attempts to allow each student an equal opportunity for a quality education, and during more profitable times, this sum of money would never be questioned. However, times are difficult and on December 5, 1991, during the Garrett County Federation of Teachers legislative reception, Delegate George Edwards said, "We must expect a leaner and meaner government and all government services must be examined." We agree. At a time when those of us in education are making a sincere effort to solve monetary problems associated with educating the youth of Garrett County, we believe returning Garrett County children to Garrett County schools is part of the solution to this concern.

The Garrett County system needs to call on every resource available to allow it to afford an equal opportunity to those who choose to be educated in Garrett County. The prospect of additional revenue could reduce cuts already made or postpone some in the future.

We understand the hardships that might be created. Long bus rides, and long commutes for activities and conferences, are things that many current Garrett Countians have endured for years because they choose to live in a rural setting and realize these disadvantages. Just talk to the students from Kitzmiller who travel more than 20 miles to school.

You choose to live in Garrett County and yet expect county funds to pay for your children's education in Allegany County. Our educational budget can only afford so much. When adequate programs, staff, and supply cuts are weighed against items such as outgoing transfer, the budget knife has to slice appropriately.

Sincerely,
Joe Heatherman,
President
Garrett County

of Teachers

Middle School and Southern High School.

School-based management means that School Improvement Committees, headed by the principals of each school, will be responsible for instructional and managerial decisions. The committees are made up of educators, parents and other local citizens. The individual school committees will be integrated into a Southern Area 2000 Steering Committee, which will meet in April, September and January.

According to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, the above schools were chosen for three reasons. First, the schools would have the most significant impact on Garrett County education because they are each the largest of their type in the county. Second, the schools are closely tied together, all feeding one into another. Third, each of the communities involved with these schools has the potential to make a significant difference in the operation of these schools.

Presently 101 charter schools have been designated throughout the state.

When asked about when the northern end of the county would become involved in the initiative, Ryscavage explained the northern schools are scheduled to participate in Schools for Success next January.

Al Ringer, assistant superintendent of instructional services, outlined the state's Schools for Success program and some of the ways in which it would impact the county's educational system.

In his opening remarks Ringer stated, "Education always reflects society and society's state of affairs. We can't solve all of our social problems and there is no panacea for our schools either. It takes parents, it takes members of the community, it takes everyone working together."

Ringer spoke of the importance of continuing staff development, noting that it is usually one of the first areas attacked during budget cuts. "You can't teach today as you taught 20 years ago. You can't administer today as you could even five years ago. If you do you're a dinosaur, you're doomed for extinction."

Ringer also noted the need for a computerized management informational system for each student.

Schools for Success also promotes integrated learning, a student's application of knowledge from one subject area to that of another.

Annual performance reports from each charter school will also be incorporated into Schools for Success.

One aspect of Schools for Success Ringer considers "revolutionary" is school-based instructional decision-making and management. Until now, local schools have had county based decision-making and management.

The state superintendent of schools has proposed fifteen strategies to help Maryland reach the state goals for the year 2000. These are not yet mandated, but are concepts to be evaluated and debated by citizens, educators and state legislators. They are as follows:

1. Extend the school year to 200 days.
2. Pre-kindergarten education for all eligible disadvantaged children.
3. Mandatory kindergarten attendance.
4. Early intervention services for at-risk children and families.
5. Compulsory school attendance to age 18 or high school graduation.
6. Maryland School Performance Program: Challenge Grants and Schools of the Future.
7. Computer-assisted instruction: one computer for every 10 students.
8. Revised high school graduation requirements: eliminate general course of study.
9. Flexible school organization to accommodate employed students.
10. Improved student performance in mathematics, science and technology.
11. Quality teaching and school-based administration.
12. Drug-Free Schools Program.
13. Parental involvement.
14. Literacy Works.
15. Equitable funding.

Ringer briefly discussed the proposed new graduation requirements and the proposed administration of competency tests in grade seven rather than grade nine. The proposed new high school requirements would eliminate the general course of study. Every student would either be enrolled in college preparatory or technology preparatory curriculum. Courses such as Basic English and General English would thus be eliminated.

All students would be required to learn algebra and geometry, "a big change" according to Ringer.

The proposed new graduation requirements also state that all science classes must be laboratory classes.

Seventy-five clock hours of community service would also be required.

Ringer has estimated that the new requirements would cost at least $304,400 to implement. He stated that this is an extremely conservative estimate.

Dr. Frank Windsor, acting assistant state superintendent of the state Department of Education's Office of Communications and Special Projects, also spoke at the Town Meeting. He addressed the current state of Maryland's finances, the Maryland State Department of Education budget and the impacts of these upon the local school system.

According to Windsor, the state economy has seen a sudden shift in the last few years. Previously the state's industries were 55% goods and 45% services. That is now reversed, with 45% goods and 55% services. A service economy has less revenue from sales taxes and lower salaries yield less revenue from personal income taxes.

In addition to this, layoffs have placed large burdens on the state's social service costs. Windsor cited Medicaid as an example of this.

For the first time in 25 years, Maryland state employees will not receive any raises, including cost-of-living raises, and state employees are being laid off.

The state is anticipating another $1.2 billion shortfall again next year. Governor William Donald Schaefer has proposed two budgets in light of the current situation. The first includes $500 million in tax cuts and $700 million in new taxes. The second proposition would call for $1.2 billion in budget cuts and no new taxes.

Windsor stated that Schaefer did, however, recommend that the Action Plan for Education Excellence (APEX) be fully funded this year.

According to Windsor the Maryland Department of Education submitted seven priorities to the state:

1. Challenge Grants--the department requests that $33.2 million be allocated for these. The governor could target this amount out of the APEX money. The grants would be given to the schools with the poorest performance records.
2. Regional Training Center--$1.2 million has been requested for this staff development endeavor.
3. Management Information Systems--$600,000 has been requested for resources with which to analyze data.
4. Pre-kindergarten--$6.6 million has been requested to fund this program geared toward disadvantaged children.
5. Math/Science technology--$400,000 has been requested to improve these programs.
6. Maryland Tomorrow Program
7. Purchase of computers--$9.5 million has been requested.

Windsor urged those present to contact their state legislators and ask them to target revenue from tax increases to education.

Windsor discussed funding equity. The local school board, along with many Garrett County citizens have actively lobbied for funding equity. Ryscavage and former school board president Beverly Sines-Murphy have travelled to Hagerstown and Annapolis on numerous occasions to voice their support of programs such as APEX.

Windsor urged local citizens to continue this fight. He stated, for example, that the state funds 100 percent of all teachers retirement and social security. Garrett County teachers, having proportionately lower salaries, are getting a smaller percentage of this money. Windsor stated that some counties do not need this and that the richest counties are receiving a disproportionate share of these monies. He suggested calling representatives from all counties, not just Garrett, to lobby for this type of equity.

Dr. Ryscavage discussed community involvement at the Town Meeting, explaining the function of the Southern Area 2000 Steering Committee.

According to Ryscavage, members of the committee will examine reports and plan improvements. They will be supported by the various school improvement teams.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Roth of Horse Shoe Run are announcing the birth of their third child, a son, born January 19 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. His birth weight was eight pounds, two ounces, and the name chosen is Michael Ryan. Welcoming him home were his brother, Matthew Alan, and his sister, Heather Dawn.

Mrs. Roth, the former Robin Helmick, is the daughter of Robert and Letha Helmick. Sam and Helen Roth are the paternal grandparents and Bernice Winters is the great-grandmother. All reside in Horse Shoe Run.

A son, their first child, was born Sunday, January 26 at 1:20 p.m. to Jerry and Jeannie Myers of Oakland. Named Benjamin Alan, he weighed six pounds, 15½ ounces at birth in Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt of Mt. Lake Park are the maternal grandparents. Ben and Opal Myers of Aurora are the paternal grandparents. Great-grandmothers are Marie Schmidt of Swanton and Mary Shields of Rowlesburg.

PERSONAL MENTION

Marguerite Myers returned last Wednesday to her home in Aurora from Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for the past week.

Tom McMillen returned Thursday last week to his home in Rowlesburg after being a patient in Garrett Memorial for six weeks when his incision failed to heal following surgery.

A surprise birthday party Sunday afternoon in Kingwood honored Don Wotring. The affair was planned by his son and family, Ron and Lou Wotring, and attended by friends from many areas.

A family dinner in the home of Gary and Fran Roth, Aurora, on Sunday honored their daughter, Lauren, who on Saturday observed her sixth birthday. Attending were her brothers, Chris and Jason, grandmothers, Elizabeth Loughrie, Ron and Avenell Parsons, and other family members: Dennis, Janice and Wesley Loughrie, Bruce, Mary, Shawn and Craig Rembold, Bill, Sandra, Wade, Joe and Beth Hauser.

Although other churches in the area canceled Sunday service because of the drifting snow, Maple Spring Church of the Brethren at Eglon did hold its regular Sunday School and morning worship. The week's stormy weather also fostered other cancellations such as meetings of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H and Aurora Extension Homemakers. It seems that, although schools were out on Friday, they should perhaps have been recalled also on Tuesday when drifting and slick roads were both a problem for buses. Visibility on the roads both days was also poor with whiteouts common. Winter returned for a week and, although warmer weather is expected this week, the ground remains quite well covered here where there was approximately one foot of snow Friday and Saturday atop the already covered ground.

PIZZA

Neapolitan

Pizza has pizzazz and nearly universal appeal.

'Kids learn to love it early because it's a tasty, fun food. They'd probably be surprised to learn that pizza can be nutritious, usually combining all the elements of a balanced meal. Teens and adults are tempted by both old standards and new wave combinations of toppings.

If home cooks haven't discovered that pizza is one of the easiest and most fun food preparations, it's time to learn the basics and then put some creativity to work. There's nothing better than the aroma of homemade pizza coming from your own oven.

An exemplary pizza begins with a simple yeast crust. Here we feature one of the quickest versions prepared with fast-rising yeast and four simple ingredients. The basic dough is ready for shaping in about 15 minutes. If you want to vary the basic crust, you can add herbs, cornmeal, whole wheat flour or fancy shredded Parmesan cheese for a custom flavor.

The toppings are just as simple to put together. Two of the recipes call for a Quick Tomato Sauce. And all of them benefit from the convenience of already-shredded natural cheese from the ubiquitous Mozzarella to popular Cheddar cheese, to the nutty taste of fancy shredded Parmesan cheese and two special blends. Taco cheese melds Colby and Monterey Jack cheeses and is enlivened with Mexican seasonings. Pizza Double Cheese™ gets its popular, rich flavor by combining Mozzarella and Cheddar cheeses.

Try any one of these fast, fresh and flavorful pizzas tonight. You're certain to win compliments from all those pizza fans!

NEAPOLITAN PIZZA

Makes 2 (12-inch) pizzas

Cheese Pizza Dough*, prepared as directed with Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
3 medium onions, sliced into 1/4-inch rings
3 cloves garlic, minced
3 tablespoons olive oil, divided
2/3 cup Quick Tomato Sauce (see recipe)
2 cups (8 oz.) Sargento Shredded Low Moisture Part-Skim Mozzarella Cheese
1-1/2 cups thinly sliced plum (Roma) tomatoes
3 cups thinly sliced zucchini
4 teaspoons dried basil leaves
1/2 cup (2 oz.) Sargento Fancy Shredded Parmesan Cheese

In large skillet, cook onions and garlic in 1 tablespoon olive oil over medium heat, stirring occasionally until tender, about 10 minutes; reserve.
Divide dough in half. On lightly floured surface, roll to fit 2 greased 12-inch pizza pans. Evenly spread Quick Tomato Sauce (1/3 cup on each), reserved onion mixture and Mozzarella cheese on dough, dividing evenly. Arrange tomato and zucchini slices in 4 concentric circles on each pizza. Drizzle remaining olive oil over vegetables and sprinkle with basil and Parmesan cheese. Bake at 400°F for 20 to 25 minutes or until crust is golden brown and cheese is bubbly.

1 to 2 teaspoons minced garlic
2 green onions, thinly sliced

Divide dough in half. On lightly floured surface, roll to fit 2 greased 12-inch pizza pans. Evenly spread Quick Tomato Sauce on dough (1/3 cup on each). Evenly sprinkle 2-1/4 cups Cheddar cheese on pizzas. Starting at outside rim, arrange one half of the following ingredients, in order, in concentric circles on each pizza: artichokes, roasted red peppers and mushrooms. Combine olives, walnuts and garlic; spread half of mixture in center of each pizza. Sprinkle entire surface of pizzas with remaining 1/4 cup cheese and green onions. Bake at 400°F for 20 minutes, or until crust is golden brown and cheese is bubbly.

BASIC PIZZA DOUGH

Makes 2 (12-inch) pizzas

3 to 3-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 package Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup very warm water (125° to 130°F)
2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil

In large bowl, combine 2 cups flour, undissolved yeast and salt. Stir very warm water and oil into dry ingredients. Stir in enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Knead dough on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 4 to 6 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.
On lightly floured surface, form dough into smooth ball. Divide and shape as directed in recipe.
Variations:
Herb: Add 2 teaspoons Italian herb seasoning (basil, oregano or rosemary leaves) and 1 clove minced garlic (optional) along with dry ingredients.
Cornmeal: Replace 1/2 cup all-purpose flour with cornmeal.
Whole Wheat: Replace 1 cup all-purpose flour with whole wheat flour.
Cheese: Add 1/2 cup Sargento Fancy Shredded Parmesan Cheese along with dry ingredients.

Pizza Dough Basics:

Basic Pizza Dough can also be divided and/or shaped to fit the following pans (topping amounts and baking times may vary):
1 (14-inch) round pizza pan
1 (15- x 10-inch) baking pan
1 (13- x 9-inch) baking pan
2 baking sheets (make six 7-inch round individual pizzas)

To freeze pizza dough: Flatten dough to 8-inch disk. Wrap airtight in double thickness plastic freezer bags or foil. Freeze up to 2 months. To use: Thaw at room temperature (2 to 4 hours), in refrigerator (8 to 16 hours or overnight) or in microwave oven. To thaw in microwave, microcook 10 minutes on LOW (10% power), turn over and rotate 1/4 turn. Let rest 10 minutes. Repeat one to two times, until dough is thawed. Thawing times will be reduced if dough is divided in half and frozen.

Quick Tomato Sauce:

Combine 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce and 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste. Stir in 2 teaspoons dried oregano or basil leaves and 1 clove garlic, minced. Makes 1-1/2 cups.

SPINACH PIZZA

Makes 2 (12-inch) pizzas

Whole Wheat Pizza Dough*, prepared as directed with Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen chopped spinach, thawed, drained and squeezed dry
2 cups (8 oz.) Sargento Fancy Shredded Pizza Double Cheese, divided
2/3 cup prepared pesto sauce*
2 cups chopped tomatoes, drained (about 2 tomatoes)
Sour Cream Topping (see recipe), optional

Divide dough in half. On lightly floured surface, roll to fit 2 greased 12-inch pizza pans. Combine spinach, 1-1/2 cups Pizza Double Cheese and pesto sauce; evenly spread on dough. Sprinkle with chopped tomatoes and remaining 1/2 cup cheese, dividing evenly. Bake at 400°F for 20 minutes or until crust is golden and cheese is bubbly. Cut pizza into wedges. Pass Sour Cream Topping to dollop on each serving, if desired.
Sour Cream Topping: In small bowl, combine 1/2 cup sour cream and 2 tablespoons sliced green onion.
*Pesto sauce is available year-round in refrigerator or freezer section of many markets. If frozen, thaw before using.

DEEP-DISH CHEESE & SAUSAGE PIZZA

Makes 1 (14-inch) or 2 (9-inch) deep-dish pizzas

Basic Pizza Dough*, prepared as directed with Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
Cornmeal
3 cans (14-1/2 oz. each) Italian or plum tomatoes (3 cups drained)
3 cups (12 oz.) Sargento Shredded Low Moisture Part-Skim Mozzarella Cheese
1-1/2 pounds lean pork sausage
1-1/2 teaspoons each: dried oregano leaves and fennel seeds, crushed
1/4 cup (1 oz.) Sargento Fancy Shredded Parmesan Cheese

Coarsely chop tomatoes; drain well and squeeze to remove excess moisture; reserve. Grease one 14- x 2-inch (deep-dish) pizza pan or two 9- x 2-inch round cake pans; sprinkle lightly with cornmeal.
On lightly floured surface, roll dough to 16-inch circle to fit large pan or two 12-inch circles to fit cake pans. Press dough into bottom and 1-1/2 inches up side of pan(s). Evenly sprinkle Mozzarella cheese in bottom of dough-lined pan(s). Crumble sausage over cheese. Top with tomatoes, oregano, fennel and Parmesan cheese. Place pizza(s) in 500°F oven; immediately reduce heat to 400°F. Bake 40 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden brown and sausage is cooked through. Remove from oven; cool on wire rack for 10 minutes before serving.

GET YOUR INFORMATION FROM YOUR PHYSICIAN

Too little knowledge has always been a danger and there are too many people with insufficient knowledge, who are quick to offer advice about what to do for almost any sickness. Often well meaning friends will offer you drugs Doctors have prescribed for them, because their symptoms resemble your poblem. In days long past, no harm usually was done. We have few positive action drugs.

Medicines now are usually much more powerful. They no longer, as a rule, are the old type of many ingredient combinations, given with the hope that one of the different drugs will help. Please do not offer your friends any medicine you take yourself unless their doctor approves. It is possible to harm instead of help.

DANGER IN DISGUISE

The snow-gray sky has lifted to reveal promising patches of blue. Timid rays of sunlight reflect upon glistening black pavement. "Good," I think, with relief, "I can make that appointment after all! The roads are safe once more."

Happily humming along with the car radio, I am interrupted as I hear, "The roads continue to be hazardous in places. What appears to be merely water may be ice. Use extreme caution."

How often danger masquerades as a pleasant and harmless situation, usually when we least expect it. In order that we might be more effectively vigilant, we must worship God regularly, and become familiar with the warnings in His Word . . . paying close attention always.

The Bible warns us in Proverbs 3:5-6, "... do not rely on your own insight. In all ways acknowledge Him, (God) and He will make straight your paths."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DOING THE LORD'S PRAYER
February 2, 1992

Background Scripture:
1 Chronicles 29:10-13; Matthew 6:7-15.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 143.

I had just finished teaching the Sunday School lesson and the class president, looking at his watch said, "let's close by doing the Lord's Prayer."

Of course, what he meant was to pray the Lord's Prayer, but it has occured to me that the Lord's Prayer is meant both to be prayed and done. I've also heard people suggest that we "say" the Lord's Prayer, which a lot of us do as a matter of habit, if not conviction. Maybe what makes the difference between "saying" and "praying" the Lord's Prayer is the act of "doing" it.

How do you "do" the Lord's Prayer? Let me suggest several ways.

First, when we pray "Our father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name," this is a petition that God does not fulfill all by himself. If God's name is to be hallowed, we must live our lives in a way that helps to hallow or make holy God's name. Take a look at the way you have lived this day or this week: is God's name being hallowed through it or not? Is there a constant and full awareness in your own consciousness that God is holy? When we waste and despoil the earth God has given us, when we treat others as something less than children of God, when we pass by unresponsively those who are in need, are we arrirming or denying our petition, "...hallowed be thy name?"

TO LIVE AS IF...

Secondly, if we pray, "Thy kingdom come," these are only so many meaningless words unless we strive constantly to live our lives as if God's kingdom is the supreme purpose of our lives. If we are sincere in asking for the kingdom, then we are saying that is the single, most important reason for our being. In other words, we are saying that the kingdom of God is what really counts. But, if we live as if something else really counts -- wealth, power, comfort, position, sex, food, drink, material things -- then it matters little to petition God for the coming of his kingdom.

So it is, too, with the petition, "Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven." I pray those words -- or maybe just "say" them -- every Sunday morning, but that is not always what I do. Frequently my life is yoked to my will, not God's. Then too, I wonder whether I really would want God's will to be done just as fully and perfectly here as in heaven. That might cut into my own plans a bit. I cannot help respecting the honesty of St. Augustine who prayed, "O God, make me pure -- but not just now."

"Give us this day our daily bread." Sometimes I get a bit uncomfortable when I say those words -- uncomfortable because I often really want a lot more from God than just my daily bread. More than just plain "bread," I would rather have perhaps French bread, I'd like some meat or fish to go along with it some vegetables, a salad, and some dessert, please. Settling for just "daily bread" seems like it is settling too low. If I am sincere in praying this prayer, these words would indicate that I need to have the faith that whatever God gives me for my daily needs, it will be enough, probably more than enough.

AS WE FORGIVE OTHERS

The next position is one of the most obvious in its implications for "doing" as well as "saying": " And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors." There is absolutely no point in asking forgiveness from God unless we will also extend forgiveness to others. That means more than words inside our head -- "I forgive so-and-so." It means tangible acts and evidences of our forgiveness of others.

Finally, "And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." Often, this appears to be more in our hands than God's. It is not that God tempts us or brings us into tempting situations, but we ourselves.

COVER STORY

Olympian task begins for CBS's McCarver

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

The 1992 Winter Olympics open on Saturday, Feb. 8, from Albertville, France, and Tim McCarver, who is hosting the 16-day event with Paula Zahn, is ready – almost.

"I've been preparing for the last 13 months," says McCarver, who regularly covers baseball for both CBS and superstation WWOR. "One of my biggest things right now is how to transpart nine volumes of stuff – about 5 or 6 inches thick and each of them weighing about 8 pounds apiece – to France without taking an extra piece of luggage; I don't think I can do it."

Tim McCarver

The Olympics will air nightly on CBS from Feb. 8-23, with an additional two hours of morning coverage on weekdays and extensive afternoon coverage on weekends and Presidents Day. A special Olympic preview will air Thursday, Feb. 6.

"The one thing I'm not expected to be is an expert on all of the events," says McCarver. "That leads to the question of what exactly is our job: I guess to be the guide to the viewer, to be the conduit of the venues, to ask the right question on remotes." His job is also to look at the bigger picture.

"The historical perspective, I think, is going to be as important as the competitions themselves," he says.

In the past, the Olympics took on a symbolic meaning that went beyond the immediate competition.

"East vs. West, capitalism vs. communism," says McCarver. "Is that going to change? Obviously. It already has. I think there's going to be much more compassion for the former Eastern bloc athletes. A lot of the Russian skaters train in St. Petersburg. When we were over there in November – some of the horror stories about these kids not being able to eat – it was just terrible."

This year, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania will be sending their own teams. And athletes from the former Soviet Union will be competing as members of the United Team. But haven't Olympic ratings traditionally been fueled by Cold War passions?

"I don't think so," says McCarver. "The one thing that makes the winter sports so popular is the mesmerizing effect they have on you. There's beauty, there's grace, and there's not as much guile involved in terms of strategy."

Many of them, however, are not spectator-friendly.

"Not in this country," says McCarver. "But 100,000 people were in Minsk two years ago to see the biathlon team trials – 100,000 people. I don't think the people in the United States know enough about the sports to get as involved. And that's one of our main tasks this winter – to get them involved."

IN FOCUS

Look out – it's Homer alone on the episode of "The Simpsons" airing Thursday, Feb. 6, on Fox. For some reason, Marge seems to feel she needs a vacation from her family and books herself a stay at Springfield's only two-star health spa and resort. That leaves Homer (pictured) to his own devices to care for baby Maggie. It's not that Homer lacks parenting skills, mind you. It's just that he's more comfortable around a doughnut.

TEXAS Tragedy: To mark the fourth anniversary of "America's Most Wanted," host John Walsh travels to Killeen, Texas, to interview the witnesses and heroes of 1991's Luby's shootings, the largest mass murder in U.S. history. It airs Friday, Feb. 7, on Fox. • Fox premieres the new Michael Jackson music video for "Remember the Time" on Sunday, Feb. 2. • CNN presents "The People's Agenda," a special on the issues facing American voters, on Sunday, Feb. 2. • Old Burt Reynolds crony Dom DeLuise guest-stars on Reynolds' CBS series, "Evening Shade," Monday, Feb. 3. • Estelle Parsons reprises her role as Roseanne's mother on "Roseanne," Tuesday, Feb. 4, on ABC. • Beginning Feb. 4, NBC's "Reasonable Doubts" will air on Tuesdays. • On Wednesday, Feb. 5, PBS airs "Encore!," the final-round performances from the Eighth Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. (Check local listings.) • A special edition of Fox's "Cops" profiles U.S. deputy marshals in New York City, Baltimore, Atlanta and Miami. It airs Friday, Feb. 7. • "Prey of the Chameleon," a made-for-cable suspense thriller, premieres Friday, Feb. 7, on Showtime.

SOAP SCOOP

'One Stormy Night' was one romantic show

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Last-place NBC Daytime should be proud as a peacock of the way it strutted its stuff in prime time Friday, Jan. 10. The special one-hour "Days of Our Lives: One Stormy Night" "minimovie" showed what that network's highest-rated soap does best: fantasy, fantasy, fantasy, of love, love, love.

Dr. Carly Manning (Crystal Chappell) rejected pleas of love by gorgeous, half-dressed, firelit hunk Lawrence Alamain (played by Chapell's real-life love, Michael Sabatino) in favor of a graphic love-making session with gorgeous, hunky husband – via a do-it-yourself "ceremony" in Mexico – Bo Brady (played by Peter Reckell). Matthew Ashford was absolutely charming as the seriocomic Jack Deveraux, who was trapped with his estranged wife, Jennifer (played by Melissa Reeves), on the set of a game show. There was even a sentimental love scene between the show's patriarch and matriarch, Tom and Alice Horton (played by Macdonald Carey and Frances Reid).

Crystal Chappell

• The eighth annual Soap Opera Awards, presented directly after the "DOOL" episode on NBC, were all the things the Daytime Emmys are not: entertaining, warm and exciting. The awards themselves are more specific to the daytime medium (e.g., Best Villain, Best Comic Performance) than the Emmys, which are modeled after movie and theater awards. The only clinker was caramelized host George Hamilton, whom only we may remember as acting in the most schlocky nighttime soap of all time, "The Survivors" (1969-70). Even cohosts Deidre Hall (who plays Marlena Brady on "DOOL") and Emma Samms (who plays Holly Scorpio on "General Hospital") couldn't wake up the comatose Hamilton.

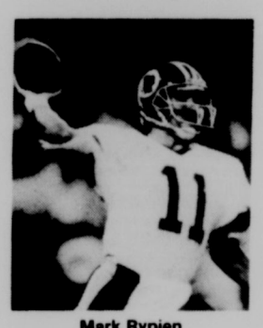
But the winners, mostly from low-rated "Another World," made up for that. There was also a touching tribute to Bill Bell (producer and head writer of "The Young and the Restless" and "The Bold and the Beautiful"), which starred many of his shows' leading ladies over the years, including Susan Flannery (who plays Stephanie on "B&B") and Jeanne Cooper (who plays Katherine on "Y&R").

The Soap Opera Awards are always a classy show in a medium that still needs as much respect as it can get.

• So what's the dish on executive producer Gloria Monty's recent exit from "GH"? That's still to be determined! ABC issued a statement that Monty had left for personal reasons. (She is 70.)

IN FOCUS

Kevin Costner starred in and made his directorial debut in the widely hailed film "Dances With Wolves," which makes its cable premiere Saturday, Feb. 8, on Showtime. In the panoramic 1990 movie, which is based on Michael Blake's novel and won seven Academy Awards, Costner plays a Civil War veteran who is posted to the frontier prairie of South Dakota, where he befriends a band of Sioux and is eventually adopted into their tribe.



SPORTS CALENDAR

ESPN carries Pro Bowl; Olympics on CBS, TNT

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

The final act of the 1991 National Football League season is played out Saturday, Feb. 8, at Aloha Stadium in Honolulu when the best players from both conferences meet in the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl. The game will be carried live on ESPN.

The participants include eight Buffalo Bills and a like number of Washington Redskins, who saw each other less than two weeks earlier under the dome in Minneapolis.

Mark Rypien

Among the Super Bowl XXVI vets playing for the NFC are quarterback Mark Rypien, Hogs Jim Lachey (tackle) and Mark Schlereth (guard), and defensive end Charles Mann of the 'Skins.

Padded up for the AFC are quarterback Jim Kelly, running back Thurman Thomas, guard Jim Richter and linebacker Cornelius Bennett of the Bills.

The NFC holds a 12-9 edge in Pro Bowls.

• Also on Saturday, CBS and TNT begin their extensive coverage of the XVI Winter Olympics (Feb. 8-23) from Albertville in the French Alps. Of the two, CBS will have more of the prime events, but owing to the six-hour time difference between Albertville and New York, a great deal of both networks' coverage will be taped.

Including its two-hour prime-time preview show on Thursday, Feb. 6, CBS will have about 118 hours of coverage. Saturdays and Sundays (and Presidents Day, Feb. 17) will be dominated by Olympics programming, and weekdays will include a two-hour morning block and a three-hour prime-time block, as well as two half-hour highlights shows, one at noon and the other after prime time.

TNT has a total of 45 hours of coverage: five hours per weekday afternoon.

• ABC gets network television back into the fight game when it begins its three-fight "Fruit of the Loom Professional Boxing Series" on Saturday, Feb. 8, with IBF middleweight champion James Toney defending his title in a 12-round fight in Atlantic City, N.J. On Feb. 15, 1988 Olympic silver medalist and IBF junior flyweight champion Michael Carbajal defends his title in a 12-round bout in Phoenix, Ariz.

• Sunday, Feb. 2, marks the beginning of the multiyear ABC-Raycom college basketball production partnership. This year, the combine will provide coverage of 26 games over the next six Sundays, with doubleheaders on five of them. Most games will be telecast regionally, with ABC providing the announcers and Raycom producing the telecasts.

Tim McCarver and Paula Zahn are the prime-time hosts of CBS's coverage of the 1992 Olympic Winter Games, airing Feb. 8-23 from Albertville, France.

IN FOCUS

In "Hate on Trial," Bill Moyers examines an unusual civil suit. Morris Dees (pictured) sued white supremacists Tom and John Metzger on behalf of the family of Mulugeta Seraw, whose killers may have been incited by the Metzgers. It's a disturbing film, since to watch the Metzgers in court is to be reminded of Hannah Arendt's phrase, "the banality of evil." It airs Wednesday, Feb. 5, on PBS. (Check local listings.)

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

THERE HAS ALWAYS BEEN AN ENGLUND – No one would ever recognize Robert Englund in his get-up as Freddy in "Nightmare on Elm Street," but when I saw his photograph without the make-up, I thought I recognized him from TV. Has he been in a series? – P.Y., Honolulu

Robert Englund

Yes. Englund portrayed Willie in the 1984 miniseries "V: The Final Battle" and the subsequent 1984-85 series "V." He was also a regular in the 1986-87 series "Downtown" and hosted "Shadow Theater" on cable's USA in 1990. In his guise as the infamous Freddy Krueger, Englund hosted the syndicated horror anthology "Freddy's Nightmares" from 1988-90. Englund stars in the NBC replacement series "Nightmare Cafe."

FARRELL IS FLO – Where have I previously seen the actress who is playing Nina's mother, Flo, on "The Young and the Restless"? She's a relatively new character on the show, but I'm sure I've seen her in other programs. Also, how old is she? – J.F., Louisville, Ky.

Sharon Farrell, who is 45, is not a novice actress. She has been working in the business for more than three decades and was a regular in the series "Saints and Sinners" (1962-63), "Hawaii Five-O" (1979-80) and "Rituals" (1984-85).

JACKIE ROMA – Who is the actress who played Jackie Kennedy in the TV movie that aired last year? – B.D., Norfolk, Va.

I believe you're referring to the NBC miniseries "A Woman Named Jackie," in which Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was portrayed by Roma Downey. A native of Derry, Ireland, the 28-year-old actress came to the United States five years ago and started making inroads into show business by working on stage and on the daytime soap "One Life to Live."

YO, BROOKLYN! – The series "Brooklyn Bridge" led me to think about other movies and shows that were supposed to have taken place in Brooklyn. Wasn't "Arsenic and Old Lace" one of them? – M.F., Garrison, N.Y.

Yes. "Arsenic and Old Lace" was indeed set in the famous New York City borough. Brooklyn also has been the setting for quite a few TV shows, including "The Honeymooners" (1955-56), "The Patty Duke Show" (1963-66) and "The Cosby Show."

IN FOCUS

An unusual duo collaborates on PBS's "Great Performances," airing Friday, Feb. 7. (Check local listings.) "Kathleen Battle and Wynton Marsalis: Baroque Duet" unites renowned soprano Battle (shown) with jazz great Marsalis for a performance of Scarlatti, Handel and Bach compositions. It also shows the artists at home with their families in Ohio and New Orleans, in rehearsals and, of course, during the final performance.

Dick Clark hosts "The 1992 Miss USA Pageant," which airs live from Wichita, Kan., on CBS. The pageant will feature a salute to the United States' Olympic athletes; we're sure it's mere coincidence that CBS is also broadcasting the Winter Olympics. The gala airs Friday, Feb. 7.

Fish, Wildlife Service To Help Protect Wetlands

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will assist the Environmental Protection Agency in the identification and investigation of illegal wetland activities in seven counties in Maryland and the District of Columbia, it was announced recently by Ronald Lambertson, northeast regional director.

Suspected wetland violations in the counties of Montgomery, Howard, Anne Arundel, Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Marys should be reported to Cheryl Amrani of the Fish and Wildlife Service Field Office in Annapolis at (410) 269-5448.

"Wetlands are being lost at an alarming rate across the U.S., and we must do all we can to conserve them. Our assistance in the Maryland effort is just one of the ways the Service is committed to the protection of our nation's wetlands," said Lambertson.

The Corps of Engineers will handle wetland enforcement in the counties of Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Carroll, Baltimore, Harford, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Talbot, Caroline, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset, and Worcester, along with Baltimore City. Suspected wetland violations in Western Shore counties should be reported to Sandra Mues of the Baltimore Corps at (410) 962-3675. Those in Eastern Shore counties should be reported to Alex Dolgos of the Baltimore Corps at (410) 820-7925.

These actions follow a Memorandum of Agreement signed by the Environmental Protection Agency Regional Office in Philadelphia and the Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, to divide the enforcement of wetland regulation in Maryland by county. The goal is to combine the technical expertise and resources for more effective wetland protection, according to Lambertson.

Hospital Employee Wins Savings Bond For Naming Guest Relations Program

Fred Callis, C.R.T.T., Mobile Medical Services, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, won a $50 savings bond recently by submitting the winning name for a new Guest Relations Program to be started with employees this week.

According to Laurel Grant, program coordinator, SUNSHINE, the name submitted by Callis, stands for "smiles, understanding, nice, service, healing, inspiration, nurturing, and extraordinary care."

Although caring and quality of services have always been the standards for the hospital, all 365 employees from administration to maintenance to nursing, as well as the medical staff will be participating in the Sunshine Program to refresh and renew this commitment to providing extraordinary care to their customers, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Ben Rosenthal, president, stated the hospital's philosophy, "We recognize that a patient's recovery is aided by sympathetic surroundings and that admissions to our hospital are affected by interpersonal relationships and by the image that our hospital projects. Further, we place a high degree of importance on establishing and maintaining an atmosphere of friendliness, courtesy, and concern of each patient, visitor, doctor, and co-worker so that all of these people have a favorable perception of an experience with our hospital."

The Sunshine Program Guest Relations Course is being taught by staff of the new Education Services Department at the hospital, Laurel Grant, R.N., director; and Beth Newcomb, R.N., educational coordinator.

Gov. Schaefer's Maryland 2000 Project Launched

Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick, and Baltimore City Superintendent Walter G. Ambrey visited a middle school in the city last week to help launch Maryland 2000, a major statewide campaign to involve Maryland citizens in Schools for Success, the state's education reform plan.

The governor, Dr. Grasmick, and Dr. Ambrey were joined by Secretary of Public Safety and Correctional Services Bishop L. Robinson and other state and local education officials in the visit to Canton Middle School. The school's library media center was crowded with parents, community and business leaders, teachers and other educators, and state officials. A banner proclaimed "Maryland 2000 Supporting Schools for Success."

Governor Schaefer presented Craig Spilman, the school's principal, with a "Salute to Excellence" in recognition of the school's commitment to support Maryland 2000 and interest in making "improvements for the benefit of the youth you serve."

"This is an exciting day for this school, for this community, and for the State of Maryland," Governor Schaefer told Spilman and the crowd.

"This day is exciting," the Governor said, "because today you and 100 other schools and communities across Maryland begin a new enterprise based on your hope that, pulling together, you can make sure that your children -- your future and our future -- receive the best education possible."

Canton Middle School is one of 101 schools across the state that will participate in Maryland 2000 as charter schools. Members of the Governor's Cabinet and state education officials will present "certificates of excellence" to the charter schools at town meetings reaching out to parents and local community members to enlist support in new partnerships for school improvement.

The 101 Maryland 2000 charter schools will serve as models for involving communities in support of school improvement.

Maryland 2000, the community involvement element in Schools for Success, received national attention last September when First Lady Barbara Bush and Deputy U.S. Secretary of Education David Kearns joined Governor Schaefer, Dr. Grasmick; and local educators at a Howard County school to establish the state Maryland 2000 Steering Committee.

The 28-member Maryland 2000 Steering Committee is headed by State Board of Education President Robert C. Embry, Jr., and Charles Zimmerman, of the Westinghouse Corporation.

Superintendent Grasmick said community involvement is the essential element in the state's bid to overhaul and improve schools through Schools for Success. She said the state has set 10 education goals and higher standards for each of the 1,237 schools in the state.

"In the final analysis, these goals will be attained school by school, community by community," Dr. Grasmick said. "The challenge is here and the challenge will be met here within this school building and within this community."

How To Save Up To $35,507.25 On Your Mortgage.

Now you can save a substantial amount of interest on your mortgage and pay it off more quickly. It's easy with a Bi-Weekly Mortgage, new from First Federal Savings Bank.

The idea behind a Bi-Weekly Mortgage is very simple. Instead of making one monthly mortgage payment, you make ½ a payment every two weeks. So how do you save all that interest?

Simple mathematics tells you that ½ a payment every two weeks over the course of a year equals 26 bi-weekly payments—or the yearly equivalent of 13 monthly payments. So your mortgage is paid off more quickly, meaning less interest as well.

Your payments will be automatically deducted from a First Federal checking account, so you won't have to worry about writing two checks a month instead of one.

Still not convinced? Well, just take a look at how much you'd save on both a fixed rate and an adjustable rate Bi-Weekly Mortgage versus a traditional monthly mortgage:

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	10.00% A.P.R. (Fixed)
Term:	15 Years

TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$131,823.51
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$13,301.49

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 12 YEARS AND 7 MONTHS, INSTEAD OF 15!

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	8.00% A.P.R.* (Adjustable)
Term:	30 Years
Monthly Payment:	$550.50
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$275.25
Total Paid (Monthly):	$198,180.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$162,672.75
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$35,507.25

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 22 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS INSTEAD OF 30!

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE BUSIEST PLACE IN McHENRY many decades ago was supposedly the building pictured above, which was located along Oakland Road (now old U.S. Rt. 219) where the present McHenry Post Office and Deep Creek fire hall are situated today. It is believed the photo was taken shortly after the turn of the 20th century. McHenry was named for Dr. James McHenry, who spent summers in the McHenry area, then known as Locust Bottom. He practiced his profession in Baltimore, his home town. Identifiable in the photo are Olia and Irene Mattingly, seated in the buggy.

The identity of the youngsters standing on the porch is unknown. This photo is on loan from the collection of Bernadette Rausch Imblum and is published courtesy of The Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican newspaper. Persons wishing to join the Historical Society ($10 annual dues) may obtain information at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The free catalog, giving topics, times and locations, is available by calling 1-800-USE-SBDC.

"We have formed an educational alliance with the U.S. Small Business Administration and with Maryland's community colleges, chambers of commerce, trade associations and other public and private organizations to bring these seminars to the Maryland business community at minimal cost," said DEED Secretary Mark L. Wasserman.

"These courses are the result of a public-private partnership to help small businesses in Maryland," said Wasserman, noting that a $2,500 grant from accounting and software specialists C.W. Amos & Company is being used to underwrite a nine-hour computer course on the benefits of computerization for small businesses.

Designed to meet the needs of would-be entrepreneurs as well as small business owners, managers and individuals in need of additional business training, the courses are offered through the SBDC Network's subcenters in Western Maryland, the Eastern Shore, Southern Maryland, Central Maryland and In Montgomery, Frederick and Prince George's counties.

Several courses are scheduled to be held at Garrett Community College.

Among the special program offered statewide through the Maryland SBDC Network are: "Stop Losing Your Jobs: Understand Contract Bonding," "How to Finance a Day Care Facility," and "Doing it Right or Doing It Twice."

It offers free business management consulting as well as low-cost small business training courses at locations throughout the state. For more information, the public may call Judith A. Southern VICA Members Investigate Shop Noise Levels

Concerned about the amount of noise a student is exposed to while working in a vocational shop, the Southern Garrett VICA Safety Committee invited Mrs. Pam Adams, Garrett County Board of Education resource person, to come to Southern to study the amount of noise in these shop areas.

According to a VICA spokesman, the Southern Garrett Safety Committee is an important part of VICA, or the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. The committee annually chooses four projects to complete during the school year. The protection of one's hearing is an important concern in areas where many machines are present and studying the noise a vocation student is exposed to was one of the areas the committee decided to investigate. Mrs. Adams agreed to help.

Mrs. Adams and members of the Safety Committee measured the noise made by the machines in the vocational shops of Southern High School during the morning of December 8, using a decibel meter as she demonstrates in the above photo. She preceded the study by discussing with the committee acceptable noise levels and levels where concern should be shown. Following the investigation by Mrs. Adams and the committee, reports were given to all of the vocational instructors involved, informing them of areas where hearing protection needed to be required.

The members of the Southern Garrett VICA Safety Committee Nathan Dixon, Sheila Butt, Stephanie Alexander, Becky Bittinger, Bill Cowgill, Jason Del Signore, and Chuck Fink noted their appreciation to Mrs. Adams for "her concern and help with this project."

Introduction To Small Business Classes Re-Slated

Several short classes for potential or start-up business owners, originally scheduled to start in January at Garrett Community College, have been re-scheduled to begin February 13.

"Introduction to Small Business" will meet February 13 and 20 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Key topics for this class will include: start-up considerations; marketing; financing; and management and various types of ownership.

"Developing a Business Plan and Finances for the Small Business" will focus on: developing a business plan; types of financing; cash flow analysis; business taxes; budgeting; and financial statement analysis. This class will meet on three Thursdays from 6:30 to 9 p.m. The dates will be announced later.

The final class in the series, "Records Management for Small Business," will focus on how to set up the basic record-keeping requirements for a business. Topics will include: inventory and personnel records; receipts and disbursements and tax forms. The class will meet on two Thursdays from 6:30 to 9 p.m. The dates will be announced later.

According to GCC spokesperson Sandy Major, these classes are planned to offer practical learning experiences which can immediately be "put to work" in business. They are co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC, the Small Business Administration, and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center.

All classes will be held at the main campus of Garrett Community College. Anyone wishing to register for these courses or obtain additional information should call Ms. Major at the college at 387-6666, ext. 180.

Institute On Leadership Set At GCC Campus

A Leadership Training Institute for members of the Maryland Student Legislature will be held at Garrett Community College this Saturday, February 1, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building. Interested high school students or other persons are invited to attend.

Attending the Institute will be members of the student delegations from many Maryland colleges and universities. Bill Woodcock, governor of the Maryland Student Legislature, from Johns Hopkins University, will preside at the Interim Council session.

During the day, the student delegates will attend sessions and workshops dealing with procedures used in floor deliberations in the General Assembly, the writing of resolutions and bills, and Roberts Rules of Order.

Earns Degree At Fairmont State

Jodi Wilt, daughter of Wayne and Judy Wilt, Oakland, was graduated from Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W.Va., in December with a bachelor of arts degree in education. She was an elementary education major.

While at Fairmont State, Miss Wilt was a consecutive dean's list student and graduated cum laude (with honors). She was a member of Kappa Delta Pi, and international honor society, and Who's Who Among American College Students. She was also a freshmen counselor.

Miss Wilt, a graduate of Southern High School, plans to pursue a master's degree in administration and supervision at Frostburg State University.

Jewish Leader Will Be Guest Of Local Church

"Messiah in the Passover," a sermonic demonstration about Jesus and the ancient feast of Passover, will be held Sunday, February 9, at Faith Evangelical Free Church, Rt. 135, Mtn. Lake Park, at 7 p.m.

The services will be conducted by Rev. Larry Jaffrey, the director of the Southern Region of the U.S. for Chosen People Ministries, one of the world's most extensive ministries to the Jewish community.

Rev. Jaffrey is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, the Conservative Baptist Theological Seminary in Denver, and has attended the University of Judaism in Los Angeles.

Rev. Jaffrey's presentation includes a traditional Passover seder table, complete with all the articles of Passover. Rev. Jaffrey will wear garments that are traditionally worn for Passover, and explain the different items of the feast and give special emphasis as to how they relate to the New Testament.

According to a spokesman for the church, the entire program of Passover is instructive in understanding the "Last Supper" and the redemptive significance of the crucifixion. "'Messiah in the Passover' will serve to give the Christian community insight into Jewish traditions so that the Jewish roots of Christianity can be better understood. This program also helps the Jewish and Christian communities understand the common heritage that belongs to both groups," the spokesman said.

The meeting is open to the public, and the spokesman noted a special invitation to the local Jewish community as well as to local Christians.

Maryland Holstein Convention Set For Feb. 21-22

The Maryland Holstein convention and sale will be held February 21-22, at the Chesapeake Lodge at Sandy Cove, North East, with Cecil County acting as hosts.

Friday morning, February 21, the annual business meeting will be conducted along with the presentation of production and PBR awards. After lunch, Stephen Kerr, the new executive secretary of the Holstein Association, will address the audience. Kerr brings a lot of experience and enthusiasm to this position and is looking forward to meeting many Holstein breeders. This is an opportunity to hear him express his views about the future of the association. He is very open and responsive to concerns of the members.

The ladies program will include a presentation by Joyce Bupp, a dairy farm wife from York County, Pa., and author of a humorous column that appears regularly in Lancaster Farming. She will present a lighthearted program about "Stress on the Famiy Farm."

Junior Holstein members will be touring Herr's Potato Chip factory and the University of Pennsylvania's Vet School at New Bolton Center.

Friday's activities will conclude with the award banquet. Recognition will be given to the recordbook winners, junior production award winners, and the judging team. The entertainment will be Morris Jones, a humorous story teller. Jones is a dairy farmer from South Carolina.

The state convention sale will be held on Saturday, February 22, at the same location.

The Cecil County Holstein breederw would like to extend an invitation to all Holstein breeders and friends from Maryland and neighboring states to join them.

Following is a list of Maryland's top DHIA herds in Garrett County, listing Holstein herds ranked according to fat-corrected milk production. Also listed are the top Jersey and Guernsey herds, ranked according to fat-corrected milk production.

"ACCIDENT TOWN CONVENTION"
Tuesday, February 4, 7 p.m.
Accident Municipal Building, Town Hall

Purpose is to receive nominations for the office of Town Councilman. Those whose 2-year terms of office are expiring are: Councilman Richard Carlson and Councilman Fred Kahl. (In mid-term are Mayor Wayne Fratz and Councilmen Hobert Bowser and Thomas Georg.)

All interested persons are encouraged to attend.

Thank You

I would like to take this time to say thank you to everybody who helped me through my recent suicide attempt. Especially my sister, Regina Johnson, my neighbors, Dusty and Nancy Kitzmiller, Monika Perez and Roger Jamison, Northern Rescue Squad personnel, especially Terry Spear and Walt Fearer, who were some of the first to respond. And anyone else whom I forgot to mention. This is a message to anyone, who ever thinks of trying to commit suicide. PLEASE don't try it. I am just thankful I have close family and friends who really care and gave me the incentive to look at life a second time around. If anybody who reads this needs help in trying to prevent a situation like this, remember, help is just a phone call away. If you just want to talk to somebody about what is going through your head before you try something stupid like I did give me a call at 746-5899. I will try to talk you out of it so you won't make the same mistake I did and put your family and friends through what I put mine through.

Thank You,
Steven G. Savage

Dairymen's Attention Called To Milk Quality Assurance Program

Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms is reminding dairymen about the Milk Quality Assurance Program which became law on January 1 of this year. This topic, plus others, will be discussed at a Farm Information Workshop on Thursday, February 13, at the Pleasant Valley Community Building. (See separate article for more information.) Simms strongly encourages dairymen and anyone who works with milking cows to attend the 10 a.m. meeting. This will be the last topic presented to enable those not in the dairy business to leave if they like.

Changes involve the Pasteurized Milk Ordinance, the document the milk inspector follows when visiting a dairy farm.

Effective January 1 is a screening process for all bulk milk pickup tankers for beta lactam (penicillin-like) drug residues. Additionally, loads will be screened for other drug residues by a random sampling program on bulk milk pickup tankers. All testing shall be completed prior to processing.

When a tanker is found positive for drug residues, the receiving company must notify the regulatory agencies and explain how the milk is to be disposed.

For penalties, the regulatory agency shall immediately suspend the Grade A permit of the responsible producer for a minimum of two days or equivalent penalty as determined by the regulatory agency. On the second occurrence of violative drug residues in a 12-month period, the dairy farmer's permit will be suspended for a minimum of four days or equivalent penalty as determined by the regulatory agency.

For a third occurrence in a 12-month period, permit suspension shall be the same as the second occurrence, and the regulatory agency will initiate administrative procedures needed for revocation of the dairy farmer's permit.

For reinstatement, the Grade A producer's permit may be restored to a temporary status after the penalty when a sample taken from the farm bulk tank is no longer positive for drug residues.

In no event shall the Grade A permit of the violative producer be reinstated by the regulatory agency until the responsible producer and a licensed veterinarian have signed a quality assurance certificate. For display in the milk house, the certificate states that the "milk and dairy beef residue prevention protocol" is in place and being implemented for the dairy herd from which the adulterated milk was shipped.

Other actions incorporated into the law include:

A requirement for listing all active ingredients on prescription drug labels.

The national somatic cell actionable level will be 750,000 as of July 1, 1993. Many states already exceed this commitment to quality.

Set up third-party data base for reporting all drug residue tests. A third party will keep track of all drug-testing results, both positive and negative.

Appoint a committee to study the disposal of drug adulterated milk.

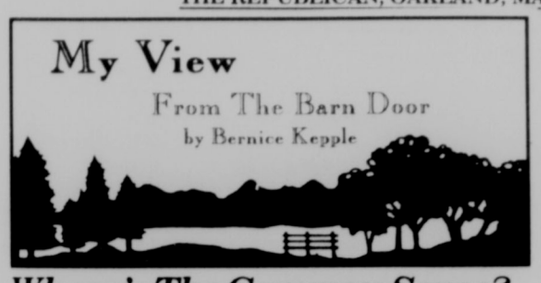
Simms invites all dairymen to bring questions about the Milk Quality Assurance Program to the February 13 meeting. Dr. Doug Carmel, Extension veterinarian, will be present to discuss the complications of the program and how dairymen can keep the Federal Drug Administration off their farm. Reservations can be made by sending a $5 check (the cost of the luncheon) to the Garrett Soil Conservation District, Courthouse, Room 208, 203 S. Fourth Street, Oakland, MD 21550, by February 7.

Applications Now Available For 1992 Resources Week

The Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board, in cooperation with the Resource Conservation Service - Forestry Division of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, is now accepting applications from area high school students for the 1992 Maryland Forestry, Conservation and Natural Resources week. The deadline for submitting these applications is April 15.

The week is designed to acquaint college-bound high school students with careers in forestry and natural resources management. Staff personnel will include professional foresters from the Resource Conservation Service and private industry. Natural resource professionals, in a variety of disciplines, supplement the program. The week-long program consists of a series of lectures and field trips to give students a first-hand knowledge of natural resource careers.

The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards sponsor the program. Student selection, fees and transportation are coordinated by the local county forestry board, and there is no cost to students attending.



This year's program will be held at Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center near Accident, from July 26 to August 1.

Applications may be obtained through local high school guidance offices, science departments, or at the Department of Natural Resources - Forestry Division office.

Where's The Common Sense?

When today's farmer looks at the mass of state and federal regulations that continue to pile up in front of him, his first question may be "Where's the common sense in all of this?"

This has proven evident in the wetland regulations, rural zoning, and in many of the programs conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture.

One of my readers has the same question, and sent me an article from an urban newspaper by Washington columnist Jack Anderson. Anderson's topic was the 1985 Farm Bill's Dairy Termination Program, which he says had a backlash that became "Terminator II" for some of the dairymen who participated.

The program was responsible for paying farmers nationwide $1.5 billion to slaughter or export 1,636,979 cows. Those farmers agreed that the land on which their cows had been kept would not be used for dairy production for the next five years. Some of those farmers were caught up in situations they were not responsible for but the government saw it differently.

Anderson's examples included Wolf Juekoff of New York, who was paid $50,000 to slaughter his herd of 50 cows, and he agreed not to make available to other dairy farmers any farm he owned or rented. What he didn't anticipate was that the house on the land he rented would burn to the ground. Juekoff had sublet the house to tenants, and the fire cost him the rental income. He could not keep up with his own lease payments to the landowner. He defaulted on the land lease, and the landlord rented the property to someone else -- a dairy farmer.

Without doing anything himself, Juekoff had broken his deal with the federal government. The land the government paid him to keep out of dairy production was once again the home to a herd of cows. The Agriculture Department demanded a $40,000 refund from Juekoff, including payment for the years when he kept his end of the bargain.

Pieter Sybrandy of Washington state is in debt to the Agriculture Department $250,000 because he took the government's money and then defaulted on a property lease. The landlord re-rented the property to a dairy farmer. Sybrandy, who had to declare bankruptcy, appealed to federal district court and the judge ruled in his favor saying that the government's decision was "patently absurd." But the U.S. Court of Appeals reversed the lower court, deferring to the authority of the Agriculture Department.

Ralph Martelle of Vermont made $29,000 when he disposed of his herd of 26 cows. But when the Agriculture Department sent someone around to make a spot check of his barn to make sure it was empty, they found 20 cows standing around. The dry cows belonged to Martelle's son-in-law, who, unbeknownst to Martelle, was keeping them there temporarily. On the advise of a local agriculture official, the son-in-law slaughtered 20 of his own cows, thinking that the federal government would be satisfied. But it was bad advice. Martelle was fined $279,000 anyway for breaking his deal.

Anderson's investigation revealed that the appeals system is stacked against these farmers. Their first court is a county committee for the federal Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service. From there, the farmer appeals to a state ASCS committee and then to the federal ASCS. The only hitch is that the local and state committees have no authority to grant relief to a farmer due to extenuating circumstances, and the federal board is not obliged to look at the case unless the farmer brings new information that wasn't considered by the local boards. Anderson rightfully calls it a Catch-22 that leaves the farmers knee deep in debt.

One Washington state farmer finally got someone to see how silly the system is. When his barn was destroyed by a flood, he got permission to park his cows temporarily on another farm that had been taken out of production by the Dairy Termination Program. The dairy farmer who had signed that pact was fined $8,500. Then sympathetic congressmen on the House and Senate Agriculture Committees solved the farmer's problems by tailoring some legislation to him. They inserted a clause in a 1991 Agriculture bill that exempted farmers who were victims of natural disasters for a brief five-month period.

Anderson concluded that Congress has shown some signs that it doesn't trust the Agriculture Department to use common sense. I wonder if the Agriculture Department knows what common sense is!

Agriculturists Are Reminded Of The Proper Use Of Farm Chemicals

The growing concern over the use of agricultural chemicals is making it clear that if the farm community doesn't improve the management of their chemicals, the government will.

Winter is an excellent time to plan for the next spring and summer chemical application. Before ordering chemicals, first consider the following:

1. Check the fields now and just before planting for weeds; dead and alive. Identify those you can, seek assistance for those you can't.

2. What weeds are a problem in each field?

3. Are these weeds triazine resistant?

4. Identify appropriate chemicals to control present weed problems in each field or problem area.

5. What chemicals did you use last year? Did they work? If not, why?

6. Inventory your chemicals. Will any of the chemicals on hand control the problem weeds? Are the chemicals usable? If frozen, check label. Some chemicals, when frozen, deteriorate and will not be effective.

7. Ask for assistance on identifying other chemicals that will do the job -- Extension, industry, crop consultant, state and federal employees where appropriate and others.

8. Do you need chemicals to control the problem weeds? Will crop rotation, tillage, mowing or some other practice do the job?

9. Plan to scout the fields during the crop season. Ask for a photocopy of your fields. Use this to mark weed infested areas. Be sure to identify the areas of high infestation. This weed map will be useful in the fall. Some weeds can be controlled in the fall or the winter while the crops are dormant. Only treat those areas where the weed problem is present.

10. If you decide you need chemicals, only buy the amount of the chemical you need, no extra. The businesses you purchase from can calculate the exact amount of pesticide you need.

11. Keep a list of the chemicals on hand with a copy of the label. The list should not be stored in the same building as the chemicals. If spills or fire occur the labels can provide information on the clean-up or for safety measures.

12. Store the chemicals in a separate storage cabinet, room or building.

13. Disposal of unwanted chemicals is one of the biggest problems American agriculture is facing. This is not a new problem but the concerns for food safety and water quality have made this a top issue in America for the '90s.

The most important thing agriculturist can do when dealing with chemicals is take time to read the label on each container. The chemical corporations have performed a lot of research on these chemicals to be sure they are safe. The least we can do is give them the benefit of the doubt that they know what they are doing. For assistance with your chemical management, contact Joe Hatton, NPS Environmental Specialist, WVSSCC, at 300 Tunnelton St., Kingwood, WV or phone (304) 329-1922.

Interpreting Your Feed Test Results

A number of measures are made when testing feeds to help you evaluate their feeding value and to incorporate them into a well balanced ration. Some of these measures are outlined below.

Dry Matter (DM) is the percentage of feed that is not water. Nutrient values in a feed are converted to a dry basis to formulate rations. Then the dry basis is converted to an "as fed" basis to obtain the actual amounts of feed.

Crude Protein (CP) measures both true protein and nonprotein nitrogen. Since protein supplements are often expensive, this test may help you save on the cost of supplement.

Insoluble Crude Protein (ICP) is a measure of the nitrogen and protein in a feed that is indigestible because of overheating.

Adjusted Crude Protein (ACP) is a calculated protein value, corrected for damage caused by overheating. Use in place of crude protein to balance rations whenever the ICC/CP ratio exceeds 0.1.

Neutral Detergent Fiber (NDF) measures the "bulk" of a forage. It is used to predict animal intake and is one of the most valuable tests for forges used in dairy rations. It is also useful for beef rations that rely primarily on forages. Low NDF is desired.

Acid Detergent Fiber (ADF) measures cellulose, lignin, silica, insoluble crude protein and ash in feed -- the least digestible parts. ADF is one of the most common analysis made, particularly on forages. Low ADF is usually preferred -- means higher net energy.

Digestible Dry Matter (DDM) is an estimate of the percent of forage that is digestible.

Net Energy (NE) is the energy available to an animal after the energy lost as feces, urine, gas and heat produced during digestion and metabolism has been removed. NE is the most useful energy estimate for formulating rations.

Total Digestible Nutrients (TDN) represents the total digestible components in crude fiber, protein, fat and nitrogen-free extract. The value is often calculated from ADF. TDN is less accurate than NE for formulating rations containing both forage and grain. Most rations are formulated using NE.

Dry Matter Intake (DMI) is an estimate of the maximum amount of forage dry matter an animal will consume. It is expressed as a percentage of body weight and is calculated from NDF.

Relative Feed Value (RFV) combines digestibility and intake into one number for a quick, easy, effective way to evaluate the quality of hay and haylage. This measure is most valuable for animals that are being fed a high-forage ration.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Digitalis Side Effects: What to Look For

Digitalis is a common name for a group of medicines that have been prescribed for over 200 years to treat congestive heart failure. It was not until the 1940s that the mechanism of action of the digitalis medicines became known. The most commonly prescribed of the digitalis medicines is digoxin.

Digitalis causes an increase in the output of the heart without causing a corresponding increase in blood pressure. Digitalis commonly is used with diuretic medicines (water pills) for the treatment of heart failure. One of the problems associated with digoxin use is its so-called "narrow therapeutic index." What this means is that the difference between an effective blood level and a toxic blood level of medicine is very narrow. If digitalis is not taken correctly, adverse effects can result.

Digitalis users should be aware of adverse effects that sometimes can occur. Some persons may experience visual problems, such as altered color perception, flashing lights, or the presence of a yellow halo around objects. Gastrointestinal problems include nausea and vomiting. Other side effects include fatigue, depression, and lethargy. If side effects are suspected, the medicine should be stopped and the prescribing physician contacted.

Romulo G. Villanueva, M.D.

Dr. Villanueva received his medical degree from the University of the East in the Philippines in 1972, and then went into a residency program in family practice. He underwent a four-year training program in general surgery at Saint Joseph's Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland. He completed his Otolaryngology, Head and Neck residency in 1981 at the greater Baltimore Medical Center in association with Johns Hopkins.

He is Board Certified in his specialty by the American Board of Otolaryngology.

What Do These Specialists Do?

They perform a great variety of surgical procedures in the daily treatment of the ear, nose, sinuses, pharynx, larynx, nasal cavity, neck, thyroid salivary gland, bronchial tubes, and esophagus, as well as cosmetic surgery of face and neck. Many Otolaryngologists are proficient in facial plastic surgery. This is important for reconstructing the nose, ears, jaw, and facial area, to restore features and appearance. Virtually all ear, nose, and throat specialists routinely handle cases such as adenoidectomies, tonsillectomies, ear tubes, nose bleeds, infected mastoids and sinus disease.

Using moderate instruments such as an Endoscope, many Otolaryngologists perform intricate sinus surgery to help alleviate blockage and infections.

Humanities Board Seeks New Members

The Maryland Humanities Council seeks applications for possible vacancies on its Board of Directors. The Council, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, annually awards approximately $400,000 for public programs, including lectures, seminars, symposia, exhibitions, and films in the various humanities disciplines; and develops and implements special programs in the humanities.

The Council is comprised of up to 26 volunteer members including up to five gubernatorial appointees. Drawn from academy and community, and representing all regions of the state, Council members contribute hundreds of unpaid hours reading and reviewing applications for funding, attending Council meetings, participating and assisting in Council fundraising efforts, meeting with potential project directors, attending funded projects, and representing the Council at regional and national conferences.

Applications are invited from residents throughout the State of Maryland who by reason of their achievement, scholarship, and creativity in the humanities, or their knowledge of community and state interests, are distinctly qualified to serve.

Particular needs are for members outside Baltimore City and its suburbs, and for members from the corporate community.

Interested citizens who would like to be considered for membership against possible vacancies that may occur this year should send their resume, with a cover letter explaining their reasons for wishing to serve, by April 30, 1992, to: Dr. Freeman A. Hrabowski, III, Chairperson and President, Maryland Humanities Council, 516 N. Charles Street, Suite 102, Baltimore, Maryland 21201-5093.

The Maryland Humanities is an independent, nonprofit statewide affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. In 1991, NEH provided Federal funding representing 78% of the Council's overall budget for operations and programs. Additional support is provided by the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, and by foundations, corporations, and individuals throughout the state.

Listen Closely!

When money speaks, sellers listen. In a competitive real estate market, qualified buyers with the financial ability to complete a purchase are invaluable to sellers.

Under the laws of supply and demand, too few buyers means heavier than normal competition among sellers to attract those buyers. Conversely, buyers can increase their value to sellers through careful financial planning and positioning. The more financially qualified the buyers, the stronger their bargaining position with sellers.

What can buyers do to improve their financial picture? First, they can conduct a thorough assessment of their situation by creating a detailed, accurate financial statement. This includes an itemization of all assets, i.e. cash, IRA's stocks & bonds, mutual funds, personal possessions, autos, etc. Next, a complete list of outstanding debts is created, including creditors' names and addresses, amounts owed, monthly payments, remaining terms and account numbers.

The next step, called a prequalification interview, involves meeting with the loan officer of a mortgage company. By providing complete information on income, employment, financial position and credit history, it is possible to obtain a conditional loan commitment before ever beginning the home search.

The loan officer will explain details of various mortgage plans available, finding the best loan route for buyers to take. A maximum loan amount can also be determined, giving buyers advance knowledge of the price home they can purchase.

Most importantly, advance loan approval allows buyers to look for a home, confident in their ability to make a purchase from a position of strength. Sellers also benefit from this preplanning, since qualified buyers can provide assurance of their ability to complete the sale. With the possibility of loan rejection out of the picture, everyone is a winner.

We know and understand all the new and innovative finance methods available in this area. Why not call us at 387-5303 or come by our office at McHenry Plaza.

Mistrial Declared By Judge Thayer In Thanos Hearing

Judge Fred A. Thayer declared a mistrial Thursday for the sentencing hearing of John F. Thanos, 42, Joppa, who is accused of murder. Thanos was found guilty in the shooting deaths of two teenagers from Baltimore County, William Winebrenner, 16 and Melody Pistorio, 14.

The defendant's attorney moved for a mistrial after the information about a psychiatric evaluation at Clifton T. Perkins Hospital was revealed, which the jury should not have heard.

"I could not determine the effect of that information on the jury. It may simply have been harmless error as we discussed yesterday or it may have had an impact that would have swayed the jury in its decision in selecting the appropriate penalty," Judge Thayer said.

"I'm satisfied that the error, which caused the necessity for the mistrial was the State's failure to abide by Judge Levitz' March 1991 ruling, which, as I read it, forbade the State from using any part of the Clifton T. Perkins record."

Judge Thayer continued by saying that the verdict of the initial trial will stand. Thanos was found guilty of two first-degree murder convictions, two armed robbery convictions, and the conviction of the use of a handgun in the commission of a violent crime. These convictions were not challenged by the defense.

"I do not find that there is prosecutorial misconduct intended to abort that hearing (the sentencing hearing). At most, in my opinion, it was an excess of zeal and not intended to maneuver the defendant into moving for a mistrial," Judge Thayer said.

Thanos still faces the possibility of the death penalty, life imprisonment without parole, or life imprisonment, which carries the possibility of parole.

AND THEY'RE OFF! After a "snow drought" of some three years, the youngest - and oldest - of cross-country skiing enthusiasts have been absolutely delighted with the recent weather conditions in Garrett County, which have included enough snow to blanket the scores of miles of ski trails in local state parks. Above, two of the youngest competitors in the cross-country race held Saturday at New Germany State Park skate from the starting line in attempt to win themselves a nice trophy. While snowfall has been light this week, snow showers are predicted for this Saturday. Photo by Craig Phillips.

Embezzlement Complaint Being Probed By MSP

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, is currently investigating a reported complaint of embezzlement from the Moose Lodge #292, Oakland. The complaint was filed by John F. Dragoo, current administrator of the Moose Lodge.

Dragoo told police that a past administrator of the Moose Lodge is accused of taking $6,358.45, an electric typewriter valued at $125, and four cartons of cigarettes valued at $56.38.

The past administrator was allegedly responsible for bookkeeping and expenditures and a November 1991 audit showed the $6,358.45 deficit which could not be accounted for. The money and other items were reportedly taken between July and November of last year.

The suspect has not been named and the investigation is continuing.

VANDALISM REPORTS

State police also noted a vandalism report this past week.

Roy A. Jenkins, 21, Grantsville, told police that someone had slashed all four tires on his 1972 Chevrolet pickup truck sometime between Friday and Sunday.

Police have no suspects in the case at the present time.

Management at Arrowhead Grocery and Deli also reported that unknown person(s) broke into one their vending machines and removed the money late last week.

Oakland Police Arrest Two On Drug Charges

Two West Virginia men were arrested on drug charges by the Oakland City Police Department Tuesday night.

According to police reports, Kenneth H. Helmick, 28, Tunnelton, and Ernest L. Blosser, 28, Delilalow, were both charged with possession of marijuana and marijuana paraphernalia by Pfc. Shawn Groves of the Oakland Police.

Reports indicated that a call was made to police stating that four persons were possibly smoking marijuana at a Brown Oldsmobile in the Town Beverage Center parking lot. Deputy Michael McLaughlin of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department arrived on the scene and had all four suspects exit the vehicle. Police observed a strong odor of burnt marijuana. Sheriff's deputies P.J. Pratt and P.J. Kelly also responded and Kelly removed a pipe containing the suspected burnt marijuana from the rear floor of the vehicle.

All four were transported to the sheriff's office and it was determined that only the two men were smoking marijuana. They were remanded to the Garrett County Jail and are being held on $300 bond each. The two women in the vehicle were released.

Man R... Oakland Motel; Three Arrested

Three West Virginia residents have been arrested and charged with strong-armed robbery by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office as the result of an incident that occurred early Tuesday morning at The Board Room Motel, just north of Oakland on Rt. 219.

Michael J. Molissee, 24, Westover, was charged with assault with intent to rob and battery. Donald L. Moore, 18, Morgantown, was charged with robbery, assault with intent to rob, conspiracy and battery, and Donna D. Exline, 29, Morgantown, was charged with robbery and conspiracy.

Molisee and Moore allegedly entered the motel room of John Wofford, 36, Jenks, Okla., assaulted him and stole his wallet containing cash and credit cards, according to the police report.

The suspects are being held in the Garrett County Jail awaiting bond hearings.

The Sheriff's Office and the Maryland State Police are continuing the investigation. The Oakland City Police Department assisted in the arrest.

In other news from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Dr. Richard C. Matzkin, Oakland, was arrested and charged with two counts of prescribing a controlled dangerous substance which was not in the course of his regular professional duty and not in conformance with the standards of the medical profession.

The warrant was obtained by the Montgomery County Police Department for incidents that allegedly occurred from January to December of 1991.

Randy A. Carnes, 33, Mt. Pleasant, Pa. was arrested Sunday for failure to appear in District Court, Oakland. Carnes was charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated) and driving with an out-of-state suspended license, on November 20. Bond was set at $4,000.

Richard M. Resh, 55, Grantsville, was summoned to appear in court on March 5, for violation of probation.

Friendsville's Water Project Nears Completion

Major renovations at the Friendsville Water Treatment Plant were recently declared "substantially complete" by Friendsville Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle during a January meeting in Friendsville.

Completion of the project ends a multi-year effort by the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council to provide several needed improvements to the water system without significantly affecting the debt service of the system's users, said Schlosnagle. A total investment of $457,500 was achieved while only $17,100 in new debt was created.

Improvements to the water system include the replacement of 1,600 feet of distribution line, construction of a new motor control facility, replacement of an existing clarifier building, renovation of the town's two filter systems, repairs to the emergency generator and repair/replacement of existing pumps, motors and valves. The construction phase of the project began in July 1991 and is now substantially complete although a few change orders and punch list items still need to be addressed. A final inspection has been scheduled for February 6.

Funding for the project consists of a $100,000 grant from the Maryland Department of the Environment, a $340,400 grant from the Farmer's Home Administration, and a $17,100 loan also provided by Farmer's Home. Construction work was provided by Frank Arnold Contractors, Inc. and design, construction management and inspections services were provided by Maryland Environmental Services.

An $800,000 sewer system upgrade is also underway in Friendsville. This project, financed with grant assistance from the Community Development Block Grant Program, and the Maryland Department of the Environment, is scheduled for completion in May of this year.

Oakland MVA Office Changes Now In Effect

Word was received late last week that the Oakland Office of the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration has discontinued part-time driver licensing services as a budget-cutting measure dictated by the state's economy. That change took effect February 1.

It was noted that driver's license renewal service will continue as usual with the usual operating hours at the Oakland Office, located next to Browning's Foodland, off Md. Rt. 135.

Garrett County Valley Lee offices were the two targeted for service cuts, while seven offices were closed completely.

"We have carefully targeted the locations for closing because of their proximity to full-service MVA facilities and the volume of transactions," explained W. Marshall Rickert, MVA administrator. "These part-time driver licensing service locations have been in existence since the early 1970's. The construction of MVA full-service and express offices in recent years has diminished the need for many road crew sites."

Rickert indicated that the administration will realize a cost savings of $168,581 annually as a result of the closings.

Oakland Youth Remains "Stable" After Being Injured In Snowmobile Mishap

An Oakland youth remains listed in 'stable' condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital as the result of a snowmobile accident which occurred Saturday, according to a hospital nursing spokesperson.

Jeffrey S. Thomas, 17, was injured Saturday when the 1979 El Tigre 600 snowmobile he was operating was struck by a 1985 Toyota SR5 pickup, operated by Jarrod W. White, 18, Oakland.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W. McHenry, the accident occurred when Thomas attempted to drive his snowmobile across the Old Oakland-Deer Park Road, just west of the King's Run Road, into the path of the White vehicle. The pickup subsequently struck the snowmobile, causing Thomas to be thrown from it.

Tfc. W.E. Dixon investigated the 2:40 p.m. mishap. Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Thomas to the local hospital.

YOUTHS INJURED

Two Frostburg youths were injured Wednesday, January 29, in a one-vehicle accident that occurred on Md. Rt. 546 near Finzel, according to state police.

Gail M. McKenzie, 16, remains a patient at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where he was listed in "stable" condition late Wednesday by a hospital spokesperson. Dwain E. Arnold, 16, was treated and released from the same facility.

The two were injured when McKenzie, operating a vehicle northbound, failed to drive right of center and struck a tree on the left side. He told police that he grabbed for an item on the floor and took his eyes off the road. Arnold was a passenger in the vehicle.

Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski investigated the 3:40 p.m. mishap for state police. Northern Garrett County Rescue squad transported the injured to the hospital.

TREATED, RELEASED

A Lonaconing man was treated and released from Frostburg Community Hospital Monday after he was involved in a two-vehicle mishap.

Edward C. Hetz, 73, was injured when he was operating a 1985 Oldsmobile south on the Bittinger Road, preparing to turn left onto a ramp to Interstate 68 east. He turned into the path of a 1988 Ford Tempo, operated by Theresa M. Kamp, 31, Grantsville, traveling north on the Bittinger Road. The Kamp vehicle then struck the Hetz vehicle.

Tfc. J.W. Hare investigated the 12:05 p.m. mishap and charged Hetz with failure to yield right of way when turning left.

Hetz was transported to the hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

ONE INJURED

A young Friendsville man was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Wednesday, January 29, when he was injured in a single-vehicle mishap, according to a hospital spokesperson.

William S. Young, 18, was injured when the 1982 Plymouth Arrow in which he was traveling ran off the right side of the Accident-Bear Creek Road, struck an embankment, traveled back across the road, and came to rest against some guardrails.

The operator of the vehicle, Dale E. House, 20, Friendsville, and another passenger in the vehicle, Robert W. Tabor, 18, Friendsville, were apparently uninjured in the 11:30 p.m. mishap.

Tfc. J.E. Foley investigated for state police and noted on his report that charges are pending.

Young was transported to the local hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

DWI ARRESTS

State police have arrested eight persons for driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DWI) over the past two weeks.

Terry D. Murphy Jr., 24, Oakland, was charged with DWI on January 26 by Tfc. R.T. Wilson.

Earl E. Moore Sr., 52, Toledo, Ohio, was arrested for DWI by Tfc. J.W. Michaels on January 30.

Richard D. Barker, 37, Morgantown, W.Va., was charged with DWI on Friday by Tfc. G.S. Becker.

Samuel A. McGrath, 28, Ashton, was arrested for DWI on Saturday by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

Tfc. Scott MacLane arrested Randy L. Mounts, 32, Swanton, for DWI on Saturday.

Carl W. Hardesty, 57, Deer Park, was stopped on Sunday by Tfc. Broadwater and charged with DWI.

A DWI charge was filed against Gerald M. Falce, 27, West Mifflin, Pa., on Sunday by Tfc. Becker.

Joe T. Humphrey, 51, no address given, was charged with DWI on Tuesday by Tfc. Ronald Coccodrille.

Republicans Offer Budget-Balancing Plan That Would Not Raise Taxes

The Maryland Republican party has recently submitted a plan to balance Maryland's budget that would do so without raising taxes, according to District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards, who, although he supports the plan, does not agree with every part of it.

The plan was submitted as an alternative to plans set forth by the Democrats and by Governor William Donald Schaefer (who has submitted two budgetary plans), and also claims to save the state approximately $100 million. The Republican and Democrat plans differ mainly in each one's starting, or baseline, budget calculations, with the GOP plan calling for the starting point to be the current fiscal year 1992 budget and the Democrat plan starting at the 1993 level of funding.

"Based on everything I've seen," said Edwards, "we need to pull in the strings and hold down spending, and that can be accomplished by starting from the revised '92 budget."

Edwards added that "some people will be hurt but not devastated," noting that some user fees would be implemented or increased under the GOP plan. "I prefer broadening the tax base as opposed to a general increase in income taxes -- there's a lot of sentiment out there to not raise taxes."

The highlights of the GOP proposal include the postponement of a scheduled $184.4 million increase in aid to education with the increase to reflect only enrollment factors; a $59 million transfer of the money available for lottery prizes to the general fund; the postponement of at least $70 million in fiscal year 1992 Medicaid bills until 1994; the elimination of a scheduled $18 million in community college aid; reinstating only $2 million in the state's "Rainy Day" emergency fund, as opposed to another proposal of $25 million; the reduction of the "pay as you go" capital construction of government facilities from $27.5 million to $4 million; and an increase in police aid to local subdivisions from $4.4 million to $7 million.

The proposal by the state's Democrats would increase spending by 17 percent, or more than $1 billion.

Just this week, a group of legislative leaders decided to raise $450 million in new taxes next year, with $50 million of that amount going to the poorer subdivisions. The decision included an agreement to cut spending by $700 million.

Also agreed upon was a proposal to broaden the sales tax base instead of raising the five percent rate; raising $100 million by closing sales tax exemptions and $150 million by applying the sales tax to new services; adding a new income tax bracket to obtain an additional $94 million from the state's richest taxpayers; raising $16 million from a variety of changes in tax collections and enforcement mechanisms as suggested by Maryland Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein; generating $21 million by a proposed $300 minimum tax on ally corporations; and raising $37 million in new taxes on the telecommunications industry.

Governor William Donald Schaefer has submitted two plans of his own to the Maryland General Assembly, one of which has been labeled the "the doomsday budget" which would reportedly threaten over $728 million in state programs. Schaefer's "preferred" proposal calls for creating new taxes to compensate for the deficit, while the doomsday budget would be implemented if legislators failed to raise taxes or cut spending on aid to local government.

Under the doomsday plan, local aid would be cut nearly a quarter of a billion dollars. Under the preferred proposal, that aid would still be cut by $192.8 million, state services would be reduced by $359.2 million, and $100 million would be saved by not giving pay raises to state employees.

Also under the preferred budget, a tobacco tax increase of 25 cents a pack would generate $105 million; the tax on spirits, wine and beer would be doubled, generating $29.9 million; corporate income taxes would be raised from seven to seven and one-half percent; and by closing loopholes involving non-residents, $6 million would be raised in individual income taxes. In addition, while the sales tax would remain at five percent, the services and goods to be taxed would expand. That would generate another $192.8 million.

The doomsday budget would take $353.9 million from state agencies; $138.2 million from Medicaid; $108 million from health and mental hygiene; $23.8 from higher education; $9.9 million from public safety, and $4.8 million in other cuts (primarily in subsidies for rape crisis centers).

Increased Gas Tax Proposed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proposed a five-cent hike in Maryland's gasoline tax reasoning that it will help pay for $88 million worth of highway construction projects.

The increase would bring the state tax on gas to 23.5 cents per gallon.

Both Schaefer and some legislators contend that implementation of the highway projects would provide needed jobs -- approximately 1,700 -- for Marylanders.

It was reported that funds for the highway projects might be found elsewhere but, at this stage, the source of those funds depends on budget decisions yet to be made by the General Assembly.

Life Jackets Proposed For All Under 12

All children under the age of 12 would be required to wear life jackets when travelling in Maryland waterways in a pleasure boat if House Bill 49 is passed by the state legislature. The measure is supported by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, although the department's statistics reportedly do not reveal a widespread problem with children falling off boats and drowning.

The bill would not apply to children in an enclosed cabin or below deck to wear the jackets. It would also not apply to passengers in harbor taxis or other commercial vehicles.

According to reports, of the 29 drownings recorded in Maryland during 1991, only three of the victims were children under the age of 12.

Schaefer Supports Broader Battered Victim Protection

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer is sponsoring a bill that would allow court protection for a wider class of victims abused or battered by someone with whom they currently or once lived. At present, the law is limited to women married to and living with their batterers or single women living with the father of their child.

The new bill would protect those in more non-traditional arrangements, such as unmarried women living with batterers; women seeking protection from ex-husbands or lovers; children; the elderly; and partners in same-sex relationships.

Governor Proposes Military Weapon Ban

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer recently proposed legislation that would ban future sales of military-style weapons but would not require those who already own guns to register their guns or to pay the $100 fee.

The proposed measure, however, would expand the list of 39 assault weapons to 50, and would mandate prison sentences for those using the guns to commit a felony.

According to the Attorney General's office, over 1,000 semi-automatic weapons were sold in the state last year, but the new law would ban the future sale, transfer, purchase and receipt of such weapons.

A slightly weaker version of the bill passed the house of Delegates last year but was killed in a Senate committee.

Helmet Bill Passes House

A bill that would require all motorcyclists in Maryland to wear helmets was approved this week by the House of Delegates, in a 103-29 vote, and has gone to the Senate where passage of the bill is reportedly less certain.

Currently, Maryland law requires that all motorcycle riders under the age of 18 must wear helmets but the new bill would expand that requirement to include all ages.

While safety, insurance and medical groups have lobbied for the bill's passage, motorcycle groups are applying pressure to keep the law as it now stands.

Supported by Governor William Donald Schaefer, the bill was submitted by the administration and its passage would place Maryland in a better position to receive federal funding because the government is now offering incentives to states with both mandatory seatbelt laws (which Maryland has) and helmet laws.

The state reportedly spends $1 million per year on medical bills for motorcycle accident victims who are uninsured or who receive Medicaid. Opponents of the bill, however, argue that it is a matter of personal choice.

Crime Rate

two cases in 1991; forcible rape, from four to eight cases; and breaking or entering, from 153 to 159 cases.

Garrett County was one of only four of the state's 23 counties and Baltimore City that showed a decrease in criminal activity. Neighboring Allegany County reported a three percent increase in the crime index total.

"The violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, as a group, increased six percent in the state," said John Vespa of the Uniform Crime Reporting Section. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Vespa said property crimes also registered an increase.

"The property crimes of breaking and entering, larceny and motor vehicle theft increased eight percent," Vespa added.

Law enforcement authorities in Baltimore City and 23 counties investigated 568 murders during 1991, compared with 552 during 1990. There were 19,755 robberies reported to law enforcement authorities last year reflecting a 14 percent increase over the 17,393 robberies reported during 1990.

The Maryland Crime Index report includes a comprehensive overview of county crime index trends. The most significant changes were noted in two Eastern Shore counties. The crime index total for Somerset County registered a 33 percent increase while law enforcement authorities in Worcester County recorded a 22 percent decrease in index crime totals.

The Maryland State Police Central Records Division serves as the central clearinghouse for statewide crime data. The Uniform Crime Reporting Section notes that any crime figure comparisons should not be made without first considering the individual crime factors in each region and county.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON -- A Nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientist may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the development of the product called Food Source One, a project of National Dietary Research, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritional sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

The Medium Is The Massage

by Sherry Frantz

At a time when exorbitant health care costs and prohibitive health insurance premiums have forced legislators to address the demands of the screaming masses, the masses, conversely, are being forced to realize the limitations of governmental fixes.

Wisdom dictates that the cost of health care is merely the glaring layer nearest the surface of the health care crisis. Common sense dictates that government cannot permeate down through the layers to effectively address a system and a mindset that allows for the body to be fixed (treated) only after it is broken.

It is for those reasons that a growing number of people are examining and participating in more preventive-based, holistic and organic forms of health care in an attempt to gain more control over their own destinies.

One such option that many are incorporating in their lives is a new system of massage -- a system that is, remarkably, readily available to people in Garrett County, and one that has transformed skeptics into believers who will readily testify to its relevance in their total health care regime.

Hania Merrill, massage therapist, and Linda Theriot, massage practitioner, both of Grantsville, are among a small group of Garrett Countians currently practicing or in the process of becoming certified to perform massage therapy. Their trainer, Will Wadsworth, states, "This is an incredible resource to have here in Garrett County, and there is no better system in the world, diagnostically and preventively, than the one used by Hania and Linda."

Wadsworth added that the system was developed under therapeutic conditions, and that it addresses "specific things that other systems do not."

Known as a "total system massage," the therapy may consist of light or deep massage that works across the muscle fibers, depending on such factors as age, the nature of the problem, and the physical condition of the patient. These factors are, in part, determined by the massage therapist as part of the initial assessment process. In fact, eight different techniques may be employed with this system. As a result, all major muscle groups are treated.

According to Theriot, "Anything that would be helped by improved circulation" responds well to massage therapy, which is employed for those interested in health maintenance as well as those recovering from injuries. (The latter is referred to as post-trauma therapy.)

Merrill and Theriot also offer a comforting thought to those who may feel embarrassed about their bodies by assuring any potential client that "we are impartial and totally accepting -- the therapy is more likely to build self esteem," said Theriot, than to keep it low.

"It is a process of trust-building," she added.

There was no doubt about that process for Merrill either, who stated, "People always come back." For the reluctant client, Merrill added, it might be reassuring to know that a "full body massage" does not have to be performed in all cases.

As Wadsworth noted, "It is typical for resort areas to offer this type of service," and local residents are particularly fortunate to have these "world-class practitioners" at their disposal.

MASSAGE THERAPY AVAILABLE -- Shown above is Linda Theriot, massage practitioner, demonstrating one of the techniques used in "total system massage," employed by a small group of therapists and practitioners in Garrett County, and available by appointment at either Wi-Hinape natural foods store in Friendsville or Point View Inn in McHenry. The system is highly praised by professionals and clients alike.

One well-known local triathlete, Jimmy Railey, has attributed his top third placement status in the Ironman Triathelon event held two summers ago in Hawaii to the massage therapy he received from Theriot as part of his conditioning and preparation for the biggest triathalon event in the world.

According to Wadsworth, a Uniontown, Pa. man has also extolled the virtues of the massage system available in Garrett County, claiming to have had massage therapy "from Florida to Bermuda to Hawaii" and receiving the most benefits from the system used by Theriot and Merrill.

It should be noted that this particular therapy works well not only because of the techniques involved but because of the training provided to the practitioners in the area of diagnosis and assessment of each individual client.

The caring, sensitive nature of the practitioners must also be given some credit for the success of the therapy. That caring is evidenced in Theriot's remark about the satisfaction she, as the therapist, receives: "I like the one on one nature of this business. It's wonderful to hear someone tell you that it doesn't hurt anymore."

And Merrill adds that the therapy is a "slow process that sometimes requires patience" but that both she and her clients experience satisfaction from the process.

Persons interested in making appointments or in learning more about the procedure should contact Merrill at 895-3184 or Theriot at 895-5895. The therapy is available by appointment at either Wi-Hinape natural food store in Friendsville or at Point View Inn in McHenry.

Friendsville Woman Found Guilty On Multiple Charges In District Court

A Friendsville woman was sentenced last week in Garrett County District Court proceedings after Judge Jack R. Turney found her guilty of numerous counts including drugs, disturbing the peace, and multiple bad check charges.

Tracy L. Bennett, 24, had pleaded not guilty to the drug charges on November 19, 1991, but the judge found her guilty of possession of marijuana and not guilty on a drug nuisance charge. An evaluation was ordered at that time.

In court proceedings last week, Turney sentenced her to one year in jail (all but 30 days was suspended), waived the fine, and placed her on 24 months of supervised probation on the possession charge.

Those charges stemmed from an arrest made by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force on August 28 of last year. Court reports indicated that an anonymous call had been made to the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, stating that Bennett and another woman were selling drugs at Shorty's Bar near Gortner. Bennett and the other woman were stopped a short time later on U.S. Rt. 219 near Monte Vista Road on a traffic violation. Police obtained a signed search form and found marijuana in the vehicle in which they were traveling.

Also last week, Bennett pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace. The judge accepted her plea and handed her a 60-day jail term (30 days were suspended), waived a fine, and placed her on 24 months of supervised probation.

That charge stemmed from December 30, 1991, incident in the District Court building when a police officer was escorting Bennett to the bailiff's office. Bennett reportedly began shouting obscenities which were overheard throughout the courtroom and adjacent offices.

Some 17 bad check charges and several petty theft charges against Bennett were also heard in court last week. Bennett was found guilty of all the bad check charges while the theft charges were not prosecuted in a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

The bad check charges were brought by a number of local businesses and individuals over the past year totaling well over $1,000.

For each count, Bennett was given a one-year jail term, fines were waived, and she was placed on 24 months of supervised probation. The sentences are all to run concurrently and she was ordered to pay restitution for each bad check and pay all court costs.

In other District Court news, Ronald Ray DeWitt, 40, Oakland, was found guilty of battery. In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, a second charge of child abuse against him was not prosecuted.

DeWitt was given a 90-day suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. The judge stated that he may do 20 hours of community service in lieu of the fine and that he must abide by agreements with the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

DeWitt had been charged by the Maryland State Police after a call had been made to the local barrack in the early morning hours of December 10, 1991, by a juvenile who said DeWitt had come home drunk and was swearing and throwing furniture. He also struck two juveniles.

Police responded to the residence and DeWitt yelled for them to leave. To prevent further violence, police said they arrested DeWitt.

Denzil E. Moyers, 19, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was found guilty of drug possession. He was handed a six-month jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. A second charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Moyers had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office following an October 30, 1990, incident when he was stopped for speeding. The officer detected a strong odor of alcohol and marijuana and a search revealed a metal pipe, a cigarette wrapper containing marijuana, and cigarette rolling papers.

Jeffrey M. Davis, 43, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to possession of controlled dangerous substances on December 3, 1991. Judge Turney accepted his plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation at that time. He was sentenced last week to 90 days in jail (all was suspended but 48 hours), fined $100, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. Several other drug charges against him were not prosecuted in a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Davis had been arrested by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after an intensive investigation by that group and the Federal Postal Inspectors Office. Through a federal search and seizure warrant, a package sent to Davis's address was opened by postal inspectors who found it to contain marijuana. Police also searched Davis's house and found small quantities of LSD, psilocybin, and percodan.

Davis, who was an emergency room doctor at a Cumberland hospital, lost his practice privileges after his arrest and is now undergoing drug counseling. The judge received numerous letters from high-level professionals who felt that Davis was an excellent doctor and never showed signs of being a drug user. Davis admitted that he had smoked marijuana intermittently for the past 20 years, but felt it did not hinder his ability to practice medicine. Court records indicated that he is currently drug-free and is practicing medicine in West Virginia. He continues to see a counselor.

Phyllis Glotfelty, 23, Oakland, was found guilty of possession of marijuana. Judge Turney handed her a six-month suspended jail term, fined her $100, and placed her on one year of unsupervised probation. A second charge of drug paraphernalia possession was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Glotfelty had been charged following an August 28, 1991, incident, in which the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force received a tip that she and another woman were selling drugs at Shorty's Bar on U.S. Rt. 219 near Gortner. Police stopped the Glotfelty vehicle shortly after for a traffic violation near Monte Vista Road and a search of the vehicle revealed marijuana.

Richard H. Minnick, 30, last known address of Deer Park, was found guilty of one count of trespassing on private property and one count of disturbing the peace. Two additional counts each of disturbing the peace and trespassing were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Minnick was given a 90-day suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation for the trespassing charge and given a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $100, and placed on one-year of supervised probation for the disturbing the peace charge. The sentences are to run concurrently. He was also ordered to receive alcohol counseling.

Minnick had been charged by Kelly Slaubaugh and Karen Cogley, both of Deer Park, who stated that Minnick would not leave them alone and shouted obscenities at them even after they had called police. When the police arrived they reportedly told Minnick to leave the women alone or face going to jail. After police left, Minnick returned and both women pressed charges. Charges were also pressed by a third party, but that case was placed on the stet docket for one year.

Kathleen M. Norton, 31, Swanton, was found guilty of battery. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by the judge. A second charge of assault on a corrections officer was not prosecuted in a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Norton had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office on November 11, 1991, when she was being housed in the Garrett County Jail on a driving while under the influence of alcohol charge. She reportedly kicked Middie D. Hoover, a corrections officer, in the small of the back, causing Hoover's neck and jaw to snap. The impact caused one of Hoover's teeth to break.

Michael Moore, 20, Gormania, W.Va., was found not guilty of felony theft and unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Moore had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after a complaint had been filed by Christopher Shade, Eglon, W.Va.

Gary A. Ashby, 19, Oakland, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of felony theft. He was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

Ashby had been charged after he reportedly stole a large sign from the Durst Funeral Home in Oakland, along with two juveniles. The sign was valued at $1,900.

SENTENCE REVISION

A sentence revision hearing was held for Benjamin Kinser Jr., 24, Aurora, W.Va., last week.

An earlier guilty verdict for felony theft was overturned and probation before judgment was granted.

Kinser was one of two men who had been charged with theft and credit card personation last summer. Through their reported scam, they obtained credit card numbers and ordered computer parts and had them mailed to vacant residences. They would them retrieve the items. The theft total was $3,257.37.

Sheriff Releases Year-End Report

M. Van Evans, sheriff of Garrett County, released this week his year-end report for this county of 28,138 citizens in a 660 square mile area.

Out of the total 1991 county budget of $21,770,175 (after October cuts), the sheriff received $424,400 for enforcement and $259,250 to operate the county jail. The sheriff's budget is three percent of the total county budget.

Sheriff's personnel consists of 15 law enforcement officers, 10 jail staff, and three civilians, one of whom is part time.

Arrests by deputies during 1991 totalled 890. There were 7,386 calls for service recorded, while miscellaneous court orders served totalled 4,568. Traffic citations issued totalled 502, and there were 114 traffic accidents investigated.

Deputies arrested 116 drivers on DWI (driving while intoxicated) charges and 70 persons on controlled dangerous substance violations.

The most serious crimes reported to the FBI included one homicide and one robbery, two rape cases, 16 motor vehicle thefts, 79 breaking and entering offenses, and 244 assault and battery cases.

Random Kindness...

Practice random kindness and senseless acts of beauty.

Such is the advice that someone coined recently and the suggestion is beginning to spread - and be utilized - throughout the cities and communities of this nation. We find it to be wonderful advice and hope it really catches on, particularly during these tough economic times when most of the news is so gloomy and stress is rampant.

We discovered the above words of wisdom and examples of same in a publication of the U.S. Forest Service, Elkins, W.Va., office, called Gateway. Some of those examples of "practicing random kindness" described in the article were as follows:

In San Francisco, a woman in a red Honda drives up to the Bay Bridge tollbooth. "I'm paying for myself and for the six cars behind me," she says with a smile, handing over seven commuter tickets. One after another, the next six drivers arrive at the tollbooth, dollars in hand, only to be told, "Some lady up ahead already paid your fare. Have a nice day."

In Portland, Oregon, a man drops a coin into a stranger's parking meter just in time.

In Patterson, New Jersey, a dozen people with pails and mops and tulip bulbs descend on a run-down house and clean it from top to bottom while the frail elderly owners look on, dazed and smiling.

In Chicago, a teenaged boy shovels his driveway and, as the impulse strikes, he suddenly decides to shovel his neighbor's driveway, too.

A man in St. Louis, whose car has just been rear-ended by a young woman, waves her away, saying, "It's just a scratch. Don't worry."

Some "senseless acts of beauty" described in the article included:

A man plants daffodils along the roadway, his shirt billowing in the breeze from passing cars.

In Seattle, a man appoints himself a one-man vigilante sanitarian service and roams the concrete hills collecting litter in a supermarket cart.

In Atlanta, a man scrubs graffiti from a green park bench.

The article noted that "kindness can build on itself as much as violence can... They say you can't smile without cheering yourself up a little - likewise, you can't commit a random act of kindness without feeling as if your own troubles have been lightened if only because the world has become a slightly better place. And you can't be a recipient without feeling a shock, a pleasant jolt."

These are conclusions with which we wholeheartedly agree. Such "random kindness" tends to have a domino effect, causing the recipient, in turn, to perform a similar courtesy for someone else. This is one contagious condition which, if spread far enough, would benefit all of mankind.

The world is full of evil and bad news; however, there are also millions of gestures of goodness performed by people every day, most of which do not garner many headlines. Hopefully this column will spark even more acts of random kindness.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As a teacher of Garrett County, I received the first cut in my paycheck yesterday. As I looked at my check I said, "Well, this doesn't look too bad. Who's paying for this pay cut anyway?"

Then I figured it out. If I were cut $100 a month for eight months, the Internal Revenue Service would receive $46.70 less a month. That's $373.60 less in federal income tax. The Social Security System would receive $7.63 less a month. That's $61.04 less in Social Security for eight months. The state income tax would receive $7.49 less a month. That's $59.92 less in state income tax for eight months. I would lose only $38.12 a month out of the $100-a-month cut or $304.96 instead of $800 in eight months.

Is this what you call "trickle-down-economics?" The federal government gives less money to the states. The states give less money to the counties. The counties give less pay to the teachers. Then the teachers pay less money in federal income tax, in Social Security tax, and in state income tax. I get it!! Cut the pay of working people and somehow you can reduce the deficit in the budget of the state government.

Governor Schaefer, county commissioners: I think I'm going to write on my band aid, "These cuts don't make sense."

Your humble servant,
Virginia M. Grove

To the Editor:

We live in a state and a county that spends more than it makes. Why? Is it because our leaders care so much for the masses they just can't stop spending money on them? I doubt it. It looks more like a combination of peer pressure, power and greed. Why not cut back on spending? A politician might lose votes. What's the big deal about losing votes? It's the votes that keep politicians in power. How do politicians have power? Mostly by distribution of money (too often from our pockets to their pockets). So how can we balance the budget and pay our debts? It's quite simple, really. Free all Americans from selfish motives. Then we will all vote for the right things instead of the things that merely benefit us. And politicians will do the right things, not simply things that benefit themselves.

Simple, isn't it? You can see why I'm not holding my breath until things get better. The truth is that things fall apart because of a sickness God calls "sin." A lot of people scoff at that idea, but their theories cease to explain why the world is the way it is. If people are basically good, why don't we all sacrifice and pay off the national debt?

I don't have enough faith to believe the nonsense about the inherent goodness of people. Jesus described the problem with our planet as sin. We are all sick with it. But most people prefer to deny their illness. That's why things remain as they are or get worse. Jesus said "It is not those who are well who need a physician, but those who are sick." If we had a lifetime video tape of anyone's life, the evidence of sickness would be irrefutable. We need a doctor for our moral illness.

Christ is the only answer for us as individuals. He is the only answer for us as a country. Can you admit you need a doctor? I sure do. That's the beginning of the cure. As for the state and national debt, who knows?

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

TIME FOR MARYLAND TO BEAT CANCER
by Governor William Donald Schaefer

Maryland wants to be Number One in a lot of areas: we want to have the highest student test scores in the nation, we want to have the best statistics in cleaning up the Chesapeake Bay, and we want to have the Athletic teams with the most victories. But we also know that we don't want to be Number One in some areas, and right now, Maryland has the highest rate of cancer deaths in the nation -- not a Number One that we're proud to claim.

As governor, I can't introduce legislation in the General Assembly to find a cure for cancer. But we do know from research that some types of cancer are preventable: breast cancer, cervical cancer, and smoking-related cancers. For the past year, Maryland has been focusing on prevention, encouraging women to get regular mammograms and check-ups, and educating people about the proper foods and preventive measures they can take themselves. It became clear to me, though, that smoking posed a real obstacle for us: if we are going to reduce the cancer rate in Maryland we need to discourage young people from smoking, and we need to encourage people who smoke now to cut down or stop altogether.

This session I have proposed a tax on cigarettes, adding 25 cents on top of the tax already charged for each pack of cigarettes. When I first announced this tax, some people misunderstood, but I want it to be clear what I am proposing: 25 cents in addition to the existing tax, or any additional tax imposed on cigarettes this year. Our estimates suggest that the extra tax could raise about $100 million, a portion of which we will use for cancer education, prevention, and treatment programs in Maryland. Maryland spends a tremendous amount each year in its Medicaid program alone treating people with smoking-related cancers and illnesses. Over a half-billion dollars is spend in Maryland every year to cover health costs attributable to smoking. Of that, at least 50 million dollars is spent in the Medicaid program. But more than just money, this campaign is about lives: I believe we can discourage some people from smoking, from placing their own health in danger and also jeopardizing the lives of people around them.

I am really worried about our young people and smoking. They see advertisements that suggest smoking makes you "cool," and they want to try it too. Once they start smoking, they find that, just like adults, it's a hard habit to break. One state had already confronted the smoking-related cancers head-on, and I hope Maryland will fall in line quickly as well. California started a campaign that coupled an advertising campaign and education efforts through schools with a tax of 25 cents on each pack of cigarettes. In three years, according to a recent study, the number of people smoking dropped by 17 percent. California officials say at that rate, they can cut the number of smokers by 75 percent by the year 2000.

Maryland is already pushing its campaign to educate people about the dangers of smoking through a three-year prevention effort. I have been criticized by those with ties to the tobacco industry who say an anti-smoking effort hurts Maryland farmers and who say the state cannot afford to spend money on cancer prevention. But Maryland tobacco farmers export their crop -- their tobacco leaves are not produced here in Maryland. As for the cost, I say that if we can save lives, and save on the tremendous health-care costs related to smoking, then we certainly can't afford not to do it.

I hope you will help us cut Maryland's cancer rate. With healthier citizens, we can use our energy being Number One in areas in which we would like to be first. If you have some ideas for me, write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

To the Editor:

I watch the Today Show for a while before leaving for work each morning. This morning I heard something that made me angry.

They had a pro-life person and pro-choice person on the show. The pro-choice person chose her words badly. She said all women and we women will fight to get Bush out of office and to keep Roe vs. Wade.

Well, I am a 35-yr.-old woman. I have spoken to a lot of people, both male and female, on the issue of abortion. Abortion is disapproved of by just as many if not more females than those who support it. When the pro-choicer's choose to say we women they should say we pro-choicers because we women don't all agree with the abortion or murders of our children. So don't make it a male, female issue. Make it a life and death issue.

To the Editor:

Having read the news reports about the Health Care Town Meeting called by Representative Beverly Byron I am left to wonder who this politician thinks she is kidding with this miraculous new found concern about the health care crisis. Certainly not me.

As a small business owner who has faced skyrocketing health care premiums and callous insurers, and as a citizen who has worked to reform a system that spends one out of every eight dollars the American economy produces while leaving 37 million of our people with no coverage, I was asked by the Democratic Congressional Committee to be interviewed for the video shown by Mrs. Byron at this Town Meeting. This same video was also to be shown at 200 other town meetings across the country.

What angers me is that Mrs. Byron would use this video while in the midst of a heated re-election campaign to help create an image of herself as some kind of Health Care Congresswoman when after almost fourteen years in Washington she hasn't done diddily to address this crisis. In fact, she is still unwilling to plainly state what plan for reform she would support. The reason for this is clear: Mrs. Byron is more worried about getting re-elected in the face of a stiff challenge from her Democratic Challenger Tom Hattery, than about solving the health care crisis that is bankrupting our families and our nation.

If Mrs. Byron is intent on fooling the people of this district about how she stands on the issue of health care in our country, she'll have to do it without me.

Respectfully,
George Moehrle
Frederick

THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

America's Health Care Study

The following report was received from the League of Women Voters of Garrett County (LWV) by Sixth District Congresswoman Beverly B. Byron:

Congress is primarily considering two approaches to health care reform. The first proposal would require employers to insure their employees or pay the government to insure them. To make health insurance more affordable for a business, insurance reform would be instituted, tax credits would be provided for small businesses, and employers would be permitted to use the public plan rates to reimburse providers. The public plan would be funded by employer and employee contributions, as well as a surtax on corporate and personal income tax liability. The new system would be phased in over five years.

The second proposal being evaluated by Congress would create a "single-payer" government-financed system. Health care delivery would remain private, while the financing of health care would become public. A variety of recommendations for financing a public plan include creating a value added tax (VAT), instituting higher payroll taxes, imposing an additional tax on Social Security, and/or increasing corporate and personal income tax increases. This health plan would be similar to that provided in Canada.

Out Of The Darkness

MYTH VS. FACT
by Carol Cox

Concerned family members through groups such as the Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill are working day and night to help the general public learn more of the facts of mental illness--rather than continue to cling to the falsehoods so wrongly accepted as truth. Let's look at some of the most prevalent:

Myth No. 1 "A person who has been mentally ill can never be normal."

Fact -- Mental illness is often temporary in nature. A previously well-adjusted individual may have an episode of illness lasting weeks or months, and then may go for years - even a lifetime - with no further difficulty. Others may be subject to bouts of disturbance, but between episodes they are perfectly well. Some famous examples include President Abraham Lincoln; singer Rosemary Clooney; U.S. Senator Thomas Eagleton; actress Patty Duke and professional golfer Bert Yancy.

Myth No. 2. "Even if some people can return to normal, chronically mental ill people are always crazy."

Fact -- Those who have been disturbed for a long time and continue to have symptoms are called chronically mentally ill. These people have usually spent a good deal of time in hospitals. After discharge they must continue to take medication, which can sometimes cause them to look or act in strange ways. But they can certainly live in the community and interact with other people.

Myth No. 3. "Persons with mental illness are unpredictable."

Fact -- Some are impulsive and unpredictable when they are actively ill, but once they have recovered, most are consistent in their behavior and are likely to present few surprises to those who know them.

Myth No. 4. "Mentally ill people are dangerous."

Fact -- Patients who have come through mental illness and returned to the community are more likely to be shy, timid and passive. They rarely present a danger to the public. As an example, 20,000 former mental patients were recently monitored for 18 months after their release from hospitals. Only 33 were arrested for crimes involving violence.

Myth No. 5. "Recovered Mental patients could go 'berserk' at anytime."

Fact -- Most people who have been mentally ill never went 'berserk' in the first place. Mental patients are much more likely to be depressed and withdrawn than wild and aggressive. Also, most relapses develop gradually, and physicians, family and friends who are alert and knowledgeable about the illness are able to recognize the early symptoms and can deal with the situation before it becomes severe.

The way we act toward former mental patients can make all the difference in their lives. Learn and understand that effective treatment, hard work and good motivation are of little value if former patients are refused employment, housing, education, even friendship because of false beliefs.

Future columns will deal with further myths vs facts; What are Our Churches Doing; Housing Discrimination; Families who Abandon; and The Value of Support. This writer appreciates the many phone calls and letters encouraging this informational column. Please continue to call 334-4357 or 895-5366 with comments -- or write to AMI of Garrett County, P.O. Box 733, Oakland. I will personally contact anyone who asks for a response.

Small Business Update -- Americans With Disabilities Act

Across our country, there are more than 40 million Americans, many of whom often feel left out of the mainstream of activity. They are unable to participate in many of the social or business aspects of life that most of us enjoy, not because of a lack of talent or skill, but because of a physical or mental disability, which may be totally unrelated to the activity from which they find themselves excluded.

Until now, it has not been unlawful for a theater owner to allow curb or entrance barriers to keep a disabled person from entering. An employer could legally reject an applicant if he felt that the individual's history of back problems could indicate future difficulties.

All that will soon change. The new "Americans with Disabilities" Act, which is referred to as ADA, became effective on Sunday, January 26, 1992. Business owners and employers who do not respond to its requirements may find themselves on the receiving end of a potentially costly lawsuit.

The Public Accommodations requirements of the act are the first to become effective, and beginning January 26, 1992, business owners must make facilities such as restaurants and theaters "totally accessible" to the disabled. Grocery and other retail outlets, doctors' offices and schools are also impacted, and must remove any physical barriers that would deny access to a disabled person or provide another route of entry.

Employers with more than twenty five employees must comply with the employment sections of the act by July 26 of this year. Those with between 15 and 25 employees will have an additional two years to come into compliance.

As the employment provisions become law, the courts will determine how it will be administered on a case by case basis, as individuals who feel their rights under the law have been violated bring charges against the alleged offender. It is strongly recommended that small business owners learn what their responsibilities under the law will be and avoid the expense and time requirements of being one of those cases.

Now is the time to learn what the ADA will mean to you as an employer.

Third Annual School + Business = Partnerships Luncheon Set At SHS

For the third consecutive year, the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Board of Education are sponsoring the School + Business = Partnerships luncheon. This year's luncheon will begin promptly at 11:45 a.m. in the food service career and technology classroom at Southern High School.

School + Business = Partnerships continues to develop among county schools and local businesses. Several businesses in the Friendsville community recently helped support the beginning of a literacy newspaper using student writing at the Friendsville Elementary School.

Local banks continue to work with students at the elementary level as well as secondary level in several different kinds of partnerships, and other businesses, large and small, throughout the community are working with the schools. They are encouraging good attendance, emphasizing the importance of reading and writing, helping youngsters learn more about the real world of work, talking with students about careers, sponsoring scholarships and college and career fairs, highlighting success in students, and a host of other activities.

The luncheon program at Southern High will be highlighted by a talk by Luther Parrack, director of Secondary Education, entitled, "Success for All Students: High School Tech-Prep." Following the presentation guests will be invited to tour the newly renovated Southern High School. The luncheon will be provided by students of Mary Ann Shipe's food service classes, at a cost of $4.50. All businesses in the region are invited to attend and are requested to contact the superintendent's office (334-8901) to make a reservation.

To the Editor:

My wife and I attended a meeting held January 28 at the McHenry fire hall regarding the problem of transportation of school students throughout the county. Some 70 persons attended. Personnel who didn't attend were our elected officials of the school board, who I know were cordially invited. Is it possible these elected officials, once elected, lost interest in the concerns of us as parents and taxpayers? If so, why even have an elected board? Why not let the superintendent of schools appoint them, thus saving us a trip to the polls?

This lack of interest on their part convinces me who is actually running our board of education. I would, however, like to thank the five people and their representatives who are running for election to the board of education for attending and showing concern for the problem.

This was the second such meeting held and a third is being scheduled, to my understanding. Will the board members see fit to attend it? Or will this meeting be ignored also? These problems must appear as a bad headache with all concerned officials waiting for it to go away.

I would like to thank Mr. Thomas for laying his contract on the line and taking a stand on this issue against Mike Sines. We need some changes here.

The faculty and staff of Dennett Road School wish to express appreciation to our school volunteers who coordinated the World Book Partners In Excellence Program. Without these caring and hardworking parents, this program would not have been as effective. To the Editor:

Ms. Bolden and Ms. Gaumer, I wish to reply to the letters that you wrote to the Cumberland Times-News and The Republican concerning why the Garrett County Board of Education should continue to pay to send Garrett County students to Allegany County schools. I respect your opinion, but do not agree with either of you. It is necessary that I address several statements you made concerning my comments.

First, I have been a taxpayer of Garrett County in the past, but for medical reasons, I have elected to now live in Allegany County. I do provide a service to Garrett County; residency is not required.

Second, the question was asked if anyone ever sat down and calculated the savings for Garrett County in this matter. I would like to take this opportunity to present you with some figures which may make the taxpayers of the county more aware of the true value of educational monies being lost. Special individual cases should not pertain to the following information.

Last year, 149 Garrett County students attended Allegany County schools. Garrett County Board of Education paid $1,826 per student for those students to attend an Allegany County school. If 149 students were multiplied by $1,829, you will see these figures equal $272,470. In addition, Garrett County provides the transportation for these students and additional transportation for Finzel area students to attend Garrett County schools, which only increases the total cost. Furthermore, Garrett County Board of Education loses $3,000 per student from state and federal reimbursements each year. Another calculation will show 149 students multiplied by $3,000 equals $447,000. These two amounts, $272,470 and $447,000, total $719,470, which is only a partial assessment of lost monies to the Garrett County school system. This amount does not include other monies that are lost in other school programs such as the reduced/free lunch program because these students attend Allegany County schools.

Perhaps neither of you is aware that state renovation money is based on the number of students who attend that school and the space needed to renovate. What amount of money was lost in state revenues when Northern and Southern high schools were renovated? I believe these monies (cost per pupil and renovation) would provide Garrett County schools with additional teachers, more educational resources, extra space, and surplus monies so that teachers wouldn't need to be furloughed and students wouldn't have to suffer other adverse effects of budget cuts.

Third, If a family chooses to reside in Garrett County, their children should attend Garrett County schools, or they should pay to have their daughter or son attend another school system. Is it not true that some students who attend Garrett County schools live farther in distance from their school than those Garrett County students who go to Allegany County schools? They must travel every day on a school bus, but they do not have the luxury of choice that Finzel students have.

Let's consider a few other points. The Allegany County Board of Education does not pay for students to attend Bishop Walsh. Are there any public schools that pay to send children to private or parochial school? Why, then should Garrett County subsidize those parents who do not wish to have their children attend Garrett County schools?

Yes, Garrett County is different economically from some other counties. That is even more reason why it's important this money be used to better educate the students of Garrett County. Why should Garrett County resources be used to educate Allegany County students?

Perhaps, as both of you stated, children from the Finzel area have been permitted to attend Allegany County schools for over 40 years. Does that make it right? Was this plan initiated because of the adverse road system? Certainly the completion of Interstate 68 has greatly improved the safety and time factor. Besides, many students from the Finzel area do attend Garrett County schools, travel the distance you mentioned, because a bus comes every day to your area; these students, incidentally, are thriving and well.

Another statement that was made was that any time there are budget problems, this is the first issue to be attacked. If you were to re-read my comments in Mr. Gregg's article, you would discover that this was only ONE area, although a major one, that I proposed changes in.

Ms. Bolden, I do not agree that athletic programs should be eliminated. These programs are open to all students, and being a former athlete, I can attest that many beneficial values which last a lifetime can be gained by participating in athletics. Ms. Gaumer, you mentioned you did not see me at a board meeting that you attended. Did you attend the board meeting when Mr. Robeson, Mr. Zumpano, and I proposed why an activity bus would be advantageous to the students of Garrett County who participate in extra-curricular activities? If Garrett County had the monies lost to the Allegany County Board of Education, there could possibly still be an activity bus for extra-curricular programs. Your child as well as other students would have transportation to participate in extra-curricular activities, and parents would not have to be bothered picking up children after practice.

Finally, I can appreciate your concern in this issue; from a parent's perspective, you only want what you consider best for your child. No one wants your child's life jeopardized or upset. I, too, as an educator, am concerned about the students of Garrett County. However, let us not lose sight of the point of my comments. My point is that the teachers of Garrett County are already the lowest paid teachers in the state of Maryland, and, due to budget cuts, have been forced to suffer additional loss of income. My suggestions are made in the hope of streamlining our limited resources and not waste tax dollars. From a practical viewpoint, it makes no sense to send Garrett County students to Allegany County schools and subsidize the Allegany County school system. In Garrett County, the teachers received five furlough days and lost students to Allegany County. Allegany County received Garrett County students, but the teachers of Allegany County, fortunately for them, did not have to suffer the economic setback of furlough days at all.

I believe Garrett County has many untapped resources, and graduates need to be employed there. New jobs must be created, and the county will need productive, educated people to fill these positions. I totally agree with you that the students should not suffer educationally, but to improve and sustain Garrett County's educational system will take qualified personnel and better resources for the students. All of this will cost money -- if you want the best.

To the Editor:

Being a natural resources professional, I read with great interest and dismay the article in the Friday, January 24 issue of the Garrett County Weekender concerning the controversy of a bear hunting season. It made me wonder where in the world local politicians get the idea that they have the knowledge or expertise to make any decision about the management of wildlife!

The Wildlife Division of the Department of Natural Resources is the agency that knows the most about the black bear population in Maryland, its management needs and life history information. If you had a sick child would you call the county commissioners for a diagnosis, or a doctor? Of course, the answer is obvious. It should be just as obvious that in the management of any natural resource, in this case black bears, the advice of local politicians does not mean diddly-squat.

I know that the county commissioners base their stance on the damage complaints they've received from area residents. I believe that if bears are causing real economic hardship for farmers, something must be done about that. But, will a hunting season stop all damage complaints? How many complaints have the commissioners actually received? Maybe the question should be how many complaints have they received from "influential" residents? How many people are complaining just because they are aggravated now that they have to deal with an animal that they "thought they got rid of?" Never mind that bears roamed these hills thousands of years before we arrived here.

When it comes to wildlife, Wildlife Division personnel are ethically bound to care about the needs of that wildlife. When the wildlife clashes with human wants and needs tough decisions must often be made. The role of local politicians should be to inform those in charge of wildlife management about the feedback they are receiving from the public, not to put forth their own wildlife management decisions. When politics enters in the management of any natural resource, a foul smell begins to seep into the air.

To the Editor:

The "Assault Rifle Bill" is a bare-faced, cynical attempt by a lame-duck, spendthrift governor to divert the public's attention away from his mismanagement of the state's finances and his unfitness to hold high elective office.

King Willie Don knows that taking away honest citizens rights will have no effect on crime. He has been told this time and again by rank and file police, their organizations, state's attorneys, and others in the law enforcement community. Rather than taking the blame for the miserable record his administration has in putting violent criminals behind bars and keeping them there, he apparently blames the honest gun owners of the state for the current crime wave in Baltimore City and the Washington suburbs.

King Willie is once again trying to bamboozle the citizenry. The truth is, that he doesn't care any more about Maryland's honest taxpayers than the Russian czars cared about their serfs.

I firmly believe that the citizens of Maryland will recognize King Willie's ploy for what it is. State legislators should take heed -- keep in mind what happened recently in New Jersey. Angry honest gun owners joined the tax revolt and voted most of the tax-and-spend, gun-banning incumbents out of office. King Willie will be gone from the political arena after next year. Incumbent legislators, you will have to face the voters.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Joe Heatherman, president of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mr. Heatherman,

I am writing in response to your January 30, 1992, letter to the Editor addressed to Ms. Bolden, Gaumer, and Swick. I am writing to clarify the issue of federal funding for education.

I am confused by your figure of $1,300 per student in federal funding. The Garrett County Board of Education budget shows income in the amount of $1.7 million from federal sources. If one were to calculate this $1.7 million figure by the 5,110 students in our public schools, the per pupil allocation would be $338. Of course, federal funds are not distributed in this manner, as those funds are designated for programs such as Chapter I, vocational education, and special education. Therefore, all of the children in question may not be eligible for federal funds, so Garrett County may not receive any additional federal monies for these students.

I hope as this issue of out-of-county transfers continues to be addressed, we look at the real savings in addition to the space and program availability.

Sincerely,
Jim Raley, President

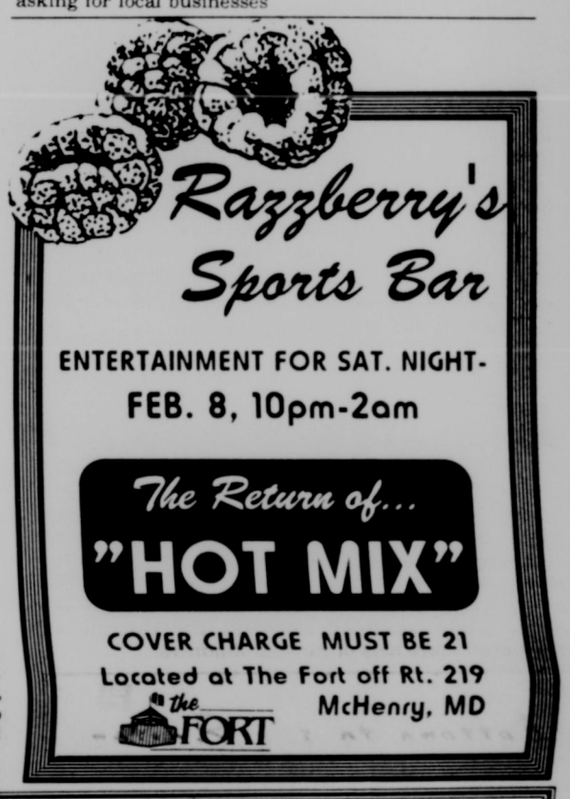
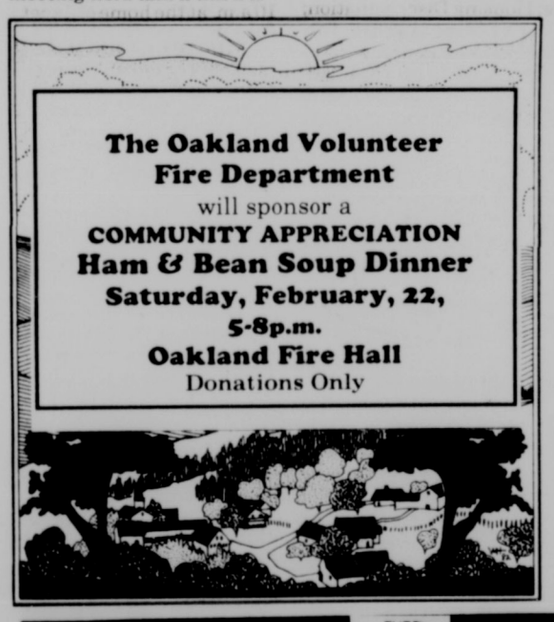
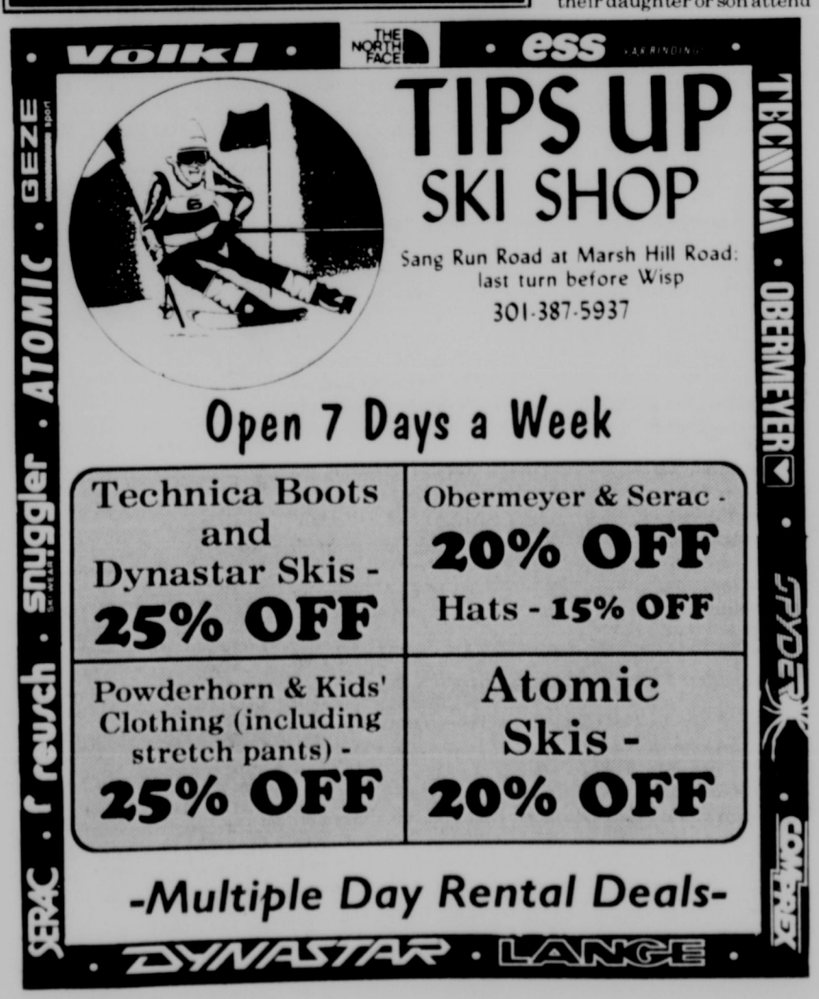
To the Editor:



The Town of Elk Garden is in the process of beginning a library for our community. However, this is a very expensive project for our community. So we are asking for local businesses and the residents of our community for their help and support.



The community library will be housed in the new Elk Garden Community Building which has been built with public facilities.



We feel that when this library is completed it will serve the community well, because other then our school the public has very little access to books and supplies. We hope that this library will help bring the school children from our streets and back into education where they are so greatly needed. We stress that education is so very important to them in this fast changing world that we live in today.

We are greatly in the need of money (to build shelves to store books and supplies). We also need: typewriters (new or used), computer, copier machine, VCR and TV; folding chairs, children's size tables, eight children's chairs, racks for paper back books, coat racks, staples and staplers, any kind of paper supplies, pens and pencils, rolls of tape, tape dispensers, rulers, folders, carbon paper, desk calendars,

Garrett County AHA Officers Are Installed

The American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division recently installed the slate of officers who will represent Garrett County for the 1991-92 year, according to Jeffrey A. McKenzie, Division Chairman.

"Thanks to these volunteers who help with fundraising, development of medical and community programs and dissemination of information, the local AHA has been tremendously effective in the community," noted McKenzie.

With 3.2 million volunteers nationwide, the AHA is the nation's largest voluntary health organization dedicated to the reduction of disability and death from heart diseases and stroke. Last year the AHA spent more than $193 million for research support, public and professional education and community programs, according to McKenzie.

"We are deeply indebted to all volunteers in the AHA system, particularly those in our local community who give of their time and talents to making the AHA a successful and enduring presence in Western Maryland," McKenzie said.

Installed to the Garrett County Branch Board were Branch Chairman Walter K. Naumann, M.D.; Development Chairman G. William Baker, The Potomac Edison Company; Medical and Community Programs Chairman Carol K. Brown, Garrett County Health Department; Branch Vice Chairman Suzanne X. Conger, Burnett, Eiswert & Janes, PA; Public Information Co-Chairman, Joan Crawford, Garrett Community College; Secretary Betty Foy of Mtn. Lake Park; Public Information Co-Chairman Patrick Gregg, The Garrett County Weekender; and Public Information Co-Chairman Paul Mullan, WMSG/WXIE Radio.

"The AHA is known for its support of research, which has led to such developments as cardiopulmonary resuscitation, new drug treatments, and coronary bypass surgery," stated McKenzie. It is also recognized for its dietary guidelines based on the latest recommendations of medical scientists. Much of what the AHA learns from research is also translated into meaningful programs our citizens can use to reduce their risk of heart disease," stated McKenzie.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the AHA may call the Garrett County Branch Office at (301) 334-5865.

Poetry Reading To Feature Noted Poet

The Western Maryland Writers' Workshop announced recently that award-winning poet, Sharon Olds, will be visiting the Frostburg State University campus for two events in February. A poetry reading is scheduled for Sunday, February 16, at 8 p.m. in the University's Lane Center Multi-Use Room and a poetry workshop slated for Monday, February 17 at 9 a.m. in the Lewis Ort Library, Room 237. Both events are free and open to the public.

"A frequently anthologized poet, Olds tells her stories as exactly as she can -- the remembered details of rage, of tyranny, of abuse. Fiercely honest, Olds is a poet who says what we are afraid to say, who wrestles with love and hate, obsession, and forgiveness," said a workshop spokesperson.

The winner of the Lamont Poetry Selection and the National Book Critics Circle Award, Sharon Olds is "enormously self-aware; her poetry is remarkable for its candor, its eroticism, and its power to move," according to poetry critics.

Ms. Olds visit is funded, in part, by the Allegany Arts Council and the Frostburg State University Faculty Development Committee. As a prelude to her visit, on February 2 at 10 a.m. the monthly poetry program "Oasis" on WFWM (91.7) will feature a discussion of her work. For more information, persons may call Barb Wilson, 689-4221 or 689-5349.

Maryland Commentary

Good advice — late

BALTIMORE —Had Hank Butta been asked a year and a half ago to develop an efficiency-in-government report, Maryland might be in better fiscal shape today.

Legislators and the governor would be focusing on specific suggestions for making the state bureaucratic structure more efficient and less costly.

Instead, the Butta commission report comes a year too late. The cuts that legislators have to make could be so deep and sweeping that Butta-sized reductions are of little help. You can't close a $1 billion budget gap with a mere $60 million in efficiency cuts.

In hindsight, Gov. William Donald Schaefer made a strategic mistake by ignoring the "waste in government" complaints during the 1990 election campaign.

He insisted he was squeezing all the "waste" out of government. He did, in fact, cut quite heavily into programs, but without a comprehensive blueprint for overhauling the Annapolis government.

Finally, late last summer, the governor caved in and named Mr. Butta, the former chief of C&P Telephone Co., to head a blue-ribbon panel on "efficiency and economy in government." It had to do a hurry-up job on a preliminary report.

Given the short time frame, this report is an eye-opener. It identifies at least $60 million in savings that can be achieved simply by rethinking some of government's functions. The commission promises much bigger cost-savings later.

What the Butta panel hit upon is precisely what Marylanders want to hear: government must be responsive to citizens; individual responsibility must be emphasized; government activities should be self-supporting and stress prevention not crisis intervention.

In other words, let's spend tax dollars wisely. Let's run government more like a business. And let's limit government's role to programs that make a difference.

This should have been the centerpiece of last year's legislative session, with the stress on revamping government to make it cheaper and efficient. Instead, the legislature and the governor quarreled over raising taxes and then came up with some stop-gap remedies that didn't work.

So now, a year later, the Butta report is before the General Assembly, but no one seems to care. Legislators need big-ticket cuts, something the Butta group won't address till later this year.

Yet the Butta suggestions are the nitty-gritty kinds of savings that ought to be implemented. Like closing one of the state's hospitals for the mentally ill. Or sharply reducing tuition reimbursement subsidies at state colleges for faculty and college employees. Or dramatically raising fees for state services so the activities are self-supporting.

Why hasn't the legislature warmly embraced these ideas? For the same reason the General Assembly has ducked every controversial budget cut that has come its way in the last 15 months. Vested interests exert their powers to undermine such moves.

Shut a state hospital to consolidate operations and save costs? Mental-health advocates won't hear of it.

Halve tuition reimbursements? College administrators and professors protest, claiming such a cut would spark an exodus of talent from state universities.

Hike fees for state permits and services? Why that's un-American, claim those who would be affected.

It seems that legislators would rather please an angry interest group than do what's best for the state. Their true concern is the next election, not government efficiency.

So the Butta commission's report won't fulfill its considerable potential this session. But the panel will issue additional reports this spring and fall. Perhaps by then legislators will wake up to the service this commission is providing. It is devising sensible ways to make government cheaper yet better. These are ideas that should not be ignored.

Rice Paces Rams To Victories Over Golden Tornado, Falcons

Behind a pair of outstanding performances by Southern High School's Brett Rice, the Southern Rams added two more victories to their season record this week by topping Potomac Valley Conference foe Keyser, 76-68, Tuesday night on the Golden Tornado's court and then rolling over host Frankfort, another PVC foe, last night, 62-43. The Rams are now 13-2 overall and 5-0 in the PVC standings.

Rice, who went into the Keyser game averaging over 25 points per game, netted a season-high 37 points against the Tornado, with 24 of that total coming in the second half. He led the Rams fourth-quarter rally by hitting 14 points, including six of six at the foul line.

The Rams trailed at the end of the first quarter, 17-14, held a two-point advantage at halftime, 29-27, and were down by one, 47-46, at the end of the third period.

Joining Rice in double figures were Mike Duling, who finished with 13 points, and Britten Martin, who added 11.

Jay Twyman paced the 7-7 Tornado with 22 points, while A.J. Stevenson was right behind with 20. Rusty Wilson and Mike Oates chipped in with 10 points apiece.

The Southern junior varsity team dropped the preliminary contest, falling to the Keyser jayvees, 58-50. Chad Wilt paced Keyser with 16 points, while Mark Elliott led Southern with 12 points.

Rice finished with 28 points last night against Frankfort in a contest that featured a rather poor offensive effort by both teams.

Ram Grapplers Win Two Of Four Matches

The members of the Southern High varsity wrestling team continue to win the great majority of their individual matches, but because of a lack of manpower they are continually having to give their opponents points for forfeits. Nonetheless, the Rams still won two of their four matches this past week, as they topped Allegany last Thursday night, 32-17, fell to visiting Westmar Tuesday, 39-24, defeated Petersburg last night, 33-18, and lost to Frankfort, also last night, 45-27.

The Rams, now 5-7 in dual meets, will compete again next Wednesday at home against Northern.

In the match against Allegany, there were no pin victories by either team. Pete Strawser (125) and Shane Skipper (140) won by decision for the Rams, while Kevin Van Horn won on points for Allegany. All other matches were forfeited, as the Campers also have a shortage of team members.

Against Westmar, Mike Liller (125), Skipper, and Sonny Livengood (152) won on pins for the Rams and Brent Kitzmiller (130) won his match by decision. The Wildcats, who improved their record to 3-5, had just two victories on the mat, both by decision, and won all the rest by forfeit.

In the win last night over Petersburg, Rams earning pin victories included Gary Sweitzer (119), Jason Rush (130), and Mike DeWitt (135). Liller won via decision.

All of the Vikings' points were scored on Southern forfeits.

Against the Frankfort Falcons, Sweitzer, Rush, and DeWitt again won by pin for the Rams and Burgess won on points. Southern gave up six matches on forfeits.

Southern Girls Fall Below .500 With Two Losses

The Southern High girls' varsity dropped below the .500 mark this week with a 59-53 loss last Wednesday to host McConnellsburg, Pa., and a 61-48 defeat at the hands of Allegany last night in Cumberland.

Coach Don Stemple's squad, now 6-7 on the season, will face another tough test this Saturday at Northern before hosting Mount Savage on Monday.

Dee DeShong, a 6-3 center for McConnellsburg, was too strong for the Rams last Wednesday, as she ripped the nets for 27 points.

The Rams played evenly with the home team in the first quarter, which ended in an 11-11 tie. They were outscored in the second period, 22-14, and trailed 33-25 at halftime before cutting their deficit to three points, 43-40, by the end of the third period.

Lakers Topped By Essex, Beaver Before Defeating Potomac State

The Garrett Community College men's basketball team dropped two of three games this past week to drop the Lakers' overall record to 9-13.

The losses came at the hands of Essex in Baltimore on Friday, 62-59, and Beaver Community College Monday evening, 83-66, in Monaca, Pa. The Lakers came back last night to snap their four-game losing streak by topping visiting Potomac State College, 99-89. They will play again this Saturday at Hagerstown Junior College before hosting Mt. Aloysius on Monday and Allegany CC next Wednesday.

The Lakers led most of the game against Essex before losing in the final seconds, when Craig Andrews scored five of his 29 points for Essex in the final 18 seconds.

With the score tied at 57-57, Andrews hit a three-point bucket at the 18-second mark. Garrett's Ed Gerald followed with a two-point shot to make it 60-59, but Andrews was on the receiving end of a court-long pass and he put the ball up at the buzzer for two insurance points.

After taking a 59-56 lead with about four and one-half minutes remaining, the Lakers proceeded to miss three free throws and turn the ball over three times to assist Essex with its comeback.

Michael White and Steve Perry also reached double figures for Essex with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Nick Gray paced the Lakers with 16 points, while Ron Wolfe finished with 11. Fred Wilson and Gerald each contributed nine points and six rebounds, while Curtis Shepherd recorded nine points, seven assists, and two steals.

Dane Crosby and Rich Pfeifer led the 18-3 Beaver County team past the Lakers Monday as they recorded 22 and 18 points, respectively. Pfeifer, who set a single-game national record by hitting 10 of 10 three-point shots in a game against Potomac State earlier this year, hit five of his team's 10 three-pointers against the Lakers.

The Lakers were down 7-0 in the early moments of the game before cutting Beaver's advantage to two, 14-12, on a free throw by Fred Wilson at the 11:13 mark.

However, Beaver responded with a 29-13 run, led by Cosby, to take a 43-25 lead by halftime. The closest Garrett could get in the second half was 14 points (50-36), as Gray scored seven points in the first five minutes of the second half.

Troy King, Troy Hill, and Jay Jones also reached double figure for Beaver with 16, 13, and 10 points, respectively.

Wilson led GCC with 20 points and 11 rebounds, Gray recorded 17 points and 14 rebounds, and Shepherd finished with 17 points, seven assists, and five steals.

Shepherd netted a career-high 35 points last night at home against Potomac State, as he hit 11 field goals and 10 of 17 free throws. He also handed out 11 assists and recorded seven steals.

Gray scored 25 points, Scott Newman finished with 17, Wilson netted 12, and Gerald added 10. Wolfe led the team in rebounding with 13 as the Lakers out-rebounded the Catamounts, 51-41.

The score was tied at 28 with 4:34 remaining in the first half, but the Lakers erupted for 14 straight points to take a solid 42-28 lead into the locker room.

Garrett's biggest lead was 17 points at the five-minute mark of the second half (80-63) before the Catamounts attempted to rally and cut their deficit to seven points (82-75) with about three minutes left.

The loss dropped Potomac State to 7-11.

Garrett Women Continue Struggle, Lose To Essex, Catonsville, PSC

The Garrett Community College women's team continued to struggle on the basketball court this week, as they dropped three games in a row and saw their season mark fall to 3-10.

The Lakers were topped by Essex Community College, 71-55, in Baltimore on Friday, lost to visiting Catonsville Sunday afternoon, 67-61, and fell to Potomac State College last night, 69-53, also in McHenry.

The Lakers trailed throughout the game Friday night against Essex, but rallied in both halves of the contests to cut their deficit to a handful of points before losing by 16.

After being down by 10 in the first half, Tracy Feather hit a three-pointer and a jumper to cut the lead in half. They got as close as four points, 34-30, just before halftime when the score was 35-30.

Garrett fell behind by double figures in the second half before coming back to within seven points, 53-46, with 8:45 remaining. But they could get no closer, as their leading scorer, Heather Shepherd, fouled out at the five-minute mark.

Dawn St. Clair and Jen Ellsworth led the winners with 19 and 18 points, respectively.

Shepherd paced the Lakers with 14 points, seven assists, and four steals, while Kathy Gibson added 11 points and grabbed a dozen rebounds. Kenyatta Brown and Feather each contributed 11 points.

After trailing Catonsville on Sunday by 13 points at halftime, 38-25, the Lakers got within two points, 61-59, with just over two and one-half minutes remaining. However, the Cardinals' defense rose to the occasion and allowed only two more Laker points the rest of the way.

Shannon Grive led the Cardinals in scoring with 21 points, Kim Davis finished with 18, and Shaveila Watkins netted 15.

Shepherd again led the Lakers, as she recorded 18 points, five assists, and seven steals. Brown pumped in 12 points and pulled down 14 rebounds.

The Lakers blew a five-point (28-23) halftime lead last night against the Catamounts of Potomac State, as Cindy Martin and Susan Barbarito took charge of PSC's offense in the second half. Martin finished with 24 points and Barbarito netted 20.

Shepherd and Kim McKall led the Lakers' scoring with 14 and 12 points, respectively.

AHA Ski For Heart Slated February 22

Officials of the American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division, recently announced that the Seventh Annual Ski for Heart will be held Saturday, February 22 at the Wisp Resort in Garrett County. Registration will be held from 11 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. that day at the American Heart Association sign-up booth located on the lower floor.

"Ski for Heart is a special event designed to acquaint individuals with the cardiovascular benefits of skiing while raising money for the American Heart Association's research and educational programs," said Vicki Naliborski, chairman of the Ski for Heart Committee and owner/operator of Interior Collections. "The event is fun and easy."

Naliborski added that individuals become a participant by obtaining a donation from individual sponsors. These donations are collected upfront and turned in at the registration desk the day of the event. Skiers will then be eligible for prizes provided by Rudy's Ski Shop and the Wisp Resort.

In addition to the regular prizes, skiers will be eligible for grand prizes if they raise over $350 in pledge donations. The grand prizes include a season lift pass to the Wisp, donated by the Wisp Resort and two free ski tune-ups, donated by Rudy's Ski Shop. Prizes will also be given for the most vertical feet skied; a sweater of choice from Savage Frost, private ski lesson from The Wisp Ski School and dinner for two from McClives.

All Ski for Heart participants having at least $5 in pledge donations will receive discounts on lift passes and ski rental, including boots, bindings, skis and poles.

"There is a twilight and night ski option this year," stated Naliborski. "The twilight ski allows you to ski from 1 p.m to 10 p.m. for a discounted price of $15 for adults and $10 for children. The night ski allows adults to ski from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. for $10 and children for $6. All participants can rent ski equipment for $7."

Ski for Heart committee members are Teresa A. DeLauder; Debra S. Savage, Wisp Ski Club President; Dana D. Schenk; Jeannette Rudy Fitzwater, Gaylord Brooks, Allegany County Ski Club representatives; and Mark Ruhe, Wisp Ski Resort.

Skiers are reminded that Ski for Heart is not a race. They should follow the skiers' responsibility code.

For more information on Ski for Heart, interested persons may call the AHA Allegany County Branch Office at (301) 724-4011 or the Garrett County Branch Office at (301) 334-5865.

Super Bowl officiating

Since I'm writing this the day after the Super Bowl, I need to discuss a few calls that came up in THE game. Sometimes, I think John Madden and I are watching two different games. He sees some calls exactly opposite from the way I see them.

The no-call on pass interference against Andre Reed of Buffalo near the end of the first half was not as obvious a mistake as Madden made it out to be. In recent years, the NFL has liberalized the rules governing contact on pass plays. Both receiver and defender have equal rights to the ball. Contact is allowed if the player is making "a bona fide effort to go to and catch the ball." The defender was definitely doing that. I could have justified throwing a flag on the play, but it was a fence sitter. There was just as much justification for not calling it, as those officials ruled.

Meanwhile, the Pass Interference that was called on Martin Mayhew of the Redskins was definitely a good call. Contrary to Madden's observation, I didn't see that Mayhew made any attempt to play the ball. Mayhew had his back to the quarterback chasing the receiver. Mayhew finally looked back after he jumped in the air. He flailed his arms wildly while he tried to find the ball. It didn't look like he ever saw the ball before he made contact with the receiver. That is Pass Interference.

One foul I think the officials did miss in the game was during Buffalo's successful on-sides kick. I understand why the replay didn't overturn the call based on touching before the ball went ten yards. The Buffalo player's hand was in the air near the ball, but in the two dimensions of the TV screen, it's impossible to tell exactly where contact first occurred. That isn't the foul I saw. The foul that did occur was Kick Catching Interference. A kick receiver must be given an unhindered path to catch the kick. Those restrictions do not apply only to punts. On that play, the Buffalo player who first touched the ball jumped up and into the Redskin waiting to make the catch. I think the Redskins should have gotten the ball 15 yards from the spot of the contact.

From the officials point of view it was a good game. There were close plays and arguable calls. That happens every game. I don't think anyone, however, can argue that the Redskins didn't win the game by themselves.

Sure times are tough. And cutting your advertising budget may seem like a good way to deal with the economic crunch you're experiencing.
But there's one important thing you should keep in mind: The 'hide-your-head-in-the-sand' approach only succeeds in hiding your business from customers and potential customers...until you're soon forgotten! (And wouldn't your competition love that!)
The fact is, when you cut your newspaper advertising budget thinking you'll save money, you end up cutting your best opportunity to:

WELCOME TO JAPAN – U.S. Senator John D. Rockefeller IV (D-W.Va.) is welcomed to the Tokyo offices of Westvaco Asia, KK, by Manager Edward R. Havrila (right) during the Senator's recent trip to Japan. In preparation for his meetings with Japanese trade officials, Senator Rockefeller was briefed on Westvaco's experience in exporting the company's paper, packaging and chemical products to Japan.

Senator Rockefeller Meets With Westvaco During Japanese Mission

Increasing market access for products of the U.S. paper industry was high on the agenda of U.S. Senator John D. Rockefeller, IV (D-W.Va.) during recent meetings with Japanese trade officials in Tokyo.

Before and during his mission to Japan, Senator Rockefeller was briefed by officials of Westvaco Corporation on their experience in exporting the company's paper, packaging and chemical products to the Japanese market. While in Tokyo, Senator Rockefeller met with the manager of Westvaco's Asian sales office where he discussed barriers to the penetration of Japan's market for the products of Westvaco and other U.S. paper manufacturers.

In late November, Senator Rockefeller had written to Ambassador Carla Hills, the United States Trade representative, to encourage her further efforts on behalf of the U.S. paper industry in breaking down trade barriers which prevent increased exports of paper products to Japan.

In his letter to Ambassador Hills, Senator Rockefeller noted that the U.S. paper industry is the lowest cost producer of high quality paper products in the world which should position it well for meaningful penetration of the Japanese markets.

Senator Rockefeller further noted that increasing market access in Japan for the products of the paper and forest products industry is extremely important to the economy of West Virginia. More than 1,200 residents of West Virginia are employed by Westvaco alone in their forestry operations in the state and at their papermaking facilities located in Luke; Mineral County, W.Va.; and Covington, Va.

Westvaco recently reported that it was encouraged by the results of trade negotiations with Japan regarding paper.

John A. Luke, Westvaco President and Chief Executive Officer, said, "The commitment by the Japanese government to reach an agreement with the U.S. government on specific measurers that will substantially increase access to the Japanese market for U.S. paper products is important. We believe that President Bush's trip to Japan was a necessary and positive step for U.S. paper producers in their pursuit of increased market access in Japan."

Mr. Luke also expressed the company's appreciation to Senator Rockefeller and other members of Congress and the U.S. Trade Representative for their support of the paper industry in the trade negotiation with Japan.

Mountaintop '92 To Host Noted Pianist/Vocalist

Award-winning pianist and vocalist, Richard Allen Farmer, will appear in concert at "Mountaintop '92," a weekend conference for men and women to be held March 6-8 at Lakeview Resort in Morgantown, W.Va.

Dr. Farmer serves as Dean of the Chapel, Gordon College, Mass., and also travels over 100,000 miles a year using his speaking and musical talents to challenge and encourage congregations, student groups, conferences, and workshops, according to a conference spokesperson. He has recently released It Won't Fly If You Don't Try, a book on creativity.

"Dr. Farmer is definitely one of the highlights of this get-away weekend. He has inspired and delighted attendees at all five of our past conferences. One of Living for Christ Conferences' most frequently asked questions by past attendees is 'Will Richard Allen Farmer be performing?' So, we are thrilled that he's able to join us for 'A Festival in Celebration of God's Faithfulness' at our sixth," said Anne Robinson, spokesperson for the sponsoring organization, Living for Christ Conferences.

"Mountaintop '92" will feature well-known author, Rebecca Manley Pippert, who is said to be a lively, warm, and effective communicator, speaking throughout the weekend from her most recent book, Hope Has Its Reasons.

Conference rates, including all programs, four meals, and two nights lodging begin as $122 per person. The reservation guarantee deadline is February 4, but registrations can be accepted after that date if rooms are still available.

NATIONAL BOY SCOUTS WEEK, FEBRUARY 2-8

LORD BADEN-POWELL
FOUNDER OF SCOUTING

National Boy Scout Week (February 2-8) has arrived! In our second of a two-part series on scouting, we present local photos of Cub Scouting activities, as well as more information on the history, philosophy, and goals of the Boy Scouts in America program, as well as its founder, Lord Baden-Powell (B-P).

The information, compiled by local scout leader Paul Shogren, is presented in a days-of-the-week format, representing each day of Scout Week. Last week's article, which covered Sunday through Wednesday, is concluded this week with information for Thursday through Saturday.

THURSDAY

Duty to the World - The 17th World Scout Jamboree was held last August in Korea (two Oakland scouts attended). Over 20,000 Scouts and Scouters from 130 nations, including 950 from Boy Scouts of America, lived, played, and worked together for eight days.

B-P created the World Jamboree to promote peace - peace scouting, he called it - the hope being that Scouts from the world over would become acquainted, less inclined to fight, and learn to respect each other. B-P's vision of world peace has not been met, but we keep trying!

What happened at past jamborees?...

The first in 1920 was held in England and brought together 8,000 scouts from 34 countries. B-P was acclaimed Chief Scout of the World. "Let us go forth from here fully determined that we will develop among ourselves a comradeship through the world-wide spirit of Scout brotherhood so that we may help to develop peace and happiness in the world and good will among men," he said.

The seventh Jamboree, held in Austria in 1951 (six years after World War II) saw the return of German and Japanese Scouts to the movement. Twelve thousand Scouts camped peacefully side by side.

The 17th Jamboree, held at Mt. Sorak National Park in Korea in August of last year, saw Arab and Israeli Scouts, black and white South African Scouts, and thousands of Korean and Japanese Scouts all camping and intermingling in the spirit of reconciliation.

The Swedish Scouts informed those in attendance at the 17th Jamboree that they were promoting September 17 as a "Day of Peace."

FRIDAY

Duty to Self - So what good results from camping, attending den, patrol, pack, and troop meetings, wearing blue or tan uniforms, collecting food, learning first aid, etc.? How about: leadership development, increased self-esteem, positive relationships with adults, respect for others, and becoming physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight?

Some of the activities local Cub Scouts are involved in include: learning leathercraft at den meetings, attending Cub Day Camp and Camp Potomac, swimming at Alpine Lake, camping, and skiing at Wisp. There are also a variety of High Adventure camps in many parts of the nation available to local Scouts.

SATURDAY

Duty to Country - Happy Birthday, BSA! We're 82 years old today. Hug a Scout today!

Boy Scouts of America began in 1909 when William D. Boyce, an American publisher, brought details of the Scout Movement to the United States from Britain. Mr. Boyce was visiting London, became lost in the fog, and an unknown British Boy Scout helped him find his way. The Scout told Boyce he was only doing his "daily good turn." Intrigued, Boyce learned where the Scout headquarters was, learned about the Movement, and returned to the United States determined to initiate the Movement here.

Boyce gathered together a number of nationally-known youth leaders, including Edgar Robinson, senior secretary of the YMCA; E.T. Seton, founder of the Woodcraft Indians; Dan Beard, founder of the Sons of Daniel Boone; and James E. West, a Washington, D.C., lawyer crippled in his youth by tuberculosis, who ultimately developed the handicapped Scouting program and the Lone Scout program for boys who did not have access to group activities.

Thus, 82 years ago today (Feb. 8), BSA officially began. The Boy Scout Handbook, which was first published in 1911, has gone through 11 editions with a total of nearly 34 million copies printed. Cub Scouting began in 1930, using Kipling's Jungle Book, as British Cubbing had done. Cub Scouting has the largest membership in the BSA - they are everywhere!

To conclude this series on the Scouting Movement, we use B-P's final message to Scouts world-wide, as he wrote the following in 1940:

Dear Scouts,

If you have ever seen the play Peter Pan, you will remember how the pirate chief was always making his dying speech, because he was afraid that possibly, when the time came for him to die, he might not have time to get it off his chest.

It is much the same with me; and so, although I am not at this moment dying, I shall be doing so one of these days, and I want to send you a parting word of goodbye.

Remember, it is the last you will ever hear from me, so think it over.

I have had a most happy life and I want each of you to have a happy life, too.

I believe that God put us in this jolly world to be happy and enjoy life.

Happiness doesn't come from being rich, nor merely being successful in your career, not by self-indulgence.

One step toward happiness is to make yourself healthy and strong while you are a boy, so that you can "be useful" and can enjoy life when you are a man.

Nature study will show you how full of beautiful and wonderful things God has made the world for you to enjoy.

Be contented with what you have, and make the best of it; look on the bright side of everything instead of the gloomy one. But the real way to get happiness is by giving out happiness to other people.

Try to leave this world a little better than you found it, and when your turn comes to die, you can die happy in feeling that at any rate you have not wasted your time, but have "done your best."

"Be prepared" in this way to live happy and die happy; stick to your Scout Promise always, even after you have ceased to be a boy; and God help you to do it.

Your friend,
Baden-Powell

B-P died on January 7, 1941, at age 83 and is buried in Kenya, Africa. His grave is marked by a simple stone engraved with his name and the trail sign, which means "I have gone home."

Cases Of Arson In Maryland Up Slightly In 1991

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the year-end arson statistics for CY 1991.

The data compiled by law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Maryland, was compiled by the Uniform Crime Reporting Program.

Arson in Maryland increased slightly during calendar year 1991, as compared to calendar year 1990. In 1991 there were 2,761 arsons reported statewide, as compared with 2,740 in 1990, for an increase of approximately one percent.

Of the five geographic regions of the state, the Western Maryland region which consists of Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties, recorded the most significant increase in arson -- a five percent increase in 1991 over 1990. There were 196 arsons recorded in the Western Maryland region last year, as compared with 186 such incidents in 1990. The most significant increase in arson in this region occurred in Carroll County, where arson offenses jumped from 41 in 1990 to 54 in 1991.

The Eastern Shore region, which consists of Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Caroline, Dorchester, Talbot, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties, tallied the second largest in arson offenses during 1991. There were 198 arsons reported in this region last year, as compared with 191 for 1990. Wicomico County reported the most significant increase in arson offenses last year, with 52 such incidents, as compared with only 40 in 1990.

The Washington Metropolitan region, which consists of Montgomery and Prince George's counties, had the greatest reduction in arson offenses of any region during 1991. Arson dropped by approximately seven percent in the region last year, with 679 arsons reported in 1991, as compared with 729 the previous year. The reduction in arsons in this region was attributed to a large drop in arsons in Prince George's County, where reported arsons declined from 329 such incidents in 1990, to 246 in 1991.

The Baltimore Metropolitan region, which consists of Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford and Howard counties, had a two percent reduction in arson offenses in 1991. There were 1,411 arsons recorded in the region last year, as compared with 1,447 tallied in 1990. The most significant decrease in arsons in the Baltimore Metropolitan area occurred in Baltimore City. Arson offenses in Baltimore City dropped from 671 in 1990 to 601 in 1991.

Arson in the Southern Maryland region which consists of Charles, St. Mary's and Calvert counties, remained at the same level in 1991 as in 1990. There were 94 incidents recorded in this region during both 1990 and 1991. The most significant change in arson in the Southern Maryland region occurred in St. Mary's County, where arson offenses increased from 32 in 1990 to 39 such incidents in 1991.

Additionally, arson incidents statewide destroyed or damaged more than $20 million dollars in property during 1991. Also, 10 people were killed in arson fires in Maryland last year.

The Arson Control Association of Maryland offers a reward of up to $5,000 for information which leads to the arrest or indictment of person(s) responsible for any arson fire in the State of Maryland. Anyone with information on any arson fire should contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal "Arson Hotline" at 1-800-492-7529. All information is kept strictly confidential.

Shaffer Awarded Child Development Assoc. Credential

Terri Shaffer, Oakland, has been awarded a Child Development Associate (CDA) Credential in recognition for her outstanding work with young children. The credential was awarded by the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition in Washington, D.C., which represents the early childhood profession.

Shaffer has been employed by the Garrett Co. Head start Program for almost five years, and works at the Crellin area center as Assistant Teacher II.

She is an active member of the Crellin Parent Teachers Association and resides near Crellin with her husband Rick and their two children.

CDA is the only major national effort to improve child care by evaluating and recognizing the skills of individuals providing care. Although the first credential was awarded just over 15 years ago, 49 states plus the District of Columbia already include CDA in child care licensing regulations. Others are considering similar action.

CDA is having a positive effect on the quality of center-based child care. Its biggest impact may yet occur with its recent availability for family day care, the most common form of care for young children.

Child care staff and parents wanting information on CDA should write the Council for Early Childhood Professional Recognition at 1718 Connecticut Avenue, N.W., 5th Floor, Washington, D.C. 20009-1148. Or call (202) 265-9090 or 1-(800)-424-4310.

Let Your Feet Do The Walking
by Diane Thayer

Leafing through the irresistible delights of the nursery catalogues led me to an overpowering desire to actually see the gardens in their spring glory. So I thought a short, and by no means totally exclusive, bibliography of some of the gardens of the Washington-Baltimore-Annapolis area might provoke a "let's-find-spring trip" in your household. If that is the case, a telephone number is given to call for more complete information on the gardens you plan to visit.

Beginning then with the arboretums, I offer the National Arboretum, Washington, D.C. (202-399-5400), which is 444 acres of rolling hills given to the study of trees and shrubs. The camellias and magnolias, which bloom from late March until mid-April, are followed by masses of dogwoods, azaleas, and rhododendrons. Indoors, the National Bonsai Collection is one of the world's best.

Clyburn Arboretum, Baltimore (301-396-0180), is 174 acres described as a wild flower preserve, garden center, and nature museum. A special "Garden of the Senses" has been developed for the handicapped.

Among the smaller gardens, many of them combined with restored homes, which are open to the public, you might enjoy a visit to the following:

Franciscan Monastery, Washington, D.C., (202-526-6800), is 40 acres devoted to a wide variety of flowers, beautifully arranged and lovingly cared for. June, when the gardens are filled with roses, is a particularly lovely time to visit.

Dumbarton Oaks and Dumbarton Oaks Park, Washington, D.C., (202-232-3101 or 202-426-6834 for the park) is an estate that takes its name from the grove of great oak trees that surround the mansion and consists of 16 acres of formal and informal, open and secluded gardens. The house is also open to the public. In the park, another 27 acres, which is one of America's smallest national wilderness parks, is a delight of wild flowers and glorious plantings of spring bulbs.

Brookside Gardens, Wheaton, (301-949-8230), is a 50-acre series of small gardens, each planted to a specific design, connected by walkways and waterways.

Londontown Public House and Gardens, Edgewater, (301-222-1919) devotes 11 acres to native trees, shrubs, and flowers. The winding paths lead to a winter garden and a salt marsh garden.

Ladew Topiary Garden, Monkton, (301-557-9466), is 15 acres of gardens from formal to whimsical, but the sculpture garden is best. The house is also open to the public.

Gunston Hall, Lorton, Va., (703-550-9220), is a combination of formal gardens, containing only plants and shrubs of the colonial period, and dense woodland. The house may also be toured.

Oatlands, Leesburg, Va., (703-777-3174), is a terraced formal garden that is considered one of the most outstanding examples of early Virginia landscape design and is the crown jewel of this wooded landscape. The house is also open to the public.

Woodlawn Plantation, Mount Vernon, Va., (703-780-3118), in its restored serpentine and bowling green acres is reminiscent of the naturalistic style of English gardening. A collection of old-fashioned roses, planted in two parterres, is a special highlight.

And finally, the specialty gardens you might enjoy visiting:

Kensington Orchids, Kensington, (301-933-9936), contains a mix of marketable flowers (18,000 Cattleya alone) and botanic specimens may be viewed in the greenhouses. Orchids also provide the most outstanding exhibit at the U.S. Botanic Gardens, Washington, D.C., (202-224-3121).

Stillridge Herb Farm, Woodstock, (301-465-8348), where the scent of herbs fills the area on a warm, summer day, offers cut-your-own program for flowers and herbs to be dried is offered on specific days.

Kenilworth Aquatic Gardens, Oxon Hill, (202-426-6905), although suffering from insufficient funds, has collection of flowering aquatic plants, unsurpassed in the world and is still worth a visit. Waterlilies are at their best in mid-June, but to see the lotus blossoms, often as large as basketballs, visit in late July or early August. For the children, turtles, frogs, and toads abound.

If you visit these gardens, or any others, let us know about those you enjoyed. The Garden Club has begun a garden shelf at the Ruth Enlow Library so that pamphlets and other printed material can be kept there for others to use in planning their trips. And don't forget the library can supply you with more complete information about these and other gardens. Just ask at the desk for the material you need.

Bon voyage.

To the Editor:

Your editorial two weeks ago on the murder trial and court costs we taxpayers pay was very "apropos." I have felt this way for 50 years very strongly; but it gets worse not better. That there has been no uprising in Garrett County concerning many legal and court aspects amazes me! I'd have thought the brazen killing of one of our own policemen (we have had 10-11 years of appeals at taxpayers expense so far) would have moved people to real action; and the legislature to change the law whereby this stalling action can't go on and on. When I see the plea bargains, in our local courts, the suspended sentences, and rarely a real sentence, and the very minimal court costs, which do not remotely touch the surface of the actual costs, I am appalled. The many well-known figures who get a change of venue and end up free or stet cases here never to be heard of again! How strange it all seems to be! Of course, all at the taxpayers expense! When will the electorate wake up and act and rebel? Before America goes down the drain? Do we need Japan to laugh at us and tell us our deficiencies?

The school transportation fiasco appalls me! As I listen to parents and people tell of their experiences in transportation, with administrators and certain school board members puppet words, I am shocked! We are supposed to be living in a "democracy." Where is the "democracy?" Is it only for the "big shots" and the "well-known" parents' children?

One thousand taxpayers have signed the petition and I am one of them for a transportation change. If there were a petition to sign to change all the Board of Education administration, who are not now and haven't been doing their job, I'd sign that also.

To have 20 plus years of this educational mess and no one do a thing about it is disgraceful!

Where in the world is the thinking majority of the school board or do you, (some of you) enjoy being a puppet and follow the leader or whomever?

The 2000 plan doesn't mention (that I can see) reading, writing and simple arithmetic; when you have students in middle school who can barely read or write, that's a travesty! Where is old reality?

Will Rip Van Winkle wake up before Japan takes us over? Think about it!

This is my opinion.

Thanks,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

The Maryland State Legislative Leaders should take seriously the G.O.P. proposed budget which would balance the Maryland budget next year without raising taxes on the already overburdened taxpayers.

Instead, Governor Schaefer's tax proposal looks to expand the sales tax to Cable TV, dry cleaning, auto repairs, and data processing.

We shouldn't expand taxes to the consumers of these services any more than we should expand or raise the many other taxes which the Governor proposes. He should get his legislative leaders to study the Republican budget proposal which is fair and sensible with no additional taxes! In fact, what the Governor should propose are tax cuts, for when you lower taxes government spending has to be cut and this is a sound way to cure budget deficits.

To the Editor:

I wish to clarify a number of points regarding an article which appeared in your January 30, 1992 newspaper. The article's headline was "Jewish Leader Will Be Guest Of Local Church." The alleged "Jewish Leader" who was the subject of this piece is Reverend Larry Jaffrey.

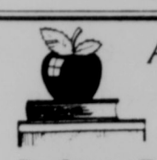
In the plainest of terms, Reverend Jaffrey is most certainly not a leader of Jews. He is, in fact a Baptist minister whose ministry specializes in enticing Jews to abandon the faith and traditions of our ancestors. Ours are rich and affirming traditions which date back over four thousand years.

I have no doubt that Reverend Jaffrey is a well-intentioned man. But surely he is unaware that when he "ministers" to Jews, he misrepresents and devalues the beliefs and values of our people. Generations of Jews have found undiminished fulfillment and meaning in Jewish teachings and Jewish values. It causes us tremendous pain when people like Reverend Jaffrey twist our traditions to suit their own manipulative ends.

Sincerely,
Rabbi Scott A. Gurdin

To the Editor:

Being a former Garrett Countian, I read The Republican with great interest each week. In the January 30 edition, the article that caught my attention most was the one about the new Sunshine Program at Garrett Memorial Hospital.



Over the past years, I have had the occasion to spend many days and, yes nights in the hospital with my aging parents -- with only one or two exceptions did I ever encounter any employee from administration to maintenance, to nursing to medical staff who could benefit from further training in the fields of Smiles, Understanding, Nice, Service, Healing, Inspiration, Nurturing and Extraordinary Care.

I could also add a few more adjectives to this list to describe these great people.

This care did not stop at the discharge desk, but followed them into their home with the Home Nursing Care staff and the Mobile Medical Services.

To each and everyone, I would like to say thanks to all the "Sunshine" you all have brought into our lives.

Sincerely a grateful daughter,
Lois Mellinger Williams

An Update From The Superintendent

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

THE SCHOOL COUNSELING PROGRAM
(This article was written with the assistance of Ms. Eleanor Sloan-Miller, one of the Pupil Personnel Workers with the Garrett County Board of Education.)

The Garrett County School Guidance Program is celebrating National School Counselors' Week February 3-7. Currently, the Garrett County Board of Education has 11 school counselors -- five in the high schools, three in the middle schools, three elementary counselors, three pupil personnel workers, and one director of pupil services who provide guidance services to the 5,110 students in our system.

The counselors, in accordance with the Maryland State Guidance Standards, perform five major roles in providing services to students.

1. Counselors work actively in school or system-wide curriculum planning which affects vocational and career planning. They conduct in-service instructional career development programming for parents, administrators, and teachers. Some of these activities include:

A. Assessing the guidance-related needs of students and establishing specific guidance objectives based on these needs such as referrals, team meetings, parental requests.

B. Identifying and using available school and community resources for meeting guidance objectives.

C. Serving as an integral part of the school team which develops and coordinates the means by which the student's education growth is evaluated.

2. Counselors also involve themselves in activities of student appraisal. This includes organization and interpreting a variety of diagnostic information (i.e.: test data, teacher reports, observational records) for the purpose of helping students, parents, and the professional school staff to make better decisions.

3. Another vital role of the counselor is the individual/group counseling which requires special expertise. Such expertise includes advanced understanding of learning and development, individual and group intervention strategies, and knowledge of vocational choice processes. The overall basic objectives of counseling are to foster an awareness of self-management, interpersonal, and decision-making skills. Elementary counselors, especially, concentrate on instilling and maintaining high self-esteem. They also cooperatively work with students and teachers on study skills.

4. Consulting services provided by counselors help school and non-school persons deal with the educational, personal, social, and physical needs of students. They consult with parents regarding developmental aspects of their children. They also consult with parents regarding post-secondary opportunities and sources of financial aid available to them.

5. A final role of the counselor is providing students with educational, vocational, personal, and social information on which to base their choices and decisions. The counselors' educational placement activities provide students with an opportunity to achieve educational goals by helping them select and use opportunities within or outside school.

One of the seven goals of the Garrett County Board of Education is to develop in each student a positive self concept. The guidance counselors and other pupil personnel workers are committed to seeing that this goal is fulfilled in our schools.

What's happening in our schools?

* Students in the fourth and fifth grades at Red House will be visited by Alyse George from the Cumberland Evening Times-News to discuss advertising. Students will then participate in a writing project of their own.

* Students in Mrs. Thompson's and Mr. Warne's fourth grade classes at Grantsville Elementary will have Mr. Haselrode of Potomac Edison visit to speak on electric safety around the home and how to prevent accidents.

* Something very exciting happening at the Friendsville Elementary School is the publication of their literary newspaper. Under the direction of Mr. Doug Gaither, fourth/fifth grade teacher, the publication promotes writing with students. Local businesses have willingly helped with the cost of publishing and the first edition "hit the streets" last week.

* On February 13 the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce and the Garrett County Board of Education will hold their third annual School + Business = Partnerships luncheon at Southern High School. All county business people are invited (see separate article).

The Garrett County Schools Update can be heard each week on WMSG Radio at 8:35 a.m. each Monday, WXIE Radio at 8:30 a.m. each Saturday, and at 3:30 p.m. each Saturday on WAIJ Radio.

* Dr. David Bolinger visited Mr. Harvey's fifth grade class at Broad Ford Elementary School on Wednesday and spoke to students about the skeletal system.

Managers For Keyser's Ridge McDonald's Named

Four full-time managers have been named for the new McDonald's Restaurant in Keyser's Ridge. According to an announcement by Al Boxley, owner/operator, Mark Bittner has been named store manager, and John Knipple, Mark Klavuhn, and Steve DeVault as assistant managers.

Bittner started with the company as a swing shift manager in 1983. Since that time he has worked his way through the management chain. His most recent position was as store manager at the McDonald's in LaVale. Bittner is a graduate of Beall High School and has attended McDonald's Training Center, where he completed courses in basic operations, intermediate operations and an applied equipment course. He also completed the advanced operations course at Hamburger University in Oakbrook, Ill. Bittner resides in Eckhart with his wife and their two sons.

John Knipple assumes the position of first assistant manager at the new store. He began his career with McDonald's in 1983 as a crew person and has also worked his way through the management ranks, having last worked at the LaVale restaurant as first assistant manager. Knipple attended Allegany Community College where he obtained a degree in data processing technology. He has completed McDonald's training courses in basic operations, intermediate operations and applied equipment. He and his wife reside in Cumberland.

Coming from the Oakland McDonald's, Mark Klavuhn, joins the Keyser's Ridge management team as a second assistant manager. His career with McDonald's began in 1988 where he started as a manager trainee. A resident of Oakland, he attended Fort Hill High School and Allegany Community College. He also served as chef apprenticeship under world famous Chef Al Heinz. Klavuhn has also completed the basic operations, intermediate operations, and applied equipment courses through McDonald's. He, his wife, and three children reside in Oakland.

New to the McDonald's organization, Steve DeVault joined the company in September 1991 as a manager trainee. He is a graduate of Valley High School and completed the basic operations course in November. He and his wife live in Cresaptown with their daughter.

The new restaurant opened December 28 and has 60 employees. A grand opening celebration is planned for Saturday, February 15.

Heart to Heart TREATS

Valentine's Day is a time for special treats—and what could be better than something with a homemade touch. After all, gifts from the kitchen are gifts of your time, imagination and thoughtfulness. They say, "I really care about you."

Here are five easy-to-prepare recipes using Karo Corn Syrup, Diamond Walnuts and cherries. Corn syrup makes candies and other confections smoother and creamier, while adding moisture to baked goods. The crunchy texture and mellow flavor of walnuts are ideal for eye-appealing cookies, candies and cakes. Cherries add ruby-red color and a tangy taste to homemade specialties. They're perfect for Valentine's Day and other occasions in February, which is National Cherry Month.

For romantic presentations, dress your gifts in tantalizing fashion with fancy containers, shiny ribbons and lacy doilies. As an added personal touch, attach a copy of the recipe.

Treats to Go

- Small baskets are ideal for candies or cookies. Tie a ribbon over the handle; fill empty corners with sprigs of baby's breath.
- Spruce up an old basket with a coat of spray paint. Allow to dry thoroughly before filling with sweet treats.
- Line a cookie or candy tin with a lace doily; attach a red rose on top.
- Extra Christmas wrap, especially red or white bows and paper, can be recycled for Valentine's Day. Scraps of linen or old lace make gift packages festive.
- Inexpensive stickers, available at card and specialty stores, make decorating cardboard boxes or plastic containers easy.
- Use aluminum foil to dress up a plain box for transporting your Valentine's Day gift. Attach red velvet ribbons or glitzy pieces of gold twine.
- To serve the "Be Mine" Brownie Cake at home, use a festive plate, perhaps that bright red one you picked up at a garage sale. Or for a hint of nostalgia and romance, use Grandma's pink depression glass cake plate.

Tips for Treats

- Don't overcook cherries when using them in recipes. As with other fruits, it is best to add them during one of the last cooking steps, if possible.
- Once opened, cherry pie filling or canned cherries should be used immediately or transferred to plastic or glass containers with tight-fitting lids. Refrigerate up to 10 days.
- To toast walnuts, spread them on a baking sheet or in a shallow pan before chopping. Bake in 350°F oven 10 to 12 minutes; stir several times. To toast in a microwave, spread about 1 cup walnuts in a single layer in a glass pie plate. Microwave on HIGH 5 to 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes.
- To estimate how many walnuts to buy for a recipe, follow this guide: 1 cup shelled walnuts equals 4 ounces; 1 pound of shelled walnuts equals 4 cups; 1 pound in-the-shell walnuts equals about 2 cups shelled walnuts.
- Corn syrup can be used in place of sugar in some, but not all, recipes. For best results, follow recipes that have been developed especially for corn syrup.
- Light and dark corn syrups generally are interchangeable, but dark corn syrup is preferred when a rich brown color and distinctive molasses-like flavor is desired.

"BE MINE" BROWNIE CAKE

Rave reviews won't stop on Valentine's Day when you serve this moist, almost decadent, chocolate layer topped with cherries, walnuts and whipped cream.

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
½ cup sugar
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 can (21 ounces) cherry filling and topping, divided
¾ cup chopped walnuts, divided
1 cup sweetened whipped cream or whipped topping

Grease and flour a 9-inch round or heart-shaped cake pan. In large bowl with mixer at medium speed, beat butter and sugar until smooth. Beat in corn syrup and vanilla. Add eggs and chocolate; beat until smooth. Stir in flour and salt. Fold in ¾ cup cherry filling and walnuts, reserving 2 tablespoons walnuts for garnish. Pour batter into prepared pan.

Bake in 325°F oven 40 to 45 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan on wire rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool completely.

Pipe or spoon whipped cream around edge of cake. Fill center with remaining cherry filling. Garnish with remaining walnuts.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

"HUG ME" FUDGE

Candies always take the spotlight on Valentine's Day, and this fudge is easy to prepare in a microwave.

1 cup sugar
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
¼ cup milk
½ cup butter or margarine
12 large marshmallows or 1½ cups miniature marshmallows
1 package (12 ounces) semisweet chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups coarsely chopped walnuts
1 cup coarsely chopped dried cherries (or chopped maraschino cherries*)

Lightly grease an 8-inch square pan. In 2-quart microwavable bowl combine sugar, corn syrup and milk. Top with butter. Microwave on HIGH (100%) 5 minutes; stir to dissolve sugar. Add marshmallows. Microwave on HIGH (100%) 5 minutes. Stir in chocolate until melted. Stir in vanilla, walnuts and cherries. Pour into prepared pan. Refrigerate 1 hour or until firm; cut into squares.

Makes 25 squares.

Note: Dried cherries are available at gourmet and specialty stores. If not available, maraschino cherries are an excellent substitute. Drain cherries well, chop coarsely and press between paper towels to remove as much moisture as possible.

"KISS ME" CANDY

This vanilla fudge is guaranteed to tempt your Valentine's sweet tooth.

2 cups sugar
½ cup sour cream
⅓ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
½ cup coarsely chopped maraschino cherries, well drained

Lightly grease an 8-inch square pan or 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. In 3-quart microwavable bowl combine sugar, sour cream, corn syrup, butter and salt. Microwave on HIGH (100%) 5 minutes. Stir to dissolve sugar. Microwave on HIGH (100%) 6 to 7 minutes or until mixture reaches 236°F on a candy thermometer. Let stand 15 minutes; DO NOT STIR. Add vanilla. Beat until mixture starts to thicken, about 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in walnuts and cherries. Quickly spread into prepared pan. Refrigerate 1 hour; cut into pieces.

Makes about 25 pieces.

"CUTIE PIES"

Add a gourmet touch to Valentine's Day gifts with these miniature walnut tarts.

Cream Cheese Pastry:
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon sugar
1⅓ cups all-purpose flour
Pinch salt

Walnut Filling:

½ cup sugar
½ cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup finely chopped walnuts

Filling: In medium bowl beat eggs slightly. Stir in sugar, corn syrup, butter, vanilla and walnuts. Spoon 1 tablespoon mixture into each pastry-lined cup.

Bake in 350°F oven 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool in pans 5 minutes. Remove; cool completely on wire rack. Store in tightly covered container.

Makes about 2 dozen.

"I ❤ U" COOKIES

Cherry-filled treats are perfect for a child's classroom party or a potluck.

1 cup butter or margarine, softened
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
⅓ cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, separated
2½ cups all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups finely chopped walnuts
1 can (21 ounces) cherry filling and topping

In large bowl with mixer at medium speed, beat butter, sugar and vanilla until light and fluffy. Beat in corn syrup and egg yolks. Stir in flour and salt until blended. Refrigerate dough 30 minutes.

Roll dough into 1-inch balls. In small bowl lightly beat egg whites. Dip balls in egg whites and roll in walnuts. Place 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheets. With thumb make deep indentation in center of each cookie. Bake in 325°F oven 20 minutes or until set. Remove to wire rack. Cool completely. Fill with cherry filling.

Makes about 4 dozen.

R
A SIMPLE TEST FOR EMPHYSEMA

Advanced Emphysema and chronic bronchitis have caused millions of respiratory cripples. These diseases start slowly and early symptoms are not too troublesome. Many people wrongly ignore them. The best chance for control is an early detection and prompt treatment. Watch out for morning coughing spells or shortness of breath during your daily activities.

Take this match test. Light an ordinary match and hold it lit about 12 inches from your mouth. Take a normal breath and then "huff" out the match without pursing your lips. If the match is not blown out you may have emphysema. See your physician for a positive diagnosis.

The lights don't light. The washer can't wash. The pot isn't perking. The TV won't transmit. What is the problem??

The circuit is broken!

There can be no power to run the household if the circuit . . . the source of power . . . is broken. If the load is too great, it just shuts down. The power will not be restored until the load is lightened, so the circuit is complete.

Do you possess the power to run your life . . . without stress overload? Yes . . . if God is your source. He will lighten your load.

Connect with your Source each week as your life is reset when you are touched by His spiritual energy as you commune with God in His house. Give God the power in your life! In the words of the greatest prayer ever prayed . .

"For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen"

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

Mentioned in the Prayer
February 9, 1992

Background Scripture:
John 17.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 1:11-22

A friend once told me that one of the highpoints in his religious life came when one Sunday morning, his pastor, knowing that he was facing the defense of his doctoral dissertation, mentioned him by name in his prayer for the congregation. "It meant so much to know that the congregation was praying specifically for me," he said.

There are times when we are facing challenges, when we have experienced a severe loss, when we are fearful, depressed, or feeling defeated. We all have times like that. In the midst of those times, we need to remember that someone has already prayed for us and is still doing so at that very moment. You see, when Jesus prayed what is often known as his "High Priestly Prayer," He prayed for us.

PRAYING EXULTANTLY

Think of the circumstances of this prayer. The situation facing him is bleak. This is the night in which he was betrayed and he knew that in the hour of crisis the disciples would be frightened away. He knew that the cross loomed before him. In his circumstances I know how I would have prayed -- desperately, fearfully, despondently. I know that because that is what I have done in situations far less threatening and dishearting than this one.

So how does Jesus pray? Exultantly would be a good description of his prayer: "Father, the hour has come; glorify thy Son that the Son may glorify thee..." (17:1). Eight separate times in this prayer, Jesus uses the term "glorify," "glorified," or "glory"! He is celebrating with thankfulness the goodness of God. This is not the prayer of a beaten man, but one whose faith is stronger and more secure than the worst that can befall him. He asks not for protection, nor for escape, but that God will glorify him that he may bring glory to God. That is the only petition he makes for himself: to fulfill God's purpose.

The second is a petition for his disciples, John 17:6-19. In this hour when one could easily understand that his prayers would be for himself and his own situation, Jesus turns most of his attention to praying for his followers. What does he ask for them? Two things. First, "Holy Father, keep them in thy name which thou hast given me, that they may be one, even as we are one" (17:11b). He prays that his followers may know the same unity among themselves that Jesus and the Father knew. I can't read that without thinking about how often we resist that intention. Congregations, denominations and Christendom itself continually split and splitting, denying the unity for which Christ prayed and still prays.

OUT OF THIS WORLD

His second petition for his disciples is very clear: "I do not pray that thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that thou shouldst keep them from the evil one" (17:15). How often Christians persuade themselves that they could more fully live out their Christian discipleship if only they would be protected from the world. But it is not escape from the world, but protection from its power to steal our souls that is his desire for us. Although he and we are not of the world, we are undeniably in it. So the test of Christianity is not what it could be if it were protected from the world, but what it can be in the midst of it.

Finally, Jesus comes to us. Referring first to the apostles, Jesus says: "I do not pray for these only, but also for those who are to believe in me through their word, that they may all be one" (17:20). That's me! That's you! When he prayed this prayer, Jesus had us in mind and his dearest wish is that we may also experience that same unity.

COVER STORY

Boots and a back may affect skating medals

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

This week, the XVI Winter Olympics Games begin in earnest, and among the most eagerly watched sports will be the television favorite, figure skating. To get a rundown on the competition, we turned to Scott Hamilton, an Olympic gold medalist in 1984 for men's figure skating and a commentator for CBS, which is airing nightly prime-time Olympic coverage.

Scott Hamilton

Pairs (Feb. 9 and 11): "It's between Natalia Mishkutenok-Artur Dmitriev (CIS, formerly the USSR) and Isabelle Brasseur-Lloyd Eisler (Canada) for the gold medal," says Hamilton. But the battle for the bronze could be fierce. Two U.S. teams, Calla Urbanski-Rocky Marval or Natasha Kuchiki-Todd Sand, could be in there, as well as Radka Kovarikova-Rene Novotny (Czechoslovakia) or Elena Bechke-Denis Petrov (CIS).

Men's (Feb. 13 and 15): "It's kind of bizarre what's going on with the men," says Hamilton.

Canada's Kurt Browning, a three-time world champion, would be the odds-on favorite, but Browning is suffering from back problems. That would seem to give Viktor Petrenko (CIS), who pushed Browning hard at last year's world championships, the edge. "But he's had a lot of boot problems," says Hamilton. Boot problems? "I guess they were twisted or the soles weren't right, and he was having a real hard time jumping in them." A world-class skater like Petrenko can't get a decent pair of skating boots? "It seems like the quality control on a lot of the equipment has really gone down," Hamilton explains. "Pretty much everyone sizes it up between Browning and Petrenko, but with Browning's back injury and Petrenko's equipment problems, you've gotta add Todd Eldredge (U.S.), Christopher Bowman (U.S.) and Petr Barna (Czechoslovakia)."

Dance (Feb. 14, 16 and 17): "Paul and Isabelle Duchesnay (France) are going to be a big story," says Hamilton. Other likely medal winners are Marina Klimova-Sergei Ponomarenko (CIS) and Maia Usova-Alexander Zhulin (CIS). Hamilton is not sanguine about U.S. chances. "April Sargent and Russ Witherby are strong," he says. "But ice dancing has been very European for a long time. The American style just hasn't caught on."

Women's (Feb. 19 and 21): "Midori Ito (Japan), Kristi Yamaguchi (U.S.), Tonya Harding (U.S.) and Nancy Kerrigan (U.S.) are all contenders for medals," says Hamilton. "Midori's got the jumps, but Kristi is the complete skater. Tonya Harding also has that explosive jumping ability that Midori has. With Midori, if she's on, she's spectacular. But if she starts making mistakes ..."

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

PATSY CLINE – My mother recently gave me some of the old write-ups she had saved on her favorite singer, Patsy Cline, who is also one of my favorites. How did Patsy Cline get started as a singer? – H.M., Atlanta

Patsy Cline

This country great was born Virginia Patterson Hensley on Sept. 8, 1932, in Winchester, Va. She started studying piano at the age of 8, but she didn't start singing until she was a teen-ager. Her 1957 performance on the TV show "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts" led to a contract with Decca Records. Cline's hits include "Walkin' After Midnight," "I Fall to Pieces," "She's Got You" and "Crazy" (which was written by a young singer-songwriter named Willie Nelson). On March 5, 1963, while on her way home from a benefit concert, Cline died in a plane crash in Camden, Tenn. She was 30 years old. Cline was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1973.

You may be interested in viewing "Sweet Dreams," a 1985 film dramatization of Cline's life in which Jessica Lange stars as the singer. It is available on video.

RONSTADT'S ROOTS – How old is Linda Ronstadt? Is it true that she is Spanish? She doesn't look it. – J.C., Honolulu

Singer Linda Ronstadt, who is 45 years old, is of half-Mexican, half-German ancestry.

ENDLESS TREK – Is it true that the sixth "Star Trek" film is going to be the last one made with members from the original crew? – B.D., Prospect Harbor, Maine

"Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country" was supposed to be the last voyage for the original crew of the starship Enterprise. However, Trekkies and the latest generation of new fans have turned out for this movie in such numbers that insiders have started talking about the possibility that yet another sequel may be filmed. There is also speculation that the continuing interest might lead to a spinoff TV series, which might be a prequel to the current popular syndicated series "Star Trek: The Next Generation." But none of this has been confirmed.

SAINT JIM – I am trying to reach Jim Mora, the head coach of the New Orleans Saints. Can you help? – T.K.H., Macomb, Ill.

Write to Mora in care of the Saints at 6928 Saints Dr., Metairie, LA 70003.

Elizondo and Dennehy star in Turow adaptation

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

The words "taut thriller" do not spring to mind when one is asked to describe the ABC miniseries "Burden of Proof" (Feb. 9 and 10), an adaptation of Scott Turow's best-selling novel that follows the successful 1990 film based on Turow's "Presumed Innocent." Since "Burden of Proof" is much more of a leisurely read and has the slow and dimwitted pace of a lawyerly soap opera, it is unable to sustain a four-hour presentation. Hector Elizondo is Sandy Stern, a highly placed defense attorney who, after his wife commits suicide, finds himself defending his commodities broker brother-in-law (Brian Dennehy) in a messy federal investigation while trying to get to the bottom of his wife's death and juggling involvements with several women (played by Victoria Principal, Stefanie Powers and Mel Harris). While "Burden" gives the "War and Peace" treatment to unimportant details, other seemingly important facets are afforded scant attention – like why Stern draws women like "June bugs to a porch light," one of many ludicrous lines from Principal, who plays the twangy Gomer Pyle-style commodities executive, the source of down-home gems like this, in a cast of characters where few have much more dimension. The characters, like the story, have a habit of blending into the woodpaneled law offices, and we forget why or what we're watching.

Elizondo and Harris

- In the hit 1990 comedy/action/drama flick "Kindergarten Cop" (NBC, Feb. 9 and 14), Arnold Schwarzenegger stars as John Kimble, a Los Angeles cop who attempts to foil a kidnapping by posing as a small-town kindergarten teacher. While waiting for the criminal to show up, Kimble passes the time militarizing the tots and teaches them that it's more fun to march and clean than it is to play. The NBC premiere airs twice this week.
- "In the Line of Duty: Siege at Marion" (NBC, Feb. 10), the fourth installment of NBC's successful "Line of Duty" movies, tells the true-life story of law-enforcement officials' efforts to subdue a band of militant religious fanatics. After her husband is killed by police, Mrs. John Singer (played by Tess Harper) barricades herself, her vengeful son-in-law (Kyle Secor) and her nine innocent children in her Utah home. She is heavily armed and dares the FBI to exert its authority.

Ed Begley stars as the lawman who is determined to resolve the conflict without bloodshed.

SOAP SCOOP

Bell's ears are ringing with deserved accolades

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Monday is said to be power night at Chasen's restaurant in Hollywood, where the movie and TV elite meet. This Monday, Feb. 10, the elite of the soap world meets at Chasen's to toast the 35th anniversary in soaps of William J. Bell, the creator of "The Young and the Restless" and "The Bold and the Beautiful."

The habitually modest Bell,

William Bell

65, says, "I was always happy with the recognition of the Nielsens, but this will be fun, too." Columbia Pictures TV, which co-owns "Y&R" and "Days of Our Lives" – which Bell wrote in the late '60s and early '70s – hosts the dinner.

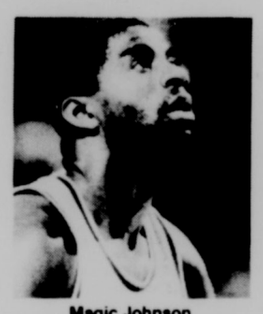
Bell's soap resume is impressive both in terms of quality and quantity. He started writing soaps in 1956 on Irna Phillips' "As the World Turns," and he went on to co-create and co-write "Another World" with Phillips in 1964. From there, Bell moved to "DOOL" and then – with his wife, Lee Phillip Bell – to co-create "Y&R" and "B&B."

Every soap that Bell has worked on has either been close to or at the top of the ratings. ("Y&R" is the current No. 1 soap.) No one else in TV can claim 35 years of continuing success. Bell has written and/or produced an estimated 10,000 soap episodes.

Bell is a master storyteller who understands character. His greatest strength is that he understands story timing and knows how to utilize story-line suspense to get viewers addicted to his shows. (One "DOOL" romantic story line in the '70s ran seven years, during which time the show was at or near No. 1.) Yet Bell is sensitive when it's suggested that he drags his stories out.

"I only have myself to use as a barometer – how the story grasps my interest, if every day we tell that story we can bring an element of interest to it," he says. "We deepen the story every day by means of story movement itself or character involvement."

Over the last 10 years, most soaps have gone in the opposite direction, with shorter story lines and briefer scenes to please an audience that has an ever-decreasing attention span. "The fact that the Nielsen numbers are what they are suggests that we're on the right track," says Bell. "Look at the Nikki/Victor story (on 'Y&R'). That's a continuing story that has no end and has been going on for 10 years. There are so many peaks and valleys in the telling of that story."



As the unparalleled career of Bill Bell shows, soaps can be robustly long-lived – but only if they're done well.

Magic plans to play at NBA All-Star Game

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

The usually exciting midseason National Basketball Association all-star showcase continues its tour of expansion cities this year when the best of the East meet the best of the West Sunday, Feb. 9, at the Orlando Arena, home court of the Magic, who are currently engaged in their third NBA campaign. NBC carries the 42nd NBA All-Star Game live.

Magic Johnson

Last year, the NBA's run-and-gun showcase was held in Charlotte, N.C., where the East won, 116-114. The year before, the game was held in Miami. Charles Barkley of the Philadelphia 76ers walked away with the MVP honors at last year's game when he scored 17 points and grabbed 22 rebounds in 35 minutes for the winners. Chicago's Michael Jordan led all scorers with 26 points in 36 minutes for the East. Expect both players to see plenty of playing time in Orlando, but the star shedding the most light Sunday afternoon is sure to be former Los Angeles Laker Earvin "Magic" Johnson.

Johnson, you'll remember, caught the attention of the world at large this past November when he abruptly announced his retirement from basketball after having tested positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. While by all reports he hasn't shown any symptoms of AIDS, Johnson made the decision to step away from the strenuous, demanding routine of pro basketball to better enable his body to battle the virus and to become a visible spokesman in the ongoing fight against the disease.

Still, Johnson has remained physically active, and there is a good chance that he'll put in some minutes at Sunday's All-Star Game. He has declared his intention to play in the game if he is selected, and throughout most of the fan voting, Johnson remained a solid second, behind Portland's Clyde Drexler, among Western Conference guards.

We're hoping he's in Orlando, on the floor, in uniform. You'll pardon the unavoidable pun, but that would truly be a Magic moment.

- CBS and TNT coverage of the XVI Winter Olympics continues from Albertville, France, this week. CBS has 10 and a half hours of coverage throughout the day on Sunday, Feb. 9; six hours per day (part of it in the morning and part of it in prime time) during the week; and nine and a half hours throughout the day on Saturday, Feb. 15. TNT has five hours of Olympic programming per day on weekday afternoons.

IN FOCUS

PBS's "Mystery!" series invariably does a fine job of adapting Agatha Christie's mystery novels to the screen, and "The Kidnapped Prime Minister," airing Thursday, Feb. 13 (check local listings), is no exception. Part of a series of adaptations, it stars David Suchet as Christie's eccentric but brilliant detective Hercule Poirot, who is entangled in a maze of foreign intrigue that is always surprising as well as entertaining.

IN FOCUS

Marty Stouffer intends to debunk the skunk's reputation as a noxious smell-maker, but in so doing, he demonstrates that our little striped friend is a rabid killer and bloody fighter, in "Those Smelly Skunks," airing Saturday, Feb. 15, on the PBS nature series "Wild America." (Check local listings.) Sensitive viewers are cautioned – the close-up, slow motion shots of the mechanics of skunk spraying are not for everyone.

Cancer Control Grant Awarded To State DHMH

Nelson J. Sabatini, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), has announced the state health department has received a $15 million grant from the federal Centers for Disease Control (CDC) for statewide breast and cervical cancer control programs.

"We are very pleased to announce that Maryland will be one of four new states to receive funding for these programs," said Sabatini. "Prevention and early detection of breast and cervical cancer are crucial aspects of Governor William Donald Schaefer's cancer control plan for the state of Maryland. This money will go a long way toward helping us accomplish those goals."

The grant covers a period of four years and seven months with a projected budget of approximately $3 million per year. The purpose of the award is to provide mammography and pap tests to low income women statewide, to provide professional education, public education, quality assurance and surveillance.

More than 800 women in Maryland die of breast cancer each year. Maryland has the 10th highest breast cancer mortality rate in the nation. Breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in women (after lung cancer) both in Maryland and in the nation. Early detection using mammography and clinical breast examination can reduce breast cancer mortality by 30 percent. If breast cancer is detected early, the 5-year survival rate is 90 percent. If detected in the latter stages, the 5-year survival rate drops to 18 percent.

Mammography screening is a mandated health insurance benefit in the state. Under a law passed in the 1991 General Assembly, health insurance companies in Maryland are required to provide coverage for this service to all subscribers. DHMH also formed the Coordinated Breast Cancer Screening Program, as part of which several hospitals across the state offer mammography screening for just $45. DHMH encourages female Medical Assistance recipients to have mammograms according to the recommended age schedule.

Cervical cancer deaths can be prevented through early detection using the Pap test. It is recommended that all women who are sexually active or have reached the age of 18 have a Pap test annually.

LIGHTHOUSE MEMBERS LEARN VOTING PROCEDURES -- The League of Women Voters (LWV) of Garrett County recently gave a presentation to members of Lighthouse, a program of psychiatric support services, on registration and voting procedures. Lighthouse members spent an hour listening and asking questions about how to register, party affiliations and the difference between primary and general elections. It was also announced at the time that "The Voter's Guide" would be printed by The Republican newspaper in the February 27 issue where a sample ballot will be shown. Pictured above, left to right, are Mike Dennis, Lighthouse director; Audra Carr and Patty Gregory, Lighthouse members; Dorothy Leighton, LWV presenter; Mary Deam, Helen Ravenscroft and Boyd Johnson, Lighthouse members, and Connie Margison, LWV president. Marylanders Spend On Entertainment Despite Economy

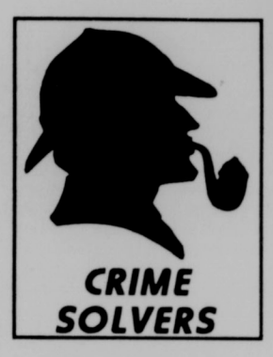
Marylanders spent $88.4 million, or about one percent more, in taxable entertainment during October, November, and December, 1991, than during the same three months of the previous year, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "Contrary to what you might expect, Marylanders increased their entertainment spending dispite the economic downturn," Goldstein said.

The entertainment spending translates into more than $5.9 million in admissions and amusement tax revenue for local governments.

While spending for shows and exhibits, live theatre and concerts, golf and athletic facilities and equipment rentals increased, Marylanders spent less on traditional entertainment activities such as athletic events and motion pictures. Statewide spending for live theatre and concerts increased by about 6.1% over the same period last year, to $2.4 million, while spending on movie admissions decreased by about 11.5%, to about $14.3 million. Spending on shows and exhibits also registered an increase of 2.6% to more than $4 million.



Spending on the types of indoor activities popular in the colder months showed increases as usual. Marylanders spent more than $3 million on athletic facilities and equipment rentals, a 3.3% increase over spending for the same quarter last year.

Golfers enjoyed the pleasant fall temperatures and mild winter enough to spend nearly $10 million in fees and rentals, up 9.4% for the same period of the previous year. Mild weather was also responsible for the 20.5% increase in spending for boat rides. "Out of the $2.1 million spent on boat rides, more than half of that amount was spent in Baltimore City itself," Goldstein said, "reflecting tourism and entertainment activity centered in the Inner Harbor."

"All of this spending for entertainment generates admissions and amusement tax revenue which our office collects for Maryland counties, cities and towns," Goldstein said. The comptroller noted that checks totaling $5,969,408 are on their way to local governments as their share of the admissions and amusement tax receipts.

"This distribution is about 4.4% more than the $5,715,549 we returned to the local governments for the October-December period of 1990," Goldstein said. "We collect this revenue at rates set by local officials and return the money to local governments each quarter.

The amounts being returned to Garrett County was $16,791, down from $18,459 from the same quarter the previous year.

On Dec. 18, 1991, between 4:05 and 4:25 p.m., the Friendsville Texaco Station in Friendsville was the victim of a theft. The unknown culprit, while loitering at the Texaco Station, removed miscellaneous cash, checks, and receipts totalling $599.75. They were contained in a blue money bag that was located on a counter behind the cash register.

The money bag was later located at the First United Methodist Church on Water Street in Friendsville. The culprit is described as a white male in his mid 20's to early 30's, around 5-11, and weighing approximately 140-150 pounds. He had a moustache/beard and reddish/brown hair. The subject was last seen wearing dark pants and a gray hooded sweatshirt with a black leather "biker" type jacket.

Persons who have information about this case or any other unsolved crime are asked to call the Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Those whose tips lead to the arrest and charging of the responsible party are eligible for a reward of up to $1000. Informants do not have to give their name nor appear in court.

Maryland Announces Midwinter Waterfowl Inventory Results

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced the results of 1992 Midwinter Waterfowl Inventory.

The inventory was conducted January 6-12 by three aerial survey teams representing the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Maryland Department of Natural Resources - Wildlife Division, and the Grand National Waterfowl Hunt Club of Cambridge. Survey teams included pilots and wildlife biologists.

Mild weather and the subsequent lack of snow and ice cover resulted in a broad distribution of waterfowl. Survey crews counted over 577,000 waterfowl compared to 690,000 last year. Population indices for most species remained unchanged in 1992 compared to the previous year. Survey results showed that dabbling ducks totaled 82,000 n 1992 versus 78,000 in 1991. Mallards and black ducks comprised the majority of the dabblers observed, totaling 53,000 and 19,300, respectively.

Diving duck numbers, however, were down 70 percent from 1991. This decrease was primarily caused by a decline in scaup numbers from 107,600 in 1991 to 31,900 in 1992. Other diving ducks showed little change from last year and included canvasbacks (35,600), goldeneye (3,000), bufflehead (15,200), and ruddy ducks (8,100).

Canada goose numbers of 306,000 were similar to the total of 332,000 in 1991. Preliminary age ratio data from geese processed at waterfowl-picking businesses and field bag checks indicate that gosling production was again poor in 1991. Although spring was early throughout eastern Canada, adverse weather, i.e., late spring storms, likely reduced gosling production in northern Quebec.

Snow goose numbers totaled 63,400. Snow geese continue to expand their use of upland agricultural habitats, inland ponds and tidal habitats. Snow geese were observed on Chesapeake Bay off the Kent County bayshore for the first time this year.

Tundra swan numbers were unchanged from last year, totaling 23,000 in 1992 versus 23,100 on the 1991 survey.

Dulcimer Artist To Perform At Frostburg State

Greg Latta, an award-winning hammered dulcimer artist, will be performing at Frostburg State University's Cafe Frostburg Saturday, February 15, beginning at 8 p.m. The concert, in the University's Lane Center Greenhouse, is free and open to the public.

Latta has sung and played folk, bluegrass, Celtic, and the music of the Middle Ages for over 20 years. A member of the Frostburg State faculty, he started singing and playing guitar and banjo in Akron, Ohio, coffeehouses during the late 1960s. After being drawn to bluegrass music, he took up the hammered dulcimer as a solo instrument.

Latta is the winner of the 1990 Mid-Eastern Regional Hammered Dulcimer Championship and says he enjoys playing music as diverse as traditional folk to Broadway musicals. Locally, he has performed during workshops at the Rocky Gap Music Festival, Heritage Days, Highland Festival, and the Meyersdale Maple Festival. In addition, Latta is the host of the radio show "Just Plain Folks," which can be heard Saturday afternoons on WFWM, 91.7, the Frostburg State University public radio station.

Penicillin Allergy: The Bad and Good News

The bad news about penicillin allergy is that it can be life threatening. In a person with an allergy to penicillin, a single dose of the antibiotic can produce anaphylactic shock. This is a severe reaction which may involve itching, hives, breathing problems, and collapse of the circulatory system. Without immediate medical intervention, death may result. Because of the severity of penicillin reactions in some individuals, few physicians use this antibiotic in persons with a history of penicillin allergy.

There is some good news about penicillin allergy. According to a recent study published in British Medical Journal, only a small percentage of people with a reported history of penicillin allergy are clinically at risk of having a serious reaction. One hundred thirty-two persons with a history of penicillin allergy were referred to and evaluated by physicians in an outpatient allergy clinic. All were tested for the presence of penicillin antibodies. Only 4 persons out of the entire group had penicillin-specific antibodies in the blood. The remaining 128 persons were given oral penicillin with no ill effects.

Researchers suggested that people who think they are allergic to penicillin may need to be tested for the presence of penicillin antibodies. If test results are negative, this is conclusive that they are not allergic to penicillin.

Post Offices To Participate In Harvest for Hungry

The Oakland Post Office, and its branch offices in Deer Park and Mtn. Lake Park, announce their participation in the 1992 "Harvest for the Hungry" campaign, an annual event supported by the Baltimore Maryland Division of the U.S. Postal Service.

Each year, through this campaign, non-perishable food items are collected and donated to local food banks for distribution to those in need.

Employees of local post offices will once again participate in the "Harvest for the Hungry" campaign, which will run from January 1 through March 31, 1992. Postal customers are also encouraged to participate in this beneficial campaign in the support of those less fortunate.

Non-perishable food items may be deposited at any post office in Garrett County, or left by the mail box for collection by postal carriers. All food items collected within Garrett County will remain in the county for local distribution through our local food bank. Last year the Oakland postal community donated approximately 175 pounds of food to the local food bank in Oakland.

Suggested food items include canned foods, peanut butter, macaroni products, dry beans, and juices. Customers in the Oakland area may donate food items at the main post office located at 22 South Second Street, the Deer Park Branch located on Old Route 38, Deer Park, or the Mtn. Lake Park Branch, located on Route 135 East.

On Dean's List

Three Garrett County residents were named to the dean's list at Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W.Va., in December, according to Dr. H. Dean Peters, vice president for academic affairs.

Those obtaining a 3.4 average or better were Erica Shayne Couch, Stacy Allen Fike, and Linda Sue Shreve.

FSC is a liberal arts institution with approximately 6,300 students.

Bald Eagle Survey Results Announced

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced the results of the annual mid-winter bald eagle survey. This year, 185 bald eagles were counted at the three survey locations: Aberdeen Proving Ground, along the lower Susquehanna River, and at Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge. This year's totals were the second highest ever counted in Maryland since the surveys were initiated in 1979.

Surveys are conducted only at eagle concentration sites and are used as an index to monitor population trends.

In additional to the 185 eagles counted in January at the concentration areas, bald eagles that nest in the Chesapeake Bay area of Maryland also occur here in winter. Last year there were 128 pairs nesting in the state.

"This survey is not an attempt to count every bald eagle in the state," explained Glenn Therres, DNR's bald eagle project supervisor. "For example, this survey does not represent our breeding population of eagles but it does give us a good understanding of Maryland's wintering eagle populations."

The mid-winter surveys are part of a nationwide survey of wintering bald eagles, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation with cooperation of the state wildlife agencies. Last year over 9,000 bald eagles were counted in the lower 48 states.

The highest count ever in Maryland since the surveys were initiated was 263 in 1990. Last year, 115 bald eagles and two golden eagles were counted.

Contributions to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species tax checkoff help fund efforts such as the bald eagle survey.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE STURGISS DRUG STORE, which was located along Alder Street in Oakland, was built by Col. A.G. Sturgiss, a civil war soldier from Ohio, who came to Oakland as one of its first pharmacists. The second floor housed a large hall that was used for meetings of town organizations. His son, William A. Sturgiss, succeeded his father in the business and, in 1949, compounded the pharmacy's one millionth prescription. The pharmacy closed shortly after William's death and the renovated building now houses the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security. State Biologists Seek Northern Flying Squirrels In Local Study

You've heard of bird houses, but how about squirrel condominiums?

That's what a state biologist calls the wooden boxes he puts up in Garrett County forests in hopes of finding northern flying squirrels.

Much like a bird house, the foot-high boxes attract flying squirrels looking for a den or nest. These animals normally use holes in trees for their homes. The front of the box can be removed to see the residents, sometimes up to five squirrels.

"Yet northern flying squirrels have never been recorded in Maryland," said Department of Natural Resources biologist Dan Feller, "but they must have been here once." That was before turn-of-the-century logging removed the squirrels's habitat - virgin stands of mixed red spruce and hardwoods. Feller is a staff biologist with DNR's Natural Heritage Program.

"These animals might still survive somewhere in Garrett County, however, especially now that some parts of the forest are maturing to become more suitable habitat," said Feller. He has put up 50 "squirrel condos" in the past year and a half.

"Since the animals are nocturnal, we can sample for them during daylight hours when they are resting in the boxes," said Feller.

Flying squirrels get their name from their ability to glide, parachute-like, using extra skin stretched between their legs. They can travel up to 300 feet from a tree using this skin "patagium."

All of the flying squirrels found so far have been the common southern flying squirrel. The animal is a little smaller than the northern squirrel, at 11 inches, and the fur on its belly is lighter-colored underneath.

"The results of a study like this are slow," said Feller, "due to the fact that the squirrel boxes are not inhabited for the first six months to a year after they are put out."

Both flying squirrel species search for fruit and nuts in the woods at night, but northern flying squirrels eat more fungi, lichens, meat, and are more active in winter. Northerns tend to live in areas with more soft-woods, like spruce and hemlock, than southerns.

Northern flying squirrels are found in the northeastern United States and at high elevations in the Appalachian Mountains to Tennessee. Those from West Virginia south are a distinct Appalachian-type that is classified as federally endangered.

"I think flying squirrels are amazing mammals," said Feller. "If we do have another species of flying squirrel in Maryland it could be something special - and it's of concern because of its federal status too."

To date, 50 boxes built by study volunteers at Frostburg State University's Wildlife Society and Garrett Community College have been placed in trees, and 50 more are under construction.

Money for the study comes from donations to the Chesapeake Bay and endangered species checkoff on state income tax forms. Volunteers also contribute a great deal of time and effort to the study of the northern flying squirrel.

Goldstein Urges Caution In Choice Of Tax Preparers

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. cited the recent charges filed against a Laurel tax preparer in cautioning taxpayers to shop wisely when seeking tax preparation services during the current income tax filing season.

"While the majority of tax preparers in Maryland are honest, competent professionals, taxpayers should shop for professional tax services just as they would for the services of a doctor or lawyer," Goldstein said.

About 45% of Maryland taxpayers use professional tax preparers to complete their federal and Maryland returns.

The comptroller noted that the charges filed in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court on January 30, 1992, against Samuel N. McEwen, 51, underscore the importance of shopping wisely for a tax preparer. McEwen was charged with two counts of filing false returns or false claims for refunds by an income tax preparer, one count of willfully filing false income tax returns and one count of willful failure to provide information. He is scheduled for arraignment in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court of February 19, 1992.

"Now is a peak income tax filing time," Goldstein said. "If you are looking for a tax preparer, there are definitely some guidelines you should follow."

1. Get references. Find out which preparers have done good jobs for other people in previous years and ask if the preparer has kept up with changes in tax laws.

2. Avoid fly-by-nights. Try to work with established pros. You want to deal with a preparer who's going to stick around all year - especially if your return includes complex financial information. Make sure your preparer will be there when you need him or her to accompany you on any visit with federal or state tax officials.

3. Don't be led down the primrose path. Avoid any preparer who promises you a tax refund before he or she even looks at your records. Make sure you arrange for your refund to be sent to you and not to the preparer. Avoid anyone who bases a fee on the amount of your refund. Never sign a blank return.

4. Keep copies of everything. Before you hand over any records or receipts to your preparer, be sure to make good photocopies of essential information such as W-2's. Be certain you get a copy of your final return and be certain you tax preparer has signed the return as well.

"Remember, no matter who prepares your income tax return, you are responsible for the information it contains and for the tax due," Goldstein said.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

Elections will be held in the town of Kitzmiller on Tuesday, Feb. 11. The polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The positions of mayor and two councilpersons are up for election.

In loving memory of my husband
Bruce C. Brenneman who passed away 7 years ago Feb. 3, 1985.
From his wife Lottie.

Bruce, seven years since you've been gone.
My heartache and hurting is still going on.
I know you are happy being up there.
We were happy when you were down here.

My arms ache to hold you.
And kiss you once more.
The same goes for our grandchildren,
And also our children four.

They speak of you kindly.
And wish you were here.
They long for your stories
You told through the years.

We all miss you so much.
And still wish you were here.
Our home holds your memories
With fondness and cheer.

We always include you
All through the year.
This makes our memories
More precious and dear.

Goodbye my sweet love
You are so far, far away.
We will all be together
One of these unclouded days.

So then until we meet you
We will all do our best.
To think of you kindly
While you are at rest.

JOSEPH SESSA
OF FRIENDSVILLE

SEEKING POSITION OF MAYOR FOR THE TOWN OF FRIENDSVILLE

Before moving from Chicago, Illinois in 1971, I graduated from Warren TWP High School, then went on to Weeden Barber College in 1962. Following graduation, I worked as a barber in Lake Forest, Illinois cutting St. Louis Cardinal Pro Football Team players hair. In 1964 I joined the United States Naval Air Reserve in Glenview, Illinois. In January 1965 I went on active duty stationed in Norfolk, Virginia as an aviation electrician for Squadron VRC-40. While in the Navy I was awarded "Sailor of the Month" and was hand picked from my squadron to be present on two Gemeni pick-ups when the astronauts returned back to earth from outer space. In Jan. 1967 I was discharged from the U.S. Navy with an honorable mention. In September of 1967 I married Mary Ellen Umbel of Selbysport, Maryland and returned back to Chicago as husband and wife. In June of 1971 Mary Ellen and I moved to Friendsville. From that time to present I have been a Volunteer Fireman, Post President of the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, and now I'm completing my 3rd term as Town Council President.

As the time of the election of mayor draws near, Feb. 11, 1992, I would like to see changes made. Support is needed now by the voters. If and when elected I would be honored to support and serve the community of Friendsville. To aquire this the council and mayor must allow everyone to voice their opinion and lend a helping hand. Allowing self pride to be felt in Friendsville again. If you fail to plan you plan to fail. I believe Friendsville needs my type of leadership, future plans and dreams.

Mountain Fresh Producers Association Begins 5th Season On February 13

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association has begun making plans for its 1992 market season. Mountain Fresh was organized in 1987 with the goal of aiding local farmers in direct marketing of their produce. Extension agents in Garrett County, and Preston and Tucker counties, West Virginia, were instrumental in organizing the group and in 1991 an Allegany County chapter was added. The Maryland Department of Agriculture has provided continuing support for the group, especially in the areas of marketing advice and advertising. Local governments and organizations have also been instrumental in the association's success.

One of the main advantages to members of the association has been the opportunity to market their produce in two local tailgate markets. The first market was established in the Oakland Town Parking Lot in 1989. In 1990 an open sided pavilion was constructed to house the market. Construction was a cooperative effort sponsored by the town of Oakland, the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County and the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce. A second market was established in 1991 by the Allegany chapter of Mountain Fresh in the Downtown Cumberland Mall.

Extension Agent Jim Simms says that although last summer was exceptionally dry, the quantity and variety of produce available at the Oakland market was steady and the quality was excellent. The market operated every Saturday and Wednesday from mid-July to mid-October. In addition to fruits and vegetables, producers offered baked goods, fresh and dried flowers, honey, cider and local crafts. The association sponsored a free corn roast in August and the extension office set up several demonstrations during the season.

Two other areas of marketing open to members of the association were sales to several area restaurants and grocery stores and bulk sales from their farm. A market coordinator based in the Oakland Extension Office helped coordinate these sales.

The association's first general membership meeting of 1992 is scheduled for February 13, at 7 p.m., at the Garrett County Extension Office. Items on the agenda include election of new board members and planning the 1992 season. Anyone interested in Mountain Fresh is encouraged to attend the meeting. Additional information concerning the association can be obtained from Jim Fearer, current association chairman, at 334-2185 or 334-9549 or from Jim Simms, Garrett County Extension agent, at 334-1990.

Farmer Alliance To Focus On Minor Use Problem

Farmers and ranchers who are producers of minor crops face increasing difficulty in getting pesticide products essential to specialty crop production. That is because chemical companies no longer will go to the expense of maintaining registration of the products.

To help farmers obtain a stronger view in the minor use chemical problem, the Minor Crop Farmer Alliance has been organized by the American Farm Bureau Federation and a number of other agricultural organizations, said Scott Rawlins, director of AFBF's horticulture department.

The alliance is collecting examples of problems encountered by producers of minor crops in every state as a result of the cancellation of chemicals deemed necessary for the production of specialty crops. The information will be used to promote legislation to ensure the continued availability of the so-called minor crop pesticides, according to Rawlins.

The minor use chemical problem was spawned by a combination of economic hardship on chemical companies and the 1988 amendments to the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), which accelerated re-registration of all pesticide active ingredients.

Chemical companies do not find it economically feasible to pursue the data collection measures required under the law to register new chemicals or to re-register existing ones for minor and specialty crops for which the volume of purchases is insufficient to generate profits, Rawlins said.

"As a result of this economic squeeze, many thousands of pesticide registrations have been voluntarily dropped by manufacturers for economic reasons rather than for environmental or health problems," Rawlins said.

"For many of these products, there is no economically acceptable alternative to protect crops from insects and disease," he added.

The Minor Crop Farmer Alliance is readying a package of legislative measures to help improve the regulatory climate for minor crop chemicals and provide incentives for manufacturers to maintain product registrations and pursue new ones.

Organizations in the alliance are asking their members for examples of grower hardships to illustrate the scope of the minor use chemical registration problem, Rawlins said. So-called minor crops are primarily commodities such as fruits, vegetables and nursery crops. Many of the pesticides used on these commodities are also important to major crops such as corn, wheat and cotton, so it is not only a problem affecting minor crop producers, Rawlins said.

Farm Costs, Returns Survey Being Conducted

The National Agricultural Statistics Service is conducting its annual farm costs and returns survey from February 10 until March 25. Information from the survey is used to monitor the financial condition of U.S. agriculture.

A total of 24,000 farmers and ranchers nationwide, representing all sizes and types of operations, will be contacted. The service is encouraging all who are contacted to respond to the survey, to obtain a true reading of the financial condition of U.S. agriculture and provide a sound database for making farm program and policy decisions.

The survey is important for several reasons. In addition to measuring farm income, expenses and balance sheet data, the survey is used to make cost-of-production estimates for program crops and other major commodities to help policymakers set farm program price and income supports.

Farm expenditure data are used to compute parity prices, which help determine certain farm commodity price supports and regulate quality and/or quantity provisions for many fruit and vegetable marketing orders.

Data on the financial conditions of U.S. farms also are used in analyses of farm credit and disaster program needs. Productivity and financial data, along with chemical use data, can help evaluate the need for certain chemicals and the extent of their use. Conservation and cropping practices data provide insight into the current extent of conservation practices and the need for future programs.

Information on expenditures help farm input suppliers more efficiently plan the production of inputs to meet farmers' needs. Demographic characteristics provide analyses of the future productivity of U.S. farms and the educational and other rural programs that may be needed.

Select Beef Bulls To Reduce Calving Problems

Selecting heifers for large pelvic size can reduce calving problems. But you should also select sires that will help you reduce this problem. It has been shown that pelvic size is roughly a 55 percent inheritable trait. So your heifers are more likely to have a large pelvic size if sired by a bull having a large pelvic measurement. In herds having a history of difficult calving, keeping a record of calf birth and weaning weights can also help you select bulls that will reduce calving problems. By tracing a calf's birth weight back to its sire, you can determine which bulls promote calving ease. Also keep a record of weaning weights. Then try to select those sires that give easy birth (calves with lower birth rates) while producing calves with high weaning weights.

State Crop Production Less Than Expected In 1991

The dry summer's affect on most crops was less than had been expected. Overall, average crop yields in the state during 1991 was varied. Production of corn for grain, corn for silage, soybeans, oats, winter wheat, hay, potatoes, and sweet potatoes was lower in 1991 than in 1990. Production of barley, rye, tobacco, peaches, and apples was higher this year than last year.

Maryland growers produced 17.0 million bushels of soybeans in 1991. This production is five percent less than last year's record high production of 17.8 million bushels. Dry weather reduced yields to 34 bushels per acre while harvested acres increased.

Corn grain production in Maryland was 42.8 million bushels, 19 percent below 1990's production. The average yield was 95 bushels per acre, lower than the last two seasons. Acreage harvested for grain was equal to last year.

Maryland hay production in 1991 amounted to 505,000 tons, a 26 percent decrease from 1990. The average yield per acre, at 2.35 tons was down from last year's high yield of 3.01 tons per acre. In addition to drought induced lower yields, harvested acreage also declined.

The Maryland tobacco crop averaged a record high average yield per acre of 1,450 pounds per acre, 60 pounds above the previous record level set in 1982. High yields, seemingly unaffected by the dry weather and slightly increased acreage pushed overall production of tobacco to 10.7 million pounds, 11 percent above last year's crop.

Grain sorghum production in 1991 was 540,000 bushels, equal to last year's production. Grain sorghum yield was hurt by the drought and only averaged 60 bushels per acre while harvested acreage was up in 1991.

Fruit production was up significantly from the drought stunted crop of 1990. Fruit was plentiful but was small due to dry weather. Peach production this year was 15.0 million pounds, almost four times greater than last year's frost damaged crop. Apple production ended up at 75.0 million pounds, 127 percent above 1990's crop.

Drought affected yields and reduced harvested acreage caused potato and sweet potato production to decline. Potato production totaled 298,000 hundredweight, eight percent below the 1990 production. Sweet potato production for 1991 totaled 36,000 hundredweight, 57 percent below the 1990 production.

Small grains, except for oats, yielded well this past year. Winter wheat production for 1991 totaled 9.75 million bushels, one percent below the 9.88 million produced in 1990. Barley production for this past year totaled 4.99 million bushels, 17 percent above last year's production largely due to increased acreage. Rye production totaled 224,000 bushels for 1991, seven percent above the 1990 production. Oats production for the 1991 season totaled 420,000 bushels, 57 percent fewer bushels than produced in 1990, due to drought reduced yields and reduced acreage.

Winter wheat seeded in 1991 for 1992 harvest is expected to total 210,000 acres, above the 205,000 acres seeded in 1990 for 1991 harvest. Rye seeding for 1992 harvest is set at 45,000 acres, above the 35,000 acres seeded in 1990 for 1991 harvest.

Farm Bureau Approves President's Pledge To Ease Regulatory Overkill

President Bush's call for an easing of regulatory overkill and several other actions spelled out in his State of the Union address last week met with the approval of Farm Bureau.

American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner was part of a small group invited by Bush to discuss the president's proposals. Kleckner said farmers and ranchers believe the economy would be improved by several of the actions Bush called for, and pledged Farm Bureau's support in enacting them.

The 90-day moratorium on new regulations and a "top-to-bottom" review of existing regulations announced by Bush serve as recognition of the adverse impact regulations have dealt to the U.S. economy, according to AFBF President Dean Kleckner.

"By addressing the need to thoroughly evaluate new and existing regulations and their impact on U.S. business and agriculture, President Bush also has indirectly struck a blow for property rights," Kleckner said. "In agriculture, our land is our capital and regulations that strip us of our property rights cut deeply into agriculture's productive contribution to the economy."

Kleckner called the plan "intriguing, but a bit optimistic."

"It's going to take longer than 90 days to fully and realistically evaluate the landslide of government regulation and the toll it has taken on our economy. In order to do the job right, we need a one- to two-year moratorium on new government regulations, and enough time to review existing regulations," Kleckner said, noting that over-regulation is "handing an advantage to nations competing for our markets."

Kleckner echoed Bush's call for a cut in the capital gains tax. The AFBF president said such a cut would "encourage farmers and ranchers to increase their productivity now, and later use their equity during their retirement years free of penalty."

Kleckner also gave his whole-hearted approval to Bush's calls for reducing the size of government and establishing a presidential line-item veto. Those two points would serve to "cut programs that have outlined their utility, as well as focus the president's watchful eye on the spending side of the budget for attempts to win votes back home through needless pork-barrel programs."

Kleckner said Farm Bureau would actively support Bush's call to freeze all discretionary federal spending at this year's level, as well as freeze all federal hiring.

On health care, Kleckner said he was pleased that Bush came out against "more expensive mandates that American agriculture and small business cannot afford."

Grain Marketing Emphasis Set For Corn And Soybean Conference

Farmers need sophistication to enhance profit opportunities in grain marketing these days, says Wayne D. Purcell, an agricultural economics marketing specialist at Virginia Tech for the Cooperative Extension Service.

"Establishing a selling price with cash contracts, or direct trading in the futures market might be preferable for wheat, since major moves up from current levels are not likely.

"However, corn stocks continue to tighten; so using options makes sense here if you need protection against the risk of lower prices, but want to leave open the potential for higher prices," Dr. Purcell wrote in a mid-January farm newspaper column.

Purcell will expand on these thoughts as the final speaker of the day at the 12th annual Delmarva Corn and Soybean Conference set for February 12 at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury -- on Maryland's lower Eastern Shore.

Leading into Purcell's talk, a panel of farmers will share their thoughts on "Marketing Delmarva Grain." The panel moderator will be James R. Russell, agricultural marketing specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources. Dr. Russell has gained recognition as the organizer of marketing clubs for farmers throughout Maryland.

Other topics to be covered at the daylong educational "future opportunities" event include biotechnology and the outlook for canola as an oilseed crop on the Delmarva peninsula. There will also be presentations on nutrient management and economical weed control.

Sponsoring organizations include agribusiness organizations, along with the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

Activities will get underway at 8:30 a.m. with free coffee and pastries made from Stellar, a fat-free cooking oil manufactured from corn by the A.E. Staley Manufacturing Company of Decatur, Ill.

Commercial exhibits and educational displays also will be open for visiting. Two Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference scholarships will be presented prior to the noon break.

Admission is free for the program sessions and fast-food establishments are located near the conference site.

The Wicomico Youth and Civic Center is located behind the Salisbury Mall, off U.S. Highway 50, in southeast Salisbury. Plenty of free parking is available.

Rural Abandoned Mine Program Reclaims, Renews And Reviitalizes Unusable Land

by Bernice Kepple

Today, coal companies follow strict reclamation laws after coal has been mined from a site, whether it be an open pit or a deep mine. This was not always true, however, giving coal companies a bad reputation they have worked for years to correct. Many reminders of the coal boom were left behind in the 40s, 50s, and early 60s in the form of worn-out machinery on unreclaimed sites harboring stagnant pools of water, dangerous high walls and unsightly gob (spoil) piles.

In 1977, the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act was passed by Congress, authorizing the Rural Abandoned Mine Program (RAMP). The purpose of RAMP is to provide a means of reclaiming soil and water resources in rural areas that have been adversely affected by past coal mining activities. In 1977, initial surveys indicated that there were approximately 1.1 million acres of abandoned coal-mined land across the country needing reclamation. This reclamation is expensive, and companies mining coal today are paying for the neglect of their predecessors. All coal mining operators pay into an Abandoned Mine Reclamation Trust Fund at the rate of 35 cents per ton of coal produced from surface mining and 15 cents per ton of coal from underground mining. These funds are appropriated to the Department of the Interior and subsequently reapportioned to USDA for expenditure by the Soil Conservation Service's RAMP Program.

In 1990 alone, 12 states stabilized 1,684 acres of abandoned mine land which prevented 92,184 tons of soil from reaching streams. Nationwide, the RAMP Program has eliminated over 1,930 health and safety hazards, controlled erosion on 10,575 acres and prevented 917,837 tons of erosion from leaving the sites since 1977. Visual quality has been improved on 9,335 acres, and the water quality improved in 59,525 acres of lakes and 611 miles of streams since the program began.

Garrett and Allegany counties make up Maryland's coal country. In this area, RAMP is providing technical and financial help to landowners for restoring abandoned strip mines to productive uses and eliminating eyesores that are health, safety and environmental hazards. In Garrett County alone, 13 RAMP contracts have been completed since 1977, greatly affecting erosion, safety, visual quality and water quality by eliminating landslides, cave-ins, subsidence, flooding, sedimentation, and acid mine drainage.

The most recent project completed in Garrett County is the Harvey, Moon, Cooper RAMP Project. Located on Shell Road near Deer Park, the combined property of the three families enabled 117 acres of land to be graded, shaped and seeded. The property had been strip mined in the 1950s and abandoned after the coal was mined. Jim Schlossnagle, former Soil Conservation Service (SCS) district conservationist initiated the original planning in 1987. The project was continued under Garry Morfoot, present district conservationist of the SCS in Garrett County, with reclamation work started last March and completed in September.

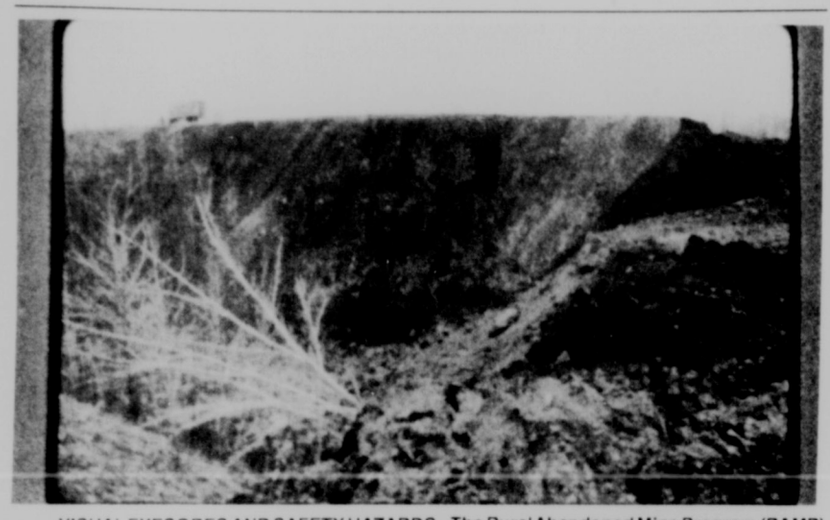
Morfoot explained that the main justification for work such as RAMP is to eliminate safety and health hazards such as high walls, dump sites, stagnant water and open pits, and an additional benefit is getting the land back for farm or forestry use. "Here in Maryland," Morfoot said, "mining is done in a smaller, more defined area, and in time Maryland could be free of unreclaimed abandoned mine land through programs like RAMP."

One of the property owners, Ralph Moon, says he feels the value of his property has greatly increased. "They did a wonderful job of taking unsafe ground with high walls and water holes and putting it in real good shape." Moon says that when his land is released, it will be planted in trees and eventually be reforested.

Dave Davis, a member of and spokesman for the Harvey family, said that in addition to the old gob pile, a 40 to 50 foot high wall, and a big old pond of water, several pieces of old equipment had been left on the farm. "It was very dangerous," he said, "and had been complete wasteland for about 35 years." He said that an excellent job of reclamation was done on the property, with "real good soil returned to the top." He added that the quality of the topsoil that was returned made many options -- hay ground, meadows, wildlife cover, or timber -- possible for the property owners.

The reclamation work for the Harvey, Moon, Cooper project was done by Duckworth Coal Company and Eagle Mining. John Duckworth, of Duckworth Coal, feels that reclamation is "well worthwhile." Duckworth stated that before reclamation, the land couldn't be used for anything. "It had no value at all," he said. "It was all grown up in underbrush. We moved a lot of dirt and used enough top soil that the land could now be farmed. Now the whole area can be used," he added. Duckworth said that it is a program that benefits all. The property owners and the environment benefit from reclamation. Tax dollars collected from coal companies pay for reclamation projects, but the reclamation projects keep the companies working when mining is slow. Duckworth concluded that he enjoys working with the Soil Conservation Service. "The SCS makes sure the land, when finished, is 100% better than before reclamation began."

Improvement can be seen by the general public as well. Kim Meyers, SCS RAMP inspector, said that several "old-timers" had stopped by the site when the reclamation work was being done, and mentioned that they felt the final results were going to leave the site better than it had been even before the original mining was done.



The SCS plans the projects so that the finished grade is close to the original contour, with rock waterways and ripper ditches installed to control runoff. Lime and fertilizer is applied. The sites are heavy limed -- 10 ton to the acre of ground limestone -- and a heavy coat of fertilizer is spread along with 80 pound of seed mix, grass and legumes, to the acre. Each acre is then covered with three ton of mulch to protect the new growth.

The reclamation sites are inspected and not released to landowners for three years. This three-year time span insures established vegetation without any erosion problems. (It also provides time for the new plants to produce seed without disturbance.) The expertise of SCS plant ecologists and wildlife biologists are available for advice on edge plantings to promote wildlife habitat on the finished sites.

Morfoot encourages landowners who might have an eligible Abandoned Mine site that needs reclaimed to contact him at 334-1900. Applications for RAMP can be picked up at and submitted to the SCS office in the Garrett County Courthouse, and SCS personnel are available to help fill out RAMP applications.

With RAMP, landowners have nothing to lose and everything to gain by reclaiming, renewing and revitalizing unusable land into wildlife habitat, forest or farmland.

Alaska gets the least sunshine of any of the 50 states.

VISUAL EYESORES AND SAFETY HAZARDS - The Rural Abandoned Mine Program (RAMP) eliminates safety and health hazards such as those pictured in the "before" photo above -- high walls, dump sites, stagnant water and open pits. The reclamation work is funded by a per-ton tax on all coal mined, whether it be surface mined or deep mined. These two photos were taken at Garrett County's most recent RAMP project, the Harvey, Moon, Cooper project on Shell Road near Deer Park. The Duckworth Coal Company, one of the two contractors for this project, is pictured at work below.

"IT LOOKS LIKE A GOLF COURSE NOW!" This was just one comment heard about the completed Harvey, Moon, Cooper RAMP project, pictured both above and below. The sites are finished as close to the original contour as possible. Runoff and erosion are controlled, and the sites are heavily limed, fertilized and seeded. The property owners' options are many. After the site is released the ground can be farmed or planted to timber or wildlife cover.

AAF President Howard Bell Retirement Noted

After 23 years as a leading national spokesman for the nation's advertising industry, American Advertising Federation president Howard H. Bell has announced his retirement as of December 31, 1991.

Bell is a part-time resident of Garrett County.

Bell was appointed the first full-time president of the AAF in February 1968. At that time the AAF was a newly-merged organization, spawned in 1967 by two advertising associations which originated in the beginning of the century, the Advertising Federation of America and the Advertising Association of the West.

"As a member of the original search committee which chose Howard Bell to become president of the AAF, I say with considerable pride that I doubt we could have found a more capable and multi-faceted individual anywhere in the country," said Dow Jones & Company vice chairman emeritus Don Macdonald, a former chairman of the Advertising Federation of America and the first AAF chairman following the merger.

Since 1968, Bell has built the AAF into the premiere national organization representing the interests of every segment of the advertising industry, including advertisers, ad agencies, advertising services, media, academia students. Under his direction, the number of AAF-affiliate advertising clubs, companies and colleges has more than tripled, representing a membership exceeding 52,000 individuals.

Throughout the years, Macdonald said Bell has been a "tireless spokesman" for advertising, testifying before countless legislative bodies against advertising taxes, bans and restrictions. "His effective leadership in government relations, self-regulation, advertising education, and public service is widely recognized throughout the industry," he said.

Bell graduated from the University of Missouri School of Journalism with a degree in advertising, and he holds a juris doctor degree from the Catholic University Law School. He is a member of the Bar of the State of Maryland, the U.S. Supreme Court Bar, the American Bar Association and the Federal Communications Bar Association.

He began his career as sales promotion manager for WMAL AM-FM-TV in Washington, D.C. In 1951, Bell moved to the National Association of Broadcasters and served in a variety of posts before becoming director of the NAB Code of Authority in 1963, where he was responsible for the administration, interpretation, and enforcement of the radio and television broadcast codes.

At the AAF in 1970, Bell proposed the creation of an effective self-regulation program for the entire advertising industry. He developed the policies and procedures which ultimately led to the creation of the National Advertising Review Board program in 1971.

Under Bell's direction, the AAF college chapter program was developed with the 1973 merger of Alpha Delta Sigma, an honorary society of advertising students. Today, 210 colleges and universities and 6,000 students are affiliated with AAF and its academic division, providing the only direct link between advertising education and the profession.

Bell has served as a member of the Advertising Council board of directors and executive committee; vice chairman of the board of directors of the American Society of Association Executives; a director of the National Advertising Review Council and the Advertising Educational Foundation; a member of the American Advertising Museum advisory board, public relations committee of Mothers Against Drunk Driving and the U.S. Information Agency marketing advisory committee; and a member of the advisory board of the University of Missouri's Freedom of Information Center and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce consumer issues committee.

In 1984, Bell received the honor award and gold medal for distinguished service in journalism for the University of Missouri School of Journalism for his "... more than three decades as a catalyst, conscience and counsel for the profession of advertising ..."

His memberships include the International Radio and Television Society, American Society of Association Executives, Who's Who in America, Broadcast Pioneers, The International Club of Washington, D.C., Advertising Club of Metropolitan Washington, Sky Club in New York, World Trade Club in San Francisco, and the Congressional Country Club in Bethesda.

Bell is a native of New York City and a veteran of the U.S. Navy. He and his wife, Chan, have three children and live in Washington, D.C.

Arthritis Group Seeks Volunteers

The Arthritis Foundation, Western Maryland Branch, is looking for volunteers in Allegany and Garrett counties to lead two helpful programs for people with arthritis: the Arthritis Coping Together (A.C.T.) Support Group and the Arthritis Self-Help Course.

A.C.T. support groups provide a "caring sharing atmosphere," as well as educational programs for people with arthritis and their families to help them cope with their disease, according to a Foundation spokesman.

The Arthritis Self-Help Course is a six-week program of weekly 2½-hour classes designed to help teach people with arthritis to become active participants in managing their arthritis.

A one and one-half day training will be held for A.C.T. support group leaders. A two and one-half day training program will be held for Arthritis Self-Help Course leaders.

For an application for either program or more information, persons may contact the Arthritis Foundation at P.O. Box 1187, Cumberland, MD 21501-1187; telephone 301-759-9411.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

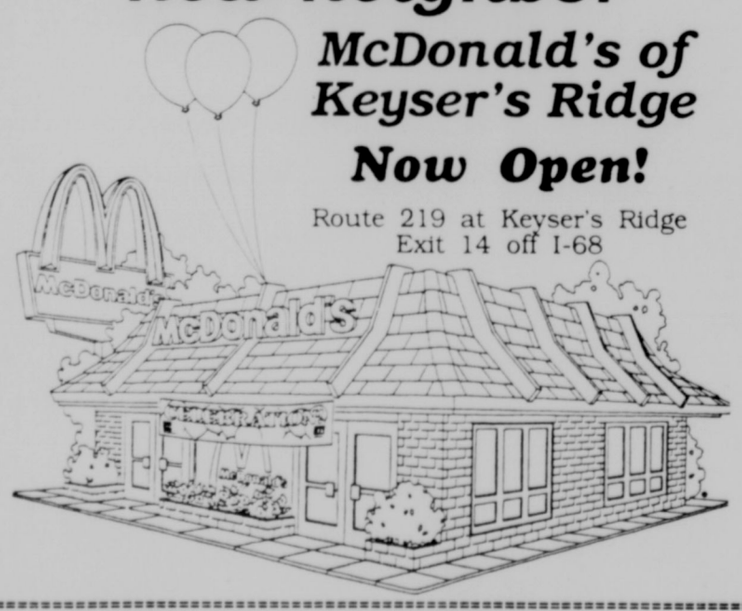
Daniels Named Dennett Manor Nursing Director

Elizabeth Daniels, Oakland, has been named director of nurses at Dennett Road Manor, Inc., according to Carole Cuppett, administrator.

Ms. Daniels received a BSN degree from Alderson-Broaddus College, Philippi, W.Va., and is currently completing the master's requirements at West Virginia University, Morgantown.

Ms. Daniels began her health care career at Dennett Road as a nurse's aide. After receiving her nursing degree, she was on the staff at Preston Memorial Hospital, Kingwood, W.Va. In 1987, she was named as patient care coordinator at Dennett Road, and later became a supervisor at Hopemont Hospital in Terra Alta.

"Ms. Daniels's experience in supervision, charge nurse duties, patient care, and educational inservice programming are leadership qualities important to her responsibilities as DON at Dennett Road," Cuppett said.



Ms. Daniels resides in Mtn. Lake Park with her husband, Dan, and their two children.

Miss Allegany County Pageant Contestants Sought

"The search is on to find Miss Allegany County, 1992," stated Crystal Grimm, executive director of the Miss Allegany County Scholarship Pageant, a local preliminary to the Miss Maryland Scholarship Pageant and national Miss America Scholarship Pageant. More details about the local program, along with contestant application forms, are available by phoning Grimm at 301-334-1763 or 334-5900.

Young women between the ages of 17 and 26 who live, work or reside in Garrett or Allegany county, are eligible to compete for scholarship monies and an opportunity to go on to the State Pageant in June 1992. The winner will advance to the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., in September 1992.

Contestants interested in competing for the title of Miss Allegany County, 1992, will be required to participate in four phases of competition: a private interview, talent, evening gown, and swimsuit. This Miss Maryland preliminary will be held at Allegany Community College on March 7, 1992. The reigning Miss Allegany County, Lisa Kauffman, is a student at Frostburg State University.

Entries deadline for the Miss Allegany County Pageant is Saturday, February 15, and a mandatory orientation will be held Sunday, February 16, at WCBC Radio Station in Cumberland.

There are no entry fees or sponsorships needed to enter this pageant. It is strictly a non-profit organization.

"Our dream is to find a Miss America from Garrett/Allegany County," said Ms. Grimm. "Kimberly Ann Grimm, Miss Maryland 1990 and Miss Allegany county 1990, has certainly put Allegany/Garrett counties on the map, and we are hoping her successors will go all the way winning the Miss America crown in September."

Refund Checks Being Mailed At Record Pace

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said his office has been sending out state income tax refund checks at a record pace while taxpayers are filing tax returns faster than last year.

"We've mailed 24,000 refund checks so far - that's 81% above the number we had mailed last year at this time. The checks are averaging $280, about 10% higher than last year's checks," Goldstein said.

The comptroller noted that the state income tax division has received 200,000 returns so far - nearly 38% more than the number received at this time during last year's filing season.

"Giving the sluggish economy, it's no surprise that taxpayers are filing faster than ever to get that refund check into their purses and wallets," Goldstein said. "That's why we're offering extra hours of free state tax help to folks still working on their returns."

All 18 Maryland income tax offices will offer extra hours of free taxpayer assistance on a Saturday and two upcoming state holidays. The offices will be open: Saturday, February 8, 9 a.m to 1 p.m.; Wednesday, February 12 (Lincoln's birthday), 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Monday, February 17 (Washington's birthday), 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

State tax experts at all 18 locations will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms, and even complete Maryland income tax returns free of charge. Taxpayers must bring a completed copy of their federal return and all W-2 statements to take advantage of this free service.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories.

Theater Of Voices Set At FSU

Judith Nelson, soprano

Drew Minter, countertenor

Paul Hillier, bartone & director

Paul Elliot, tenor

Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series will present The Theatre of Voices on Tuesday, February 18, at 8 p.m. at the Frostburg United Methodist Church, Main Street, Frostburg.

The Theatre of Voices was established in order to celebrate the world of song in various forms and guises. Founded and directed by baritone Paul Hillier, The Theatre of Voices explores both early and new music, including works commissioned especially for the group. For its second North American Tour, the ensemble features a quartet of voices - Judith Nelson, soprano; Drew Minter, countertenor; Paul Elliot, tenor; Paul Hillier, baritone - with Christopher Bowers-Broadbent, organ. Hillier is widely known for his work as founding director of the Hilliard Ensemble, and as a vocal soloist, choral conductor, writer, and editor of music.

The Theatre of Voices has also given its name to a new series of recordings on ECM Records. Proensa, 12th-century troubadour lyrics, was released in 1989, and will be followed soon by Forgotten Peoples, a set of Choral song-cycles by Estonian composer Veljo Tormis.

Musical numbers to be performed included music from "Henry VIII's Songbook: and the "Fayrfax Manuscript," which range from the simplest kinds of love and hunting songs to the intricately woven laments for the Passion of Christ. Several pieces in this collection are written by composer William Cornysh, the leading musical light at Henry VIII's court.

Also to be performed is music of 20th century composer Arvo Part who is known for an essence of style that is utterly simple and consists of scales and arpeggios. "The music does not develop, in the usual sense of this word; it expands and contracts -- in short, it breathes."

The second half of the program consists of music of William Byrd, one of the greatest English composers of chamber and secular choral works. His Mass for Four Voices, written in the early 1590's, shows Byrd's maturity and his leanings toward a true English style during a time when many madrigalists were leaning toward a more worldly and Italianate style.

Tickets for the Theatre of Voices are available at The Book Center, Cumberland; Main Street Books, Frostburg; and the FSU Lane Center Ticket Office. For more information, call 689-4411.

Oakland Woman Injured When Car Overturns

An Oakland woman was slightly injured Saturday afternoon when her car skidded and overturned on snow-covered New Germany Road, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Heather A. Miller, 19, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad where she was treated for minor injuries and then released, according to a nursing spokesperson at the hospital.

Cpl. R.S. Farrell who investigated for state police said the accident occurred when Miller, operating a 1990 Oldsmobile Cutlass south on the New Germany Road, lost control on the snow-covered roadway, crossed the northbound lane, and overturned on an embankment. The vehicle then came to rest against a tree.

No charges were filed in the 4:45 p.m. mishap.

TWO INJURED

Two Cumberland residents escaped serious injury late Tuesday night when their automobile traveled out of control on Interstate 68 and overturned, according to reports filed at the McHenry Barrack.

George B. Wyckoff, 23, and Lucy Dougherty, 29, were both treated and released at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Winter Fun On A 75-Year-Old Bobsled . . .

Built back in 1917 by Dr. W.W. Grant of Oakland, a 75-year-old bobsled is still able to provide some "winter fun."

"Dad built it the year he and Mother were married," said John Grant, Oakland, who watched as five young people rode it down Second Street in Oakland during Saturday's snowstorm.

"At that time there were several others in Oakland. Dad and Mother and the other young married couples used to go sled riding a lot," he said.

"Back in the 1930's," continued Grant, "my brothers and I used to ride it all the time. Our sled was painted red and there was a green one about the same size. Howard and Arthur Naylor used to ride it, too."

As near as Grant could recall, the sled followed a plan devised by the late W.E. Shirer, who owned one of the better ones around Oakland. Over eight feet long, the Grant sled is made of white pine lumber and held together with carriage bolts.

"The iron runners for the sled were made by Jack Yellerly, the blacksmith," added Grant. "He also made a couple of iron pieces which hold the underneath and top parts together.

"The sled has always been kept in our basement over the years. It was still in good shape, so I dragged it out during the last snowstorm. I figured the kids might enjoy some of the same 'winter fun' as the older generation did with the sled years ago."

Swanton Man Arrested On Rape Charge

A Swanton man is accused of an alleged rape that occurred in Kitzmiller on Friday.

Paul E. Wilhelm, Jr., 25, was arrested on Monday by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and charged with second degree rape, second degree sex offense, fourth degree sex offense, perverted sex practice, nighttime burglary, breaking and entering with intent to commit a crime and assault and battery.

The investigation was conducted by Sheriff Van Evans and Lt. D.W. Tucker.

Wilhelm is being held in the Garrett County Jail without bond.

In a separate case, Kenneth W. Hawkins, 25, Mt. Lake Park was served a warrant by Det. J.D. Murphy charging him with fourth degree sex offense involving a 15-year-old female from Terra Alta, W.Va.

Gorden E. Kisner, 25, Oakland was arrested on the strength of a warrant which charged him with battering an 18-year-old Terra Alta, W.Va. woman.

Det. J.D. Murphy was the arresting officer.

A warrant was issued to Tamala C. Garrett, 26, Sac-

Local Groups Oppose Plan To Increase Accommodations Tax

Representatives from the Garrett County Development Corporation, the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council and various other organizations and businesses met this week with the Garrett County Commissioners to, once again, urge the commissioners to adopt a plan that would improve county-wide promotional efforts, and to voice opposition to a proposal that would increase the current three-percent accommodations tax to five percent.

President of the Garrett County Development Corporation Ralph Burnett outlined the two major areas of the group's concerns, beginning with the accommodation tax revenues and "the manner in which the monies are being spent." In addition, he said, there is no planning process in place that deals with how revenue from the accommodation tax will be utilized in the future.

Burnett also reminded the two commissioners in attendance, John Braskey and Elwood Groves, that a proposal had been submitted to the commissioners' office for the purpose of obtaining feedback on the need to create a plan for county promotion. "There has been no response to that need," said Burnett, "and now other counties, specifically Allegany, have adopted the plan we developed and are running with it."

Commissioner Groves responded by saying, "I have never seen a proposal -- I've only heard about the concept."

But Burnett reminded Groves that a proposal had been given to Garrett County Administrator Robert Fousek two years ago and should be in the office files of the county commissioners.

Also during the meeting, local business owner Ruth Beitzel presented the commissioners with the results of a survey taken regarding the proposed two percent increase in the county accommodation tax. That survey revealed that a total of 28 business owners in the county were against the rate increase.

"I want you to know that the motel people are working very hard against the raise and don't agree with what the current three percent tax is being used for," she said, noting that not enough of

Thanos Hearing Set For June

The sentencing hearing for John F. Thanos 42, Joppa, who was recently convicted of murder, is scheduled in Garrett County Circuit Court for June 1-12. A new jury will be selected for the hearing.

Thanos was found guilty on two counts of first degree murder, robbery with a deadly weapon, and one count of using a handgun to commit a felony. However, Judge Fred A. Thayer declared a mistrial in the sentencing hearing due to inadmissible evidence.

The hearing will be in Garrett County unless the defense is able to obtain another change of venue.

Thanos is accused of the shooting deaths of William Winebrenner, 16, and Melody Pistorio, 14, in a Baltimore County Big Red Mini Mart on Labor Day 1990.

The jury will decide if Thanos will face the death penalty, life imprisonment without parole, or life imprisonment with the possibility of parole.

Edwards Will Not Introduce Black Bear Bill

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards last week informed the Garrett County Commissioners that he would not be introducing legislation requested by them that would have established a limited, two-day black bear hunting season in Garrett County.

The commissioners unanimously requested the hunting season because of calls made to them concerning property or livestock damage in the county reportedly caused by black bears. The same request has been made by the commissioners for the past several years.

According to a letter written to the commissioners and signed by Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer, "We have reviewed the black bear management plan that has just been completed, met with representatives from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), and believe the plan to be a thorough, comprehensive one. In the plan, the department has committed itself to dealing with nuisance bears in what they feel is an appropriate manner and they acknowledge they will institute a hunting season when the data suggest it is needed. They will monitor and gather

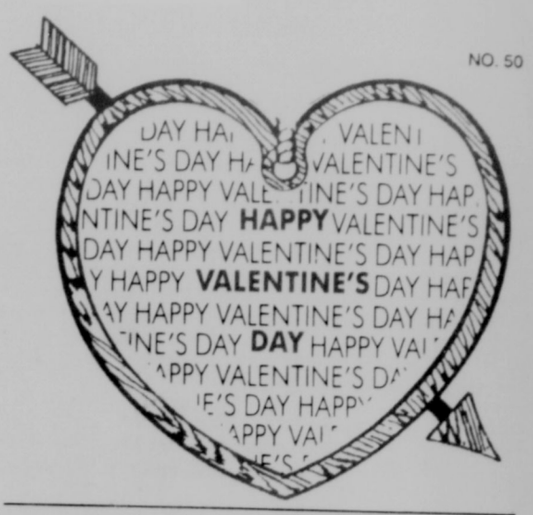
Bills Introduced For Some Sunday Alcohol Sales

District 1 Senator John J. Hafer and District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards have introduced companion House and Senate bills that would allow for the limited Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages in Garrett County. The bill would allow the issue to be placed on the ballot as a referendum question.



Delegate Edwards explained that the bill would only provide for the Sunday sales under certain restrictions. Only holders of Class B restaurant licenses and Class C "social club" (such as VFWs, American Legions, etc.) licenses would be allowed to serve alcoholic beverages on Sunday.

In the case of the Class B license, restrictions on the sales would include that alcoholic beverages be sold only between the hours of 1 and 12 p.m.; that the beverage only be served as a supplement to a meal; that the total bill for the alcoholic beverage not exceed the total food bill; and that the customer be served the beverage at a table, not at a bar.

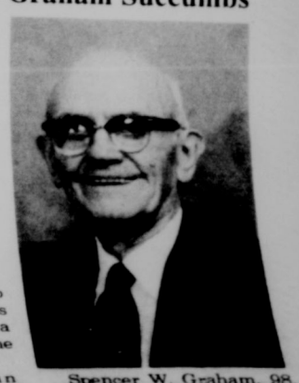
The alcoholic beverage license holder would also be required to pay an additional $250 per year for the license in order to conduct Sunday sales.

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey originally requested the legislation but the idea was not supported by the other members of the board.

The first hearing on the bill will be held Tuesday, February 18, by the Economic Matters Committee.

Edwards And Hafer Sponsor Bills To Help County's Financial Crisis

Numerous bills sponsored or co-sponsored by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards or by District 1 Senator John J. Hafer have now been submitted to the 1992 Maryland General Assembly, several of which are designed to lighten the economic burden Garrett County is experiencing as the result of state cutbacks.



One such bill (HB 785) sponsored by Edwards, is an amendment to the Budget Reconciliation Act for Fiscal Year 1992, enacted during the legislative interim, that shifted the responsibility of retirement contributions for county boards of education, boards of library trustees, and boards of community college trustees from state to the local jurisdictions. In the case of Garrett County, that amount equals between $150,000 and $200,000.

This bill attempts to ease the local responsibility by providing the option of no payment being made during the current fiscal year, and half being made during each of the following fiscal years with interest.

"If we're going to take money away from local governments, we need to give them more flexibility," stated Edwards. Another bill (HB 514) would enable the Garrett County Commissioners to impose a transfer tax -not to exceed one percent and exempting the first $50,000 on the sale of real property.

Former Md. State Senator Spencer Graham Succumbs

Spencer W. Graham, 98, Oakland, former Maryland State Senator, died Wednesday, February 12, 1992, at the Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville.

Born in Crellin, January 7, 1894, he was the son of the late Frank and Helen (Ashby) Graham. He was also preceded in death by his wife, Margaret "Maggie" (Meyers) Graham, in 1970.

After working as a laborer for the Kendall Lumber Company in Crellin, Mr. Graham was employed 22 years as a coal loader and then joined the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society as a fieldman in 1932.

Active over eight decades in Republican politics, he was involved as a clerk in the Maryland House of Delegates in 1929, a member of the Garrett County Republican State Central Committee and was elected to the Maryland State Senate in 1962 where he served a four-year term. During his tenure there, he was a prime mover in the development of U.S. Route 48 (now Interstate 68), from Hancock to Morgantown, W.Va. He was the last senator elected to solely represent Garrett County in the Maryland General Assembly. In 1982, he was named Republican of the Year by the Garrett County Republican State Central Committee.

A dedicated fraternalist, Mr. Graham's association with the Woodmen of the World for over 80 years involved him as a field representative, district manager, state manager of Maryland, District of Columbia, Delaware, and West Virginia. Among numerous Woodmen

Teachers' Jobs Further Jeopardized By Additional State Funding Cuts

Members of the Garrett County Board of Education held a press conference this week following a meeting with the Garrett County Commissioners to issue statements regarding plans to deal with additional anticipated state funding cuts.

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage reported that further cuts of up to $300,000 for the current fiscal year would likely result in additional cuts in the area of personnel.

The solution to the fiscal situation was explained by Ryscavage who stated that, since the additional cuts are being handed down two-thirds of the way through the current fiscal year and $715,000 has already been cut this year, the "only alternative left would have to be personnel."

Ryscavage said that one option, a reduction in force, would have a "bittersweet impact" and is not ideal because laying people off would require that unemployment benefits be paid. The other option, he said, would be to further reduce salaries and wages paid to employees. He noted that both options present a bleak picture.

The proposed five-year capital improvement program was the subject of discussion with the Garrett County Commissioners, who were told by President Carol Clark that if approval was not received for the projects, the county would not even be able to "get in line for state funding." She also noted that the projects would continue to have a higher price tag through the coming years.

Commissioners John Braskey and Elwood Groves did assure the school board that they we're waiting to see exactly what cuts come from the state before they make decisions on cuts to county agencies, noting that

Frostburg Couple Sentenced In Drug Case In Garrett County District Court

A Frostburg couple was sentenced in a drug case heard in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Brian G. Ayers, 44, who had been found guilty of maintaining a drug nuisance on December 17 of last year was sentenced to two years in jail. A fine was waived. His wife, Lucia F. Ayers, was granted probation before judgment by Judge Jack R. Turney.

Both had initially been charged with maintaining a drug nuisance, drug conspiracy, possession of controlled dangerous substances, and possession of drug paraphernalia. The other charges were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney. Their arrests were made by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force who had obtained a search and seizure warrant for their residence on November 15, 1991.

In other District Court news, George L. Woods, 57, Oakland, was found not guilty of felony theft. He had initially been charged after a complaint was filed with the Oakland City Police Department by Mark Gay, Oakland.

Gay alleged that he and Woods had purchased a $500 money order together on November 12. He said that he asked for the money a few days later and Woods said that he did not have it. Woods admitted that he had paid their rent and only had $60 of the money left.

Michael A. Harsh, 35, Aurora, W.Va., was found guilty of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. For the drug possession charge he was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $200, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation. For the paraphernalia charge he was fined $50.

Harsh had been arrested on November 1 of last year by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office when an officer spotted him in a 1979 Ford Ranchero on the Ben DeWitt. The deputy stated that he knew there was an arrest warrant out for Harsh. A search of Harsh's vehicle revealed two brass fittings with the odor of burnt marijuana and a cigarette wrapper containing marijuana seeds.

Thomas W. Beachy, 18, Grantsville, was sentenced on a battery charge he had been found guilty of on Dec. 3, 1991. At that time the judge had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Beachy was given a three-year suspended sentence to the Maryland Department of Corrections, fined $150, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation. He had been charged last year with battery and numerous sex offense charges. The sex charges were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney. Beachy is to have no contact with his victim and he must continue domestic violence counseling and substance abuse counseling.

Keith E. Thomas, 19, Stevensville, pleaded not guilty to two counts of felony theft, but the judge found him guilty. He was handed a six-month jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $100 on each count, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Thomas had been arrested on December 27, 1991, by the Maryland State Police at the Grantsville Texaco Station when he was found to be in possession of two pairs of skis that had been reported stolen that day. He had first been spotted by the owner of the skis who had also stopped at the gas station on his way home.

Ralph E. Friend, 41, Swanton, was found guilty of battery and resisting arrest. He was given a 90-day suspended jail term and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. He was fined $50 on each count.

Friend had been arrested on January 4 after striking Janet Welch and Paul and Genevieve Friend. When Sheriff's Office deputies arrived and attempted to escort Friend to the other side of the room, Friend pulled away and had to be forced to the floor and handcuffed.

Parnell J. Romero, 20, Gambrills, was found guilty of being disorderly on private property and was fined $500 ($250 was suspended). He was also barred from the Wisp Ski Resort.

Romero had also been charged with trespassing on private property and malicious destruction of property, but those charges were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney.

Romero had been charged by the Maryland State Police after allegedly urinating in an elevator at the Wisp Resort. He was asked to leave by police and later returned. He was then taken from the premises by police.

Ruth A. Vance, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty of two counts of harassment and two counts of misuse of the telephone. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by the judge.

Vance had been charged after making harassing telephone calls to Melissa Johnson and Maxine Jamison.

Thelma Rohrig, 23, McHenry, was found guilty on six counts of bad check charges. She was given a 90-day suspended jail term, fined $300, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Rohrig had been charged after passing six worthless checks to the Plaza Deli during the month of November, 1991.

DNR CASES

A number of cases brought by the Department of Natural Resources Police were heard in District Court last week.

George E. Paugh, 42, Oakland, was found guilty of hunting deer in closed season. He was fined $150 and the judge suspended his hunting privileges for two years. He had been arrested by DNR police on January 4 off the Shingle Camp Road.

Gregg A. Kamp, 35, Lonaconing, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of spotlighting with a loaded hunting weapon in his vehicle. He was fined $500 and his lights, gun, and ammunition were confiscated by the state. His hunting privileges were also suspended for five years. He was fined $100 for having a loaded rifle in his vehicle. He had been arrested on January 16 in the Avilton-Lonaconing Road area.

Lawrence W. Sines, 64, Oakland, was granted probation before judgment on a charge of possessing wildlife without a permit. Sines had been charged on January 15 after three squirrels were found in his home.

Jeffrey A. Kitzmiller, 30, Oakland, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of hunting within 150 yards of a dwelling. He was fined $25. He had been charged on January 4 on the Pergin Farm Road.

Robert G. Fike, 38, Deer Park, was found guilty of exceeding the daily bag limit for deer. He was fined $25. He had been arrested on December 7, 1991, off the Oakland-Sang Run Road.

February Is Children's Dental Health Month

by Elaine Marple, Dental Hygienist

Today, about one-half of all children ages 5-17 have no cavities. As recently as the early 1980's, only 37% of these children were free of decay. As we strive for a "Healthy People 2000," we examine what has caused this improvement. Better dental hygiene, a better understanding of what causes cavities, and prevention have dramatically improved dental health.

Since the early 1950's, fluoride has been the most effective preventive measure. By adding fluoride to public drinking water, decay can be reduced by 65%. There are also other ways to obtain fluoride, such as supplements, tooth pastes and rinses, gel applications in the dental office, and school based weekly fluoride rinses.

Since 1987, Garrett County has been involved in the school fluoride rinse program. The most recent school to participate is the Crellin Elementary School. Each Tuesday morning, prior to the beginning of classes, the students, grades 1-5 rinse their mouths with a 0.2% neutral sodium fluoride solution for one minute. The solution is not swallowed. Studies have shown that this procedure can reduce decay 20-50%. The program is funded by the Crellin Parent Teachers Association at a cost of $0.75 per child per year. A dental hygienist with the Garrett County Health Department supervised the rinsing.

Other schools involved in this cavity prevention program are Bloomington, Kitzmiller, and Friendsville elementary schools.

It must be emphasized that fluoride rinse is no substitute for daily brushing and flossing, visits to the dentist, and limited sugary snacks.

February is Children's Dental Health Month which reminds all parents to see that their children have regular dental care. Be certain to discuss fluoride supplements with your physician or dentist. For more information regarding the fluoride mouth rinse program, contact the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8111.

They were Carroll Forsyth, with 137 votes; Roger Gale (Doug) Sines, with 122 votes; and Lucile Sines, with 99 votes. They will serve a two year term along with other town council members, Wayne Friend, Alice Spear and James R. Spear, who each have one more year to serve.

MSP To Increase DWI Enforcement On Alt. U.S. 40

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, plans to increase DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) enforcement in the Interstate 68/Alternate U.S. 40 area of Garrett County in 1992, according to barrack commander, Lt. Charles Hinnant.

Results of a recent survey, conducted by the barrack, disclosed that four of the five alcohol-related fatalities in Garrett County in 1991 occurred on Alternate U.S. Rt. 40 and Interstate 68, between Keyser's Ridge and Finzel.

There was only one alcohol-related collision in the remainder of the county. There were 10 fatal collisions which lead to the deaths of 12 people in Garrett County in 1991.

A comparison of fatal collisions in previous years revealed several interesting facts. There were 10 fatalities in 1989 and 1990. Only one was contributed to the use of alcohol. There were more people killed in the county in 1991 that in any year since 1978 when 12 people died in automobile collisions. It has been 16 years since more people died in traffic collisions in the county.

Troopers will use Federal Highway funds to provide enforcement on an overtime basis on weekends and holidays in an effort to curb DWI violations.

Spectators Of U.S. Olympic Trials Expected To Have "Electrifying" View

"The excitement of the Olympics will electrify spectators in western Maryland this spring at the U.S. Canoe & Kayak Team Olympic Trials on the Savage River May 16-17," according to an Adventure Sports Institute spokesperson. "On this site in the Savage River State Forest, 100 of America's best whitewater slalom athletes will battle with their paddles as they compete for 15 slots on the team that will represent this country at the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona."

The fifteen athletes selected for the coveted slots on the team will then train under U.S. Olympic Coach Bill Endicott to prepare for the battle in the world arena of the XXV Olympiad in Spain, where they will "go for the gold."

The Olympic Trials are being hosted by Garrett Community College, with Don Storck serving as chairperson of the local organizing committee. According to Storck, spectators at this year's event will have a particularly good view of the competition over the entire length of the race course.

In this whitewater slalom competition, athletes will paddle down a 400 meter course through 25 gates, about eight of which are entered going upstream. The gates are formed by pairs of striped poles, suspended by wires above the water. Competitors running against the clock must negotiate their crafts through downstream gates, then paddle against strong currents through upstream gates. Time penalties are assessed for hitting or missing a gate.

Both men and women paddlers will compete on the Savage in May in three types of boats. In the kayak (K-1), the man or woman sits and uses a double bladed paddle; in the canoe (C-1), somewhat wider than a kayak and propelled by a single blade, the paddler kneels; a double canoe (C-2) holds two paddlers, both kneeling and using single bladed paddles on opposite sides of the boat.

"Spectators will see flashes of color from the boats as they churn through the white froth of the raging Savage, and the red, white and blue of flags and banners in the crowd," said the spokesperson. "For the competitors on the river, the color of the day will be Olympic gold."

Tickets for the Olympic Trials will be available through Ticketron, at outlets in Garrett County, and by mail order from Olympic Trials Office, Garrett Community College, McHenry, Maryland, 21541.

Baltimore Man Given One Year For DWI Charge

Vernon W. Hoffman, 27, Baltimore, will serve one year in the Garrett County Jail and pay $1,500 in fines for DWI (driving while intoxicated) and driving with a revoked license.

Hoffman was charged, on November 15, with failure to drive right of center, DUI (driving under the influence), DWI, driving with a revoked license, driving without a license, failure to display license, and failure to display registration on demand.

In a hearing before Judge Fred A. Thayer, Hoffman waived his right to counsel and pleaded guilty to DWI and driving on a revoked license. The plea of guilty was accepted.

Hoffman was sentenced to two years in the Garrett County Jail (with one year suspended), fined $1,500 and placed on 18 months supervised probation.

The defendant was remanded to the Sheriff.

In other circuit court news, Charles F. Stinson, 36, Deer Park, was charged with violation of probation.

Stinson pleaded no contest to the charge. Judge Thayer found him guilty and reimposed a sentence of 277 days. He was given credit for 24 days served.

John R. Toston represented Stinson.

Tracy is a Hound Mix; a spayed female with all her shots. This 1½-year old loves cattle and would make a good farm dog.

Louise is a Mixed Breed female. She is 8 months old, wormed and has all her shots. She'd love to spend the rest of her life with you.

Thelma has all her shots and has been wormed. She is an 8-month-old female Mixed Breed who would like to spend her time with you watching winter fade away and spring warming up the land.

B & E, D.O.P., Assault Charges Filed Against W.Va. Man By MSP

A Weston, W.Va., man was charged with breaking and entering, destruction of property, and assault of a police officer, on February 5 by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Ronald A. Keesecker, no age given by police, was arrested in reference to a breaking and entering at Delta Mining Corporation, Grantsville. He was placed in a state police cruiser for transport to Barrack W and while enroute, he allegedly became violent and broke the flex cuffs that had been placed around his legs.

Once his legs were free, he kicked the dash and windshield of the police car, causing extensive damage to both. Tfc. R. M. Hershberger was assaulted by Keesecker while trying to restrain him. The arresting officer was Tfc. J.E. Foley.

Keesecker was taken to the Garrett County Jail where he is currently being held in lieu of $25,000 bond set by Judge Jack R. Turney of Garrett County District Court.

THEFTS

Several thefts were reported to the McHenry Barrack recently.

Michael J. Fratz, Accident, reported that someone removed a hydraulic pump, a motor, and a battery from his dump trailer that was parked in Accident sometime between January 20 and February 4.

The loss is estimated at $975, according to Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski, investigating officer for state police.

In another theft and breaking and entering report, Joan M. Valdez, 50, Cumberland, told state police that unknown person(s) broke into her lake rental property and stole one 20-inch color television with remote control and stereo, one bedspread, six blankets, and four pillows.

That theft occurred sometime between last Thursday and Saturday, according to Tfc. W.E. Dixon, investigating officer, who said the loss is estimated at $700.

Ski thefts continue at the Wisp Ski Resort in McHenry as three parties reported their skis stolen on Sunday.

Sylvie Oberlander, Chevy Chase; High Mountain Sports, McHenry; and George Biesinger, Holidaysburg, Pa., all reported that their skis had been stolen from the Wisp. Tfc. J.K. Moore, investigating officer, did not give descriptions of the skis on his report.

Management from McDonald's Restaurant, Keyser's Ridge, reported that someone stole a box containing various valued gift certificates from a table at that establishment on January 31.

The value of the stolen certificates is $88, according to Tfc. Gregory S. Becker, investigating officer.

TELEPHONE MISUSE

A Swanton man has been charged with telephone misuse, according to Tfc. W.E. Dixon.

Joseph M. Wolf, 47, has been charged after state police and the C&P Telephone Company investigated a complaint filed by Jonathan E. Jacks, 29, Mtn. Lake Park.

Dixon reported that Wolf was interviewed and stated that he had made harassing calls to Jacks.

Oakland Town Election Set; Deadlines Noted

The Oakland municipal election will be held Monday, March 9, as voters will be selecting a mayor, town treasurer, and three councilpersons. The polls will be open at Town Hall from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Present elected officials whose terms will expire are: Mayor Asa M. McCain, Treasurer Carol A. Gregg, and Councilpersons Margaret Jamison, Andrew E. Mance, and Mary Lou Stemple.

The last day to file as a candidate for one of these posts is Friday, February 28, by 4 p.m.

Any resident of Oakland who is at least 18 years of age may register to vote in a municipal election during regular office hours. Persons wishing to vote in the March 9 election must register by the same deadline for candidate filing, mentioned above.

While the town maintains a separate register of voters, all Oakland residents who have registered at the Board of Election Supervisors' Office after January 1, 1990, are automatically qualified to vote in the municipal election.

The deadline for obtaining absentee ballots for the March 9 election is Monday, March 2.

Holdover councilpersons are Willard Ringer, Harvey J. Moyer, and Arthur Naylor.

NHS HOUSE PROJECT NEARS COMPLETION - The 1991-92 house construction project at Northern High School is nearing its final stages and persons interested in inspecting the project are invited to visit the school between the hours of 8:15 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland Friday, Feb. 21

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, has announced that the bloodmobile will visit Oakland on Friday, February 21. Donors will be accepted from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the National Guard Armory on eighth Street.

The blood drive is an effort to maintain the Johnstown Region's commitment to the blood and blood product needs of patients in the 64 hospitals it serves in 40 counties, according to a Red Cross spokesman.

"There is a continuous need for blood donors in order to meet the needs of area patients with cancer, leukemia, and other acute and chronic illnesses; as well as the emergency blood needs of accident victims. The only source of blood is healthy people who come out to donate at their local blood drive," said Cindy Kutchman, chapter executive of the Garrett County Chapter.

Kutchman continued to say that at the present time there is a specific need for type O in local hospitals. She explained that, because of emergencies or other circumstances, hospitals often experience a shortage of a certain blood type, most frequently type O. A type O donor can give any blood type recipient, however a type O recipient can only receive type O blood.

The Garrett County Chapter is one of 43 chapters in the Johnstown Region which contributes to the region's collection goal of 600 units each weekday.

DNR Charges Pa. Man With DWI Saturday

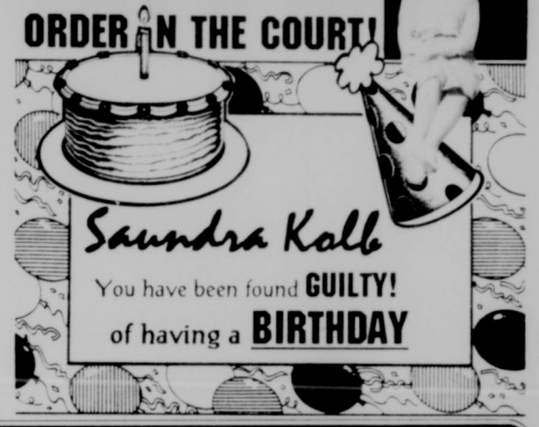
A Pa. man was charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated) by Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Police late Saturday night when the snowmobile he was driving fell through the ice on Deep Creek Lake.

Robin D. Ruchka, 36, West Mifflin, escaped injury in the 11:45 p.m. accident.

The Polaris 500 snowmobile Ruchka was driving did not completely sink. The front skis were caught on a piece of the broken ice after the rear of the snowmobile fell through.

Because of the thin ice, efforts to retrieve the vehicle were unsuccessful. The DNR Police divers will be able to remove the snowmobile from the lake after the ice begins to melt.

Southern Rescue Squad responded to the accident.



A DNR spokesman noted that riding snowmobiles on Deep Creek Lake is against the law, because the lake is a Natural Resource Management Area. In addition to the danger to the riders from thin ice, contamination of the lake from spilled fuel is also a concern.

Questionable Proposals...

While we recognize that our local elected officials are in the midst of extreme financial straits, we question some of the proposals by the county commissioners to deal with the crisis.

We learned, for the first time this week, that the commissioners have submitted legislation that will enable them to levy an ad valorem tax on all property tax bills to finance the closing of the present county landfill and the opening of a new one. There is apparently no limit to the size of the tax. If it is anything like the ad valorem tax currently being paid by Mtn. Lake Park residents for sewage facilities, it will remain in effect and on our tax bills for at least the next 40 years.

We learned, for the first time this week, that the commissioners have submitted legislation to enable them to increase the present accommodations tax from three to five percent, much to the outrage of the local motel/restaurant owners. We were informed that a huge portion of the accommodations tax already collected was poured into one of the county's industrial parks. The motel owners are upset that this money wasn't pumped back into promotion and tourism efforts. The commissioners maintain that development and promotion of the county to tourists are both lumped into the same basket. We tend to agree with the motel owners, especially since our industrial parks continue to remain practically vacant. Why should our motel owners be forced to be the bad guys to collect tax money that is then used for industrial development instead of promoting their "product?"

We learned, for the first time this week (is it us, or have the commissioners been extremely quiet about what they have been doing?), that the commissioners are seeking legislation to cut the discount on early payment of property taxes from five to two percent. We really can't complain too much about this proposal. In fact, the way the tax bill payment schedule is designed right now, one never pays the actual amount of his or her tax bill. It is always either more or less, depending upon which month one pays, which makes little sense to us.

What are some other options for the commissioners? First of all, we believe the legislation they should be requesting is that which allows them to float bonds for the landfill project, as well as other capital improvements that are needed. The state and federal support for these projects is being slashed continually and we see much darker times ahead unless the county takes this step. The commissioners have already turned down a proposal by the board of education to consolidate two or three of our school buildings, the present conditions of which are deplorable. How much longer can Loch Lynn and Red House schools be patched, and at what expense?

For too long the commissioners have for political reasons made a big deal out of "holding the line" on Garrett County taxes. We believe they have tugged on that line so hard the past few years, that now we are all really paying the price for it in the form of near financial catastrophe for many of our county agencies, including our board of education. If the above proposals become law we will be paying higher taxes anyway, so why not just raise the property tax rate instead of going through all these expensive legislative gyrations described above to make it look like you're continuing to "hold the line" on the property tax rate?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am concerned over a trend that appears to be recurring in journalistic writings. Over the past decade I have observed in the writings of various syndicated as well as free lance writers that there seems to be a blending of objective reporting with editorializing the issues.

And it's not only in written periodicals, but radio and television reporting are following suit.

The latest issue to catch my eye hits a personal note. The publication of a Mr. Martin Yant under the title of The Public Eye is a forward example of "yellow journalism."

I cannot comment on the contents of the publication since I was professionally involved with the case and judicial ethics bars me from doing so. My opinions remain solely with me. I will, however, comment on the style.

I believe that every journalist, author, reporter, or other writer has an obligation, up front, to indicate to the reader whether the writer is editorializing or reporting the facts.

And if it is to be a factual account, objectively written, the writer is under obligation to present those facts in a straightforward, unbiased manner.

Editorials carry the writer's opinions based on conclusions drawn from interviews, public records, and so forth.

Increasingly, writers are taking literary license to blend the accounts and facts with their own opinions and viewpoints to produce slanted accounts. Even worse, some have taken the liberty to transpose events out of chronological order to further slant the viewpoint of the reader.

Mr. Yant's writings are a good example of this style. He's not alone. From Mr. Yant's efforts to the daily news, I challenge you to critically examine, ask questions, and pursue the truth. Accept nothing at face value. Get another angle.

Writers and publishers who indulge "yellow journalism" and hide behind the First Amendment to protect themselves do a disgrace to themselves and to their correspondents.

Can you believe this? The Postal Service is sponsoring the Olympic Games, even though it started the present fiscal year one billion, four hundred million dollars in the red.

There is, however, a bright spot. It seems Preparation-H is also sponsoring the games. Could it be that this is designed to ease the pain in the a__ caused by the mess created by the very people who are responsible for running the Postal Service in an efficient, responsible manner?

To the Editor:

In the early 1900s Sang Run in Garrett County was a lively place to live. My brothers and sisters told me there was a boardwalk from Friend's Store to the stores down by the river bridge. There were three or four stores. (I have forgotten.) There were several tourist homes. The biggest and best was run by Mrs. Stella Friend. They had telephones. These you rang two long and three shorts, or some combination like that, to call a neighbor. A small train ran from Friendsville up along the river bringing supplies to the people and taking timber back to the Kendall Lumber Company. It was called "The Dinkey" by the local people.

Friend's Delight, down by the Youghiogheny River, was always a favorite meeting place for all the neighbors for picnics, birthday parties, and sometimes just to get together. People called it "The Green." The grass always stayed so green down by the river.

The old Methodist church (now called the Open-Door Chapel), was another favorite meeting place. It is no longer in use. We could hear the church bell on Sunday morning. A lot of memories involve that church.

Sang Run started dying when the older citizens started dying. There were fewer and fewer families to meet at the Green and at the old Methodist church. Buildings were deteriorating. The Post Office was taken out. The old two-room school house was closed down. Students were bussed to Accident. Some still had to walk two miles to catch the bus. Families no longer met at the Green. There just wasn't much to see or do in Sang Run anymore. The younger ones were going away to school, jobs, or to get married.

But now those young ones are getting to be the old ones. They are retiring and moving back. Jack Hinebaugh, grandson of Alvin and Stella Friend, and his wife, Jerry, moved back to the Friend property and after a lot of work have opened up Friend's store at Sang Run. He has the same old stove where many of us warmed our feet after that two-mile walk through the snow to get to school. The old candy case is still there. Most of us stopped there after school to spend our few pennies. Mr. Friend, Jack's grandfather, must have had the patience of Job to tell me over and over the answer; "Now, how many of these did you say I can get for a penny?" He never lost his temper or gave a short answer to the several of us who kept him standing there answering questions while we figured out which was the better deal.

Jack has built a new pavilion at the Green. In summer there is lots of activity down by the river on the Green. Just about every Saturday and Sunday families get together for reunions, birthday parties, and all kinds of things that have happened in the past or present. Neighbors are getting together again. It is such a pleasure to get to see old friends whom we had not seen for years.

A group of citizens are keeping a church in Sang Run. At this time they are holding services in a garage on the Wright property. They are buying a piece of property and the church is in the planning stages. Everyone who can is helping financially and in any way they can. Denny Mickle is the pastor. He has had a lot of training at two different colleges. He and his wife, Mary, are both ordained ministers. It is interdenominational and everyone is welcome. The members and the clergy are all working together.

The important thing is to keep a church in the Sang Run area. Some of these older ones who can hardly get to church have put so much of their money and time into a church, then had it taken so far away they could not get to a place of worship. We are proud of those who are providing a place for all to worship. Every community needs a church. The young people need and deserve spiritual guidance.

Sang Run and the surrounding area has the best trained young people of any I have ever been around. Sure they make mistakes, but so far nothing dreadful like in the cities and even some small towns. My own theory, (which you are welcome to disagree with), is that when they took prayer out of the schools it left an empty space which was soon filled up with drugs. "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof..." The constitution can be interpreted two ways. The people of Sang Run believe in religious training.

It is time we say "Thank You" to all who are helping to make Sang Run, Maryland, a better place to live.

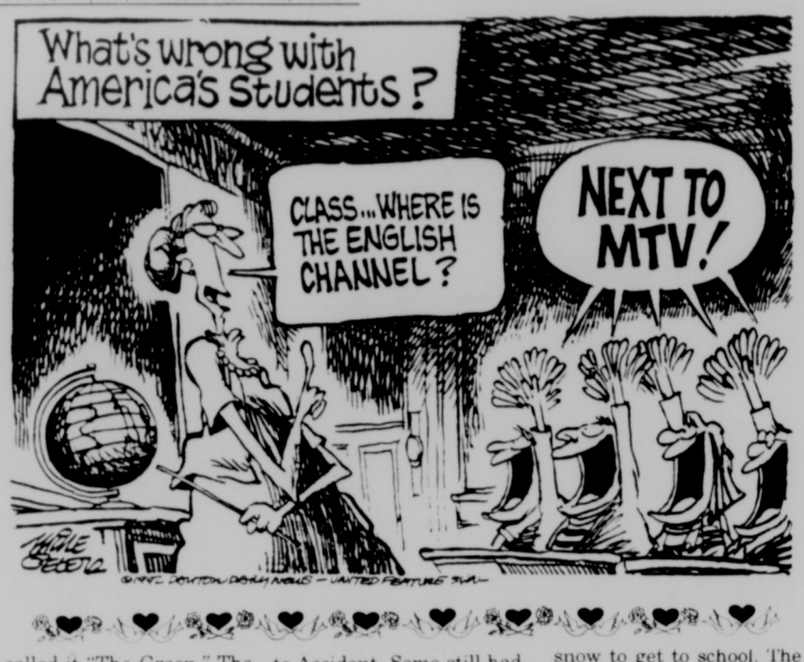
A grateful citizen,
Beulah L. Mickle

To the Editor:

Your editorial in last week's Republican on "Random Kindness" was inspiring -- and just what needs to the prescribed for the world at this present time. It touched a chord deep within me. I have been the recipient -- and a time or two, the giver -- and the rewards for both are incalculable. Once when I was pretty down and discouraged a very nice person in this town left a small basket of "goodies" on my porch. This was from a very unexpected source and the person went out of their way. One can't really describe the feeling of warmth -- and I have tried to pass it on -- but maybe not hard enough. A smile, a touch, a word -- just being there for somebody can have a domino effect and change the world.

Oddly enough, something happened to me today that was a perfect example. A gentleman who was driving behind me on Oakland Sang-Run Road took the time and trouble to follow me a mile and a half to my home to let me know that my brake light was inoperable. That's the kind of people this world needs now more than anything else.

Thank you for your editorial -- it made me remember all the times such "random kindness" has touched my life. I will try harder to pass it on.



Sincerely,
Frances D. Acton

To the Editor:

Relative to the state's budget woes, the solutions proffered by our elected leaders are, at best, undesirable. The spending cuts and revenue enhancements that we absorbed for fiscal 1992 are minor compared to the proposals for fiscal 1993. The Republican leadership is proposing to balance next year's budget entirely through spending reductions of 1.2 billion. Streamlining government is necessary and prudent, however, to the extent that it will cause further debilitation of our educational systems and the government provided services that facilitate our quality of life, this action is not acceptable. The Democratic leadership and the Executive Branch both favor cuts in conjunction with tax and fee increases in the amounts of 800 to 600 million in cuts and 400 to 600 million in revenue increases respectively. Obviously this approach splits the burden, but on the revenue side makes a poor situation even worse. The citizen taxpayers of Maryland already suffer as the third highest taxed constituency in the nation and we certainly cannot afford to gain the dubious distinction of numero uno. Increasing the state's economic base is the only viable means for revenue stability and we cannot expect to expand or even keep our current level of job opportunities if other states are more attractive to business from a tax standpoint.

The American economy is historically cyclical in nature and government creates a shortfall, waiting

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

Why Maryland Should Ban Assault Weapons
By Governor William Donald Schaefer

Jim Brady, press secretary to former President Ronald Reagan, was in Annapolis to help us introduce our assault weapons bill for this legislative session. As many of you might know, Jim was severely injured in 1981 during an assassination attempt on President Reagan's life. Since then, Jim and his wife Sarah Brady have been strong advocates of gun control measures, working with states like Maryland to adopt stronger laws to protect citizens. We were lucky to have Jim with us when I announced this year's bill to ban the sale, transfer or purchase of about 60 specific models of assault weapons and ban magazines of more than 15 rounds. He noted that if his attacker had been carrying an Uzi or Tec-9 model weapon, he probably would not be alive today.

People who follow General Assembly matters know that a year ago, the Legislature killed the ban on assault weapons I introduced in the 1991 session. Some people have asked me why I would propose a similar bill again this year. That's an easy one: these guns serve no useful purpose, and are really good for only one thing -- killing people. These are not guns that anyone would use for hunting or sports, and they are not the kinds of guns you would want to keep in your home for protection. But police tell us that more and more, they are finding these high-powered assault-style weapons in drug busts, and that assault weapons are used in one out of every 10 crimes. In Baltimore City, police have confiscated 70 assault weapons in 1990, nearly twice the number of assault weapons that were confiscated in 1989.

I've had a chance to look at some of the weapons that would be banned under the legislation, and I can tell you they are ugly looking guns, capable of firing dozens of rounds in just seconds. I wonder how a police officer would feel, looking down the barrel of a high-powered weapon like that. I know from my days in Baltimore City that every few years, we would have to upgrade weapons or protection for the police, giving them more powerful guns or stronger body armor to keep up with the criminals. As one of the police officers said when we introduced the bill, at this rate we could end up with our police officers resembling soldiers.

One last point: some critics of efforts to outlaw assault weapons in Maryland say we haven't had a real problem with these guns. The day that Jim Brady visited Maryland to help us introduce our assault weapons bill was the third anniversary of an assault weapons massacre in Stockton, California, that involved an AK-47. Patrick Purdy, the gunman, fired 106 rounds in less than two minutes, killing five small children and wounding a teacher and 29 other children. That is just one instance in which an assault weapon has been used to injure or kill a lot of people at once. I feel strongly that we don't need to have a tragedy, like a mass killing, in Maryland to make the case for enacting an assault weapons ban.

This year I made a few changes in the legislation to help it through the legislature. Instead of making the law apply retroactively, the legislation would take effect October 1, 1992, if it is adopted. The 1992 bill also would not require people who already own the guns to obtain permits. I was willing to negotiate a few points on the bill, but not willing to give up on the purpose of limiting the availability of assault weapons.

An assault weapons ban will not solve all of Maryland's public safety problems, but it is a strong step we can take this year to limit access to these deadly weapons. If you are interested in seeing an assault weapon ban adopted this year, I encourage you to contact your legislator. As always, I would be interested in hearing what you have to say. Please write me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

An Update From The Superintendent

By
Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

SCHOOL + BUSINESS = PARTNERSHIPS

A successful School + Business = Partnership is any kind of an alliance between the public schools and the business community which reaps a mutual benefit. Our program began three years ago when the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce combined with the Garrett County Board of Education to promote further partnerships.

The partnerships can take various forms, but probably can be condensed to the following:

A. The providing of perspective: Various local business people have given of their time to serve on Board of Education committees such as the Vocational Advisory Council, the Health Advisory Council, and various other school and system-wide committees.

B. Providing vocational experience: Here the partnership can take one of two forms. First, area business people can provide vocational information to students through class talks, seminars, and materials. Secondly, area employers have participated in providing various job site experiences to students.

C. Career planning: Various businesses in the community have participated in activities which assist youngsters in going into the work force upon graduation or going on to further educational experiences.

D. Cultural programs: Various programs of a cultural nature have been made available to our students through the sponsorship of these programs by area businesses.

E. Instructional incentives: As a result of providing various types of awards, businesses have encouraged young people to study harder.

F. Special programs: Through programs such as radio programs, working with our students on science fairs, and the sponsorhsip of other special programs, businesses have assisted us in providing additional opportunities to the students and community.

Benefits also can accrue to the business partner, such as:

(1) Business, through this program, helps develop a better-prepared work force for the future,

(2) Business helps the school system be more responsive to the concerns of the business community,

(3) This kind of experience can provide a broadening as well as rewarding experience for employees, and

(4) Through this program the business community gains visibility and recognition for meaningful public service.

Each year the Garrett County Board of Education and the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce sponsor a School + Business = Partnerships luncheon to bring together school officials and the business community. This year the luncheon will be held at Southern High School on Thursday, February 13. We will be presenting at the luncheon an explanation of the "Tech-Prep" program for students at the high school level which should be of interest to all local businesses. All businesses are cordially invited to attend this annual affair.

What's happening in our schools this week?

* On Monday, February 17, there will be no school in Garrett County in commemoration of President's Day.

Edwards Wants Feedback On Gas Tax Hike

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards announced this week that he is seeking input from local residents concerning their opinions on whether or not the state gas tax should be increased by five cents. That proposal is currently being reviewed by the 1992 Maryland General Assembly as a way of paying for new road construction in the state.

"I want to hear from people about whether they just want a road maintenance program or if they want to raise the gas tax to pay for new projects, such as the proposed four-lane corridor from Interstate 68 to Oakland," said Edwards.

The Schaefer administration bill would raise the tax from its current 18.5 cents to 23.5 cents. The measure is reportedly gaining support among Maryland legislators and is, increasingly being touted by some as a "jobs bill."

Sponsor Bills

The measure does not apply to transfer of land subject to the Agricultural Land Transfer Tax.

At the request of the county commissioners, District One Senator John J. Hafer has sponsored a measure (SB 501) that would increase the hotel rental, or accommodations, tax from three percent to five percent. This is strictly enabling legislation and would allow, not authorize, the commissioners to impose such an increase.

Representatives from the local business community, however, met with the commissioners this week to oppose the increase. (See separate story.)

This, and HB 514, are both termed "emergency legislation" that would allow them to go into effect as soon as the governor signs them.

Senator Hafer has also sponsored SB 502 that would allow the county commissioners to decrease the discounts on the county property form two to five percent.

Dateline: Annapolis

The two percent discount would only apply in July with no discount being granted in August or September. Currently, the discount is four percent in August and three percent in September.

If enacted, that measure would take effect on June 1.

HB 881, solely co-sponsored by Edwards, would enable the county commissioners to impose an ad valorem property tax to pay for all or part of the cost of developing a new landfill, closing out the old one, or for the principal or interest on any bonds issued by the county for those purposes.

If enacted, the tax would be imposed by an ordinance and would be subject to a public hearing before it could be established.

Upon the suggestion of Delegate Edwards, a bill is being sponsored by the Allegany and Garrett Delegation that seeks to provide area residents with an advantage in obtaining employment with the proposed detention center in Allegany County.

HB 1316, entitled Merit System Examination - Preference Points would provide for a preference hiring of anyone who has resided 12 months in a county whose unemployment rate, on average, is more than 1.5 times the state unemployment rate.

Oppose Plan

the tax goes back into the recreational industry.

Wendell Beitzel also spoke on behalf of the business community and told the commissioners that the increase would amount to a "regressive tax that would drive business out of the county."

Karen Spiker, president of A&A Realty, echoed that sentiment, stating that raising the accommodations tax to five percent would "jeopardize our competitiveness as a tourist industry."

Commissioner Braskey explained that a decision was made by the board to direct $600,000 of the accommodations tax revenue to the Northern Industrial Park in Grantsville, noting that a large percentage of that funding has been from federal and state grants. "We needed to use that money for matching funds in order to save those grants," he said.

Braskey also informed the group that he felt promotional efforts by the designated county agencies have largely been directed at the Deep Creek Lake area, and the outlying areas are sometimes slighted in the process. He also stressed that the legislation is only "enabling" in nature, which would allow -- not mandate -- that the county increase the accommodations tax rate, and that a public hearing would have to be held before the tax increase could actually be implemented.

President of the Promotion Council Board of Directors George Evans stated that the council has attempted to include all areas of the county in its promotional efforts but that financial factors have prohibited it. "We also see the vision," he said, referring to the need for a broader base of operations, but, he added, "we can't do it in small, individual groups."

Members of the group also wanted to know what level of funding would be going into promotional efforts in the future. "We want a fixed percentage we can count on," stated Evans.

Commissioner Elwood Groves, however, stated that such a commitment could not be made because cuts at the state and federal level were still being negotiated by legislators.

Both Braskey and Groves, however, agreed to respond to a written proposal by members of the group and to give consideration to creating a new entity that could expand promotional efforts in the county.

Bear Bill

data on a yearly basis and make a decision after reviewing the information."

The letter continued, "As your know, a hunting season bill was introduced several years ago as was, on several occasions, a bill to reimburse farmers for crop damage, but none of these bills passed. Based on the information in the just completed plan in which DNR states it will initiate a hunting season when the data suggests one is needed, we will not be introducing a bill to do so."

Recently, DNR wildlife officials met with the commissioners to inform them that a hunting season would jeopardize the bear population in the county. Two public hearings, one in Garrett County and one in Gaithersburg, were also recently held to seek further input from Maryland residents about the issue.

Bd. Of Education - Taxing and Fiscal Authority

Hafer and Edwards also informed the commissioners of other pieces of requested legislation they would not be sponsoring this year. Among them was a measure that would have granted taxing authority to the Garrett County Board of Education.

It was stated in the letter by the two legislators that, "We believe this to be a broad sweeping change of existing procedure and feel that more time and study needs to be done on this issue; therefore, we will not be introducing a bill."

The letter then stated, "Since this legislation was a request of yours, we ask that you have some public hearings on this issue and ask MACo (Maryland Association of Counties) to evaluate it and have some input also. We will be talking with the public about this and prior to next session, all of us can thoroughly evaluate this to see if it would be appropriate at that time to introduce legislation."

Farm Pond and Recordation Tax Bills

Two other pieces of legislation, both unanimously suggested by the county commissioners, will not be introduced this year. The commissioners asked that a bill be submitted that would help clarify the questions pertaining to licensing regulations for farm ponds.

Edwards and Hafer said they would continue to work with the departments involved in the farm pond issue, as well as with county officials and concerned residents, in an effort to resolve the problems.

Regarding the recordation tax, also unanimously favored by the commissioners, Edwards stated that the county already has the authority to impose such a tax.

Several other bills will also not be introduced by the legislators. These were suggested by individual members of the commissioners' board and include a local beer tax increase, term limitations, and the placement of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission under the authority of county government.

State, County Jobless Rates Sharply Higher

The Maryland unemployment rate jumped sharply in December to 6.8 percent from November's rate of 6.1 percent. The increase was because of slower than normal hires during the retail Christmas season and other seasonal factors, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

Despite a disappointing December, the total number of Marylanders employed during the month exceeds that of the same month last year. Since July 1991, employment in Maryland has been above the previous year (same month) figures.

"With the higher unemployment in December due to slower than normal retail sales during the holiday season, Marylanders have once again deferred basic retail purchases until they are more confident," said DEED Secretary Mark L. Wasserman. "However, our employment base remains stable, growing slightly over last year's figures for the sixth consecutive month.

"In fact, there is some reason to hope for improvement as housing producers recently have filed a high number of housing permits," Wesserman added. During December 2,276 housing units were authorized for construction in Maryland, an increase of 12 percent over November and a 43 percent increase over December 1990.

Initial and continuing claims for unemployment insurance benefits also increased during the month. The number of initial claims rose to 38,025 from Novembers 28,568. Even with the increase, however, the number of initial claims was lower than in December last year. Continued claims rose from November's 49,749 to 53,712. In December, unemployment insurance benefits paid totalled $43.5 million, an increase from November's $32.9 million.

Locally, unemployment rates ranged from a low of 3.8 percent in Montgomery County to a high of 18.8 percent in Worcester County.

King Is Among GCC Graduate's "Success Stories"

by Joan Crawford

Notable on the list of Garrett Community College (GCC) graduates who have gone on to further their education, become successful in their careers, and assume leadership roles in their communities is Jack King, manager of human resources at Bausch & Lomb, Oakland.

King, who worked full-time while taking classes at GCC, received his A.A. degree in business administration in 1976 and went on to complete his education in personnel management at West Virginia University.

He now remembers his years at GCC as "an enjoyable learning environment, with professors who really cared about and motivated their students and who would take time to provide individualized help for students." In his experience, GCC provided a quality education at reasonable tuition rates and solid preparation for transfer to other institutions.

That education helped him to advance in his chosen career at the Oakland facility and led to his receiving two additional assignments as manager of human resources at the Bausch & Lomb plants in Hartford, Conn., and in San Antonio. He expects to see GCC continue to provide a high quality education to students in this community who might not have other opportunities available to them.

To present students, King offers this advice, "Maximize any opportunities you have in your educational endeavors. Stay in school until you obtain your objectives. It's easier when you're young."

King and his wife Diane are residents of the Oakland area. Their son Jeff is a senior pre-medical student at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Wisp Ski Club To Help Sponsor Ski For Heart

American Heart Association officials recently announced that the Wisp Ski Club will be a major sponsor of the 1992 Ski for Heart, which will be held Saturday, February 22, at the Wisp Ski Area.

The Wisp Ski Club is becoming a major sponsor by holding an Apres Ski Party for the volunteers and participants in Ski for Heart. The party will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Wisp's Crow's Nest on the day of the event.

According to an AHA spokesman, Ski for Heart is a special event designed to acquaint people with the cardiovascular benefits of skiing while raising money for the American Heart Association's research and educational programs.

"The Wisp Ski Club is excited and happy to host the Apre Ski Party for the American Heart Association's Ski for Heart," said Wisp Ski Club President Debbie Savage. "Our goal as a Ski Club is to promote skiing as a fun activity and to make the public aware of its cardiovascular benefits. Being involved with the Ski for Heart event helps us to obtain that goal."

The Wisp Ski Club, which has 100 members, sponsors many events throughout the year, such as a Halloween party, apres ski parties, sled riding parties, and mountain bike and volleyball days.

"One of the main features of the Apre Ski Party is the announcement of the Ski for Heart prize winners," stated Karen Giffin, associate director, Community Organization, American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division. "Also, the Savage Frost Shop is donating two custom designed sweaters; one as door prize for the Apre Ski Party, and the other as an award for Most Vertical Feet Skied." Giffin added that Savage Frost, a unique shop at The Fort in McHenry, specializes in creating hand-knit, custom designed sweaters, and in fine knitting yarns.

The American Heart Association is the nation's largest voluntary health organization dedicated to the reduction of disability and death from heart and blood vessel diseases, which annually kill almost one million Americans. Last year the AHA spent more than $172 million for research support and public and professional education and community programs.

For more information on Ski for Heart, call the American Heart Association's Garrett County Branch Office in Oakland at (301) 334-5865 or the Allegany County Branch Office at (301) 724-4011. For information on the Wisp Ski Club call (301) 387-5495.

Mon Valley Leadership Academy To Conduct Classes; GCC To Participate

The Mon Valley Tri-State Leadership Academy will conduct a series of classes for individuals in the surrounding counties in an effort to strengthen the skills of potential community and economic development leaders.

The Academy will hold an orientation conference at Nemacolin Woodlands, Rt. 40 East, Village of Farmington, Pa., on April 3 and 4. The conference will provide participants with an overview of the Leadership Academy, its vision for the Mon Valley, and a chance to meet with instructors and other participants. The classes are set to begin April 6.

The Academy curriculum will consist of four modules which will provide participants with an in-depth view of the Valley's socio-economic and institutional settings. Interactive instruction will give participants the skills, concepts, and analytical tools they need to intervene effectively as leaders. Sessions in each module meet weekly for 10 evenings; four modules will be scheduled over a period of two years.

In order to serve the entire tri-state region, modules will be taught at four sites: Morgantown, W.Va. (West Virginia University); Pittsburgh, (University of Pittsburgh); Uniontown, Pa. (Penn State - Fayette Campus); and McHenry and Cumberland (Garrett Community College and Allegany Community College). Additional sites may be added upon demand.

The Leadership Academy is a project of the Mon Valley Tri-State Network. The Network is an independent, non-profit leadership organization of volunteers committed to cooperative economic and human resource development in the Monongahela River Valley. The Mon Valley is a 7,400 square-mile, 18-county region shared by Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland.

The Director of the Academy is Dr. Paul F. Fendt, a nationally known authority on adult learning and continuing education. Non-Traditional GCC Students On Increase

An increase in the number of students requesting non-traditional credit evaluation at Garrett Community College (GCC) has been reported by George McDowell, coordinator of the non-traditional credit program.

Between July 1989 and July 1990, the first year the program was implemented, a total of 40 non-traditional credit hours were awarded; between July 1990 and January 1992, a total of 388 non-traditional credit hours were awarded, 216 of which were military hours. According to McDowell, 41 individuals have been served by the program.

Students seeking non-traditional credit at GCC are advised to take the one-credit portfolio development course (LS 104) which helps them prepare a portfolio to document their non-academic learning acquired through work, military, and volunteer experiences. This course has twice been offered concurrently with a special section of English 101, in which students do expository writing assignments for their portfolio and a research paper related to their career experiences.

The combination of these two courses will be offered again later this spring. Further information may be obtained by calling McDowell or Joan Crawford at the college, at 387-6666.

In addition to the portfolio evaluation, students may receive college credit for prior learning through challenge exams, performance evaluation, CLEP and PEP tests, and DANTES. Interested persons should contact McDowell.

Agreements have been worked out with the staff of the West Virginia University Regents program, whereby students receiving non-traditional credit at GCC can transfer these credits to WVU, thus assuring upward mobility for the non-traditional students.

Citizens Meet To Discuss Head Of Transportation

A second public meeting to discuss concerns about the Garrett County Board of Education Transportation Department and its director, Michael Sines, was held January 28 at the Deep Creek Fire Hall in McHenry. Some 75 persons were in attendance.

The meeting was conducted by Richard Thomas, Friendsville, who led a discussion of various issues regarding the transportation department. Several letters were read noting concerns of parents about bus routes, bus stops, and problems they had in dealing with Sines and the board of education. One letter shared was from Garrett County Sheriff M. Van Evans, which stated that his recommendation to add two bus stops because of what he believed were safety hazards "fell on deaf ears" at the transportation department.

Concern was also voiced regarding bus drivers being harassed and threatened "in round-about ways." One driver claimed that Sines made the statement "I think your route is too long" after he filed a complaint. Another claim was that several drivers had experienced unconventional on-the-spot inspections of their vehicles, while others have had their routes shortened, resulting in a cut in their income.

Among those in attendance were four of the six candidates for the board of education: Helen Fitzwater, Wayne Johnson, Charlotte Sebold, and Russell Sines. None of the present board members were present, although Thomas noted that two of them contacted him by telephone concerning the meeting.

A final meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 18 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Deep Creek Fire Hall. The group will then present its concerns to the board of education at its March 11 meeting.

Crackdown On Speeding Paying Off, Literally

Speeding gets you nowhere... fast, an aggressive highway safety campaign featuring strict enforcement of Maryland's 55 mile per hour speed limit, is paying off literally. Since the campaign began, Maryland State Police have seized more than 1.4 million dollars during drug interdiction traffic stops on Maryland highways. The majority of the traffic stops were made for speeding.

"Since 1987, the amount of drug money along with drug quantities has increased dramatically," stated First Sergeant Bernard E. Spangler, Jr. of the Maryland State Police Special Traffic Enforcement Unit. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, First Sergeant Spangler said drug money is often concealed somewhere in the vehicle.

"We have discovered this money in door panels, engine air cleaners, spare tires and teddy bears," First Sergeant Spangler said. "The cash seizures often times are the result of vehicle scans by a State Police K-9 which is trained and certified in narcotics detection," First Sergeant Spangler added.

During the past five years, State Police have seized 238 pounds of cocaine; 1,615 pounds of marijuana; and 42 pounds of opiates, including heroin. Troopers have also recovered nearly 700 weapons during drug interdiction traffic stops which resulted in 10,362 arrests for various drug law violations. State Police also confiscated 371 vehicles under federal or state asset seizure and forfeiture laws.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. Portions of this program are carried on the Maryland State Police Newsline, (410) 653-4275.

Middle East Topic Of High Noon Happenings

"God, Greed, and Geology in the Middle East" will be the topic of a presentation by Paul Shogren next Wednesday, February 19, at noon in Room 314 of the Continuing Education Building at Garrett Community College. The lecture will be the first in the series of "High Noon Happenings" scheduled for this spring.

In explaining the title he chose for the presentation, Shogren said that there is no easy solution to the problems of the Middle East because of the complexity of the area. He will focus on the relationships among the religious groups of Muslims, Christians, and Jews (God), the exploitation of the region by the colonial European powers (greed), and the importance of oil in the area (geology).

Shogren, who has retired from a career as forester with the federal government, first became interested in the Middle East as a member of an Army National Guard psychological operations unit, where he gained knowledge of the region and learned the Arabic language from a Palestinian instructor. Subsequently, he did extensive research on the topic.

All interested persons are invited to attend next week's presentation. The following week, on February 26, president of GCC Dr. Steve Herman will give a lecture on "Love" at noon in Room 314.

Hafer Supports VA Regional Cumberland Office

District One Senator John J. Hafer testified last week before the Senate Subcommittee on Public Safety, Transportation, Economic Development and Natural Resources and strongly urged the committee to maintain the Cumberland regional office of the Veterans' Administration.

In his remarks, Senator Hafer expressed his continued support of this office and identified the many services provided to the numerous veterans in the Western Maryland region. "Without the services provided by this office in obtaining federal monies and benefits for our entitled veterans, additional state funds would have to be allocated to assist them," said Hafer, adding, "I cannot begin to emphasize enough to you the tremendous service that is provided by this office for so many -- we want it to remain open."

Hafer's testimony before the subcommittee is a continuation of his efforts to maintain this regional VA office. Last week, the Senator met with the director of the Maryland Veterans' Administration, Clarence Bacon, to express his concerns and to solicit Bacon's assistance in keeping the regional VA office in operation.

"As a veteran myself, I can personally attest to the importance of VA assistance," Senator Hafer said, continuing, "As a funeral director, I have often utilized the services of this office on behalf of the veterans' families we serve.

"As a State Senator, my staff and I have continued to work closely with the Cumberland Veterans' Administration," says Hafer. "Professional services, emotional support and temporary assistance are just some of the many services which are provided by the local VA office, that are so beneficial to the veterans," he added.

Husky Matmen Flatten Rams

The Northern High School wrestling team had no trouble defeating arch rival Southern for the second time this season, as the Huskies recorded a 55-18 victory over the Rams in Oakland last night.

Greg Miller (140) and Chris Rowe (145) won on pins for the Huskies, while Dean Green (119) and Allen Bittinger (135) won by decision.

Pete Strawser (125) and Jason Rush (130) recorded pin victories for Southern.

Winning by forfeit were Northern's Travis Duckworth (103), Corey Geis (112), Jarrett McKenzie (160), Todd Brenneman (171), Jason Fazenbaker (189), and Scott Beitzel (heavyweight), and Southern's Sonny Livengood (152).

It was the final regular season match for the Huskies, while the Rams will travel to Allegany this evening. Both teams will meet again in the Bi-County Tournament to be held at Southern next Wednesday (see separate story).

The Huskies have recorded another outstanding season under Coach Lynn Brenneman, as they placed first in three tournaments this year: the 11-team Coca-Cola Classic at Fort Hill, the 12-team Garrett County Tournament, and the 20-team Pepsi Invitational at Fairmont. Northern has amassed 12 tournament championships, plus 55 dual meet victories, in the past five seasons.

The four seniors on the team this year have been involved in over 40 dual meet wins plus 11 tournament championships in the past four seasons.

Allen Bittinger (135) is presently the all-time leading winner at Northern. Only a junior, Bittinger has accumulated 75 wins to date and, along with heavyweight Scott Beitzel, is presently ranked number six in the state at their respective weight classes. The two placed fourth in the state last year.

The Northern team has five members who have over 20 wins this season, as Chris Rowe (130), Greg Miller (140), and Jason Fazenbaker (189) join Bittinger and Beitzel with that distinction.

Top finishers in the Bi-County tourney next Wednesday will advance to the regional tournament, to be held at North Hagerstown Feb. 28-29. The top four regional finishers will then advance to the state tournament, slated for March 6-7 at Western Maryland College, Westminster.

Southern Will Host Bi-County Event Wednesday

The annual Bi-County Wrestling Tournament will be hosted by Southern High School next Wednesday, according to Tom Woods, Southern athletic director.

Competition will get underway with first-round action at 3:30 p.m., with finals expected to begin at about 6:30 p.m. Admission to the tournament is $4 for adults and $3 for students.

Teams that will be competing in the tournament include Southern, Northern, Beall, Fort Hill, Allegany, and Westmar. There is no team trophy awarded in the Bi-County meet, as all competition is on an individual basis. The top finishers in the tournament will then represent their respective weight classes in the regional tournament, to be held at North Hagerstown Feb. 28-29.

Why

Why am I a candidate?
Well . . . I really don't know,
Perhaps it was a dream
I had long ago.
A dream of a land
with children galore,
All hungering for knowledge
In inquiring minds to store.
A dream to help children
On their climb to the sky,
To reach their goal
Same as you and I.
Or maybe my dream
Went even farther yet;
It encompassed so much . . .
I nearly forget.
Why am I a candidate?
Now . . . I really do know,
It's all because I love children so.

Rams Maintain Top Ranking With Victories Over Huskies And Wildcats

The number-one ranked Southern Rams continued their winning roll this week by handing the Northern Huskies their first loss at home this season Friday night, 60-44, and then topping visiting Westmar Tuesday night, 64-51.

The Rams, now 15-2 and the unanimous choice for the top team in the area, will host Tucker County this Friday and play at Beall Tuesday.

Brett Rice, the area's leading scorer, scored 11 of his total of 19 points against Northern in the first quarter, as the Rams led 21-16 by the end of the period. They were ahead by seven at halftime, 30-23, and stretched their advantage to 42-29 by the end of the third period.

The Huskies could get no closer than 10 points in the second half, which was with about three minutes remaining in the game.

Britten Martin netted 15 points for the Rams, while the Huskies were led by Jon Houser with 15 points and Rob Speicher with 12 points. The loss dropped Northern to 10-7.

The Southern junior varsity avenged an earlier loss to the Northern jayvees by winning the preliminary game, 45-43. Mark Elliott and Reams led Southern with 11 and 10 points, respectively. Tim and Jon Hinebaugh each netted 10 for Northern.

The Huskies rebounded Tuesday night to record an easy win over Elk Garden, 67-33 (see separate story).

Rice also paced the Southern offense against Westmar Tuesday night as he recorded 24 points, while Mike Duling scored 18 points and Martin netted 14 points and pulled a season-high 17 rebounds.

Coach Tom Bosley's Rams started slowly and trailed by a point, 13-12, at the end of the first period. Martin then caught fire in the second quarter and hit 10 of his 14 points to put Southern on top by nine, 30-21, by halftime.

Rice took over the bulk of the Rams' scoring in the third stanza when he hit nine points, as Southern maintained its nine-point advantage and led 45-36 going into the final quarter. Duling scored 10 of his points in the final eight minutes.

Leading the 7-9 Wildcats was Justin Kiddy with 17 points, while Steve Dunn finished with 11.

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious in the preliminary contest by topping the Westmar jayvees, 58-46. Elliott and Mark Dawson scored 16 and 13 points, respectively, for the winners. Mac Sloan netted 23 points and Scott Jones finished with 21 for the Wildcats.

Coach Harv Speicher's team held a 15-9 lead at the end of the first quarter and then steadily pulled away in the second, third, and fourth stanzas. They led 39-18 at halftime and outscored the Stags in the third period 14-4 to take a commanding 53-22 lead into the final quarter.

Jon Houser led the Huskies in scoring and rebounding with 16 points and 12 grabs, Brian Kamp finished with 13 points, Doug Brenneman had nine, and Dave Hinebaugh was credited with six assists.

Northern Girls Mash Hancock, Defeat Aggies

After falling to Southern Saturday night in Oakland (see separate story), the Northern High School girls' varsity came roaring back Monday night to smash visiting Hancock, 55-17, and whip Flintstone last night, 54-35. The victories improved the Huskies record to 13-5.

Rebecca Fratz paced the Huskies' effort as she finished with 15 points and grabbed a game-high 19 rebounds.

The Huskies led 12-6 after a sluggish first quarter and then allowed Hancock only one point in the second stanza, to build a 26-7 advantage at halftime. They were on top 36-15 after three periods.

The light competition allowed Northern Coach Harv Speicher to substitute freely throughout the second half. Wanda Swartzwelder and Cara Wachter also reached double figures for the Huskies with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

The Northern junior varsity also won with ease in the preliminary game, 37-8, behind 11- and 10-point efforts by Sara Younkin and Elida Schofield. Nickelson recorded all eight of the Hancock jayvees' points.

Fratz also led the way for the varsity last night against Flintstone as she poured in 18 points and grabbed a season-high 22 rebounds.

Lakers Edged By Hawks, Mash Mt. Aloysius, Thrashed By Trojans

It was an up and down week for the Garrett Community College Lakers, as they were edged by Hagerstown Junior College Saturday night on the Hawks' floor, 77-75, rolled over visiting Mount Aloysius Monday evening, 99-65, and were then hammered last night in McHenry by nationally-ranked Allegany Community College, 86-56.

The results left the Lakers with a 10-15 mark for the season. They will conclude their regular season schedule this Friday at Baltimore CC.

Coach Dennis Gibson received an outstanding individual effort from Curtis Shepherd Saturday night against Hagerstown, as he finished with 33 points, five assists, and six steals; however, Shepherd and the rest of his teammates just could not take advantage of several game-winning opportunities in the final minutes of the game to record a win.

The Hawks were on top by two points at halftime, 34-32, and twice went out to nine-point leads, but the Lakers came back both times. They cut the advantage to one, 50-49, with 13:50 remaining and, after Hagerstown went back in front, 58-49, the Lakers chopped the lead back to two points, 68-66, with just under five minutes left. Garrett trailed 74-71 at the 1:14 mark.

Jayson Williams went to the line for the Hawks at that point and missed both of his free throws. Nick Gray grabbed the rebounds for the Lakers and passed to Shepherd, who went the length of the floor only to miss a layup. Ron Wolfe's follow-up shot also would not fall.

Then with less than a minute remaining, Shepherd missed two more shots, one of which was another lay-up and the other a three-point attempt. Fred Wilson also missed on a three-point shot before Shepherd hit one at the buzzer, but it was too little too late.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett was Gray with 20 points and 10 rebounds. Wilson recorded nine points and 10 rebounds, while Scott Newman dished out five assists.

Kenyatta Mason paced four Hawks in double figures as he finished with 16 points. Matt Butts scored 15, and Robert Floyd and Trummelle Allison each contributed 14.

Shepherd was also the scoring leader for the Lakers Monday night against Mount Aloysius, when he recorded 25 points and nine assists.

After the Lakers scored the first eight points of the game and held a 14-9 advantage at the 12:00 mark, Shepherd went on a personal 10-point streak to put Garrett up 24-11.

The Lakers held a commanding 48-19 halftime lead and were on top by 40 points, 80-40, with about eight minutes left in the game.

Gray finished with 18 points for the Lakers, Wilson scored 14 points and pulled seven rebounds, Ed Gerald netted 13 points, Jake Sawyers contributed 11 points, Wolfe added nine points and seven rebounds, and Scott Newman chipped in with seven points and four steals.

The visitors were led by Tom Hurliman with 26 points and Eric Balentine with 17.

The result was entirely different from their first contest with Mount Aloysius early in the season when the Lakers eked out a 74-72 win, however, Coach Gibson noted that his team had "improved greatly" since their first meeting back in December.

Their improvement was not enough to upset seventh-ranked Allegany CC last night, however, as the Lakers fell behind early and never seriously threatened the 27-2 Trojans.

ACC jumped out to a 12-0 lead, as the team's leading scorer, Robbie Howard, scored the first six points of the game. He finished with 24 points and 15 rebounds.

The Lakers finally found the mark and cut the lead to 15-10, but they would get no closer. ACC's biggest lead of the first half was 14 points. Garrett trailed by 12, 36-24, at halftime.

After the Lakers scored the first two points of the second half, the Trojans netted the next eight to make it 44-26, virtually putting the game out of reach for Garrett.

Also reaching double figures for the Trojans were Zain Shaw with 19 points, Dennis Leonard with 14 points and 11 assists, and Kymar Barron with 12 points. Reggie Waddy grabbed 11 rebounds.

Shepherd led the Lakers' offense with 19 points, Scott Newman finished with 13, Wilson netted 12 points and pulled eight rebounds, and Gray contributed 11 points.

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team added two more defeats to its season total this past week by falling to host Cecil Community College, 75-62, last Thursday and then losing handily to Hagerstown Junior College Saturday night, 83-44, on the Hawks' floor. The results left the Lakers with a 2-12 record.

The Lakers had a five-point lead at halftime and were on top by seven points in the second half against Cecil before allowing the home team to come back for the win.

Garrett could not contain Cecil's Denise Hull, who ripped the nets for 34 points. Michelle Johnson finished with 18.

Gibson and Brown each grabbed seven rounds, Gibson was credited with four assists, and Shepherd recorded three steals and three assists.

The Lakers were never really in the game against Hagerstown Saturday night, as they fell behind early and trailed by 18 points, 37-19, at halftime.

Hunting Season And Bag Limit Proposals Noted

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced working proposals for the 1992-93 hunting and trapping seasons, bag limits, and regulations for upland game, forest game and furbearers, as well as other changes to the wildlife regulations.

Deer hunting season changes head the list of regulation proposals. The Department is considering one or more of the following proposals to help control the continued growth of the deer herd in Maryland: (1) extending the firearms season to two weeks; (2) a two-day firearms season (antlerless only) in late January in selected counties; (3) and/or an early muzzleloader season (antlerless only on private lands and on selected state lands) in late October.

"The only way we can maintain the quality of our deer herd and stop further expansion is to increase the harvest of antlerless deer" stated Dr. Brown.

The Wildlife Division invites interested persons to review the proposals and make comments or recommendations at the public meeting or in writing. The public meeting for Western Maryland will be held Monday, March 16, at Mount Savage Fire Hall, Foundry Row, Mount Savage, beginning at 7 p.m.

The deadline for written comments is March 27, 1992. These must be received before the close of business (4:30 p.m.) in Annapolis. Letters should be addressed to Donald E. MacLauchlan, Assistant Secretary, Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401.

other jurisdictions have already made those additional cuts in anticipation of state funding reductions.

It was also pointed out at the meeting that state funding will only cover 75 percent of capital projects with the local share being 25 percent. Previously, the state paid 90 percent and the local government only contributed 10 percent. There is speculation, however, that Garrett County could eventually be forced to pay 50 percent of the cost of capital improvements.

At the press conference, Dr. Ryscavage noted that the future is no brighter for fiscal year 1993 than it is for the current year, especially if the General Assembly decides not to vote for new taxes. He also stated that, even if APEX (Action Plan for Educational Excellence) if fully funded next year (which he thinks is doubtful), the money must be spent for instructional purposes. Transportation, for instance, would not be included.

Cuts in the area of non-mandated programs and in non-public placements will likely be made if APEX if not funded. No new taxes, said Ryscavage, would mean a reduction in the funding of transportation, Social Security and the Schools for Success program.

awards, he was appointed to the rank of colonel in the Woodmen Uniform Rank in 1950. A fraternal insurance counsellor designate, he was named special representative for the Woodmen in 1960 and received the Mr. Woodmen Award in 1971.

Mr. Graham and his wife constructed the first motel in Oakland (The Motel Oakland) in 1952 and operated that business until 1971.

Senator Graham was active in various capacities at the Crellin and St. Paul's United Methodist churches. He held membership in WOW Oak Camp #11, the Knights of Pythias, the Society of Senates Past of Maryland, and the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club.

Survivors include two daughters, Janice Hutchinson and Elaine Marple, both of Oakland; two sons, Wayne Graham, Omaha, Nebraska; and Bill Graham, Morgantown, W.Va.; one brother, Tom Graham, Crellin; eight grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Friends will be received in the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, today from 7-9 p.m. and Friday from 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. A Woodmen memorial service will be conducted this evening at 7 p.m.

A funeral service will be held at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, with the Rev. Robert P. Johnson officiating.

The family requests that memorial gifts be directed to a charity of the donor's choice.

instruction the changes mandates by MSPP and generally to upgrade the quality of teaching and learning in the state's math-science classrooms.

In announcing the grant, Governor Schaefer said that it was similar to an existing project in Baltimore County, the Governor's Academy of Math and Science. "I can tell you that it works," said the governor.

The grant was announced at a meeting of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) here today, as part of a special initiative, "Excellence in Education," to be undertaken jointly with the Southern Governors Association (SGA) in the member states of ARC and SGA.

The initiative is being undertaken in support of the National Education Goals set by President Bush and the nation's governors at the 1989 Education Summit meeting in Williamsburg, Virginia. Under the initiative, each state designed projects to address one or more of the four following areas: education readiness, adult literacy and life-long learning; math-science education; and drop-out prevention and increased graduation rates.

Projects announced at today's meeting by the Appalachian governors will be funded by more than $1.16 million is special ARC funds, with contributions from state and local sources bringing to more than $2 million the total available for the new initiative.

to happen, when spending availability is perpetually projected upon anticipated growth. This fact demonstrates that government should do what for them is unthinkable, and establish a true "rainy day" fund reserve in preparation for cyclical downturns in the economy. The 412 million surplus Maryland enjoyed in 1988, as a result of the Federal tax reforms of 1986, if not returned to the taxpayers, could have created just such a reserve. As we well know this surplus was simply spent as is every penny that government can raise. This spend at all costs mentality exemplifies the problem inherent with any revenue increases to cover temporary shortages, for when the economy improves and revenues increase, government will have even more of our money to spend.

To avoid furloughs, terminations, and the degradation of services while also mitigating long term tax burdens it may be more amenable to the residents of Maryland if the state sales tax or the state income tax were raised one percent for one year only. This alternative could only be extended if the economy does not satisfactorily improve after one year and would automatically return the tax affected to the current 1992 rate when justified. Any tax increase is unpleasant, but compared to the solutions offered so far this scenario would be far less devastating and more equitable to the majority of citizen taxpayers. If this suggestion to balance the state's budget were followed it would undoubtedly be wise to create a citizens commission to oversee the eventual repeal of the one percent increase. By law, Maryland lawmakers have to act, hopefully they do so in the best interest of all.

To the Editor:

Last week I wrote a letter to the editor about debt and sin. The first line was intended to read, "We live in a state and country (not county) that spends more than it makes." That small case "r" covers a lot of geography.

Also, in fairness to individuals involved, I wanted to clarify something. My point was not that all individuals involved in politics are dominated by their own selfishness. But the political arena, as a whole, is clearly dominated by selfishness that stems from a majority of individuals involved in that arena. The point was this; to clean up the system we need to clean up ourselves. And anyone who's truly tried to rid themselves of selfishness knows their need of a Savior.

Maybe there's another way to pay off the state and national debt. And maybe if every one received a pure heart it still wouldn't be paid off. I don't know. But what I do know is that no one will live to see their debt of sin paid off apart from a saving relationship with Jesus Christ. And that is the greater issue.

Jon Zeigler
Mtn. Lake Park

Mr. Zeigler:

We apologize for the typographical error in your letter last week. We realize it changed the meaning of what you were intending to say.

Editor

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Jim Raley, president of the Garrett County Teachers Association, requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Mr. Raley:

You are correct. I was in error concerning the federal and state allotments for pupils of Garrett County schools. While my total of state and federal expenditures per pupil was correct, the actual amount reimbursed per pupil is $3,000. Add the $1,829 that the Garrett County Board of Education pays for each of the 148½ pupils to attend Allegany County schools, and you have a total loss of over $715,000 per year.

I would like to know why you responded to only the federal amount, while not objecting to the total amount of the reimbursement expenditure, along with the $1,829 Garrett County per student cost to attend Allegany County schools.

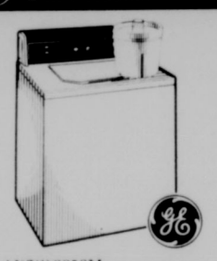
One can only assume that the loss of more than $715,000 to the students and employees is of no consequence to you. Is this the position of the Garrett County Teachers Association, whom you represent, along with other employees, or is this your own personal position due to your place of residence?

Sincerely,
Joe Heatherman,
President
Garrett County
Federation of Teachers

To the Editor:

Our state association released highlights recently of a report prepared by a research scientist at Hopkins University that calls for our state legislators to undertake a systematic overhaul of the tax system. The Linowes Commission, a state authorized group that studied our tax system over a three-year period, came to a similar conclusion a little over a year ago. Yet the General Assembly ignored it. It got nowhere and now we find ourselves a year or so later in the biggest budget crisis in our history.

Why would lawmakers not want to address these problems to alleviate the pain and suffering inflicted upon many of our citizens? Because they're hearing the "no new taxes message" loud and clear. Practically no one is responsible enough and courageous enough to tell it like it is: We either have increased revenue or public service die or decline drastically. Those of us who directly or indirectly benefit from same do likewise. Why? Because we're not able to understand and mobilize to the extent necessary to affect a change in priorities by our elected officials to the real needs of their constituents, both public and private.



We have a situation today that cries for responsible action and resolution by those whom we elect to represent us. But our lawmakers do not want to lead us out of this mess without the support of the majority of the electorate, at least the majority who take the time to contact them. Yet, if we could somehow give them that support for increased revenue sources we could at least find ourselves in an alleviated budget crisis

Snow-Frazee Vows Exchanged

Rochelle Bonnie Sherrie Snow and Rodney Terrell Frazee were united in marriage October 19, 1991. The double-ring ceremony took place at Fort Lewis Main Chapel, Ft. Lewis, Wash., with Caplain Ralph G. Benson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Snow, Kent, Wash. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Wilcox, Westernport, and Mr. and Mrs. Terrell C. Frazee, Friendsville.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride chose a white satin, country-style gown with an overbodice and sleeves of re-embroidered lace finishings. The close fitting princess style bodice ended in a deep V-shape in the front and back with see-through satin lace and strands of pearls. The shirred pouf short sleeves were edged with lace. A lace illusion back neckline led into a satin bow. The back of the skirt ended in a cathedral train with a four-tear-drop applique attached with pearls. Her rounded headpiece was attached to a double layer finger tip illusion veil featuring a rolled edge and a doublecloud pouf.

Serving as maid of honor was Sheri Sharp, Kent. Bridesmaids were Robin Snow, Portland, Ore., and Regina McCarthy, Kent, sisters of the bride; Allison Hine, Portland, and Jennifer Deshazer, Ft. Lewis. Junior bridesmaids were Jamie Weiss and Rachelle Peterson, Portland, cousins of the bride. Ring bearer was Amber Kirkham, niece of the bride, and the flower girl was Jenni Weiss, cousin of the bride.

The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids all wore gowns the colors of the rainbow. The mother of the bride wore a gown of all the colors of the rainbow.

Serving as best man was Brandon Booker, Ft. Lewis. Ushers were Jeffrey Prouse, Alan Rudolf, Darin Bolden, and Dion Deshazer, all of Ft. Lewis. The groom, best man, ushers, and the father of the bride, all wore black, Stetson cowboy hats with a silver hat band, white shirts, and black and silver bolo ties. Black tux jackets with tails were worn by all except the groom. Mr. Frazee wore a rectangular bolo with rattlesnake skin covered by glass. All men wore black Levi jeans and cowboy boots. The best man and ushers wore rainbow colored hankies in their jacket pocket and cummerbunds the same color as their escorts' gowns. The groom and father of the bride wore boutonnieres and leather belts with western-style belt buckles.

A reception was held at the main post NCO club. Food and drink were provided by the NCO club, and country music was provided by Paul Tilley. Janet Kirkham was in charge of cutting the seven-tier white cake. Videotaping was provided by Timothy McCarthy, brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Beaverton High School, Beverton, Ore., and is currently attending Crown Correctional Officers Academy. The groom is a graduate of Bruce High School, Westernport, and is serving in the United States Army stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Coal Talk Group Plans Another Area Mine Tour

The directors of the Coal Talk project and the Maryland Bureau of Mines have planned a tour of coal mining sites and towns in the Georges Creek area for Monday, Feb. 17.

Persons interested in participating in the tour are asked to contact Joe Mills or Larry Johnson at the Bureau of Mines (301-689-1136) or the directors of Coal Talk: Dr. Gail Herman, 387-9199, or John Grant, 334-5974, to make a reservation. The group will assemble at the Bureau of Mines office in Frostburg at 10 a.m. and then travel in Bureau vans or their own cars. The tour is free to the public.

Scheduled stops on the tour will include Eckhart, the Hoffman Tunnel, an active surface mine, a portal to an old deep mine, and a tour of towns in the Georges Creek/Pekin region.

According to Dr. Herman, as coal mines become more mechanized and scarce, the interest in linking life above ground with life below grows stronger. "The old ways of digging coal have been replaced by the new, but people still want to remember and re-visit the old ways and value," Dr. Herman said.

She went on to note that Maryland's coal industry, worked by men and women living in rural and remote mining towns, dates back to the late 1700s. In Garrett and Allegany counties, coal mining families lived in towns that are now hard to find, even on a map. Eckhart, Klondike, Vale Summit, Pekin, and Vindex are among them, as are the towns of Lonaconing, Crellin, Kitzmiller, Georges Creek, and Shallmar.

Coal Talk: Dialogs with Individuals from Coal Mining Communities in Western Maryland is a project made possible in part by funds from the Maryland Humanities Council with a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and from the Garrett County Development Corporation.

The goal of Coal Talk, according to Dr. Herman, is to assure that the oral histories, stories, and memories of coal mining community members are preserved. Anyone wishing to be interviewed is invited to leave his or her name and phone number with Dr. Herman or write to her at Rt. 2, Box 967, Swanton, MD 21561.

MINE TOUR - Participants in the Coal Talk: Dialogs with Individuals from Coal Mining Communities in Western Maryland are shown above assembled at the Brant Mine in Deep Creek Lake State Park, where Ranger Jim Wilburn served as a guide. Another tour of coal mining sites and towns is planned for Monday, Feb. 17, in the Georges Creek area. See story.

Twenty-four Lions and their "ladies" were present for the February 6 meeting of the Mt. Lions Club held at the Mt. Grove Community Building.

The club reports that recent activities have included sponsoring a student from the Romney School for the Deaf and Blind to a Canaan Valley skiing trip, an educational effort of the school. Other activities were in providing examinations and glasses for four Hopemont patients, the Christmas treat for the community children, providing flags for a first grade unit of the flag at the Aurora School. They now are in the process of a fund-raiser in offering tickets for a chance to win a Benbush Burner bow and will perhaps have a dinner later this spring to replenish the treasury. The sight program effort continues also.

SWEETHEART DINNER

The children's choir presented special music at morning worship and also presented those attending with sticker hearts and candy kisses, courtesy of the youth of the church.

HABITAT TO MEET

Because of the snowy weather, a planned meeting of Preston County Habitat for Humanity on Sunday was delayed to 3 p.m., Sunday, February 16, at the Maple Spring Church. HOMEMAKER NEWS

The lesson, "Snack Attack? What Do You Do?" was discussed by the Eglon Extension Homemakers at their February 4 meeting. Mary Rembold led the discussion and asked small groups to plan healthful snacks using various guidelines as their directive. Mrs. Rembold concluded with a humorous reading, "What I really need to know, I learned in dieting."

Devotions for the day were based on "Love" with the scripture read by Sandra Hauser, a meditation on love for others read by hostess Avenell Parsons, and a poem "Valentine's Box" read by Mary Rembold.

During the business session, goals were discussed and it was decided to have an appliance gathering day later in the spring. It is hoped to gather old appliances which people wish to be rid of and have them taken for recycling. There will be further information as to a site and date at a later time.

The hostess showed her special features, a basket made from twisted paper and a picture of her husband, Ron Parsons, his brother and father, their horse "Tony" and dog "Trusty" taken when Mr. Parsons was about 3 years old and still in dresses at their Shaffertown home.

Present were Rebecca Teets, Linda Teets and Sara, Lillian Knotts, Lectie Bonner, Nina Layman, Jean Winters and guest, Marissa Bachtel in addition to the above named. The meeting concluded with refreshments of fresh fruits and vegetables.

No one can responsibly argue that our income tax structure is progressive. It was mildly progressive, graduated to five percent of income, in 1967 when enacted. Twenty-five years later it's flat and must be restructured. What's fair about taxing a $20,000 worker five percent and a $200,000 worker at the same rate? No one can deny the need to change at least the sales tax base, if not increase the rate. Ours is 44th in the nation yet our per capita income is sixth. There are currently 25 exemptions in our sales tax that has the narrowest base in the nation compared to total consumer spending. Why should dietary pet food be exempted from our sales tax? Why shouldn't services, such as legal, financial planning, computer programming, haircuts, repairs, etc., be taxed? Aren't they purchases bought by the public? The latest increase in our sales tax was 15 years ago and since that time there have been more exemptions. Almost one billion dollars of increased revenue can be secured by eliminating exemptions and adding personal and business services to the sales tax base without even increasing the rate a penny!

In a state ranking sixth in per capita wealth and 44th in its funding of education, we are short-changing the investment needed for our future economic well-being. We must adopt a more fair and equitable tax system that produces the added revenue we need for basic human needs. To hide behind the no tax increase mania when our vital public services are gripped with a budget cutting vice is unconscionable.

We should expect our elected representatives to lead -- not follow! We must expect them to find and enact immediately a reasonable revenue source to alleviate somewhat the immediate shortfalls and to address this session the absolute necessity to construct a more lasting fiscal structure that is not out of sync with today's economy and revenue needs. Failure to do the right thing now is reprehensible and we should hold them accountable on election day.

Sincerely,
Thomas P. Shaffer

To the Editor:

I have systemic lupus erythematosus (lupus). When the doctor told me that I had a chronic, incurable, potentially fatal disease of the immune system, which could cause my body to slowly self-destruct, I went into a panic. Since then I have learned that with proper treatment most lupus patients can live a normal lifespan. Lupus is not contagious, and it is not cancer. In lupus the immune system, which is supposed to protect the body against environmental and infectious agents, turns against itself and attacks and destroys healthy tissue.

Although lupus is not a well known disease, it is more prevalent than muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, leukemia, and cystic fibrosis. It is more widespread among black women than sickle cell anemia. Lupus affects all races, age groups, socio-economic groups, and both sexes. However, 90 percent of lupus patients are women, with the usual age of onset being between 16 and 30.

Without treatment even a mild case of lupus may become life-threatening, as it attacks internally, damaging or destroying any organ which is targeted. More than 6,000 people die from lupus each year. Symptoms vary but can include joint pain, muscle aches, skin rash, photosensitivity, hair loss, inflammation of the membranes around the heart or lungs, anemia, fatigue, blood abnormalities, kidney involvement, and others.

I found that with lupus I could look healthy and well, even when I was very ill. This paradox caused misunderstandings among relatives and friends, who could not understand how I could be ill and look so well. I have found that many lupus patients feel isolated and alone because of the lack of understanding they encounter.

In 1984 I founded the L.E. Support Club, a worldwide, nonprofit organization dedicated to bringing help and understanding to lupus patients. The L.E. Support Club publishes a newsletter, the L.E. Beacon, which prints up-to-date, informative articles on subjects which are important to lupus patients. The cost of printing the newsletter is paid for by the tax deductible dues and contributions of members and concerned friends.

To the Editor:

On January 22, the 19th annual March for Life was once again held in Washington, D.C. On that day 70,000 Americans from all over the United States traveled to their Nation's Capital for what they hoped would be their last major protest against the horrendous 1973 supreme court decision known as Roe vs. Wade.

It was ironic to note that at the very time the people were peacefully displaying their oppositions to abortion and were enmassed in the streets, our lawmakers, who have pledged to represent the voices of the people, were within the walls of the Congress building, debating a bill known as the Freedom of Choice Act. This particular piece of legislation, if passed, would take effect if the current supreme court dared to overturn Roe vs. Wade or in some way place restrictions on women's "right" to kill their pre-born children.

It's very unsettling to realize that the Freedom of Choice Act would make abortion even more available to a wider range of women than ever before. It would essentially make abortion-on-demand available throughout the entire nine months of pregnancy, with no restrictions whatsoever! It would eliminate all parental and spousal consent and make it possible for even the youngest girl to freely partake in the abortion holocaust without direction or guidance from any but the abortion-providers. Obviously their advice would be selfishly motivated and influenced by the amount of money they would reap when they were able to convince her to kill her pre-born child. One can only shudder to imagine the kind of "counseling" they would give our young daughters!

And it's even more unsettling to us as Marylanders to realize that Senator Barbara Mikulski is one of the lead sponsors of the Freedom of Choice Act! So as I marched out in the streets of Washington, D.C., I was discouraged to know that my voice, at least, was not being represented inside Congress. But I took heart in the fact that this senator is up for re-election this very year and I will have the opportunity to help vote her out.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

MT. LIONS REPORT

Twenty-four Lions and their "ladies" were present for the February 6 meeting of the Mt. Lions Club held at the Mt. Grove Community Building.

The club reports that recent activities have included sponsoring a student from the Romney School for the Deaf and Blind to a Canaan Valley skiing trip, an educational effort of the school. Other activities were in providing examinations and glasses for four Hopemont patients, the Christmas treat for the community children, providing flags for a first grade unit of the flag at the Aurora School. They now are in the process of a fund-raiser in offering tickets for a chance to win a Benbush Burner bow and will perhaps have a dinner later this spring to replenish the treasury. The sight program effort continues also.

KISNERS TO CELEBRATE

On February 14 at 7 p.m. there will be an open house to honor Harold and Sandi Kisner on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The affair will be held in the Aurora Fire Hall and all friends and relatives are invited to share in this occasion. For those who wish to bring gifts, a money tree will be available.

SWEETHEART DINNER

A Sweetheart Dinner was held Sunday at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. Prepared by the men of the church, tables are set and provided with decorations. Musical entertainment was provided by Karen Scheermesser of Oakland. She was accompanied to the church by her husband, Austin.

The children's choir presented special music at morning worship and also presented those attending with sticker hearts and candy kisses, courtesy of the youth of the church.

HABITAT TO MEET

Because of the snowy weather, a planned meeting of Preston County Habitat for Humanity on Sunday was delayed to 3 p.m., Sunday, February 16, at the Maple Spring Church. A house will be built in this area this summer and it is requested that people from the surrounding communities be present to learn more about the work and support required.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER SET

A buckwheat cake and sausage, biscuit and gravy dinner served by the Mt. Grove VFD at the Mt. Grove Community Building will be held February 23. Serving will be from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and adult donations are $4.50 and children 6-12, $2.50. Children under 6 eat free.

HOMEMAKER NEWS

The lesson, "Snack Attack? What Do You Do?" was discussed by the Eglon Extension Homemakers at their February 4 meeting. Mary Rembold led the discussion and asked small groups to plan healthful snacks using various guidelines as their directive. Mrs. Rembold concluded with a humorous reading, "What I really need to know, I learned in dieting."

Devotions for the day were based on "Love" with the scripture read by Sandra Hauser, a meditation on love for others read by hostess Avenell Parsons, and a poem "Valentine's Box" read by Mary Rembold.

During the business session, goals were discussed and it was decided to have an appliance gathering later in the spring. It is hoped to gather old appliances which people wish to be rid of and have them taken for recycling. There will be further information as to a site and date at a later time.

The hostess showed her special features, a basket made from twisted paper and a picture of her husband, Ron Parsons, his brother and father, their horse "Tony" and dog "Trusty" taken when Mr. Parsons was about 3 years old and still in dresses at their Shaffertown home.

Present were Rebecca Teets, Linda Teets and Sara, Lillian Knotts, Lectie Bonner, Nina Layman, Jean Winters and guest, Marissa Bachtel in addition to the above named. The meeting concluded with refreshments of fresh fruits and vegetables.

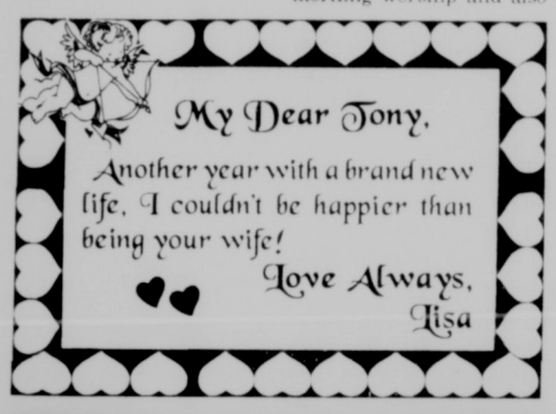
MT. LIONS REPORT

Twenty-four Lions and their "ladies" were present for the February 6 meeting of the Mt. Lions Club held at the Mt. Grove Community Building.

The club reports that recent activities have included sponsoring a student from the Romney School for the Deaf and Blind to a Canaan Valley skiing trip, an educational effort of the school. Other activities were in providing examinations and glasses for four Hopemont patients, the Christmas treat for the community children, providing flags for a first grade unit of the flag at the Aurora School. They now are in the process of a fund-raiser in offering tickets for a chance to win a Benbush Burner bow and will perhaps have a dinner later this spring to replenish the treasury. The sight program effort continues also.



KISNERS TO CELEBRATE

On February 14 at 7 p.m. there will be an open house to honor Harold and Sandi Kisner on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The affair will be held in the Aurora Fire Hall and all friends and relatives are invited to share in this occasion. For those who wish to bring gifts, a money tree will be available.

SWEETHEART DINNER

A Sweetheart Dinner was held Sunday at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. Prepared by the men of the church, tables are set and provided with decorations. Musical entertainment was provided by Karen Scheermesser of Oakland. She was accompanied to the church by her husband, Austin.

HOMEMAKER NEWS

The lesson, "Snack Attack? What Do You Do?" was discussed by the Eglon Extension Homemakers at their February 4 meeting. Mary Rembold led the discussion and asked small groups to plan healthful snacks using various guidelines as their directive. Mrs. Rembold concluded with a humorous reading, "What I really need to know, I learned in dieting."

Devotions for the day were based on "Love" with the scripture read by Sandra Hauser, a meditation on love for others read by hostess Avenell Parsons, and a poem "Valentine's Box" read by Mary Rembold.

During the business session, goals were discussed and it was decided to have an appliance gathering day later in the spring. It is hoped to gather old appliances which people wish to be rid of and have them taken for recycling. There will be further information as to a site and date at a later time.

The hostess showed her special features, a basket made from twisted paper and a picture of her husband, Ron Parsons, his brother and father, their horse "Tony" and dog "Trusty" taken when Mr. Parsons was about 3 years old and still in dresses at their Shaffertown home.

Present were Rebecca Teets, Linda Teets and Sara, Lillian Knotts, Lectie Bonner, Nina Layman, Jean Winters and guest, Marissa Bachtel in addition to the above named. The meeting concluded with refreshments of fresh fruits and vegetables.

GOVERNMENT REGULATIONS IN ACTION!

Letters

No one can responsibly argue that our income tax structure is progressive. It was mildly progressive, graduated to five percent of income, in 1967 when enacted. Twenty-five years later it's flat and must be restructured. What's fair about taxing a $20,000 worker five percent and a $200,000 worker at the same rate? No one can deny the need to change at least the sales tax base, if not increase the rate. Ours is 44th in the nation yet our per capita income is sixth. There are currently 25 exemptions in our sales tax that has the narrowest base in the nation compared to total consumer spending. Why should dietary pet food be exempted from our sales tax? Why shouldn't services, such as legal, financial planning, computer programming, haircuts, repairs, etc., be taxed? Aren't they purchases bought by the public? The latest increase in our sales tax was 15 years ago and since that time there have been more exemptions. Almost one billion dollars of increased revenue can be secured by eliminating exemptions and adding personal and business services to the sales tax base without even increasing the rate a penny!

In a state ranking sixth in per capita wealth and 44th in its funding of education, we are short-changing the investment needed for our future economic well-being. We must adopt a more fair and equitable tax system that produces the added revenue we need for basic human needs. To hide behind the no tax increase mania when our vital public services are gripped with a budget cutting vice is unconscionable.

We should expect our elected representatives to lead -- not follow! We must expect them to find and enact immediately a reasonable revenue source to alleviate somewhat the immediate shortfalls and to address this session the absolute necessity to construct a more lasting fiscal structure that is not out of sync with today's economy and revenue needs. Failure to do the right thing now is reprehensible and we should hold them accountable on election day.

Sincerely,
Thomas P. Shaffer

To the Editor:

I have systemic lupus erythematosus (lupus). When the doctor told me that I had a chronic, incurable, potentially fatal disease of the immune system, which could cause my body to slowly self-destruct, I went into a panic. Since then I have learned that with proper treatment most lupus patients can live a normal lifespan. Lupus is not contagious, and it is not cancer. In lupus the immune system, which is supposed to protect the body against environmental and infectious agents, turns against itself and attacks and destroys healthy tissue.

Although lupus is not a well known disease, it is more prevalent than muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, leukemia, and cystic fibrosis. It is more widespread among black women than sickle cell anemia. Lupus affects all races, age groups, socio-economic groups, and both sexes. However, 90 percent of lupus patients are women, with the usual age of onset being between 16 and 30.

Without treatment even a mild case of lupus may become life-threatening, as it attacks internally, damaging or destroying any organ which is targeted. More than 6,000 people die from lupus each year. Symptoms vary but can include joint pain, muscle aches, skin rash, photosensitivity, hair loss, inflammation of the membranes around the heart or lungs, anemia, fatigue, blood abnormalities, kidney involvement, and others.

I found that with lupus I could look healthy and well, even when I was very ill. This paradox caused misunderstandings among relatives and friends, who could not understand how I could be ill and look so well. I have found that many lupus patients feel isolated and alone because of the lack of understanding they encounter.

In 1984 I founded the L.E. Support Club, a worldwide, nonprofit organization dedicated to bringing help and understanding to lupus patients. The L.E. Support Club publishes a newsletter, the L.E. Beacon, which prints up-to-date, informative articles on subjects which are important to lupus patients. The cost of printing the newsletter is paid for by the tax deductible dues and contributions of members and concerned friends.

Anyone who would like more information on the L.E. Support Club, Inc., should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for more information to: L.E. Support Club, Inc., 8039 Nova Court, North Charleston, SC 29420.

Sincerely,
Harriet B. Mesic
President/Editor

To the Editor:

On January 22, the 19th annual March for Life was once again held in Washington, D.C. On that day 70,000 Americans from all over the United States traveled to their Nation's Capital for what they hoped would be their last major protest against the horrendous 1973 supreme court decision known as Roe vs. Wade.

It was ironic to note that at the very time the people were peacefully displaying their oppositions to abortion and were enmassed in the streets, our lawmakers, who have pledged to represent the voices of the people, were within the walls of the Congress building, debating a bill known as the Freedom of Choice Act. This particular piece of legislation, if passed, would take effect if the current supreme court dared to overturn Roe vs. Wade or in some way place restrictions on women's "right" to kill their pre-born children.

It's very unsettling to realize that the Freedom of Choice Act would make abortion even more available to a wider range of women than ever before. It would essentially make abortion-on-demand available throughout the entire nine months of pregnancy, with no restrictions whatsoever! It would eliminate all parental and spousal consent and make it possible for even the youngest girl to freely partake in the abortion holocaust without direction or guidance from any but the abortion-providers. Obviously their advice would be selfishly motivated and influenced by the amount of money they would reap when they were able to convince her to kill her pre-born child. One can only shudder to imagine the kind of "counseling" they would give our young daughters!

And it's even more unsettling to us as Marylanders to realize that Senator Barbara Mikulski is one of the lead sponsors of the Freedom of Choice Act! So as I marched out in the streets of Washington, D.C., I was discouraged to know that my voice, at least, was not being represented inside Congress. But I took heart in the fact that this senator is up for re-election this very year and I will have the opportunity to help vote her out.

Bountiful BREAKFAST

Rise and shine... to a morning filled with the aroma of sizzling bacon, gently poached eggs, and fresh-from-the-oven cinnamon bread. It's the time of the day when that warm feeling of being tucked all snug in bed only gets better when you wake up to the pleasing tastes of a family-made breakfast.

Whether it's a well-deserved breakfast in bed, a nourishing meal before the school bell rings, or a special beginning to a weekend, breakfast is an important start to the busy day ahead.

Put your special signature on breakfast with an array of baked morning offerings such as cinnamon swirl bread or a woven ham and cheese loaf. Surprising your family with homemade bread is easy with RapidRise Yeast. This easy-to-use yeast cuts the dough's normal rising time by up to 50 percent. You can bake up the same delicious breads with this yeast without sacrificing either taste or freshness.

The sleepiest appetite can be awakened by the savory aroma of breakfast meats such as fresh or pre-cooked pork sausage, smoked sausage links, bacon, ham or Canadian-style bacon. Today, there's also a wide variety of lower fat and lower salt breakfast meats to choose from for the health-conscious. And it's your choice when it comes to preparation – stove top or microwave.

Old-Fashioned Cinnamon Swirl Loaf

Nothing compares to the aroma and taste of a classic cinnamon bread warm from the oven.

Makes 2 loaves.

Dough:
- 6 to 6 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 packages Fleischmann's® RapidRise™ Yeast
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- 2 eggs

Crumb Topping:
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/3 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 3 tablespoons cold butter or margarine

Filling:
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 1/2 cups chopped dates or raisins
- 1 egg white, lightly beaten

Make dough: In large bowl combine 2 cups flour, sugar, undissolved yeast and salt. Heat milk, water and butter until very warm (125° to 130°F); stir into dry ingredients. Stir in eggs and enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 6 to 8 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Make topping: Combine flour, sugar and cinnamon; cut in butter until mixture is crumbly; reserve.

To fill and shape loaves: On lightly floured surface, divide dough into two equal pieces. Roll each to 16- x 7-inches. Brush each with melted butter to within 1-inch of edges. Sprinkle evenly with sugar, cinnamon and dates. Roll up tightly from short ends as for jelly roll; pinch seams and ends to seal. Place, seam sides down, in two greased 9- x 5-inch loaf pans. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 30 to 45 minutes.

Brush loaves with egg white; sprinkle with Crumb Topping. Bake at 375°F for 40 to 45 minutes or until done. Remove from pans; cool on wire racks.

Ham and Cheese Breakfast Loaf

This savory loaf is the perfect nourishing start to any day. It can even be made ahead of time, frozen and reheated.

Makes 12 slices.

- 2 3/4 to 3 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 package Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup very warm water (125° to 130°F)
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons each: Dijon mustard AND mayonnaise
- 12 ounces sliced lean ham
- 8 ounces sliced sharp Cheddar or Swiss cheese
- 1 egg white, lightly beaten
- Sesame seed

In large bowl, combine 1 1/2 cups flour, undissolved yeast, sugar and salt. Stir water and butter into dry ingredients. Stir in enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 4 to 6 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Combine mustard and mayonnaise; reserve.

On lightly floured surface, roll dough to 14- x 10-inches. Transfer to large greased baking sheet. Evenly layer 1/3 ham slices, 1/2 cheese slices and 1/2 mustard mixture on center third length of dough. Repeat with 1/3 ham slices, remaining cheese slices and mustard mixture. Top with remaining ham. Make cuts from filling to dough edges at 1-inch intervals along sides of filling. Alternating sides, fold strips at an angle across filling. Pinch both ends to enclose filling. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 30 to 45 minutes.

Brush with egg white; sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake at 400°F for 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Remove to wire rack. Serve warm. Refrigerate leftovers.

To reheat: Place foil-wrapped loaf in a 350° oven until heated throughout, about 10 minutes.

Rise and Shine Rolls

These light and fluffy rolls are delicious served with butter and fruit preserves.

Makes 12 rolls.

(Not pictured)

- 2 1/2 to 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 package Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/3 cup water
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 2 eggs
- Sesame or poppy seed *(optional)

In large bowl, combine 2 cups flour, sugar, undissolved yeast and salt. Heat sour cream, water and butter until very warm (125° to 130°F); stir into dry ingredients. Stir in 1 egg and enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 4 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Divide dough into 12 equal pieces; roll into smooth balls. Place on large greased baking sheet. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 20 to 30 minutes.

With scissors, make 6 snips, 3/4-inch deep, around outside edge of each roll. Beat remaining egg; brush on rolls. Sprinkle with sesame seed, if desired. Bake at 400°F for 12 to 15 minutes or until done. Remove from sheet; cool on wire rack.

RISE and SHINE... SIZZLING MATCH-UPS

- Take the chill out of the morning air by serving thin slices of fully-cooked lean ham and Swiss cheese nestled in homemade Rise and Shine Rolls. Quickly warm in the microwave oven for a delicious on-the-go breakfast.
- Add cooked, crumbled Italian sausage, chorizo sausage or sliced pepperoni to scrambled eggs or your favorite omelet recipe.
- Make a complete "meal-in-a-loaf" by tucking away thinly sliced lean ham, Canadian-style bacon or corned beef along with Cheddar, Swiss or Monterey Jack cheese in a basic wheat, rye or multigrain dough. Bake two loaves and put one in the freezer for another morning meal or special weekend breakfast.
- For an irresistible taste, sprinkle coarsely ground black pepper over bacon and pop them in the microwave oven for effortless cooking. Place bacon slices on a microwave-safe rack and micro-cook at HIGH 6 minutes (for 6 slices).
- Use thick slices of Old-Fashioned Cinnamon Swirl Loaf to make a special French toast. Top with preserves or maple syrup and serve with your favorite smoked sausage links.
- For a delicious breakfast kabob, alternate smoked cooked sausage pieces, cut-up cooked breakfast sausage, ham cubes or rolled-up Canadian-style bacon slices with pieces of fresh fruit.
- Serve a refreshing breakfast drink by mixing equal portions of orange juice and pureed, fresh or frozen strawberries. Chill before serving.

℞ WHEN ARE CHILDREN TOO SICK FOR SCHOOL?

Each child has his own pattern of illness. There should be no absolute rules, but the usually healthy child should stay home: 1) if feverish; 2) if symptoms such as headaches, drowsiness, runny nose, nausea, diarrhea are sufficiently severe to be disabling; 3) if he is likely to disturb others in the class; 4) if it is impossible, due to his ailment, for him to profit from school.

There is no reason, except for rare medical contra-indications, for a child to be in school without immunological protection from the available vaccines.

"The spirit of truth and the spirit of freedom--- they are the pillars of society." ---Ibsen

In this month of February, we celebrate the birthdays of two of the strongest pillars of our society, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Though unlike in stature, they were equally upright in their strong belief that truth and freedom was God-given; and that the belief in those "inalienable" rights was the foundation for an enduring society.

George Washington stated, . . ." true religion affords government its greatest support."

Abraham Lincoln, in the next century, echoed Washington's convictions, as he said, "The only assurance of our nation's safety is to lay our foundation in morality and religion."

Morality and religion. . .the basis of truth and freedom. . .

May we honor George Washington and Abraham Lincoln as we heed their founding wisdom in order that we might perpetuate the spirit and the strength of our democratic society.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON HAVING IT ALL
February 16, 1992

Background Scripture:
Philippians 2:1-11.
Devotional Reading:
John 13:1-17.

There are certain passages in the Bible, anyone of which if taken seriously, I believe, could save the world. One of these is the ancient Christian hymn contained in Philippians 2:1-11. The fractious state of affairs in our communities, institutions (including the church), nations and world could be healed if we could get people everywhere to heed and live by these words: "Do nothing from selfishness or conceit, but in humility count others better than yourselves. Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others." In other words, my diagnosis of the world's ills is galloping self-interest. It is the key to public corruption, community decay, and international strife. Without it, there could be no drug problem, Aids epidemic, mushrooming crime, or ecological disasters. In short, there is nothing wrong in our world today that the universal adoption of the "mind of Christ" could not solve and heal.

GIVING VS. GETTING

Great! So why don't we get cracking on this? The reason people are not lining up in droves to attain "the mind of Christ" is that, from the world's point of view at least, it is not very appleaing to us. To be sure, we'd love and adore the results, but the way of getting them explicit in these words is a turn-off for great majorities both outside and inside the churches. This is the age of "Me First." The operative adverbs today are "my" and "mine." So the implications of self-sacrifice are something that most of us don't want to even consider. We want to "have it all" today and self-denial is not the way to get it.

If you doubt that, just look at what Paul characterizes as "the mind of Christ":... who... did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant...and humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even death on a cross" (6-8). Don't let that out -- it would play havoc with our church membership efforts. People join churches because of what they can get, not what they can give. Let's not scare them away with all this self-denial stuff!

Self-denial has a pretty bad image in our society. The mercantile message is just the opposite: Don't deny yourself something you really want! You owe it to yourself! Don't wait; get it today!

WINNING VS. LOSING

When we look more closely at Paul's letter to the church at Philippi, however, we realize that society has this idea of self-denial all wrong. Nowhere is this more evident than in the example of Christ:"...he humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even death on a cross" -- that's the part that seems so unattractive to us, but there's more: "Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name which is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow..." (2:9-10)!

So, by being obedient, by humbling himself, by taking the form of a servant, and submitting to the cross Jesus did not lose anything: he gained. The glory that God has bestowed upon him could never have been his had he not been willing to be "obedient unto death." And what was true for Jesus Christ is true for us as well: ultimately self-denial is not a way of losing, but of winning. Taking the form of a servant is not self-denial so much as it is self-affirmation -- the self we save here being the true self -- the mind of Christ -- not the false self, the ego.

The only way we can really have it all is to be willing to give it all away. Try it!

SPORTS CALENDAR

Olympics continue; Magic's jersey retired

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

The second week of Winter Olympics coverage from Albertville, France, is easily the highest-profile sports event on television this week, with coverage airing every day, but there's a basketball game in Los Angeles that should also be worth a look.

First the Olympics: CBS and TNT combine for a total of 63 hours of coverage this week.

Magic Johnson

CBS goes especially heavy on Sunday, Feb. 16; Monday, Feb. 17 (Presidents Day); and Saturday, Feb. 22, with at least nine hours of coverage each day. The network provides six hours of coverage a day (in morning and evening blocks) Tuesday through Friday. TNT fills the weekday programming gap between CBS's broadcasts with five hours of coverage each day Tuesday through Friday.

Meanwhile, on Sunday, Feb. 16, NBC has a basketball doubleheader, the second game of which includes what promises to be an emotional ceremony retiring Magic Johnson's No. 32 in Los Angeles.

Game 1 features a matchup between Eastern Conference also-rans when the Detroit Pistons meet the stagnant Philadelphia 76ers.

Game 2 features the Boston Celtics visiting the Los Angeles Lakers. Sure, the Celts are challenging for the lead in the Atlantic Division and the Lakers are doing the same in the Pacific Division, so the game is important to both squads, but this game's biggest highlights will come between the second and third quarters.

At halftime, NBC will broadcast the ceremony retiring Magic Johnson's jersey number, making him the fifth player in Lakers history to be so honored. Johnson abruptly announced his retirement from basketball last November, after learning that he had contracted HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. His accomplishments speak for themselves: nine NBA finals appearances and five titles; league MVP three times; NBA finals MVP three times; NBA all-star game MVP once.

The presence of Boston's Larry Bird will add a special touch to the afternoon. The careers of Johnson and Bird, two of the finest players to ever step onto the floor, have paralleled. The two played against each other in the 1979 NCAA final and came into the NBA together later that same year. They played against each other in the NBA finals three times in the mid-1980s. When the jersey retirement ceremony was being planned, Johnson requested it be held when the Lakers played against Boston and his old friend, Larry Bird.

SOAP SCOOP

Celeste Holm back with a vengeance on daytime

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

When Celeste Holm, a 40-year veteran of films and theater, came back to "Loving" recently, in the role of matriarch Isabelle Alden (formerly played by Augusta Dabney), she downright stopped the show with her pith, authority, elegance and class. In her first three lines, Holm asserted the kind of star power desperately needed by the basement-rated soap.

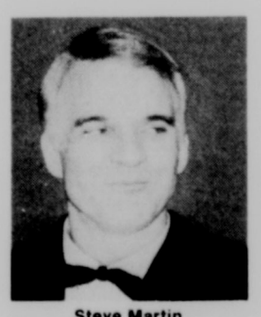
"I'll expect an office and a staff by tomorrow," Isabelle commanded her blow-dried grandson Jack Forbes (played by Christopher Cass), who had run the office of Alden Enterprises while Isabelle, the widow of its founder, was on an extended cruise. "Button up that shirt and check the self-involved smirk at the door," Isabelle snapped at her villainess daughter-in-law Gwyneth (played by Christine Tudor Newman). "I'm back in Corinth indefinitely," she said grandly, staring them down.

It was clear to "Loving" viewers that Isabelle was no longer the addlebrained old coot she had been portrayed as by Dabney for years. "Formidable" is the word that best describes the new Isabelle – and Holm. When she is asked about the root of her character's personality turnabout, Holm answers impatiently, "After the death of Cabot, Isabelle had to pull herself together."

Holm softens considerably in explaining why she rejoined "Loving." (She played a bag lady on the show for three weeks in 1988.) "My husband, Wesley Addy, played Cabot Alden ('Loving' 's crusty patriarch since its 1983 premiere), but the character was (killed off) in November," she says. "It was a great mistake – the ratings went down. The only way to get him back was as a ghost. They (the producers) thought, 'Wouldn't it be quite wonderful to have his real wife play against him?' So I was persuaded."



Perhaps the bracing effect Holm had on "Loving" was the same as she had in last season's Broadway flop "I Hate Hamlet." That play is principally remembered for the publicity it got when the mercurial Nicol Williamson cut castmate Evan Handler in an on-stage sword fight, causing the younger actor to quit right there. "I've known actors not to get along before," Holm says, "but when you put swords in their hands, it makes it a bit more piquant, don't you think?"

Anyone who can even use the word "piquant" is what the stagnant "Loving" needs. But is one grand actress (and a ghost) enough to save the show?

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

SMALL-SCREEN STEVE – I can't recall seeing Steve Martin in anything on TV except "Saturday Night Live." I love his movies, and my husband says he's done a lot more TV than I'm giving him credit for. Can you tell us about his TV career? – C.W., Richmond, Va.

Steve Martin

Steve Martin actually first made his mark on TV behind the scenes, as a writer for "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" (1967-70), for which he won a 1969 Emmy for Best Comedy Writer. Martin has also appeared as a regular performer on such variety shows as "Andy Williams Presents Ray Stevens" (1970), "The Ken Berry 'Wow' Show" (1972), "The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour" (on which he appeared from 1972-73), "The Smothers Brothers Show" (1975) and "The Johnny Cash Show" (1976). All except "Sonny and Cher" and "The Smothers Brothers Show" were summer-replacement series. He has also frequently appeared on "The Tonight Show" and, of course, "Saturday Night Live."

KURALT THE CAROLINIAN – How old is Charles Kuralt? Is he from a small town? It seems to me that his interest in the "other" America stems from his roots. – P.T., Cincinnati

Kuralt, the genial 57-year-old host of "CBS News Sunday Morning" and "On the Road" correspondent for CBS News, was born in Wilmington, N.C., which currently has a population of 55,500. He began his career as a reporter and columnist for the Charlotte (N.C.) News. He joined CBS News in 1957, and in 1967 he was assigned to what was supposed to be a short-term stint in which he profiled people along America's back roads. You may be interested in reading Kuralt's autobiographical book, "A Life on the Road."

IN A PHOGG – My husband and I are fans of the "Batman" series of yesteryear, as well as of the new Batman played by Michael Keaton. There were so many bad guys in the old "Batman" series that we can't name them all. We are debating whether or not Rudy Vallee played one of them. I say he did, but my husband says I'm wrong. – B.B., Burlington, Vt.

Vallee, perhaps best remembered for his work as a radio singer during the '20s and '30s, had a recurring role as the villainous Lord Phogg in the 1966-68 "Batman" series.

COVER STORY

Summer in February? It's crazy like a Fox

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

As the Winter Olympics move into their final week on CBS (where they're airing every night), NBC is relying on the networks' standard Rx for heavy competition: the based-on-fact TV movie. It is offering "In the Best Interest of the Children" (Sunday, Feb. 16), about a custody battle, and "Till Death Us Do Part" (Monday, Feb. 17), about murder.

Sandy Grushow

ABC is hoping that a Jaleel White ("Family Matters") special (Saturday, Feb. 22) and three high-profile feature films, "Ghostbusters II" (Sunday, Feb. 16), "Pale Rider" (Monday, Feb. 17) and "Rambo III" (Wednesday, Feb. 19), do the trick.

But Fox is mounting a truly creative effort to separate viewers from the ice and snow. Still flush after successfully targeting the Super Bowl halftime show with an "In Living Color" special, Fox is betting that viewers are getting Olympic-ed out and might be ready to switch to something completely different: "The Fox Summer Games."

"It's the middle of February," explains Sandy Grushow, executive vice president, Fox Entertainment Group. "People will have spent an entire week seeing a lot of ice and snow, and we just thought it would be a nice opportunity for some change – some welcome warmth, as they say."

All Fox programming from Feb. 17-23 will be summer-themed, starting with the movie "Weekend at Bernie's" on Monday, Feb. 17. Monday will also feature opening ceremonies and periodic stunts from Super Dave in Hawaii; he will be popping up on Fox all week.

On Thursday, a baseball-themed "Simpsons" will feature major-league voices provided by "everybody from Roger Clemens to Darryl Strawberry to Jose Canseco." On Friday, "America's Most Wanted" will be from the Caribbean.

On Saturday, there's "The Fox Summer Games Special," which will include a home-run contest from Dodgers Stadium, a surfing competition, and 10 not-quite-ready-for-Sports Illustrated bathing-suit models, who will vie for the title of Miss Fox Summer Games.

Having successfully targeted the most unpopular part of the Super Bowl, does Fox have similar plans for the Olympics? "We haven't become all that specific in terms of minute-to-minute," Grushow says. "But yes, of course, we've taken a look at what CBS's plans are, and we've tried to position ourselves appropriately."

And what is the most inviting Winter Olympic target?

Grushow pauses. "OK, I'll give you one," he says. "How about luge? I think that one's the most vulnerable."

Williams can't save 'Till Death Us Do Part'

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

NBC's "Till Death Us Do Part" (NBC, Feb. 17) aspires to film-noir but is more like film-lite – a diet-soda thriller sure to disappoint sugar-starved fans of the genre. Professionally packaged but thin on plot, the true story concerns the efforts of prosecuting attorney Vincent Bugliosi (Arliss Howard) to convict Alan Palliko (Treat Williams), a slimy con-man and ex-cop, of several murders. As glitzy, narcissistic lawyers are prone to do, Bugliosi, in his book and in this drama, has painted himself as an all-around guy with a strong personality and a gutsy determination. This lawyer as superhero bit, of course, leaves little question as to the eventual outcome of the story. Bad boy Williams doesn't do much better as a two-note criminal. Williams has done the menacing-danger-guy routine often enough, so you would think that he might finally nail it, but alas, here he just blows hot and cold – changing from vicious to sweet in a nanosecond. Fortunately, there are a couple of diversionary characters to keep viewers awake – Pruitt Taylor Vince plays Palliko's nebbish accountant sidekick-in-crime, and J.E. Freeman is good as a menacing cop.

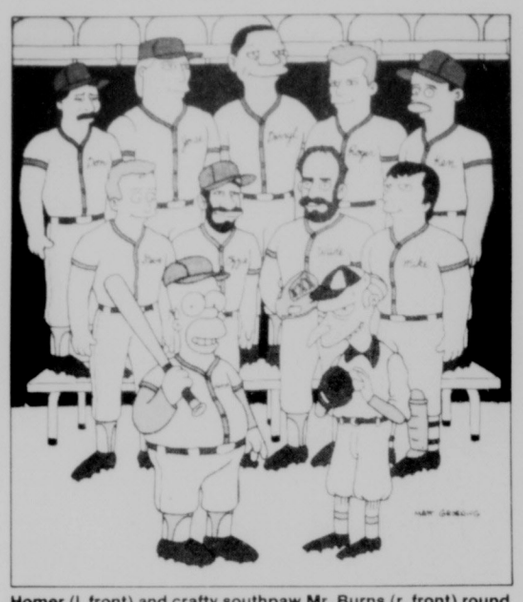
• Spiritual exterminators Bill Murray, Dan Aykroyd, Harold Ramis and Ernie Hudson return to the rotten core of the Big Apple in "Ghostbusters II" (ABC, Feb. 16). Forget those old rumors of alligators; in this sequel to the 1984 film, the New York sewers are breeding a green ooze responsible for citywide ghostly terrorism.



• A mother's right to raise her children even when she is mentally incapable of doing so is the issue debated in "In the Best Interest of the Children" (NBC, Feb. 16). Sarah Jessica Parker stars as an acute manic-depressive engaged in a legal battle to reclaim her children in spite of the protests of the state welfare board and even the children themselves.

• Clint Eastwood's most recent, but hopefully not his final, Western was the 1985 film "Pale Rider" (ABC, Feb. 17). In the mid-'60s and '70s spaghetti Westerns, he gave the genre its last real breath of life. Eastwood stars as a mysterious drifter who wanders into a small mountain community and defends it from greedy industrialists and their criminal henchmen. While the story should have been a natural, it fails, due to the lack of humor and cinematic cleverness, two vital ingredients in Eastwood's best work: "A Fistful of Dollars" and "High Plains Drifter."

IN FOCUS

Former history professor Thomas Booker (Robert Urich, l.) has lost his vision, his career and his former lover, Caroline Weisser (Lisa Eilbacher, r.). When Booker is framed for murder and stalked by a psychotic killer, he pleads for help from those closest to him – Caroline; his best friend, Frank Walton (Ron Perlman, c.); and his therapist (Patricia Clarkson) – in the USA Network thriller "Blind Man's Bluff," airing Wednesday, Feb. 19.

Homer (l. front) and crafty southpaw Mr. Burns (r. front) round up a team of ringers on "The Simpsons," airing Thursday, Feb. 20, as part of "The Fox Summer Games."
